I had a feeling that something was wrong. I expected that he would let me know when he found the situation ripe for whatever he had in mind.

At a meeting with State Secretary Dr. Strauss, from the federal ministry of justice, I asked him what would happen if Dr. John reappeared in West Germany. Well aware that I often saw John, Dr. Strauss said:

"Tell him that he can return without risk. He will probably not be arrested but, naturally, we shall have questions to ask."

I passed the message on to Dr. John.

Last October we met at the East Berlin Press Club. Dr. John brought along a person known to both of us.

I asked him if he had ever thought of returning to West Germany.

"Um Gottes willen (God willing)," he replied, simultaneously stepping on my foot underneath the table.

OUTLINE PLANS

We agreed to meet again the next week.

We met in a restaurant and made a lot of noise with the knives and forks to prevent our whispering from reaching any concealed microphones.

"I have to get out quickly," John said. "I can't stand it any longer. If my wife had not encouraged me between the lines in her letters from England I would have committed suicide long ago. Could you help me? They know your car at the Brandenburg gate. I think I have a plan that will work."

John then told me he had picked Dec. 12 because it was the day after the big Christmas fair had been opened on Marx - Engels Square. The merry-go-rounds and roller coasters were certain to draw a lot of attention and increase traffic across the sector line.

"We dare not stay one night in West Berlin," John said. "They will go all out to find me and kill me. We have to get out of Berlin before my bodyguard can sound the alarm."

READY FO R SERVICE

Delivery of the Bluenose, built at Lauzon, Que., was delayed more than a year by mechanical faults. The ship will ply between Bar Harbor, Me., and Yarmouth, N.S. (CP Photo.)

Chester Walters, Comptroller Of Finance, Retires

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Chester S. Walters, 76, comptroller of finances for Ontario, will retire Jan. 3, Provincial Treasurer Porter announced Wednesday.

Dr. Walters, who joined the provincial government service in 1935 as deputy provincial treasurer, will be succeeded by H. Harold Walker, now comptroller of accounts.

Announcing Dr. Walters' retirement, Mr. Porter paid tribute to the "great wisdom and exceptional ability" he showed in the management of the province's finances.

"His accumulated wisdom and experience will still be available to the department with his retention as a consultant," Mr. Porter said.

STARTED IN 1934

Mr. Walker, 45, entered government service in 1934 as statistician, accountant and assistant supervisor in the department of municipal affairs.

From 1939 to 1952 he was chief accountant of the department of education. He was appointed comptroller of accounts in the treasury department two years ago, when Dr. Walters gave up the deputy's post to become financial comptroller.

A native of Galt, Mr. Walker obtained elementary and secondary education there.

Premier Says Metro Council Was Justified

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Wednesday the city of Toronto and 12 area municipalities have justified his confidence that they could work together if a way was provided.

The premier, at the opening of the first link of the proposed $54,000,000 lakeshore expressway, referred to the accomplishments of metropolitan Toronto, an organization of the 13 Toronto area municipalities set up two years ago by the provincial government.

"These municipalities, where a quarter of Ontario's population lives, are working together in partnership," he said.

"That so much has been accomplished in so short a time is a tribute to the chairman and others who have made up metropolitan council."

SEES CHANGES

He forecast changes in Bill 80 under which the metropolitan Toronto area was created.

The premier cut a ribbon opening officially the Keating street extension which cost metropolitan Toronto $2,600,000. The 1¼-mile link, under discussion 17 years, is designed to speed up the traffic flow in the eastern approach to downtown Toronto.

It passes south of Woodbine race track and joins Woodbine avenue at the east end of the track.

No Agreement

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the federal and Ontario governments still have not agreed on how they will share the cost of building the proposed $15,300,000 Burlington skyway.

The newspaper says the contract for the $2,500,000 centre span of the bridge, on Highway 401 over Hamilton bay, was to be awarded today.

Highways Minister Allan of Ontario still has taken no action on a draft agreement under which the federal government would pay one-third of the cost, it says.

It adds that the delay is because of feeling in the Ontario government that the federal government should pay half the cost of building the skyway.

Gaitskell Set Modern Record In His Climb to Party Peak

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Hugh Gaitskell, the new leader of Britain's Labor movement, set a modern record in his swift climb to the party summit.

His election to succeed Clement Attlee came just 12 years and five months after his entry into Parliament. The previous record was held by Canada-born Bonar Law, elected Conservative leader 11 years after he came an MP.

Thus this medium-tall man with the curly brown hair, tightly-pursed lips and polite schoolmastery manner isn't too well known to the general public. He still travels unrecognized — unlike his defeated rivals for the leadership, Herbert Morrison and Nye Bevan.

As distinct from Morrison, the policeman's son who used to be a street-corner spieler for socialism at £3 a week and from Bevan, brought up as one of 13 children in a five-room house with sand floor and no bathroom, Hugh Todd Naylor Gaitskell became a Socialist by conviction rather than by being born into the party.

INTELLECTUAL TYPE

He represents the movement's intellectual wing, in particular the group—including Hilary Marquand, Douglas Jay, Richard Crossman and Patrick Gordon Walker—who started as scholars and turned to politics in revulsion against the poverty they saw around them in depression times.

In the general strike of 1926, most young men of Gaitskell's class and educational background took it as a joke. But not Gaitskell. He borrowed an automobile, obtained a union card and delivered the strikers' newspapers to Oxford from London.

The new leader was born in London, son of a middle-class civil servant who worked mainly in India. He went to Winchester, an old-fashioned public school founded in 1383.

At New College, Oxford, he took a first-class honors degree in philosophy, economics and politics. Later he studied Socialist theory under professor G. D. H. Cole, became a lecturer for the Workers' Educational Association in the mining districts around Nottingham, spent a year in Vienna studying economic theory and at the age of 27 was appointed head of the economics department at London's University College.

DALTON INFLUENCE

Then he came under the influence of Hugh Dalton, veteran Socialist and once chancellor of the exchequer. After his election to the House of Commons in 1945 he was called the "Pocket Dalton" and "Little Hugh." His decision to turn his back on teaching and lecturing and plump for politics is said to have been reached late one night or early one morning—after a long heart-to-heart talk with Dalton.

Ironically, it was Dalton's dismissal as chancellor in 1947 that helped grease Gaitskell's path to greater power. Dalton was fired for inadvertently leaking budget secrets to a newspaper man. In the shuffles that followed, Gaitskell moved up to become minister of fuel and power. In 1950, he himself became chancellor.

As politicians go, Gaitskell is short on color. But he is anything but a cold fish. In a speech to miners at Porthcawl, Wales, years ago, he became so worked up in talking about Britain's economic plight he burst into tears.

About the same time, he spoke impulsively about the need for fuel economy, people should take fewer baths. He said, adding: "I don't take very many baths myself." The nickname "Bathless Gaitskell" had a brief vogue.

WON AN OVATION

His impassioned speech at the Labor party conference in Margate last October, in which he earnestly expounded the springs of his Socialist faith, won an ovation.

His wife Dora complained to friends that her husband is too honest.

"During the winter we all went around freezing because Hugh wouldn't let us light more than one bar of the electric fires," Mrs. Gaitskell told the wife of a former Labor cabinet minister. The Gaitskells, with two sprightly young daughters, live in a large, old-fashioned house in Hampstead. There is no central heating.

Gaitskell is generally identified with Labor's right wing. Some think he will prove a middle-of-the-roader capable of reconciling the malcontent laftists. Not all are sure. The left-wing New Statesman and Nation comments:

"His weakness is a certain obstinate narrowness of view, inescapable commitment to one wing of the party, and an apparent inability to feel the burning desire for social change which exits at the belly of the militant rank and file."

Magistrate Gives Self Time To 'Cool Off'

WINDSOR (CP) — A magistrate Wednesday remanded a cass overnight to "cool off" after finding the defendant motorist guilty of careless driving in the death of a woman pedestrian.

Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan said he would pass sentence Thursday on Thomas E. Wherritt, 27, who he said was going too fast and paying insufficient attention Nov. 19 when his car struck and killed Mrs. Hazel W. Plant, 57, of Ottawa. Police said the woman was thrown more that 200 feet by the impact.

"I feel strongly about this now," the magistrate said. "I'm going to put sentence over to tomorrow and let myself cool off a bit. I must not mix up in my mind the terrible result of this with the actual degree of carelessness."

Mrs. Plant lived for many years at Guelph.

TO LAUNCH FUND

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor party announced Wednesday night it would launch a "Commonwealth Fund" to commemorate the work of Clement Attlee who resigned last week after 20 years as party leader. The fund would bring Commonwealth students to Britain for study, and send British students to Commonwealth countries.

Ten of Missing In Saskatchewan Prove to Be Safe

REGINA (CP) — Drift-bucking escapes from the farm homes that gave shelter to the stranded cut sharply today into the feared toll of western Canada's worst blizzard in years.

Ten motorists listed as missing in Saskatchewan reached tele phones to report they were quartered in farm houses or country stores. Similar calls reached anxious relatives in Alberta and Manitoba.

The storm diminished Wednesday after two days of fury, leaving snow drifts through giant drifts to reopen roads the toll stood at two dead and two missing.

Both deaths were in Saskatchewan. One man died when he remained in his snowed-in car to await rescue; the other when he set out from his auto in search of shelter.

DIED NEAR SHELTER

The body of George Shepherd, 30, of Regina, an oil company editor, was found Wednesday at the doorway of an abandoned farm building. He was believed he could not summon strength enough to open the door.

Shepherd was travelling from North Battleford to Kerrobert, Sask. Apparently he abandoned the car after it ran out of gas.

Earlier, RCMP Inspector D. J. McCombe was found dead 30 miles west of his station at North Battleford. Carbon monoxide fumes killed him when he kept the motor of his trapped car running.

An RCMP dog and plane were to join the hunt today for farmhand George Buttes, 34. He disappeared Monday in the Halbrite district in southern Saskatchewan while walking to a well for water.

Lawrence Hanson, a farmer, disappeared Monday after leaving Kindersley in west-central Saskatchewan to feed grain 30 miles away.

TRAIN HITS PLOW

Trains, too, felt the storm's fury. At Superb, Sask., George Moriarity of Wilbie, Sask., engineer, suffered a fractured shoulder, broken ribs and a cracked vertebra when a train smashed into the rear of a snowplow at the height of the storm.

Near Lenik, Sask., 34 persons spent more than 14 hours in a train stalled on its run between North Battleford and Prince Albert. The locomotive ran out of water and was still stranded Wednesday night.

LEAVE FOR HOMELAND

LONDON (AP) — Peiping radio today said 279 Japanese and their families have left Tientsin by ship for repatriation to their homeland. The broadcast recorded here said four Japanese convicted as war criminals left for home by the same ship. They had been handed over to the Chinese Communist government by the Mongolian Communist republic.

FREED OF CHARGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Millionaire Gabriel Alarcon Chargoy, sentenced to 20 years for aiding in the murder of Alfonso Mascarua Aonso, film union leader, was freed Wednesday by the Mexican Supreme Court. Mascaura was shot to death in front of his home early this year. The court reversed a lower court verdict and freed the millionaire and three other men.

Federal Govt. May Have to Buy Surplus Hogs

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal agriculture officials are waiting to see whether a drop in hog prices at the federal support level this week will bring the government into the hog-buying business for the first time since 1952.

Government experts said Wednesday it all depends on whether meat packers decide to continue buying at the floor price, putting into storage any excess pork.

They said that if the meat-packing industry decides not to buy up the surplus and hog producers can't sell elsewhere at the floor price, the government will have to buy up surpluses offered to it. So far the government had not been asked to buy.

One expert said he doesn't expect the decision will be made until next week.

TO SUPPORT LEVEL

Prices at Toronto and Montreal stockyards fell this week to the support level of $23 a hundredweight, grade A.

The last time the government stepped into the market to support hog prices was early in 1952 after the United States put an embargo on Canadian meat because of the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak. The government bought pork at $26 a hundredweight until the end of 1952 when it announced the support price would be cut to $23 at the start of 1953.

Until this week the price has never fallen to the support level.

One official said that pork storage—by industry or government—is inevitable. Consumption and export could not keep pace with the increase in hog marketings, running 17.5 per cent higher than last year. Western marketings are 24 per cent higher.

Consumption has increased. But the official said that U.S. hog prices have fallen to the point where there is no incentive to export. At Chicago the price is $12 a hundredweight, live weight, equivalent to $16 dressed. Canadian prices are on a dressed weight basis.

Timmins Press Raises Price To 7 Cents a Copy

TIMMINS (CP)—Effective Monday, Dec. 12, the price of the Timmins Daily Press will be 7 cents a copy, Monday to Friday, with the Saturday price unchanged at 10 cents, it was announced Wednesday. Home-delivery rate would be 40 cents a week.

H. B. Cowan, general manager, said "steadily-increasing costs in all phases of the publishing business and particularly the recent increase in the price of newsprint, have forced The Daily Press to take this step."

The Daily Press last increased its price in January, 1952.

Another Link Of N.Y. Thruway Is Completed

SUFFERN, N. Y. (AP) — The New York thruway links two ends of the state Tuesday with the opening of the 28-mile Suffern-Yonkers just north of New York City.

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies and speech-making were to highlight the completion of the entire toll length of the half-billion-dollar superhighway between Buffalo and New York.

The final toll-free three miles of the 430-mile route will be completed in a year. The section which will link New York City and Yonkers is exempt from toll by state law.

The Suffern-Yonkers section includes a $60,000,000 bridge spanning the Hudson river between Nyack and Tarrytown. The bridge is a vital connecting link between the New England thruway, the New York thruway and the New Jersey turnpike.

Labor Congress Urges Higher Tax Exemptions

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor today condemned compulsory arbitration, called for national health insurance and urged higher income tax exemptions.

In its annual brief to the government the 600,000-member body described health insurance as "the biggest remaining gap in our social security system."

"The workers of Canada are getting more and more weary of procrastination and excuses on this subject," the group's last annual submission said.

The CCL merges next April with the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress to form the new Canadian Labor Congress.

Basic income tax exemptions proposed were $2,000 for single persons and $3,000 for married with a $400 exemption for each child qualifying for family allowances or attending school.

On compulsory arbitration the brief said: "We unhesitatingly condemn the imposition of compulsory arbitration in any dispute, or the threat of such imposition."

Wednesday the TLC's annual submission asked the government not to curtail the right of railway workers to strike. More than 150,000 non-operating workers are involved in the current dispute between the carriers and non-operating unions.

Last year the government pressed the disputants into accepting arbitration, under threat of an emergency session of Parliament to adopt strike-averting legislation. In 1950, Parliament was called into such a session to end a rail strike.

The CCL submission said researching housing that both down payments for new houses and mortgage interest rates are too high for ordinary wage earners.

WANTS BIDS

KITCHENER (CP)—The Ontario municipal board Wednesday authorized the city to spend $67,500 to buy property, adjacent to Kitchener city hall square, and asked the city to take bids in find out whether a city hall annex can be built for $500,000.

Farmer Finds Hog Picture More Complicated

STRATFORD (CP) — A local farmer who is challenging the legality of an Ontario law obliging farmers to sell hogs to a co-operative found the picture complicated today.

The new law was extended under federal regulations to apply to interprovincial and export trade in hog products.

The farmer, Theodore Parker, hearing that new federal regulations had been published in Ottawa, commended Wednesday:

"It looks like that bunch of dictators at Queen's Park have slipped another fast one over the farmers. The marketing plans do no good whatever—most ridiculous piece of nonsense ever heard."

TO REGULATE TRADING

The new powers grant the Ontario farm products marketing board, the hog producers marketing board and the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative the right to regulate interprovincial and export hog trading in Ontario hogs as they now regulate hog marketing in Ontario.

Mr. Parker said he told his lawyer Tuesday to start legal action to test the validity of the provincial legislation. He did not know whether the new regulations would affect his plans for legal proceedings.

In Toronto Agriculture Minister Thomas said the Ontario government has asked federal officials to agree that a series of questions on farm-marketing legislation be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada for a ruling on the validity of the provincial Farm Products Marketing Act.

He denied the questions were prompted by Mr. Parker's challenges.

ALL ESCAPED POLIO

VANCOUVER (CP)—Not one of the 17,000 five-to-seven-year-old children in greater Vancouver who have given Salk anti-polio vaccine last spring has developed polio, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. Stewart Murray, city medical health officer.

MARSH HILL

Mrs. L. Finkle Heads W.M.S.

MARSH HILL — The December meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Finkle and Mrs. Leslie Finkle with 12 members present.

The president, Mrs. Leslie Finkle, opened the meeting.

The members reported sending one letter; 17 cards and making ten hospital calls.

Mrs. David Hollinger, supply secretary, read a letter from the Committee on Overseas Relief thanking the W.M.S. for the bale and also a letter from Mrs. Brown, Presbyterial supply secretary.

Mrs. Walter Lindenfield read a letter from Mrs. R. C. Coulter, Presbyterial Christian Stewardship secretary saying that the Missionary for prayer for 1956 would be Miss Lillias Brown who is in India.

The Christmas stockings and mite boxes were handed in.

Mrs. Fred Campbell, Christian Citizenship secretary, reported on Temperance, telling of many Ontario places where the vote on the liquor question had been, "no".

Mrs. Farley Lindenfeld and Mrs. Allyn Finkle reported on the Mission Band.

The report of the nominating committee was given by Mrs David Hollinger.

The worship service was taken by Mrs. Fred Campbell with Mrs. Frank Finkle, Mrs. Allyn Finkle and Mrs. Leslie Finkle giving the Scripture readings.

A reading was also given by Mrs Benson Mitts, "Open the Doors".

"Let us swing wide open the doors of our minds, our lips and our hearts and of course pull back the zipper of our purses and share by giving, the joys of Christmas. Above all else, let us remember that only as the Spirit of Jesus the Christ Child, of Bethlehem, comes into our lives, can we fully experience the real joys and blessings of Christmas tide."

'KEEP' CHRISTMAS

Mrs. Fred Campbell gave a reading, "Let's Keep Christmas," by Peter Marshall. "Changes are everywhere, but the old message: 'For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord,' is still the heart of Christmas. And this message can neither be changed nor quite forgotten, although there are many things that tend to make us forget.

So we will not 'spend' Christmas, nor 'observe' Christmas.

We will 'keep' Christmas — Keep it as it is in all the loveliness of its ancient traditions.

May we keep it in our hearts, that we may be kept in its hope".

After the benediction, the hostesses served refreshments.

You Can WIN $5000 This Week

Here's How to Win!
Get Free Check List at any Dominion Store.
Find the "Phantom Famous Brands" listed on the check sheet but not illustrated in this advertisement. Next go to your telephone some between 5 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening. DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from the opportunity to win $1,000.
Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" if you do, and if it is the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT caller, you will win the Grand Prize of $1,000.
$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your possession at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a $1.00 sales check from any Dominion Store cash register slip dated this week and totalling $100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand", you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.
GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.
Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.
Although more than 30 phone calls were made last Saturday night, throughout Canada in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE HUNT, no one answered the phone correctly to win the $3,000 Grand Prize. Mr. W. J. Dowsett, 3 Chappel Hill Road, Downsview, knew the Phantom Brand but failed to answer the phone with the words "Dominion Stores"—Instead a cheerful "Hello, Marmalade". He, therefore, received our $100 consolation prize. Among the Ontario centres that received our $100 consolation prizes, Toronto, Sarnia, Windsor, Stratford, Owen Sound, Peterborough, Kenora, Fort William, Goderich, Kingston, Grimsby, Brantford, Chatham, Kitchener, Guelph, Timmins, Cobourg, Hamilton, Niagara Falls and several in the Toronto area.

Salary Increases For OPP Corps Are Announced

TORONTO (CP) — Retroactive salary increases for members of the Ontario Provincial Police were announced Wednesday by Commissioner E. V. McNeil.

The new scale provides for an annual salary of $3,600 for five and six-year men with an additional increase Dec. 1 to $3,750 for six-year men. All salaries are retroactive to Oct. 1 of this year.

Probationary constables will get a starting salary of $2,740, $20 more than the present salary for first-year men. The new scale provides for $3,000 after one year and $3,150 after the second.

The announcement said corporals with four years' service will be raised to $4,000. A maximum of $4,400 annually is established for sergeants.

Commissioner McNeil said the increase will amount to about $80,000 annually.

Standard of Living for Most Families Raised by New Municipally-Owned Project

By KEN ROMAIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — What social and economic impact has new housing accommodation had on families living in Toronto's municipally-owned Regent Park public housing project?

An immediate result was a rise in the standard of living for most families. And attributable to improved living conditions has been a rise in health standards, a lessening of the number of families on relief rolls, and a decrease in juvenile delinquency and crime.

There are the findings of Dr. Albert Rose, associate professor of the University of Toronto's School of Social Work, and confirmed by Authority.

Dr. Rose is preparing a preliminary report for publication in ' ok form which will attempt to gauge the effect of new, sanitary housing on the families who formerly resided in the slum-ridden, blighted section of downtown Toronto that the project replaced.

It's being assisted by a grant-in-aid from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and —July a grant from the Harry M. Cassidy Memorial Fund. The fund was established in memory of the first director of the University's School of Social Work.

Very little research of this nature has been done in Canada, says Dr. Rose, because only recently have opportunities for such studies arisen with the growth of public housing projects. He believes that more emphasis should be placed on the benefits that accrue to families through new housing than on the traditional evils which are known to result from inadequate housing.

Regent Park, the country's first experiment in city-financed urban redevelopment, covers a 49-acre apartment and housing site that will be completed next year at a cost of $14,000,000. Construction started in 1949 and when finished the project will contain more than 1,200 units, ranging from one to five bedrooms.

The project replaces an area of sub-standard and slum housing which contained more than 800 families. When these families were rehoused, applications for the remaining units were accepted by the Toronto Housing Authority and allocated on the basis of dire need. More than 3,000 applications were received.

Rent is based on income of the tenant. Maximum rental is $63 a month and $29 is the minimum regardless of the size of the living unit. The project is expected to amortize itself in 50 years when it will be owned outright by the city. Average rental for new four-room apartments in the Toronto area is $100-115 per month.

PRELIMINARY PICTURE

"The work we plan will only be a preliminary picture of what has happened to the people in the first few years," says Dr. Rose. "It is not intensive and we haven't probed deeply. Probably we won't be able to."

One barrier in the way of a more comprehensive report is that the advantages of improved living conditions for the family have only existed a short time.

Students of the School of Social Work have already completed two surveys—health and unemployment relief. A third on juvenile delinquency is under way. The "before-and-after" technique was employed for the surveys which will be incorporated in Dr. Rose's study.

At the same time Dr. Rose will attempt to assess the effects the project has had on city administrative costs. This assessment will interpret what effect the reduction of fire hazards in the area has had on fire department costs; what effect the lessening of crime and delinquency has had on police costs; and how improved well-being of relief recipients has affected public welfare costs.

The study on unemployment relief revealed that most recipients had returned to work after moving into the project. It was also found that the costs of relief for deserted wives and incapacitated families had decreased markedly.

Relief rents which formerly went to maintain families in sub-standard or slum housing now went toward good living accommodation. And expenditures for those not rehoused (single persons and others ineligible) increased so markedly "as to suggest the need for the substantial stimulus which new housing might give in some, if not all, cases."

The study of the relationship of public health and public housing attracted much attention when it was released. Professional persons such as public health doctors, nurses and officials, and private physicians, were interviewed as well as families.

HIGHER MORALE

The report concluded that the tenants were becoming more self-sufficient and that a general uplifting of morale helped families to overcome other conflicts which hindered them.

Colds were less frequent in nearly half the families, and infectious diseases were less. Thirty-one of 48 families with children did not have as much sickness since moving to the project while seven families claimed more. Housewives reported "better nerves."

"There can be no question that by and large Regent Park children are cleaner, healthier and doing better in school," says the report.

Although the study on juvenile delinquency is not yet completed early indications again point to positive results, says Dr. Rose.

MADOC

Jackets Given To Champions At Banquet

MADOC (Special) — A group of sports - minded youngsters who made this village softball-conscious and emblazoned its name on the championship archives of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association last summer, experienced the second thrill of their first championship here last night.

Over 100 villagers assembled in the Masonic Hall to do honor to the club which while only formed last season went on to win the first softball championship in the history of the village. They were the proud winners of the Horning Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the juvenile "C" title.

The youngsters living up to their diamond record "cleaned up everything in sight" at the banquet table. Luscious steaks disappeared like magic down youthful throats as did the "trimmings".

The highlight of the banquet was the presentation of jackets to the champions which was made possible by the village branch of the Canadian Legion. "Seconding" this motion in a financial manner was the Kiwanis Club which through President Jack Kincaid presented Manager Harry Tufts and Coach Lyn Empey with a cheque.

Among the special guests in attendance were OASA executive member Don Lee and "Red" Carson, both of Belleville who delivered brief addresses to the champions and their supporters.

Work Resumed

WINDSOR (CP)—Union officials Wednesday night said work has been resumed after a 24-hour walkout at a Windsor automobile furnishings plant.

Representatives of United Auto Workers (CIO-CLC) Windsor Local 195 and L. A. Young Industries of Canada Limited met during the day to discuss the dispute.

Union and management officials declined to reveal the nature of the grievance which caused the walkout.

Crazed Youth Shoots Parents, Another Man

VANDERGRIFT, Pa. (AP)—Police searched rugged countryside near here today for a 17-year-old crazed high school junior who shot and killed the parents and uncle of the girl who spurned him.

Slain Wednesday night in their farm home 30 miles northeast of Pittsburgh were J. Warren Small, 44, a gas-well driller; his wife, Irene, 36; and William A. Small, 49.

The girl who police say was the centre of the tragedy was shot and seriously wounded. She is 15-year-old Gladys Small.

Police named John Fallone as the wanted youth, and nearly a score of officers from all sections of western Pennsylvania went out to search for him. They were warned that he was carrying the .22-calibre automatic rifle with which he allegedly cut down members of the Small family.

Viewers of TV Among Those Retired Increase Steadily

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — It's possible that there's a steadily increasing television audience among those in the age of retirement.

There are no statistics available to support the theory. Actually it's just a hunch based on the fact that I happen to know I have two or three couples on the sunny side of 65 who recently have taken the big step and acquired sets. What interests me is that they're glued to daytime television.

This is understandable in the age of retirement. There's less incentive to get out, even if there were many spots to go.

If I had reached the age of retirement I'd be interested in what's happening on television these weekday afternoons. If I were sitting before the set I'd tune to "Matinee Theatre" (NBC-TV), from Monday through Friday. From what I've seen it's one of the best of such programs on TV. HAVE U. K. FILMS

Now comes more good news for daytime viewers. ABC-TV has just acquired 100 feature-length British films from J. Arthur Rank. Beginning Jan. 16 they'll come on ABC stations weekdays for two-hour periods.

Among them are such outstanding films as "Hamlet," starring Sir Laurence Olivier; "It's Great to be Crowned," the pictorial report of Queen Elizabeth's coronation in 1953 with Olivier as narrator; "Run For Your Money" with Alec Guinness; and "Beware of Pity," starring Lilli Palmer and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

Any group of 100 films is bound to have some second-raters, of course. But in general, ABC's announcement means another break for daytime TV fans.

AT THE BELLE — Kit Taylor, promising juvenile find from Australia, plays Jim Hawkins, the young cabin boy, in "Long John Silver," the greatest family picture of all time, The New Thrilling Adventure Story, Technicolor and CinemaScope, now at Belle Theatre. Robert Newton and Connie Gilchrist, is showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

Lucy Marlow Sure Marriage To Ball Player Will Work Out

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can a big league baseball player and a movie actress make a success for a happy marriage?

Lucy Marlow and Andy Carey are convinced they can. She is the shapely, sweet-faced young beauty who scored as the starlet in "A Star is Born." Now she is being groomed for stardom by Columbia and is doing her first musical role opposite Frankie Laine in "He Died Laughing." Andy is the wavy-looking infielder for the New York Yankees.

"We're certain we can work out our schedules to be together most of the time," said Lucy between take. "Right now I'm working while Andy is hunting and fishing. We see each other at dinner.

"In March Andy will have to go to St. Petersburg for spring training, and I plan to go with him. Then he'll be living in New York until October, and I'll be there, too. I'll come out to Hollywood whenever the studio wants me for a picture."

CONSIDERED HAZARDS

Lucy said she and Andy considered all the hazards before entering into their marriage. They met last year when he was visiting the Pasadena Playhouse as guest of Victor Jory, an avid Yankee fan. Andy asked about the pretty girl who was acting in a play with Mrs. Jory, and the actor introduced them. Andy asked if he could write to her and she said yes.

During the seven months of baseball season their romance was carried on largely via letters and phone calls. They were married Oct. 6, two days after the Yankees lost the world series to Brooklyn.

Lucy, who scarcely knew a bunt from a fungo, got a taste of the baseball life when she went to Japan with the Yankees' exhibition tour.

"I loved it," she remarked. "I got to know some of the baseball wives, and they are wonderful."

She added proudly that Andy was the home run king of the tour—13 in 26 games, including a trip to one game to right, centre and left fields—and held the RBI honors.

"The Japanese are absolutely wild about baseball," she reported. Yet they aren't demonstrative like the fans here. They sit quietly but very attentively, looking like fields of wheat. The one thing that got them excited was bone runs," Another thing that impressed her: The Japanese throw the ball back to the field when it goes into the grandstand. The hot boy bows, delfs his hat politely and the game goes on.

When Lucy isn't in a picture during the winter, she and Andy spend some time in Oakland, where he has a photography studio. But they plan to make their home here.

Bowling Winners

Over 100,000 bowlers have participated in the fifth week of the Dow Bowl O' Fun contest, and here are the bests for the week ending December 10th.

The high team winners of Dow's $150 first prize in the Centre Recreation Eastview League, bowling at the Eastview Recreation Centre, Ottawa, Ontario. Their scores, 1603.

The Dow cash award of $75.00 for second place goes to the Decal Team of the Crosstown Bowling League, at Ace Bowling Centre, Toronto. Their score 1540. In third place "Evoy Electric" of the Kirkland Lake Merchants bowling at Jerry's Bowling in Kirkland Lake, Ontario, will receive Dow's award of $25.00 for their score of 1515%.

Other winners are: the "Arthur Mixed" in Fergus; the "Moose Scals" in London; the "East End Industrial" in Hamilton and the "Viking Limited in Lindsay. All these teams receive $25.00 Dow cheques.

The scores for these teams ranged from 874 to 1348. Dow's Bowl O' Fun creates plenty of interest because even the teams with the lowest scores are eligible to win.

Terrorists Raid Dynamite Store

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — British troops guarding a dynamite store fought a battle against terrorists today at the Kinousa mines, 65 miles west of this island's capital.

One British soldier was slightly wounded before the guard drove off the raiders, who attacked with machine guns and threw a homemade bomb.

British troops today patrolled Ledra street, Nicosia's fashionable shopping centre, following the daylight slaying of a British soldier there Wednesday. He was the ninth soldier to die in the current anti-British campaign here, aimed at uniting the colony with Greece.

Fifteen teachers find about 100 students were arrested today during riots at the port coast port of Famagusta. At the height of the disturbance, a British officer fired a shot at the rioters. No one was injured.

Russian Leaders Arrive at Kabul

KABUL, Afghanistan (Reuters) — Marshal Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, the touring Soviet leaders, arrived by air today, one day late for their official visit to Afghanistan.

Their plane, unable to land here after a flight from India Wednesday owing to snow and a heavy cloud blanket, flew in today from Stalinabad, in the Soviet Union north of the Afghan border, where the Russians spent the night.

The Soviet leaders, who plan a five-day stay in Afghanistan, were greeted at the airport here by Prime Minister Mohammed Daud Khan.

Gave Best Relief From Sour, Acid Upset Stomach

This Man Has High Praise for Syntons. Says It Also Relieved Rheumatic Pains.

The quick and positive action of Syntons in helping so many men and women is often surprising to them. That is because Syntons is made from a combination of medical ingredients never before found in any medicine. It is designed to act on the stomach, liver and bowels improving their action and relieving other complaints such as upset stomach, nervousness, rheumatic pains and that sluggish, always-tired feeling.

Gave Best Relief

In the case of Mr. Gordon W. Kay-ward, 135 Dundas St., Woodstock, Ont., here is what he wrote: "I was troubled a lot with indigestion, nervousness and a dull pain across my back. I tried several and got heartburn in bed. After taking a number of other things without relief, I decided to try Syntons and it has given me the best relief of anything I have taken.

"In addition Syntons gave me wonderful relief from rheumatic pain that had settled in my arms. Indeed, I have also given Syntons to my wife and she says it is better as I feel this medicine has helped my whole system. No wonder I am telling my friends Syntons has been able to do for me."

If you suffer like this, don't wait another day. Begin taking Syntons at once and see how much better you feel.

Syntons is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Snow Acting as Insulator Preventing Lakes and Rivers From Freezing Hard in North

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The great sheet of snow and ice which for generations all but silenced winter activity in Canada's Far North is being ruffled.

Where the delicate trail of dog-sled runners and the print of moccasined feet once were the only marks of man's winter passage into the tundra, giant tractors hauling tons of freight on sled trains now forge tracks across the snowy vastness. Spearheaded by mining development and defence building, a record year is shaping up for equipment transportation over ice-hardened rivers and lakes.

A heavy early snowfall this year, however, has added problems to the operation. The snow is acting as an insulator, preventing lakes and rivers from freezing hard enough to bear the trains safely. When the trails are determined early in the New Year this snow will have to be cleared to hasten the freeze-up.

RECORD LOADS

Taking over where the railways end, the trackless tractor trains will carry what are expected to be the heaviest loads of technical equipment and building supplies on record to the mid-Canada radar warning line and growing mining sites.

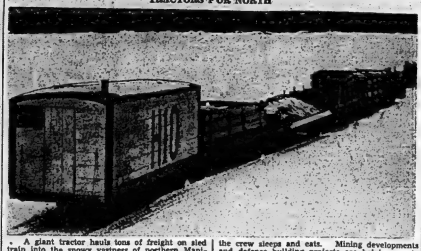
The North has been plagued by lack of transportation and much of the mineral potential of the great precambrian shield has been untouched. The Mackenzie river system has been the summer highway for barges carrying supplies, oil and mining equipment and more recently army and radar equipment in the northward penetration.

In winter, rivers and lakes are smashed to the land in the freeze-up and tractors pulling sleighs are often preferred to limited and expensive aircraft transportation. They serve the needs of long and bulky hauls.

But travel over ice has its disadvantages. Danger accompanies the crews whose tractors at any time may crash through weak spots on lakes or rivers. Winds, too, throw up formidable barriers of snow.

Where ice is not safe, artificial packing of snow and artificial flooding must be done by man. Travel over land presents its problems too. Sled runner ruts must periodically be levelled out and melted spots filled with ice or snow.

MAPPING A TRAIL



Before undertaking a haul a trail has to be located and cut. Grades must be kept to a minimum to prevent "doubling up" or "jackknifing" the train which usually has five or six sleds. Topography of the area is studied on maps, and helicopters make aerial surveys. The trail is finally blazed by crews working with bulldozers and tractor plows.

Patricia Transportation Company a leading tractor-train hauling firm expects to put more than 40 tractors and 200 sleds in operation this season.

The hauling period, the "blue ice" season, lasts from 75 to 120 days between January and April, depending on the winter.

Patricia's projects this year are taking them to two mining developments in northern Manitoba, one at Stewart Lake, and a section of the 3,000-mile mid-Canada radar line which sweeps through virtually unknown territory south of Hudson bay and approximately along the 55th parallel.

TRACTORS FOR NORTH

A giant tractor hauls tons of freight on sled train into the snowy vastness of northern Manitoba. Each train has a heavy-duty tractor which pulls a string of cargo-laden sleds, one for fuel and miscellaneous equipment and a caboose where the crew sleeps and eats. Mining developments and defence building projects are helping create a record year for the modern replacements for dog-sleds and hand-hauling of supplies in the North. (CP Photo).

Three tractor trains are used in a hauling "swing" and freight is moved in an almost continuous line. Under ideal conditions one train is en route while the other two are either unloading at the destination or loading at the shipping centre.

TRAIN EQUIPMENT

Each train has a heavy-duty tractor which pulls a string of cargo-laden sleds, one for fuel and miscellaneous equipment and a caboose where the crew sleeps and eats. A cook, a utility man and two tractor drivers who work in shifts make up the crew.

The machines work day and night for as long as the hauling season lasts. As the winter gets colder and the ice thicker, size of

Because of the hazard of a breakthrough in the ice the tractors have no roads, allowing the driver an emergency exit. Only a windshield and canvas sides protect him from the wind.

To salvage a tractor, experienced crews are needed. They first set up a canvas wind-break around the hole in the ice and build a fire inside to keep warm and prevent a freeze-up. The lost machine is drawn up by another tractor on a cable running through a tripod-type structure over the hole.

Manager B. H. Wilson of the Patricia Company says breakthroughs are the greatest hazards in tractor train freighting. The company has lost three men in its 20 years of operations, two of them as a result of tractors dropping through ice. The other fatality came in an airplane mishap.

RAILWAY UNIONS NOT SATISFIED WITH PROPOSALS

One Suggestion Called 'Pig-in-Poke'

MONTREAL (CP) — Unions locked in a contract dispute with major Canadian railways gave a reserved reception Thursday to one proposal from Prime Minister St. Laurent and quickly rejected a second from the railways.

Frank Hall of Montreal, chief negotiator for the non-operating unions seeking a wage-health-welfare package deal, indicated without enthusiasm that he will have to report more about Mr. St. Laurent's suggestion of an "impartial appraisal" before judging it.

Earlier, Mr. Hall ruled out a railways' proposal that as a speed-up measure for the non-operating unions seeking a wage-health-welfare package deal, indicated without enthusiasm that he will have to report more about Mr. St. Laurent's suggestion of an "impartial appraisal" before judging it.

Earlier, Mr. Hall ruled out a railways' proposal that as a speed-up measure for the conciliation board's finding be made binding on both parties.

In Ottawa Thursday, Mr. St. Laurent told a Canadian Congress of Labor delegation that, when we are convinced we are in the right, I think we are always delighted to submit to impartial appraisal of such situation to indicate that we are in the right."

Hall replied from Montreal: "For one thing, we don't know what kind of impartial body the prime minister has in mind."

COMPULSION

The prime minister's generally-worded statement on labor relations is important for the problem of settling recurring rail-unions problems without resorting to dispute.

In the current dispute, 150,000 rail employees in the non-operating classifications seek wage, health and welfare concessions estimated to cost $100,000 annually.

The railways called the meeting here Thursday to submit their proposal about dissolving conciliation board recommendations binding on both sides. In rejecting it, Mr. Hall called it a "pig-in-poke."

Labor Minister Gregg has authorized appointment of a three-man conciliation board at the request of the unions, who have urged that proceedings be started along. Only the union representative has been named yet to the three-man board.

Mr. Hall said the railways offer "constitutes a form of arbitration to which the unions are unwilling to subscribe. It would be a bad precedent in the experience of the unions to such an important issue as wages, a change in the pattern of collective bargaining and conciliation board proceedings."

Eden's Cabinet Shuffle Plan Stirs Revolt in Own Party

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden's reported plans to shake up his cabinet to silence Socialist accusations of being a "dithered" bigstirred up a revolt in his own Conservative camp.

Some staunch government supporters rebelled openly today against the move rumored afoot to promote Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan to deputy prime minister.

Only seven months after taking over the helm of government from Sir Winston Churchill, the 58-year-old Eden has himself ridden an undercurrent of discontent and anxiety.

Though Britain is enjoying full employment, with two jobs avail able for every man unemployed, rising prices have brought criticism of the government. Its foreign affairs the country is sharply divided on how to deal with terrorism in Cyprus, Communist infiltrations in the Middle East and the general revival of the cold war with Soviet Russia.

ROYAL DETAINED

Eden, still confined to his bedroom with a cold, is reported determined to go ahead with reshuffling the cabinet—possibly before Christmas—though he has changed his mind at the last minute before.

The shapeup under consideration would affect the two ministers under heaviest attack, Butler and Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan. The latter would move into Butler's place at the treasury.

Two influential Tory backers which support the Eden government, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express and The Daily Mail, protest that removal of Butler from his job as economic chief would be a mistake. Both newspapers have credited him with restoring the country's prosperity, and The Mail says his replacement in the economics post "would have a most unsettling effect abroad."

The interest stirred as Eden has come from the leftist Daily Mirror which calls him "the greatest failure in British political history."

Macmillan has been accused both by Conservative and Labor factions of being vague.

No Trip Arranged Yet for Princess Next Summer

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Princess Margaret's travel plans for next summer are still open, official sources here said today.

"She loves to travel, but nothing has been arranged," said a court informant, commenting on published reports that Margaret might go to Canada next fall.

Three newspapers—The Daily Telegraph, Evening Standard and Daily Mail—have discussed the possibility of a summer visit to Canada. Thursday The Daily Mail, going farther than any other source, quoted Canadian officials as saying that a trip to Canada had been suggested to the princess.

Today a Canada House spokesman denied any such suggestion had been made.

INTEREST SHOWN

The princess is the only prominent member of the Royal Family who has not visited Canada. The visits of her father, the late king her mother, now Queen Mother Elizabeth, her sister the Queen and other leading members of the Royal Family have undoubtedly sharpened her interest in North America.

She has often expressed interest in Canada. At an informal party in Victoria House Nov. 17, 1954, she told Douglas Shaw of Walkerton, Ont., how much the Queen Mother had enjoyed her stay in Canada. Such remarks could, of course, be little more than small talk.

As children, Margaret and her sister received many gifts from Canada after their parents' visit in 1939, and their childish enthusiasm was aroused by stories of the new world, among them the report that the king had been eating "hot dogs," something new and amusing to two little English girls.

McGill Students' Council Will Give $5,000 to Tramways for Riot Damage

MONTREAL (CP)—The students' executive council of McGill University has decided to give the Montreal Transportation Commission $5,000 "by way of co-operation" for damage caused in last Friday's wild demonstration against the MTC's recent fare increase.

The council says the payment is "an expression of the sincerity of the regret felt by the Students' Society for the consequences of the actions of some of its members." The $5,000 represents about seven per cent of the society's annual income from fees.

The council, which was not connected with the demonstration which started as an orderly parade and turned into a riot, said "Some McGill students were involved in the demonstration and caused some considerable damage and civic disturbance, and unwillingly helped by students from other parts of the city turns to do much more serious damage."

It also decided to write letters of apology to the MTC and to the police department and to warn students that "in the future all student parades must be authorized by the students' council. Violators of this resolution will be severely punished."

Total property damage in the riots was estimated at some $50,000.

Turkeys Will Be Little Scarcer And More Expensive This Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The turkey, proud old patriarch of Canada's Christmas dinner, will be a little scarcer and more expensive this year.

A Canadian Press survey shows that supplies of the big bird will be short in many parts of the country and prices will be six cents to 10 cents a pound higher than last year.

Retailers say there are two reasons for the price boost—increased demand and decreased supply. The gobbler's popularity at Christmas time has jumped 200 per cent since the Second World War.

Fewer hens and toms are being sent to market this year. Breeders suffered from over-production and low prices last year and some smaller producers were forced out of business.

Quebec breeders report production down by more than six per cent this year to 895,759 turkeys.

Biggest demand in most centres is for small birds of 10 to 15 pounds and there are reports the lighter birds have been specially developed to meet the needs of small families and householders in flats and apartments where cooking facilities are limited. Storekeepers say plenty of large birds—over 18 pounds—are on hand.

Some cities, such as Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, report a large demand for birds supplied cleaned and quick - frozen in vacuum packages.

Small birds are expected to cost 55 to 65 cents a pound in most parts of the country, in Newfoundland, where turkeys are supplied mostly from the mainland, the price is 70 cents, while Vancouver is asking 43 cents a pound for small plucked toms.

Toronto prices average 59 cents a pound for plucked turkeys and 45 for bigger ones.

The price range in Montreal is 59 to 79 cents, up six from last year.

The Prairie provinces report slight shortages, with prices up from five cents to 55 for 27 cents on family-size birds.

Poultry experts report little taste and texture difference between toms and hens. The important thing, they say, is that the birds be mature and dressed to the peak of perfection. Size is the main factor in choosing between toms and hens.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. Arranges for Supply of Gas

TORONTO (CP)—Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. today signed a contract with Niagara Gas Transmission Ltd. to provide feeder facilities for its proposed Toronto-Montreal natural gas line.

Trans-Canada will use surplus capacity of the Niagara-Toronto line owned by Niagara Transmission to supply gas to the new line, scheduled to be built in 1956.

The contract was announced jointly by N. E. Tanner, president of Trans-Canada and Oakah Jones, vice-president and general manager of Niagara Transmission.

Niagara Transmission is a subsidiary of Trans-Canada and Company.

Mr. Tanner said the contract will enable Trans-Canada to provide gas to communities between Toronto and Montreal, and the city of Montreal itself, a year before they could be served by Canadian natural gas.

The Niagara-Toronto line, built by Trans-Canada, was leased to Niagara Transmission to carry U. S. gas to Toronto in order to avoid delays while a built to carry western gas to the central provinces.

Justice Says Woman Has No Basis for Claim

TORONTO (CP)—A judge hearing a $500,000 alimony suit by a former Montreal restaurant hostess against patent medicine manufacturer John Q'Part said Thursday she has no basis for her claim.

Mr. Justice R. J. Ferguson of the Supreme Court of Ontario said: "This is obviously not a case where there's any claim for alimony."

Mr. Q'Part testified Wednesday there was never a marriage ceremony "by proxy or otherwise" between himself and the Montreal woman.

Mrs. Cyprienne Q'Part, 37, is seeking $500,000 or $500 a week, plus interim alimony of $250 a week and another $250 weekly for the care of her seven-year-old son Richard. She also wants possession of Q'Part's Toronto home and his convertible.

Mr. Justice Ferguson said he is concerned mainly in awarding a proper sum for the child's maintenance.

Mrs. Q'Part also is suing Adrem Ltd., John Q'Part Holdings, Ltd., Mason's Prescriptions Laboratories Ltd., and Exclusive Radio Features Company Ltd., for money she claims as "income, dividends and director's fees."

Expand Scheme Of Passage Loans To Immigrants

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today announced it is widening its plan of passage loans to European immigrants to include all types of workers and also their dependents.

The move, apparently designed to increase the present lagging flow of immigrants, becomes effective immediately.

The plan, begun in February, 1951, so far has provided interest-free loans for the trans-Atlantic trip only to certain categories of immigrants needed in labor-short areas, such as bush or farm workers and domestics.

The announcement by Immigration Minister Pickersgill said the extension will cover "all immigrants who are suitable, desirable and adaptable and who would otherwise be unable to finance the journey to Canada."

A department official said this applies to all European immigrants.

"Loans are being extended to dependents to bring about an earlier reunion of families in cases where the head of the family has preceded his dependents to Canada and to assist in bringing now immigrants as a family unit," the announcement said.

Free Canadian Whose Wife, Child Found Murdered

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP) — A coroner's jury has decided that Mrs. Patricia Ann Eggleston, 28, seven - year - old daughter Phillis, formerly of Niagara Falls, Ont., met death by the hand of Mrs. Eggleston's husband, Dr. E. L. Eggleston, to prevent further incidents.

The action Thursday night freed Philip Van Eeghen, 30, an Air Force pilot held for six days following the finding of the bodies early last Monday. No charge has been filed against him.

Dr. A. D. Hall, examining physician, told the coroner's jury that Mrs. Van Eeghen, 30, and her daughter died from head wounds caused by a sharply heavy instrument. The bodies were found in the family automobile parked across the street from a funeral home.

Van Eeghen repeatedly denied any knowledge of the slayings and reported his wife and daughter missing shortly before the bodies were found.

Another child of the couple, Jeffrey, was born in October, 1954, after being struck by a baseball. The Van Eeghens came to Melbourne three years ago.

Red Carpet Rolled Out for Rare Trumpeter Swan Found Wounded

VANCOUVER (CP) — A rare trumpeter swan has arrived in a Vancouver cinema on an all-expenses-paid—for medical care of a wounded wing.

The wounded bird, somewhat off course, was spotted Tuesday by loggers working near Campbell river, B. C., 100 miles northwest of here on Vancouver island.

They took time off the next day and captured the bird, and since then the red carpet has been rolled out everywhere in the trumpeter's travels.

The bird was carried to Campbell river by the loggers, a group from first-aid man. A flight of five inches long was removed from the wing and a dose of penicillin was provided. A game warden was called in and the bird flew again within the hour—via a Pacific Western Airlines plane to Vancouver.

The crated bird was taken to the zoology department of the University of British Columbia, where officials were confident Thursday night of being able to save its life.

Security Council Considers Egypt's Reprisal Threats

'About to Deal' With Raid On Syrians States Nasser

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Egyptian reprisal threats lent new urgency today to United Nations Security Council debate on Syria's charge of Israeli aggression.

As the 11 members of the Security Council gathered to take up the Syrian protest this afternoon they had before them a letter from Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser asserting that the Israeli attack was "positively considered as an aggression against Egypt" also.

Nasser pointed out that Egypt and Syria had concluded a mutual defence pact in October.

The council meeting was called to consider Syria's protest against a raid on her posts east of the Sea of Galilee Sunday night. Conflicting reports have put the death toll as high as 50 in the action.

Nasser's letter was addressed to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. The request that it be relayed to the council. It said Egypt must meet force with force and is "about to deal with the situation herself" with her land, air and naval forces.

SYRIAN DEMAND

Ahmed Shukairy, chairman of Syria's delegation to the General Assembly, told correspondents he would ask the council for "positive actions which have not been asked before." That could mean a request that the council send UN members to cut diplomatic, economic and communication links with Israel or even to use military force.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban was prepared to reply that the attack was necessary to silence the Syrian guns which had been harassing Israeli police launches and boats.

Israeli President Itzhak Ben-Zvi in Jerusalem Thursday charged the Arab countries with seeking the "annihilation" of Israel" and said the Syrian firing on the Galilee boats was part of such a campaign.

The council is expected to hear both sides, then adjourn until next week while members ponder possible action. In the past the council has never gone farther than a censure of one side or the other and a rest that both sides work with the chief UN truce supervisor —Canadian Maj.-Gen. E. L. Burns—to prevent further incidents.

'New Microscope Measures Parts Of Atom's Core

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A nuclear microscope capable of measuring parts of an atom core "with an accuracy of four-thousandths of a millionth of a centimeter" is described Thursday by the air force.

Air research and development command headquarters here announced the instrument had been developed by Stanford University scientists.

Stanford physicists believe the instrument eventually will be able to measure protons, the smallest matter within the nucleus of an atom, the announcement said.

Believed to be the world's largest nuclear microscope, its "eyepiece" alone weighs 55 tons, Laboratory personnel said they had used it to prove the previous theory that the "skin" of an atomic nucleus would resemble a tennis ball with extremely thick hair.

NATO Ministers Discuss Russia's Cold War Drive

PARIS (AP) — The 15 - foreign ministers of the North Atlantic alliance met again today behind closed doors for more discussion of the fishing to their second round by Russia's post-Geneva return to the cold war.

State Secretary Dulles of the United States warned the ministers Thursday that the Russians, after nearly a year of political stagnation, have opened a dangerous new fronts in the cold war: the Middle East and southern Asia.

After the ministers end their canvass of global problems, the NATO council will hold another full session. It will discuss ways in which to organize the alliance to broaden its scope to include the economic and social fields in fighting the cold war. In addition to the foreign ministers, the council also includes the member countries' defence and finance ministers.

THREAT OF WAR

Dulles, with Britain's Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay of France, was expected to bring before the foreign ministers their special analysis about the Middle East. Worsening relations there between Israel and the Arab states pose a threat of a real war.

There were unconfirmed reports that Portugal's Premier Antonio Paulo Cunha would seek NATO's endorsement of a decision announced hold on Portuguese India, which Prime Minister Nehru's government wants removed.

The NATO council concentrated its consideration today on the basic news agenda at the meeting Thursday, the first day of the three-day conference. On that stage, it approved a plan proposed personally by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme allied commander in Europe, calling for co-operation of all allied air forces and for a unified radar screen against possible air attack, extending from Norway through Turkey.

City Fire Department Members Excellent Hosts at Banquet

Give them a roll of hoses or the role of host, the Belleville Fire Department can equally as home in either case.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance and his merry men excelled themselves in the latter character at their annual banquet at the West Moira Street Fire Hall last evening.

Upwards of 120 guests and firemen, a cross section of the city and district, enjoyed what in the consensus was the most successful affair since its inception.

The menu was turkey and the "trimmin's". There was hokum and hilarity. There were hearty warming and humorous presentations. There were speeches clear-cut marked by their brevity, sincerity and humor. There was music and mirth and a down-to-earth camaraderie among representatives of the fire association of years of faithful and efficient service.

Oddly enough the retiring firemen bear the same name as the new deputy fire department chief. One was Lieut. Frank Poste, the other just plain Frank Poste.

CHIEF PAYS TRIBUTE

Chief Vance said in tribute to his wartime firefighters, "they have served the city well for many years. They set a record the like of which the city ever had—men who never said 'quit', but carried on in the very best traditions of the fire department."

The presentations were made by Johnny Bergeron, president of Local 497, Ontario Firefighters' Association.

"You are guests" he said, a smile flicking over his face "and I hope you enjoy yourselves. You speakers will be allowed two minutes. After that you're cut off no matter who you are."

The chief was true to his word. The only one he had to check was "Senator Claghorne" Harry Rollins who embarked or tried to embark on a long list of memories of "Why We Are Canadians." The guests never heard the reason.

With Chief Vance at the head table were Deputy Chief Alf Alderson, Chief Frank Grandame, Alderman Claude Tice representing Mayor Jack Bell who was out of the city; Deputy Fire Marshal of Ontario, Martin Hurst; Gerry Bowering, vice-president, Ontario Firefighters Association, Ottawa, and Johnny Browning, president of the local "local".

City aldermen present were Claude Tice, Knox David, Bruce Smith, Arthur Keegan, Mel Safe. Alderman-elect present were Robert Temple, Charles Hyde and Dr. John Black. City officials including Drury Denyes, Leighton Thompson, Cliff Matthews, Charles Mott, Dr. A. Metcalfe, Adam Stalker.

OTHERS AT HEAD TABLE

Among other special guests were Chief of Police Walter Probert, Police Inspector Clare Hayes, Fire Chiefs Ray Hobbs, Oshawa; William Sorrell, Scarborough; Ernest Poe, Kingston township; W. Byrd, Cobourg; C. Orser, Trenton; George Chief, Bowmanville, and other department representatives; ex-Alderman Angus Duffy, Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., Hastings West, and other representatives of city organizations.

Stating that Mayor Bolt was absent due to end-of-city business Chief Vance said he hoped to have Belleville's first woman mayor present at next year's banquet. "Mayor-elect Forrester will receive an invitation and I know she will attend," he said.

The humorous highlight of the evening was the presentation of "Harry the Horse" to Dr. Russell Sills. "Harry" is the equine effigy which bore a fresh coat of varnish to the discomfort of many recent guests, will occupy a spot over the grave of its original on Dr. Scott's farm.

LAST HORSE IN SERVICE

"Harry," it was explained, was the last horse in the fire horses to see service with the city department.

Heading the colorie of speakers, Alderman Claude Tice extended official greetings to the fire department adding that he had been a member of the fire committee for a number of years. "On behalf of the city council I wish to commend the fine community effort being made by the department," he extended a special welcome to the visiting fire chiefs and their representatives outside departments.

Chairman Bert Grandame also paid tribute to the department, commending it on its work in community activities. "I feel they are a splendid group of men," he said of the department chief. He congratulated Chief Vance on his election to the executive of the Ontario Fire Chiefs Association.

Deputy Fire Marshal Hurst adhered strictly to the "two-minute" rule. Speaking of the city, he commended Chief Vance and his department for the fine work they do in their many projects. "It is a fine public relations job," he said. "I am a believer in public relations and I believe the department is a great medium."

Vice-president Tucker of the Ontario Firefighters' association, told the gathering the Belleville local was the best in his district. He added in jocular vein: "I have had experience with a number of mayor for years. I know you are going to like it."

Brief expressions of appreciation of the department and tributes to its activities were given by Messrs. Rollins, Sandercock, Les Grills, Angus Duffy and Ald. Vanluven, president of the Belleville Recreation Commission, who expressed appreciation on behalf of the commission for the assistance and co-operation of the department in city recreational activities.

CHEQUE PRESENTED

A heart-warming presentation was a cheque for $100 to be devoted to the department's uniform and firefighters' fund. The donation came from the Canadian National Railways. Alderman Claude Tice with past-president George Foster making a pre-presentation address. The cheque was formally presented to president John Bowering through Agent Bilton. CNRAA treasurer. It was the third occasion of late that presented to the department by the donors in as many years.

At this point Alderman Bruce Smith suggested that the gathering emulate the generosity of the railwaymen. The "hat" was passed and an additional ninety dollars went into the underprivileged kiddies' exchequer.

Inspector Hayes and Fire Chief Hobbs, two "operatic" stars whose vocal education apparently has been sadly neglected, led the community singing with Johnny Dark at the piano. The evening, a highly enjoyable one, ended in social amenities.

Many Pupils Are Inoculated And Vaccinated

The following report of activities of the Belleville Health Department was released by Dr. Metcalfe, Medical Officer of Health.

During the past ten days, 997 pupils of the Public and Separate Elementary Schools have been inoculated for diphtheria and tetanus and vaccinated against smallpox.

Unfortunately, due to the prevalence of measles among the pupils, a large number were absent and did not receive this immunization.

However, when the schools are re-opened after the Christmas holidays, these children will be inoculated and vaccinated.

St. Joseph's Separate School Nurses, assisted by the nurses given by the Belleville Board of Health since September last and as yet the records there have not been completed. Soon time will be given to the pupils of this school will be given the same immunization as given to the pupils of the other elementary schools in the city.

'Rhubarb' Has Good Home At Police Station

At least there is one regular customer at the city police station who wouldn't trade the city police headquarters for any other home in town.

He is "Rhubarb," a big Maltese tomcat, who thanks to kindness on the part of police officers, is doing very well for himself as the self-styled guardian of the local bastille.

Two months ago, as a stray cat, "Rhubarb" claimed the city weigh station as a resting and hunting and for sustenance depended on handouts from the Maltheaves Coffee Bar.

Then the officers of the law decided the big cat should live "Rhubarb" and allowed him the freedom of the police station.

For a time the big cat was a bit wary of the officers as well as strangers. But liberal handouts from policemen's lunch baskets and the warmth of the station has changed all that. Now he sleeps contentedly on the sergeant's desk and breaks into a purr of thanks at the smallest attention.

Hospital Auxiliary Receives $700 from Opportunity Shop

Now that the time is near to celebrate the birth of Jesus of Nazareth who went about doing good and healing the sick, it seems especially fitting to hear the plans of one group of women whose work is in the comfort and care of the patients at the Belleville General Hospital.

The members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary met to discuss their plans for Christmas and the incoming year, and to hear the reports of the past few months and the results of the findings of their delegates, held in the provincial field and in their own hospital.

Mrs. L. B. Fonger presented the president, Mrs. J. L. Smith, with a cheque for $700, being the tangible form of the results of many hours of service of her staff at the Opportunity Shop operated by Miss Byers, who has been appointed public relations liaison officer, visits all the patients.

Mrs. Smith thanked the speaker and spoke with regret of the oncoming departure of Mrs. J. E. Pugh, to Ireland. Her work in the auxiliary secretary, has been very much appreciated.

Employee Earns $100 Bonus For Suggestion

A practical, but well thought up suggestion that helped solve a problem, which had been a headache to management for many years, has earned a $100 bonus for an employee of the Rexall Drug Co. of Canada, Ltd., here in Belleville.

He is Samuel Vechter, foreman on the production staff, who has been an employee of the local firm for the past 14 years. Mr. Vechter received his cheque for the $100 from David A. Metcalf, president and general manager, during a staff meeting this morning held Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Metcalf said Mr. Vechter's suggestion was the best submitted in the plant suggestion box and that the amount being awarded for the idea was the highest ever paid for a suggestion.

Mr. Al Wickerson, local plant official, said the suggestion made by Mr. Vechter was for alteration of headers which facilitated pumping of cereals and eliminated costly shutdowns.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — First-hour business moved at its briskest pace in about three weeks on the stock exchange today, spurred by renewed interest in uraniums. Most uranium issues were a little lower after rising sharply Thursday on rumors, later denied, that a price increase might be forthcoming shortly.

There was a softer trend to industrials, though price changes were small. Base metals and western oils were a little higher on the strength of fractional gains in the higher-priced issues.

Steels advanced on demand for a few selected issues. Papers, foods and manufactures were weaker. Elsewhere among industrials there was little trend. Point declines were posted by Crown Zellerbach, Imperial Flo-Glaze and Gypsum, Lime. Combined Enterprises gained 30 cents for a new high of 10¾.

In the mines section, Campbell Chibougamau continued its winning run, adding 25 cents. Zenmac was a bright spot in the lower-price division, adding eight cents at 50. New Jason eased slightly.

Scattered gains partly offset the lower tendency in uraniums. Algom added 25 cents. Pardee gained 11 at $1.06 and Rayrock firmed a few pennies.

Preston East Dome moved up 20 cents in golds.

Among western oils, Home A and B each advanced 50 cents. United Oils was 12 cents ahead at $1.65.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were mostly steady at the Ontario public stockyards this week. Calves were unchanged. Hogs were $1 a hundredweight lower with sheep and lambs steady.

Cattle receipts were some 1,800 head less than last week and 1,600 head more than the same week in 1954. Western cattle receipts were 258 head more than last week at 1,443. Western stock calves receipts continued to decline with this week's numbers 188 head less at 289.

The western were mostly replacement cattle. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were light and there were no exports to the United States.

Despite a sharply reduced volume, cattle trading was generally slow throughout the week, particularly on steers. Good heifers, dry-fed yearlings and bulls met a good demand at fully steady prices.

The dressed beef trade was reported as seasonally slow. An estimated 1,000 cattle were unsold at the close, mostly stockers.

Prices

Choice steers $30-30.50, some sales to $21; good steers $18.50-29; medium $15-18; common $12-15; good heifers $17-18, sales to $18.50; an odd choice to $19; medium $14-17; common $12-14; boner steers and heifers $8-12; choice dry-fed yearlings $26-28; sales to $22.50; good fed yearlings $20-21; medium $15-18; common $10-13.50, sales to $11; canners and cutters down to 8c; good heavy bologna bulls to $13; heavy fat beef bulls selling slowly with sales to $12; common and medium light bulls down to $9.

Replacement cattle: This class continued to meet a narrow demand with good stockers and stock calves selling at $18-18.50, with sales to $19 and in some cases slightly more; medium were $16-18; common $14-16.

Veal calves were in good demand with good vealers selling at $28-29 with choice up to $30; mediums

Mead Johnson Employees To Share Profits of Company

Commencing this year, employees of the Mead Johnson Company of Canada Ltd. will share in the profits of the company, it was announced Thursday by David L. Mendes, president and general manager.

The president told employees that the decision had been reached at a recent meeting of directors and that the 135 employees of the Belleville plant would receive their cheques either late in February or early March.

"Payments to employees would be based on the length of service with the company," he said.

In making the announcement Mr. Mendes said he was a firm believer that sharing of profits was beneficial both to management and to employees and that it gave employees an added incentive to take further interests in their jobs. He said the amount to be shared with employees would be a percentage of the net profits before taxes. "The amount to be divided for 1955 would be somewhere between $13,000 and $15,000," he said.

At the same time the company president assured that the decision of management to share profits would have no effect on Christmas bonuses to be received by employees.

After yesterday's brief meeting, all 135 members of the staff lined up and were handed $50 Christmas bonus cheques.

FLUORIDATION WINS ENDORSEMENT

The coming year will almost certainly see many Ontario municipalities undertake fluoridation of their water supplies.

Impetus for these projects was the announcement of Hon. Matthew Phillips, Ontario Minister of Health, that the introduction of fluoride in drinking water appears beneficial to teeth and harmless to other parts of the body. He made that statement on the basis of his department's study of a ten-year experiment with fluoridation in Brantford, Ont.

The statement came at a time when the electors of North Bay were voting on a plebiscite on the question. North Bay became the first city in Canada to endorse fluoridation by a public vote. Immediate reaction to the minister's statement was favorable. In London and Windsor, where health department officials said they will ask their city councils for early approval of fluoridation, and in Sarnia and St. Thomas, where it was announced discussions would be conducted after proposals for fluoridation had earlier been shelved.

Dr. Phillips' statement that fluoridation appears harmless to all the more important people who has steadfastly maintained a non-committal attitude in the face of repeated demands by advocates of fluoridation that he endorse such action. From the first his attitude has been that municipalities would do well to proceed slowly, waiting for the results of the Brantford experiment. These results have now been studied and this study has led him to state that fluoridation of water "appears" harmless. Opponents of fluoridation may seize on the word "appears" and attempt to interpret it as indicative that the minister still has some doubts about the harmless nature of fluoridated water. That, however, would be unfair. The note of caution which Dr. Phillips still retains is indicative of the scientific mind. "Appears" is a word which is properly mated with all statements that new drugs are harmless. The risks which would be taken by fluoridation of water supplies are, however, no greater than the risks which are constantly being taken in the treatment of numerous diseases and ailments.

The opponents of fluoridation will not weaken in their argument that medication should not be compulsory; that everybody is free to take flourine to protect his or her teeth if he or she so desire, but that nobody should be forced to drink water which has been fluoridated.

Another point which may be raised by the opponents of fluoridation is the question of cost. Why fluoridate all water, when only a small quantity of the water so treated is drunk and when only some of those drinking water, children, can receive protection to their teeth by consuming it? This argument has been answered because of the fact that there is no assurance parents will provide their children with water which is fluoridated.

It is noteworthy that dentists, who in one sense have the most to lose if dental decay becomes rare, should have been leaders in the campaign for fluoridation of water. Individually and through their associations, dentists have shown an admirable and commendable concern for the welfare of their prospective patients and the health of the community as a whole. Indeed, at times they have exhibited impatience at delays which may have proven annoying to physicians, some of whom were alarmed by the possibility that fluoridation might create new work for them and new problems for their patients. Those fears will be laid severely somewhat by the knowledge that a fellow-physician who has shared their caution has now been convinced, as the result of study by experts, that such a development is unlikely.

WHO OWNS THE DEER?

Up in the Pembroke area, according to a news report, the deer season "brought with it the usual number of disputes as to who owns the deer once it is shot."

In such cases, it is not the person who shot the deer which were being driven by other parties or by other parties' dogs.

Department of Lands and Forests conservation officers were called in to settle some disputes. Generally they found this relatively simple. The law, it is said, is clear, going back to Roman days, that animals become the property of him who reduces them to possession. "Pursuit of an animal does not constitute possession," says a Department spokesman.

Of course one would appear to await the dog fancier who can breed a hound with the appearance of a bulldog and a disposition to match its looks. Disputing possession with a dog of this nature might become a rare occurence.

MISTAKES GET BIGGER AND WORSE

Life gets more complicated all the time.

This fall many hunters have been mistaken for deer, a mistake which would appear to be of ample proportions.

Now, however, comes a report from British Columbia of a man mistaken for a moose, an error of eyesight even greater than is customary.

Is one to suppose elephant hunting would be safe, or should hunters go to the other extreme and concentrate on something small, like mice?

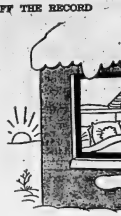
CHRISTMAS MAGIC

Just what is it that Christmas does
To every man and woman,
Ending the bitterness that was
For something sweetly human?

Why to remember one poor child
Once cradled in a manger,
Should few with foe be reconciled
And stranger friend to stranger?

What is this miracle of love
Which Christmas works upon us,
Putting another's joy above
The burdens heavy on us?
Why in the name of one bright star



Over a stable glowing,
Should we forget how poor we are
And turn to gift bestowing?

What is this charm of joyous peace
Which Christmas fearly fashions,
Causing all grievances to cease
And confessing all our passions?

A child within a stable born!
And down the years thereafter
The world upon the Christmas morn
Awakes to love and laughter!

New Thermometer at Pump House. If Belleville's winter temperatures ever drop to a minimum of 80 degrees below zero, this registration will be faithfully recorded, following the installation of a new type government testing thermometer at the local pumping station. We are informed by E. T. Austin, manager of the waterworks, that the thermometer was given to the city by the Provincial Department of Health office in Toronto. Mr. Austin stated that "occasionally we hear citizens comment on the temperatures that are given out by us; often they believe that it is either colder or warmer than that given by the actual reading we take. However, we have not much chance to make a mistake in this matter. We take out one reading but two readings—one from a maximum recording thermometer and one from a minimum recorder. The two thermometers daily are tested from time to time by the government office in Toronto, and at all time. The variations in reading can be corrected to the fact that it is really colder in some parts of the city than it is in other sections. We have known for a long time that one of the coldest spots is in the area of the north station. Wind ill is said does not make much difference in the actual zero temperature, but there are times when a wind-chill factor is felt much more than cold on a quiet day. Last year there was some controversy over temperatures. To show that there is little variation in thermometers we wished to state on one of the coldest days with another thermometer owned by the Dominion Entomological Laboratory and we were not one point out in the readings. Our instruments are of the most advanced scientific type and as far as readings go there just can't be any mistake about them," added Mr. Austin.

From one file copy of this time in 1895: "Mr. Stewart Masson has been appointed solicitor for the City of Belleville. There were five applicants for the position and Mr. Masson received eleven votes of the sixteen votes cast by the aldermen. The salary was set at $400, per year.

AWARDS

The awarding of prizes, medals, ribbons, citations, and degrees may please our sense of triumph, but there is no reward quite so valuable as the reward we find in the reward that we gain whenever we do something notable that has added to our own rich experience, and brought hope and happiness to others.

We pay ourselves when we discover that we are better men and women today than yesterday. Oh, so many of the most useful and inspiring men and women in this world have never been given any outward reward for all they have done to make others, and "nations, wider free." The reward of appreciation stands among the greatest of all rewards we may gain on our journey through life. Awards and degrees should be earned, not wantonly conferred. Awards are the rich ihoping for ,more money giving; and to politicians to help them collect votes.

In that great poem by Burton, "The Kaisidah," there is a line that has always intrigued me. It is this: "From none but Self expect applause." Who else could be more worthy of applause? There is no friend ever to appear in us who knows us as we know ourselves. The most cherished rewards are those that hang in the heart—inside—not outside, in the form of ribbons, dangling metal pieces, and whatnots! Robert Henri, the artist, has said: "Self acquaintance is a rare condition."

Who is it who rewards the fighter who has failed, though he did the best he knew? Isn't mere striving worthy of a rich reward? Can such a one exult over the fact that a secret, silent reward hangs within his heart? The great winners are not always the ones who have the most cups and trophies in their credit. They put Columbus in chains for his courage and vision in discovering a new world! And Christ's reward was the Cross!

Prophecy?

(Ottawa Citizen)

In a report from India in its early edition of Sunday Nov. 6, the New York Times described Canada's ministry for external affairs as "Lester (Mike) Pearson, Secretary of State for Experimental Affairs." Was this a prophecy or a typographical error?

Take a lesson from the whale. The time he gets harpooned is when he comes up to spout.

Mud Moron Retires

(Hamilton Spectator)

Come the rough days of snow and slush and ruts and automotive headaches and we are always brought back with savage nostalgia, to the Mikado's High Executioner and his pleasing devices for making the "punishment fit for the crime."

Boiling in oil was one of his lesser teasers—the sort of thing reserved for minor offenders of minor breaches in table etiquette.

Boiling in oil would have been for the Mikado a mere tot-sticker in dealing out proper doom to some of our incurable and diabolical motor mosquitoes.

Slush holing on the first one out on parade—the car boob who roars through the puddles—he can find to plaster a pedestrian's feet, head and pants with a nice coating of ice-and-water. Or he can, perhaps, douse his shop windows with a nice ten-foot shower from a rut near the curb. This is the final low of automobile insolence, and hardly any field of sporting discipline without violence demands such retribution. But the punishment far transcends the crime.

Let's call him the mud moron.

Fortunately he doesn't always win with us. But just for the record, every few months, in the darkest hours of the night, he decides how long any city should have to endure the groans with the bustled horn; the oaf who, finding the distance of 15 yards to the front door of his home an excellent far too much physical torture for twentieth century both for the neighbors and wood to announce his arrival. To no area of pyrachiatric confusion is there a truce. Not a blasting noise to advertise such unimportant events as the birth of a child, or nature's kingdom where there is anything like it, with the wild geese, who at least has the decency to do it high in the air out of (what he feels) is gunshot.

New Machine Cupid's Rival

(London, Eng., Answers)

Science has produced a gadget which, it is claimed, will automatically tell courting couples if they are ready to get married.

The British neurologist explains that this newest scientific wonder is a machine which will measure "the degree of nervous energy" electrically. By comparing the charts of two people, we can see if they are temperamentally suited to each other from a standpoint of temperament.

Tests also reveal whether two people are likely to work well together as business or scientific colleagues.

The biggest drawback of the new machine seems to be that it is very expensive. The two experts working on it hope eventually to develop something a lot smaller and more economical.

The general view seems to be that although the gadget may find out which people have compatible temperaments, it will not always take into account many important factors necessary for a sucessful marriage.

"Cupid has been doing pretty well for a long time," is a typical comment made by a social consultant, "and I doubt if any machine can do better!"

This Sounds Logical, Eh?

(Sherbrooke Record)

Americans apparently have a unique way to identify a Canadian by his speech.

Usually Canadians use the word "eh" all the time. We slip it into the conversation every two or three sentences.

"Nice morning, eh?" Got a new hat, eh?" "Go jump in the lake, eh."

It is possible that we use the word "eh" so often that the Newfoundlanders are said to use the word "boy" so often.

This may be our national catchword, eh?

It would suit our Canadian temperament, being a cautious, tentative and noncommittal sort. Even the man who talks "eh" on a sentence is merely asking a direct opinion before he goes ahead.

"Are you with me?" he wants to know.

Some Americans use the word "see" to excess, if we are not mistaken. "It's this way, see?" they declare. We should avoid too-sweeping generalizations. But it occurs to us that "see" is a typically American word, just as "eh" is typically Canadian.

Canadians ask you, Americans tell you.

Low Grade Ore Can Be Used

(Milwaukee Sunday Journal)

There was a day when the Mesabi range promised enough iron ore to keep American steel mills rolling forever. Experience in two wars hit that dream on the head, and the Mesabi's future started to look black, as the supplies of high grade ore began running out.

The dream then was to find out new supplies of ore like those once found — in Labrador and Venezuela and other places. These discoveries have been made in significant amounts, held great promise, too. But the men, looking far ahead, could see the day when high grade ore might run out even then.

In these periods of alternate optimism and pessimism over ore supplies, there has been constant work by experts to find a method to make use of lower grade ores — containing 25 to 30 per cent. iron, or less. Here is how it is done: Crush the low grade ore to inexhaustible amounts in the Mesabi and other ore areas. For more than four decades, geologists and steelmakers have talked about the possibility of separating iron rock in economical, sufficient supplies. The problem has been well known—beneficiating they call it—by pressing it into pellets, called taconite. But the cost seemed prohibitive.

In the last few years millions of dollars have been invested in beneficiating processes. Republic Steel and Armco Steel, for instance, put $190 million into a big beneficiating plant in Silver Bay, Minn. Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and other firms, joined in starting a $200 million plant at Forary, Minn. National Steel has an $18 million pilot plant.

The results of these investments are just ripening. The first load of beneficiated ore left the Silver Bay plant, bound for the mills. The plant is ready to turn out 3.75 million tons of taconite pellets a year — at a cost competitive with straight ore. The plant will be able to turn out about 7.5 million tons of ore when it gets into operation. In 25 more years, it is estimated that a billion dollars will be invested in beneficiating plants.

The Mesabi thus gets a new lease on life in the steel and geology experts' dream comes true. The giant maw of the steel industry—backbone of American industrial progress — is guaranteed sources of iron ore for years to come, so great that it is, of course, hard to squeeze all into the mind of a child in school attendance. Many things, before which in the past were considered of primary importance, are now put aside. There seems , to be very little attention paid to the three R's: reading and arithmetic. As for religion, it is looked on as a necessary evil, and the average school is concerned.

Wisdom is something very different from information, and quite unique. Courage is a requirement of modern life as much as it was of ancient. If our present-day educators have failed, it is because they have let them it has failed all along the line.

As to self-control, certainly there has not been a time when people needed it more than now. Freedom is not license, and license is evanescent and when license comes, character goes.

Plain Names Win Votes

(Financial Post)

Proud parents, searching for an appropriate name for their offspring, are frequently warned to avoid giving a boy a fancy name. The theory is that he will get more out of usual than Bill or Joe will handicap him in his career as he grows up, particularly if he goes into politics.

The Democratic Party in the United States is out to prove that this notion has no truth in it. If parents have been deterred from so doing by the fact that Eisenhower and Stevenson might as well concede the 1956 election, they can right now. At the moment, it seems probable that the Democrats will be led by a man named Adlai. If not it could be Estes or Averell. Republicans will better remember Harry Truman.

The Republicans haven't got a Bill, but they have a Jack, Tom and Dick. Richard Nixon seems to be heading for the Republican candidate; Thomas Dewey has two defeats in his past, so perhaps his name is against him.

Here in Canada, the "keep it simple" theory is a typical comment made by a social consultant, "and I doubt if any machine can do better!"

Personal Health Talks

By DR. W.M. BRADY

Food For The Heart and Arteries

The eminent specialists who have lately jumped into the newspapers and magazines as though the principles of medical ethics were null and void, planted in the popular mind the suspicion that such foods as butter, fat bacon, pork, liver, kidneys, egg yolk, whole cream and fats generally are bad for the arteries and heart because they contain considerable cholesterol.

Cholesterol is a normal constituent of most of the cells of the body, particularly the red blood corpuscles, the cells of the brain, matter of the brain, the ovaries and the suprarenal cortex (the part of the gland which produces adrenin and other hormones.

To the best of my knowledge, and I have followed the literature for years, it has not been scientifically proved nor clinically demonstrated that we attempt to exclude from the diet or restrict the quantity of intake of cholesterol in the diet has any effect on heart or arteries.

I have thought my heart and/or arteries were degenerating too fast I'd follow Cheyne's advice, and Cheyne's advice was how the brave Scots laddie who, at thirty, was getting fleshy, went out of training and weighed 448 pounds, but on a diet of milk and buttermilk he reduced to 150 pounds and lived to the age of seventy-two and wrote an essay on health and longevity.

Here's Cheyne's advice, which Dr. Osler considered "a volume of dietetic wisdom":

Every wise man, after Forty, ought to begin to lessen at least the quantity of his food. And if he would continue free from gout and distempers and nervous Senses and Faculties clear to the last he ought every seven years go on abating gradually and sensibly, and at last descend out of life as he ascended into it, even into the Child's diet." (The unfamiliar ailments mean food. Child's Diet means milk.)

Here perhaps we should mention that George Cheyne ate and drank excessively in the last decade of the 17th century and his reducing in the first two decades of the 18th century. So I haven't his present confidence.

The "Child's Diet," may I remind customers of the brick specialists and, "clinic" racketeers, is the richest food source of calcium.

Neither George Cheyne nor Doctor Osler nor any recognized medical man in the authority of our time has cautioned people about "too much" milk. But when the charlatan learns that any one is taking some form of calcium to supplement the refined [illegible] diet he utters a stereotyped [illegible] and says that "calcium deposits" in arteries, joints etc. His inanimate is the charlatan who builds the case of calcium the individual takes in hardly equivalent to the amount in one glass of milk daily, in Saturin or artificial feeding.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRAINING THE WHOLE MAN

The Greek writer Xenophon relates that the Persian princes had for their teachers the four best men of the kingdom. First, they had the wisest men to teach them wisdom. Second, the bravest men to teach them courage. Third, the most just to train the moral nature; and fourth, the most temperate to teach self-control.

These are ancient virtues but they are modern virtues also. Sometimes we wonder if our modern-day educators are aiming at all their curricula and methods. The body of human knowledge has become so great that it is, of course, hard to squeeze all into the mind of a child in school attendance. Many things, before which in the past, it past it, and are preparing to back into it when you see, in your mind's eye a bit of the world's [illegible] poised to sneak into the parking space head-first. But he can [illegible] until you get out of the [illegible] peer in the mirror, and as [illegible] is poised and waiting, you [illegible] bank manager, maybe, or a professor of systematic exegesis of some [illegible] but he has two kids in the car with him. You decide to [illegible] and back and slide on a courteous hand to wave an indication to that effect. But since you are a courteous man, an elderly lady and a dog are at the moment just [illegible] street in front of your car, you can't move instantly. You turn to smile your reassurance to the gentleman behind that he can after all, have the space.

And he does. He head out around the window of his car, the bank manager, the professor of systematic exegesis or something and snarls:

"Wah, cam ahn!"

It could well be that courtesy [illegible] not expected once we get where under us.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now how can you employ courtesy in motoring if nobody else knows what courtesy is?

Suppose you pull up at an intersection at exactly the same time as another driver. So, going across your bows. One of you as to proceed; and the rule of courtesy is wink, bow, and indicate in the most courtly fashion that he may proceed first.

What does he do? He proceeds with all the airs of a driver who has a smarter cookie than you! He doesn't smile back, much less incline himself in the mid-Victorian manners with a bow to you. No, he just puts his foot on the gas and jumps past you as if he had beaten you to the finishing post by a length. You are supposed to be going at your fullest speed, and he beats you.

You spy a parking spot along the shopping street. You run up to it, and are preparing [illegible] back into it when you see, in your mind's eye a bit of the world's [illegible] poised to sneak into the parking space head-first. But he can [illegible] until you get out of the [illegible] peer in the mirror, and as [illegible] is poised and waiting, you [illegible] bank manager, maybe, or a professor of systematic exegesis of some [illegible] but he has two kids in the car with him. You decide to [illegible] and back and slide on a courteous hand to wave an indication to that effect. But since you are a courteous man, an elderly lady and a dog are at the moment just [illegible] street in front of your car, you can't move instantly. You turn to smile your reassurance to the gentleman behind that he can after all, have the space.

And he does. He head out around the window of his car, the bank manager, the professor of systematic exegesis or something and snarls:

A CHRISTMAS STORY

The Coming of the King

by Norman Vincent Peale

The Birth of Jesus

IV — CALL HIM JESUS

The innkeeper who had told Joseph and Mary that there was no room in his inn watched Joseph turn away and sadly lead off the donkey on which Mary was riding. As they turned away, he noticed that Mary was soon to have a baby.

He was a tenderhearted man and a kind one. It had made him unhappy to turn them away. He stood and thought for a moment. Then he called after them to say that he was ashamed to offer it, but, if they could find no place else, there was a place in the stable, among the animals, where they could sleep.

Mary was really too tired to go farther and Joseph gratefully accepted the offer. And so they led their donkey into the stable and there they made up beds for themselves with the straw and the hay that was there for the cattle.

It was during that night and in a corner of that stable that Mary's baby was born. They wrapped him in swaddling clothes, in which all infants were protected in those days, and, because there was no other place to put him down, they laid him in a manger.

The kindly dumb animals came and peered at the babe who had been born so humbly amongst them. We don't know what they said to each other or, indeed, if they said anything at all.

And then Joseph remembered that, months before, he had had a son. The angel told him then to name that son Jesus.

So, now, he picked up the baby and placed him in his mother's arms. "We will call the child Jesus," he said.

Rental Rates for School Auditoriums Upped by Board

Rental rates for public school auditoriums were revised upwards by the Belleville Public School Board at their December meeting held this week.

Board members adopted the report of a special committee of James Ward, Don McKinney, George Olsen and Ray Poste appointed at the November meeting to consider revision of rates.

Changes adopted were:

1. Rate of usage for non-profit community service organizations changed from $1 per hour with a minimum of $3 to $1.50 per hour with a minimum of $5, with the rate advancing to $5 per hour or any part thereof after 10.30 in the evening.

2. Rate for political and election meetings, other than municipal, revised upwards from $10 per meeting to $15 with the additional charge of $5 per hour after 10.30.

3. Rate for non-commercial committees for money raising meetings, left at $10 but with an additional charge of $5 per hour after 10.30.

The ruling made at a previous meeting that schools could not be used other than from Monday to 6 p.m. Saturday without consideration at meetings of the board, was incorporated into the revisions.

School custodians will be increased from $1 per hour to $1.50 per hour for overtime work.

The resignation of Mrs. Barbara Campbell from the temporary teaching staff was accepted with the board approving the appointment of Mrs. Marjorie Tooth and Miss Iris Orr as teachers for the period from January to June 30.

Mrs. Greta Morden was reappointed to the Bay of Quinte District High School Board for the year 1956.

Board member Ray Poste reported the gift of loud speakers for the Queen Mary and Prince Charles Schools from the Home and School Association of these two schools. The board turned down a request from an Ottawa photographic studio for permission to take pictures in city schools.

Certificates of membership and service with the school board were presented to retiring member Ray Poste and to two other members, Carman Caverly and Chas. Hewson, who for business reasons had resigned from the board during the year. Earlier in the year the board had requested the board chairman Mac Smith and Superintendent L. A. Kells to secure the certificates for presentation to retiring members.

Attending the final meeting of the year were board chairman Mac Smith, Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett, Bruce Bishop, Lyle Langabeer, Don McKinney, George Olsen, Ray Poste, Morley Lovelace, James Ritchie, Fred T. Symons, Gordon H. Trill, William A. VanTassell and James Ward.

Student Owes Life to Alert Grocery Traveller

TRENTON (Special) — A Trenton high school student owes his life to an alert grocery traveller from Belleville.

Salesman Jack Willshire, of Belleville, was making a regular call at Deduke's grocery on Front St. when he saw a youth, who was walking on the ice on the Trent River drop from sight. He ran to the river's edge and by stretching himself on the ice managed to reach Gordon Webb 14, who was having difficulty holding himself above water on the side of the hole.

Willshire was helped in the rescue by Robert Matthews, R.R. 2, Harold, a customer in the store when the traveller noticed the youth's plight.

Young Webb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Webb, 284 Front St., Trenton. He and other students at the high school have been warned by police not to cross the river until the ice is perfectly safe.

SUFFERED BRUISES

Alex Morog, 21, of 88 Dundas St. E., suffered bruises on the forehead and concussion this morning when the car he was driving along Dixon Dr. went out of control and rolled over several times before coming to a stop upright on its wheels 115 feet from the point where the vehicle left the road.

The car ran up the side of a pile of earth being used for repairs to the shoulder of the road and tipped over. Its momentum caused it to roll over several times before stopping in an upright position.

Damage to the car was estimated at $700.

Sgt. Gordon Steenburg of the Trenton Police, investigated.

St. Julien IODE Receives New Members

The December meeting of St Julien Chapter IODE, was held in the chapter rooms with a delightful pot-luck supper preceding the meeting. The business meeting was short to enable the members to enjoy a social evening.

The regent, Mrs. L. B. Fenger, opened the meeting with prayer of the order and the presentation of the standard. Three new members, who were received in the chapter, were Mrs. Ed. Bonisteel, Mrs. G. C. Clapp and Mrs. G. Marchand.

The provincial chapter of the IODE, has been called on for a great amount of assistance to students from the Lucy Morrison Memorial Fund and in order to help them meet this need a further allotment of $75 was voted to this fund. It was decided to supply a new radio to the chapter's adopted school and also candy for its Christmas party.

A picture of Sir Winston Churchill will be presented to the Sir Winston Churchill school along with pictures of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The presentation will be made in February when a film, "Churchill, Man of the Century" will be shown.

Wool and flannelette were given out to members to do knitting and sewing for the IODE.

After the close of the meeting, bridge and euchre were played. Mrs. G. C. Clapp was the winner of high prize in bridge and Mrs. H. Darval, high prize for euchre.

Holiday wishes were extended to all by the regent.

LOUD SPEAKERS PRESENTED

Mrs. F. A. Beeby presented the two out-door loud speakers to the public school board, Mr. R. Poste representing the public school board, then presented them to the two school principals, Mr. Bateman and Mr. Frink.

The winners of the banner call were: Queen Mary, junior—Miss M. Peck; Queen Mary, senior—Mr. Moorcroft; Prince Charles: junior— Miss Hillis afternoon class; Prince Charles senior—Mr. Bateman.

Following is the Christmas program announced by Terry Sillsbury: grade 7 pupils of Queen Mary school sang "Holy Night" and "Mary's Lullaby"; recitations —"Santa Claus and the House" by Jill Lafferty; "Little Tom Doubt" by Donald Pugh; "Practising Time", by Roberta McDonald; duet by Barbara Gagon and Jacqueline Semark, entitled "The Bible Tells Me So," followed by an encore "White Christmas", clarinet solo by Peter Regensburg, "Merry Widow Waltz."

SONG-DANCE NUMBERS

The Barbara Diment School of Dancing presented a group of song and dance numbers: "Tap Dance, Judith McKnight; "Tap Dance", Iris Lohnes; "Ballet Dance," Gail Hendericks; song and dance, Sheila Canning; "Rhythm in Nursery Rhymes" "Acrobatics," Iris Lohnes; "Group Dance," Brenda Archer, Doreen Luck, Gail Hendericks, Donna Turner, and Barbara Diment; "Scotch Number," Helen Addy; "Song and Dance", Sheila Canning "My One and Only Highland Fling."

Guitar selections, by Robert Chappell, "Drifting and Dreaming" and "Silent Night, Holy Night."

A humorous skit entitled "The Right and Wrong Way to Telephone a Member," with Mrs. J. W. Hodgson doing the right way and Mrs. G. Digby doing the wrong way.

Archdeacon the Venerable J. B. Creeggan of Christ church, addressed the gathering and reminded them to remember the true meaning of Christmas and to read to their children the inspiring story of the birth of the Christ Child on Christmas Day, as that amidst all the excitement of gifts, they would remember it is the birthday of that wonderful Babe who came to save the world. This concluded the program.

Mr. M. J. McClelland extended a vote of thanks, on behalf of the association, to all those taking part in the program and a special vote of thanks to Archdescon Creeggan for the privilege of having him at the meeting.

Tea, Christmas cookies, ice cream were then served by Mrs. Woodley and her social committee.

In January both schools will hold "Open House".

Yuletide Party Held by Lodge

The Christmas meeting of the White Shrine of Jerusalem No. 11 was held on Wednesday evening in the I.O.O.F. hall with the W.H.P., Emily Sievens, presiding.

The ceremonial was beautifully exemplified.

Following the business, the members retired to the upper hall for the Yuletide party. The hall itself was a picture with the large evergreen tree flanked on one side by a lighted manger scene and on the other by Santa and his reindeers.

The table in the centre of the hall with its silver and crystal, red and green candles and a large decorated centrepiece added the final touch. All the decorating was the work of Sojourner Kay Bushell and her committee, Sojourners Cathcart, Mott, Chapman, Niblock, bringing expressions of pleasure from all the members.

After carol singing, Mrs. Fred Furmidge of Corbyville, sang two Christmas songs accompanying herself on the auto-harp.

Santa Claus (WOS Tom Lloyd) then arrived amid jingling bells and distributed the gifts which the member had brought. Following refreshments the members left for home feeling sure that the snow had been especially sent to let Santa Claus attend their happy party.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

GET BUSY WHILE YOU'RE WAITING!

Beatrice Fairfax:

I am in a situation which I believe is common to every girl at one time in her life. It involves disrespect and pride.

Three years ago, I was dating a young man who asked me to marry him. At the time, I considered myself not ready for marriage and refused him. I still think I was right in saying No, for during the years since I have developed a better concept of marriage which would help me make a better wife.

Right now with this man whom I love again. We have been dating off and on, but nothing serious. Just recently, I went out with him again. We talked very seriously about why we had broken up. He spoke about getting married. Before he left me, he said he would call during the week. But I received a card a week from him instead and I just can't understand why he would do such a thing. He is usually very sincere.

I realize that whatever happened between us before was entirely my fault. I believed I had done the right thing, then, to say No.

Can you please advise me what I should do in such a situation?—Miss R.S.

Actually, I don't believe there is anything of a very concrete nature that you can do to indicate to this young man that you're ready, now, to take up where you left off before.

If, as you say, he did speak of marriage, implying that he had the idea definitely in mind, then of course he is the one who should be making the next move, not you. I assume that you didn't encourage him, but let it be known in a nice way that you were receptive to it now that it's now up to him.

Perhaps the reason you haven't heard from him is because he's trying to do a little thinking before taking any further steps. And he'll have to realize, of course, that he may be somewhat unsure of himself about what he really wants to do.

But there's one thing of which you can be pretty certain, and that is, if he's really interested in you and sincerely wants you to be interested in him, he'll eventually let you know it. There are very few young men indeed who are too shy to show their hand when they're ready to do so, so don't be afraid that this one won't give you the cue. If he doesn't, then you'll just have to understand that he's decided against it.

What you should do at this juncture is fill your life so full of interests that, if the young man does turn up again, he'll find you such a lively, happy, vital young woman as to be practically irresistible. When he thinks of you, he'll think of a joyous, fascinating companion who would bring sunshine into his life and make home an alluring place for a husband to come to.

So don't for goodness sake, allow yourself to give him the impression that you're sitting around waiting for him to make up his mind. No man is attracted by an attitude like that. What every man wants is to feel that a girl has so much in her life already that if he doesn't hurry up, he'll run the risk of being crowded out.

And if it should happen that this particular young man doesn't come back, you'll still be ahead of the game—first, because you'll have other things on your mind than him, so you won't be left out on a limb with this one hope gone, and second because some other young man is certain to be attracted to the kind of girl you've become.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

My problem is not cooking . . . we are lining up our basement—2 bedrooms. . . asked lumberyard man here who said to use stone board . . it is heavy plaster paris between paper. We have one room done and the noise is terrible. . . . when the electrician came I asked him about it. He laughed and said you live to learn. That stoneboard will have the same effect as a big drum and magnify the noise instead of stopping it. . . we didn't know. . . we are not going to do the other room till we can find out what will stop noise . . . will you please tell me what to use so the noise won't go down . . . we are paying cash.—Mrs. W. H. A.

ANSWER:

I know you will forgive me for the chuckle I had after reading this letter. . . I'm certainly no building expert. I talked to a friend who is a construction company's estimator. He said to use acoustic tiles on the ceiling. They would absorb a lot of the noise. The cheaper ones are 8¢ to 37 cents per square foot. Use wallboard for the other room. One consolation is your stone board is fireproof and insulation. A layer of wallboard in front of it would absorb noise, but would be additional expense.

THANK-YOU NOTE:

Thank you to Mrs. S. DeD., Miss D. C., Anne J., M. D., Mrs Sam. O., and Mrs. E. R. B. for their letters containing recipes for

POTATO CAKES:

(Which one of our readers was seeking.)

I am giving you the one sent in by M.D., because it adds an economical variation: Four large potatoes, well drained, peeled and mashed or put through ricer. Add 1-3 cup hot milk and 2 tablespoons butter. Beat until light and smooth. Stir in 1-3 cup sifted all-purpose flour or perhaps a little more to make mixture thick as biscuit dough. Turn out on floured board, roll, then shape into 3-inch circles or squares. Bake on greased cookie sheet in oven or on hot griddle. As a special treat for luncheon I make these and use leftover cooked meat: Remove gristle and fat from meat and put through food chopper, fine cut. Season with salt and pepper, add a little left over gravy or if not available, water, enough to keep meat together. Spread on top of one potato cake, place another potato cake on top and crimp to seal edges together. Brush top with milk and bake. This, with a green salad and tall glasses of milk makes a nourishing meal.—Mary D.

The only Potato Cake recipe that varied much from the above was one from Mrs. E. B. 2 cups cold mashed potatoes, 2-4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup shortening. Make like pastry, brush with milk, bake at 400 deg. Fahr.

Thank you everybody.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

FOUNDATIONS NOW CO-ORDINATE WITH FASHION

Special care is necessary in choosing the right foundation for the new Empire silhouette.

The word "coordinated" seems to be used more and more frequently when it comes to subjects like beauty and fashion and that, perhaps, is as it should be. For what avail a stunning outfit if your make-up is not quite in key, and what price the lovely complexion and coiffure if the shade of your frock detracts from your natural coloring?

To look her very best always, a woman should be well put together in every aspect. And that even includes her foundation—especially now, with slim lines at peak popularity. You can't possibly wear a sheath, for instance, without a corselet or a bra and girdle; nor can you look chic in a semi-fitted suit if your undergarments do not contribute to the necessary smooth line.

It is fairly obvious, also, that one foundation or one girdle-and-bra combination cannot possibly do the same thing, fashionably speaking, for every suit and dress in your wardrobe. Different types of control are needed for leisure wear, for casual and for figure-revealing cocktail and evening gowns. To help you select the foundation which is best for each type of outfit, we consulted the fashion department of the Corset and Brassiere Council, who gave us the following tips for perfect figure control:

With the high-waisted Empire silhouette, calling for a band, ribbon or seam under the bustline (and which seems destined for a brand new vogue within a month or so) you will need—depending on your dress size—either a bandeau with rounded uplift and a girdle with high top to mould a smooth middle; or a corselet, slimming from bust to thigh.

If one of your favorite outfits is a loose, but shaped, jacket worn over a slim dress, you'll need a long line bra and a waist-high girdle with firm hold over the hips; if the figure is youthful and slender, you can wear a bandeau and waistline girdle.

For the bloused-back sheath, you can also wear a long line bra with a firm girdle, or a corselet. The bloused-back dress usually has straight front, so all-over figure control is essential.

For a full-skirted dress, with inverted box pleats, plus a simulated bolero, you'll want a bra-slip that fits snug to the hipline and, for a sheath which has attached panels and a pseudo-bolero, your best bet is a corselet or a strap bra and a long-legged panlie girdle.

Frocks which feature balloon, puffed or lantern - shaped sleeves focus attention at the shoulders and bustline, so you'll need a bra with centrefills or wide - apart straps which suit every neckline. Cups may be softly rounded cups for a completely feminine look.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son, who is with the Army in Germany, is marrying a German girl. There will be a civil ceremony (required) and two weeks later a church ceremony (not required) in the town where her parents live. We want to send a cable of congratulations or best wishes. What is the proper time to send it? To whom should it be addressed? And would you please suggest an appropriate wording? — E.G.

If you are planning to send only one cable of congratulations, I suggest that you send it to arrive as near as possible after the hour you are advised will be the hour of the civil ceremony. (For cable information consult your local telegraph office.) If you explain the approximate hour you wish your cable to arrive, they will advise the approximate hour you should send it.) Since it is to arrive after the ceremony-hour, you should address it to Mr. and Mrs. John Graham. And it might be worded somewhat like this: "Dear Bride and Bridegroom, dearest love to you both on this great day, loving welcome to our new daughter, Elsa, and all here are wishing you two dear ones there all happiness always."

After the civil ceremony, when your cable has been received you will probably have word about the ceremony and your cable, and about the date of the church ceremony. Then you might send a loving cable about this, if you wish, or write "a letter of dearest wishes" to arrive after the church ceremony.

Naturally you have written, or will write, to your son's fiancee and to her mother and father, that an important welcoming-letter. And naturally you would want to write your son's bride, as soon as possible after the ceremonies.

INVITATIONS TO ONLY FEW CO-WORKERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married soon, and would like your advice about invitations. For a short time I have been working in an office where twenty are employed. Would it be necessary for me to invite this entire force of twenty, or would it be proper to invite only the few with whom I have become better acquainted? A Reader

Since you have worked in this office for such a short time, it would, I think, be in better taste for you to invite only the few co-workers whom you know best. The others, whom you have known for such a short time and so casually, will, I am sure, think this is the appropriate thing for you to do.

RETURN THAT ENGAGEMENT RING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If the man breaks the engagement to the girl, giving as his reason simply that he is no longer in love with her, is it really necessary in this case for the girl to return the diamond engagement ring to him? — Diane

If she is a right-thinking girl, a girl with any pride at all, any self-respect, she would return that engagement ring as soon as she possibly can. After all, that ring was a pledge of the engagement, and since the engagement no longer exists, the pledge of that engagement should be returned. It would indeed seem strange for a man even to consider not returning the ring in this case, when the ring was given by the ex-fiance would be a most compelling reason for her to cast from her life anything that stands for that engagement.

Prayer Is A private Matter

By ROY L. SMITH

Each one of the four Gospels in the New Testament has its own peculiar interests and emphases, and in the Gospel of Luke we find more mentions of the prayer life of Jesus than in any other. Again and again it is said that the Master went off into the hills, or to some quiet place where he could pray confidentially.

PERSON TO PERSON

The first of the great basic beliefs of the religious man is this—that God is a person. It is not that he is merely an impersonal principle, a mass of "natural law," or a blind creative force. Rather it is that he is a moral being, a divine personality with judgment, will, and intelligence.

That which distinguishes a man from all other creatures is his personality. There are those who say that he is an animal "like all the other animals." And it is true, of course, that he lives in a physical body and is subject to physical impulses and desires. But the important thing to note is that man is the only animal in the world that seems to be aware of the fact that he is an animal. By this we mean that he is a person.

It would be inevitable, therefore, that a person would undertake to communicate with another person. Among all the races of men there is no other trait more common than this — that men everywhere try to pray. They have a hope that they can make "whatever gods there be" hear them.

INSIDE THE SOUL

There are those natural and splendid human acts and experiences which can only occur in the midst of crowds. There are those expressions of personality which require the presence of other persons. But every man's prayer life is his own. It is something he can practise inside the citadel of his own soul. As a white haired old preacher once said to a police chief who was trying to intimidate him, "My soul belongs to God. You cannot interfere with that."

The church can train a man to think correctly about doctrines, and it may undertake to teach him valuable techniques of prayer. But in the last analysis, every man's prayer is his own. He is free to present any petition at the altar of the Almighty that may suit his pleasure or judgment. And it is inside his own soul that he comes to terms with the Most High.

HAS ITS ADVANTAGES

There is a very great danger that we shall assume that we are confined to certain fixed forms of expression when we pray. There is such a temptation to echo the prayer we heard the preacher offer from the pulpit last Sunday. It is as though there were some magic in phrases, and formal forms of petitions.

To try to pray thus is to miss the great meaning and value of prayer. God is not interested in our diction nearly as much as he is in our direction. He is not disturbed when we use the wrong words or make mistakes in grammar. His chief concern is for the things for which we pray, and the mistakes we make in spirit.

Of one thing we can be very sure. God will never make sport of us if we appear to be awkward. He has a strange way of understanding what we mean even when we do not express it well or accurately. He can be depended upon to listen respectfully, even when He is dealing with an ignorant or a stupid person. No prayer has ever sounded silly to Him if it had any of the quality of sincerity in it.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for December 18: "Jesus, Man of Prayer," Luke 3:21-22; 4:42; 5:16; 6:12; 9:18, 36-39; 10:21-22; 11:1-13.

WHAT WOULD IT TAKE TO TRIPLE HOG PROFITS ON THE AVERAGE FARM??

Pictures show that many hog raisers get only about six pigs per liter away to market, on the average. Five pigs pay for the cost of feed, equipment and labor. Seven pigs per liter mean a big profit. Feed the Purina Program with the good condition sows get from Purina Sow & Pig Chow, many hog raisers wean nine to eleven pigs per litter. Even with nine pigs on Purina concentrated with six on the ration, the sow is in good shape. You're not getting results like that, come in and see us right away. You can begin building condition on your brood sows with Micro-Mixed Sow & Pig Chow. Then, after farrowing, keep sows producing lots of big pigs. And lots of milk for them.

Aged Widow Tells Of Being Shot Night Son Slain

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An 84-year-old widow, her neck swathed in bandages, told from her hospital bed Thursday of being shot the night her son was slain on their farm 25 miles west of here.

Mrs. Henry Mullins, listed as in serious condition from a bullet wound in her neck, was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Edward Waucaush, 39-year-old treaty Indian charged with murder in connection with the Dec. 4 slaying of her son, Daniel.

The court moved into the hospital when doctors said they thought Mrs. Mullins would be able to answer questions. Waucaush had been remanded to Dec. 20, but the adjournment was set back after doctors said Mrs. Mullins could be questioned.

She said she was watching television while her son was feeding his pigs when she "felt something hurt" in her neck.

"I was hurt, I knew that. I went to the back door and called for Daniel. I called three times, but he didn't come."

She tried to telephone for help but could not raise the operator. Then she fainted.

Regaining consciousness the next morning, she staggered 200 yards to a neighbor, Mrs. Gwen Dunn, for help. Mrs. Dunn ran to the Mullins' farm and found the 59-year-old farmer's body, badly mutilated, lying in the pig-pen.

Police said later Mullins had been shot once at close range with a .22-calibre rifle. They also said the telephone wires had apparently been cut.

Waucaush, six-feet, three inches tall, stood silently listening to Mrs. Mullins' hospital-bed testimony. He was handcuffed to a provincial police constable. He was arrested after 50 policemen, armed with shotguns, rifles and tear-gas bombs combed the Muncey Indian reserve near the Mullins' farm.

U.S. Surplus Foods Threaten To Undermine Price Structure of World Markets for Products

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — This is the story behind the bulging stockpiles of surplus foods being held by the United States government, surpluses that threaten to undermine the price structure of world markets for agricultural products.

Largely, it is a tale of too much of plenty, of an urge by American farmers to produce more and more food to cash in on government subsidies and price supports, a drive that has reached the point where U.S. farms are producing more than the country can use or export.

For the last 35 years, the farmer has been trying, in effect, to make two ears of corn grow where only one grew before. He has succeeded, with such brilliant success that the government now finds itself facing a towering $7,745,000,000 worth of surpluses and paying out approximately $1,000,000 a day in storage costs alone.

PROVE COSTLY

Put into bushels, pounds and bales, the commodities assume these astronomical proportions: wheat, 1,104,110,591 bushels; corn, 861,139,199 bushels; cheese 362,432,936 pounds; butter, 211,430,174 pounds; dried milk, 222,199,331 pounds; cotton, 9,688,930 bales; tobacco, 1,009,099,043 pounds; rice, 15,585,207 hundredweight; barley, 44,350,239 bushels; oats, 43,337,885 bushels; grain sorghums, 34,470,667 hundredweight; wool, 149,488,471 pounds.

The surpluses have proved costly to the farmer as well as to the government. They are a major factor in a sharp decline in farm prices and farm income. Government experts estimate 1955 farm prices are down 25 per cent and farm income down 34 per cent from their all-time peaks in 1951.

OUTWIT GOVERNMENT

The country's cultivate acreage still is about what it was in 1920. But, with hybrid seed, improved cultivation methods and extensive use of fertilizer, productivity per acre has climbed. From 1930 to 1955, the acreage yield of 28 crops —18 field and 10 fruit — jumped more than 60 per cent.

Price supports were started in the 1930s as a means of insuring the farmer against disastrous price declines following upon bumper crops. For this insurance, the farmer would agree to acreage controls to cut down production. But, as the support programs continued and expanded, the farmer found ways to outwit the government by growing more on the reduced acreage.

The original support program was tied in tightly with the price and supply situation. Supports came into operation only when prices fell sharply and supplies exceeded demand. They were low and flexible, ranging from 52 to 75 per cent of so-called parity—a formula aimed at giving the farmer a fair return in relation to such costs as taxes, mortgage interest, machinery, farm help and other items.

To discourage planting, the supports went down as the surpluses went up. To get the support, the farmer had to abide by acreage controls.

This year, Congress adopted a new farm bill introduced by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson and provided for supports of 82.5 to 90 per cent for 1955 and 75 to 90 per cent for 1956.

To cut production, Benson imposed sharp acreage restrictions on wheat and cotton. But the weather outmatched him on wheat and the country produced another big crop. On cotton, the farmers brought their native ingenuity into play: they simply planted the cotton rows closer together, with the result the cotton harvest was almost 1,000,000 bales higher than the government had hoped.

Benson, blamed by the farm population for their declining income, claims his program of flexible supports will gradually reduce surpluses, bring supply and demand into balance and halt the price decline. Meantime, by give-away, barter, auction and sale for local currencies, he is trying to unload the surplus products on world markets.

Drew Critical Of Butter Sale By Government

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. George Drew, national Progressive Conservative leader, said Thursday a New Zealand protest over sale of Canadian butter to eastern Europe "emphasized how unsatisfactory the government's handling of the whole butter situation really is."

New Zealand protested that such action might injure its own dairy trade.

Canada has shipped almost 7,000,000 pounds this year, 300,000 to Communist Czechoslovakia and about 6,300,000 to Communist East Germany. The price was about 37 cents a pound, 21 cents below the federal support price. It involved a loss to the federal treasury of about 24 cents a pound, including handling charges.

It appears that the protests of New Zealand may be politely ignored. Neither Canadian nor New Zealand officials wanted to discuss the protests.

Mr. Drew said:

"The government has been complaining about the U.S. food give-away program, but it is clear that in selling our butter to Communist governments at more than 20 cents a pound less than the Canadian taxpayers paid for it, we are doing something of this same kind in the eyes of the friendly government of New Zealand.

"If Canadian butter is going to be sold far below the price Canadians paid for it, then Canadians should have the advantage of that price instead of Communist governments in eastern Germany or elsewhere.

"The protest of the New Zealand government illustrates how weak our position is in criticizing the government of the U.S. and how urgently important it is that the Canadian government come to some understanding with the government of the U.S. in regard to the orderly marketing of our surplus foodstuffs."

Two of Quints Still Patients

MONTREAL (CP)—Marie and Annette Dionne, two of the famous quintuplets, are still in Notre Dame de l'Esperance Hospital here and are expected to stay on for another day or two.

Dr. G. Cousineau, the hospital's medical director, said Thursday night the girls are still visiting their sisters, Yvonne and Cecile, who are student nurses there.

Dr. Raymond Lecours, who gave them medical check-ups recently, said the girls are expected to stay "maybe a few days." It is expected they will spend Christmas with their parents at Callander, Ont.

Both visiting quints checked in at the hospital last month for routine examination, which showed nothing seriously wrong.

Athletic Body Amends Rules To Outlaw Guild

NEW YORK (CP) — The state athletic commission Thursday officially approved rules governing the Boxing Guild of New York. The commission said support of its action already had come from officials in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Chairman Julius Helfand in announcing Monday that the commission was meeting, said that any licensee in the state who did not sever his connection with the Guild by Jan. 15 would have his license suspended or revoked. In effect, this banned the Guild.

"Although it's early we already have received fine response from commission chairman Jim Crowley of Pennsylvania and J. Marshall Boone of Maryland," said Helfand Thursday. "Crowley indicated he was in complete accord and said he intended to follow suit before the full commission on Jan. 15."

IBG AFFILIATE

The Boxing Guild of New York is an affiliate of the International Boxing Guild. The IBG has local chapters in cities coast to coast.

Boone is chairman of the Maryland state athletic commission, which has a working agreement with New York, and also is chairman of the legislative committee of the National Boxing Association.

"All states that have signed agreements with the New York state athletic commission must stand up and be counted," Boone wired Helfand and Commissioner Robert Christenberry.

OHA to Probe Referee Clinic At Fort Erie

FORT ERIE (CP)—An official of Fort Erie Speers Oilers said Thursday night Bill Hanley, business manager of the Ontario Hockey Association, had promised a "full investigation" of Tuesday night's referee school.

Manager Bill Zimmerman said Hanley told him in a telephone conversation the OHA never holds a referees' clinic unless the teams are notified in advance.

OHA referee-in-chief Pat Patterson of Toronto took 12 referees to the OHA senior B game Tuesday between Fort Erie and Welland-Crowland Combines. Seven men in shifts refereed the game, which was marked by 66 minutes in penalties and fights on and off the ice. Combines won 5-4.

Hanley is reported to have told Zimmerman the schools are held in junior B or games of lower classification and exhibition contests.

Will Submit Proposals To Club Owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick promised the major league player representatives and their attorney Thursday that their proposals will be submitted to the club owners for reconsideration at the magnates' joint meeting here Feb. 8.

In a two-hour session with players Robbi Roberts of the National League and Bob Feller of the American, who were accompanied by their attorney, J. Norman Lewis Frick listened to their complaints, clarified the owners' position, and agreed to place their demands on the agenda.

The three had requested a meeting with Frick after the 18 major league players' representatives Wednesday voted unanimously not to accept the owners' rejection of certain proposals made by the players. One of these was a request that the minimum salary be raised from $6,000 to $7,200.

The weatherman promised snowflurries and cold or mild weather throughout the ski areas.

Saskys' Lunn Voted Western Rookie of Year

REGINA (CP) — Backfielder Harry Lunn of the Saskatchewan Roughriders has been voted rookie of the year in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

R. H. Gillies of Regina, WIFU secretary-treasurer, announced today that the 21-year-old Lunn led the balloting by sports writers and a carry.

sportscasters in the five league centres by a narrow margin over fullback Joe Yamauchi of Calgary Stampeders and quarterback Don Getty of Edmonton Eskimos.

Lunn received 32 points against 31 for both Yamauchi and Getty. Lunn, who came to Riders from intermediate ranks in Hamilton led the league in total yards in rushes of kickoffs and punts. He also topped the averaged number of kickoffs and finished second average yardage of punts.

Described by coach Frank Clair as "one of the most promising young runners I have ever seen," Lunn carried the ball from scrimmage 36 times for a net gain of 175 and an average of 6.3 yards a carry.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

SALUTE TO NAPANEE

The editors of the Post Express and the Beaver, Napanee's weekly newspapers, can well hang their front page "streamers" in frames for posterity. It isn't likely they will be duplicated in any Canadian community for some time.

The Post Express carried: "It's Debt Free." The Beaver bannered: "Arena Will Open Debt-Free."

Behind those eight headline words lies a heart-warming story of solid community spirit. And the good folk of Napanee and its immediate environs can bow low and take the accolade for a job well and truly done.

Simply, the story is this. In a little under two years, these community-minded people raised $157,575.66 by public subscription to pay for the cost of a brand new Community Centre which includes an artificial ice-making plant.

There was no long-winded discussions regarding the red-tape of finances. No town debentures were issued. No money was obtained by loan. The fund was voluntarily subscribed, much of it by pay deductions on a weekly basis. It is a financing project believed unique in Canada.

The new Community Centre will be formally opened on Saturday night with ceremonies that will mark one of the biggest milestones along Napanee's march of progress.

Two years ago, the average Napanee citizen might have said "it couldn't be done." He would a lot of the rest of us. Napanee has proved that it could be done—that solid shoulder-to-the-wheel effort can accomplish practically anything.

None of the large crowd that witnessed the torchlight parade held in February 1954 that opened the campaign for funds, foresaw that less than 24 months later, the job would be wrapped up and ready for opening before Christmas.

The campaign was given a big boost in April of 1954 when the Ontario Agricultural Board approved the sale of the proposed centre to the town. Later Bruce McPherson was named committee chairman.

Then things started to roll. The will to work and raise funds reached an epidemic status. It reached out and took in the good folk of the immediate districts.

As the Beaver writer stated: "The months that followed included many stories of sacrifice and work, many of them by quiet, unassuming persons whose names may never be mentioned in connection with the arena. They gave money, served on committees, organized events to raise money and contributed labor and material to the building."

The people buckled down to the business at hand. On June 7, 1954, the drive for funds by voluntary subscription opened. It closed some five weeks later, or on July 12, to be exact. In the campaign exchequer rested $80,000. Of this amount over $20,000 was raised in the first two days.

The county campaign was opened in the fall of 1954 and a final drive started in March of this year. Again terrific solicitive effort was exerted, and by the end of the month the campaign went over the top and the construction contract signed on April 1.

Then disaster struck these good people squarely in the face. The walls of the centre had been erected when the tail-end of a hurricane struck, levelling the construction to the ground—or nearly so. Nothing daunted Napanee squared its shoulders and the building was started again.

Then came the artificial ice-making plant. It was felt the centre would not be complete without one. It would not only facilitate hockey activities but provide skating for the population with no dependence on a fickle weather man.

Again with the issue facing them squarely, the people of Napanee rose to the occasion. They had raised $112,000 for the centre. They needed $25,000 for the ice plant. There was only one way to obtain it. And they went out and did it that way. Hence those proud headlines with the "Debt-Free" motif.

These people will fill their new community edifice to overflowing Saturday night. Cheers will swell with pride of achievement. And rightly so for it is one of their finest hours—one of hard-earned triumph. Their new building stands and will stand as a lasting monument in the unselfish community spirit it represents. It is a symbol of success of, the finest get-together effort recorded in this district for years. It is a lesson to sister communities, and that includes Belleville, in whole-hearted support of worthy projects that go for the betterment of a community—and its residents as a whole.

HEART-WARMING

One of the more heartwarming presentations at the Firemen's banquet last night was that of $100 donated to the "smoke-eaters" Yuletide efforts for underprivileged kiddies of the city. The presentation, made by past-president George Foster and treasurer Larry Biron, was the third such annual gift of the Canadian National Railways Athletic Association for this purpose. A grand gesture from a fine bunch of sportsmen. And speaking of kiddies, the crippled kiddie proteges of the Shrine Club are in for a swell weekend. Tonight the fezzed boys hold a turkey scramble with over 100 choice birds ready for the table. Tomorrow afternoon the annual Christmas party is being held at the Shrine Club where the less fortunate youngsters will enjoy topflight entertainment, Santa Claus, and handsome gifts for all. God bless 'em.

Lightburn Favored To Beat Dupas

NEW YORK (AP) — Ludwig Lightburn, an invader from British Honduras and a recent graduate of the prelim ranks, is a surprising 13-to-10 favorite to beat lightweight contender Ralph Dupas of New Orleans at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The odds are strange because and fast hands, Dupas, at 20 a seasoned veteran of more than five years of pro battling, figures to have too much experience for the promising 21-year-old Lightburn.

The fleet-footed, clever Dupas has been a ranking fighter for several years. His over-all record is 37-5-5 with 19 knockouts.

Lightburn has come up fast this year. He has won four straight. Ludwig's record all told is 33-6 with 13 knockouts.

Ludwig, who resembles Ray Robinson, also has a style similar to Sugar Ray's. He has a fine jab

Detroit Power Line Reunited In 4-0 Victory Over Toronto; Old Pro Fires Boston Bruins

By The Canadian Press

Eighteen months out of hockey didn't seem to bother old pro John Peirson.

The former National Hockey League star came out of retirement Thursday night for a chance to help the surging Bruins. It may have been one of the nicest things in years to happen to Bruins.

Peirson, one of the top Boston scorers in the post-war era before his retirement at the end of the 1953-54 season, scored one goal and assisted on another as the Bruins whipped Chicago Black Hawks 4-1. He also gave the Beaconsmers the old zip they had when he was enjoying a six-season stay with them.

In other games, the league-leading Montreal Canadiens maintained their unbeaten streak with a 2-0 shutout over the sinking New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings rolled over Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0.

INTO FIFTH PLACE

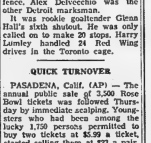
The win pulled Boston into fifth place in the league standings with 28 points. Toronto dropped to the cellar, a point behind Chicago. The Habs stretched their lead to 10 points over second place Rangers who have 33 points. Detroit, in third position, are six behind Rangers with 27 and Boston has 28.

The smallest Boston Garden crowd of the season—5,569 fans—cheered wildly as Peirson gave Bruins a 3-0 lead midway through the second period. Vic Stasiuk was playing a man short. Other Boston marksman was Fleming Mackell who set up Peirson's goal.

Canadiens, who now have won their last seven starts and haven't lost in nine games continued their mastery over the New Yorkers on Montreal Forum ice. Rangers have managed to win only one game at Montreal in six starts.

The shutout was goaltender Jacques Plante's sixth of the campaign. Rookie Henri Richard scored what proved to be the winning goal just after the halfway mark of the second period on passes from brother Maurice and Dickie Moore. Bert Olmstead got the insurance goal into an empty New York net with 20 seconds of play remaining in the game. Floyd Curry and Moore drew assists.

Plante made a total of 20 saves and kept most of the 13,328 fans cheering in the final period when he stopped 11 Ranger drives, most of them difficult to handle. Lorne Worsley had 33 shots fired at him in the New York net.



Marty Pavelich, a 15-goal scorer with Detroit last season, counted his first marker of this term and the first of the game at Detroit, before a small gathering of 8,829 persons. Pavelich's goal occurred while the Wings were playing a man short at 4:25 of the middle period.

Earl Reibel scored a pair of goals after the old production line of Ted Lindsay, Gord Howe and Reibel was reunited following an injury to defenceman Bucky Hollingworth. Red Kelly, who had taken over Lindsay's place on the production line, reverted back to defence. Alex Delvecchio was the other Detroit marksman.

It was rookie goaltender Glenn Hall's sixth shutout. He was only called on to make 20 stops. Harry Lumley handled 24 Red Wing drives in the Toronto cage.

QUICK TURNOVER

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The annual public sale of 2,500 Rose Bowl tickets was followed Thursday by immediate scalping. Youngsters who had been among the lucky 1,750 persons permitted to buy two tickets at $5.50 a ticket, started selling them at $23 a pair.

"What this game needs is a penalty box for some of the spectators!"

Gary Glick Won't Sign At Present Time

TORONTO (CP) — Gary Glick, star halfback of Colorado A and M, arrived by plane here early today to talk contract terms with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union.

The much-sought-after Glick, met by team officials and newspaper men at nearby Malton airport, said in an interview that he has no intention of signing a contract with Argonauts, or any other team, at this time.

Glick, 25-year-old half picked by Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League two weeks ago in their bonus choice in the United States college draft, was accompanied on the flight by his wife, Colleen.

Argonauts, reported to have offered Glick $12,000 for the 1956 season, footed the bill for the trip. Glick said he would probably be in Toronto until Sunday, when he will return to Colorado.

BID AGAINST ARGOS

The Steelers and Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western International Football Union will be bidding against Argonauts for Glick's services.

"Pittsburgh made me a pretty good offer," Glick said. However, he said it had not approached the figure mentioned to him by Argo team manager Harry Sonkhine.

Roughriders have not offered him any terms, Glick said he understands they will drop down to Colorado to see him within the next month.

Glick has been described by Steeler officials as "the every-thing" player.

He starred for Colorado A and M both on offence and defence and Sonshine said he would fit perfectly into Argos' plans to strengthen with players who can go both ways.

Glick said money probably would not influence his eventual decision.

Asked whether he would be more likely to go to a U.S. club, he said: "I would think I would. I'm in physical education and I want to get into coaching."

Lead So Thick Hunters Crawl On Stomachs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Sportsmen hunting in Modoc county during special doe hunting season were advised today to keep their heads down.

Sheriff's deputy Gerald Wilson described one sector as only slightly less dangerous than some wartime beachheads.

"The wildest and heaviest shooting I've ever seen," he said.

He reported two men who went into the area to rescue a wounded hunter had to crawl on their stomachs to avoid being hit themselves.

Alex Webster Wants to Return To Alouettes

MONTREAL (CP) — Alex Webster, leading scorer and groundgainer in the Big Four Football Union in 1954, wants to return to the Montreal Alouettes after a season with the New York Giants of the National Football League.

The one thing barring the way for the hard-driving halfback is Montreal's desire to stay clear of any player war with the Giants or the NFL. Webster expressed the desire to return to the Als on a visit to Montreal for a television appearance.

"I would very much like to rejoin my old teammates next year if it's possible," he said. "Football with the Giants is a lot tougher than I thought it would be. Even at the start of the season, I didn't think I'd be able to win a regular place on the team."

Webster went on, however, to become one of the Giants' hard-hitting mainstays. Coach Doug Walker of the Als said he would like to have Webster back but he doesn't want to touch off a war with the NFL.

Webster scored 99 points on 16 touchdowns with the Als in 1954.

Slammin' Sam Leads Field

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Slammin' Sammy Snead sliced six strokes off par for a course record Thursday and stepped out front by two strokes in the first round of the $15,000 Sanford open golf tournament. The old course mark of 65 was shared by several players.

Snead, who at 43 can still give most of the younger pros lessons in how to play golf, carded six birdies and 12 pars for his 33-31—64. For the playfair Inn Country Club course which measures 6,205 yards Ja 36-34—70.

The Slammer's most spectacular shot of the round came on the 400-yard 17th, where he hit the pin with a seven iron shot from about 135 yards out. The ball stopped 10 inches from the cup for an easy birdie.

Two strokes back in a tie for second were young Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, and Ted Kroll of Bethlada, Md. Dow had 32-34—66. Kroll 33-33.

It was Snead's second record performance in successive competitive rounds. In the final round of the Miami Open last week, Snead broke the record on the back nine of the Miami Springs course with a six-under-par 29. That gave him a tie for first with Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Snead won the first sudden-death playoff hole.

Greatest Single Horse Trade Concluded in Track History; Stable Brings Record Price

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Mighty Nashua will be shipped to Florida next week to continue his sensational racing career after a fabulous transaction that saw a new ownership take over the champion colt for a fantastic world-record price of $1,251,200.

In a Wall street setting that befitted such a gilt-edged deal, executors of the estate of the late William Woodward Jr. sold Nashua Thursday to a syndicate headed by Leslie Combs II of Spendthrift Farm, Lexington, Ky.

This was the greatest single horse trade ever concluded, involving an unprecedented sale of a great colt at the peak of his racing career. Sonny Jim Fitzsimmons, 81-year-old trainer of Nashua, will take charge of the big three-year-old again late next week.

PASSING OF BELAIR

Nashua, of course, was the big news in the dollars-and-cents part of the bargain. But for the sentimentalists the clink of hard cold cash was no compensation for the fact that fate at the same time decreed the passing of the famous Belair Stud—one of racing's greatest stables founded 43 years ago by William Woodward, Sr.

A total of 62 horses, including Nashua, sold under sealed bids for a grand total of $1,866,200. Combs said Nashua would be sent to Miami, Fla., to begin training for the $100,000-added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Nine other race horses and 12 yearlings went for $225,000 to John Kroese, Teaneck, N.J., electrical supply man who owns a racing stable. Mildred W. Woolwine of White Oaks Farm, Lexington, Ky., breeder of Helioscope, a top 1953 handicap horse, paid $410,000 for 29 Belair broodmares and 16 weanlings.

Miss Woolwine said her associates were Edward Potter of Nashville, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Iddendorf of Boston, Mass.

NASHUA'S DAM

Broodmares acquired by Miss Woolwine included Segula, dam of Nashua. Segula is in foal to Nasrullah, daddy of Nashua. So a full brother or sister may be along next spring.

Combs, who has figured in many great horse deals, said he would go to Miami soon after Jan. 1 to confer with Fitzsimmons on Nashua's racing campaign.

Nashua, with $945,418 in the bank, is the world's second greatest money-winning horse. All he needs is one big victory and he'll surpass Citation, who retired in 1951 as the turf's only millionaire with $1,085,760. This year alone, Nashua won seven $100,000 races and earned $752,550, surpassing Citation's 1948 record of $709,470 for one season of racing.

"I'll be happy to train Nashua for Mr. Combs," said Sunny Jim at Hialeah. "I thought he might bring any price, but this was just a little more than my estimate of his worth. The training will be easy, but it's the responsibility of having a horse like Nashua that will be the tough part of it."

RETAIN ARCARO

Combs declined to name others in the syndicate but said the colt will race in his own orange-and-blue silks, replacing the white-and-red polka dot of the Belair Stud. Combs and Fitzsimmons undoubtedly will retain the services of jockey Eddie Arcaro, who rode Nashua in most of his great races as a two- and three-year-old.

Combs said he arrived at the odd figure for his bid by adding the final $1,000 as a safety factor against a possible $1,250,000 bid and then tacked on $200 as an additional guarantee.

"I figured that he's worth $700,000 to $800,000 as a stud horse," said Combs, "and—if you're lucky—he should win the rest racing."

The executors declined to identify any other bidders, other than to say that 11 bids were received for Nashua—five of them exceeding $1,000,000. Charles Mapes said there were "only two legitimate bids below a million."

Minor Hockey

Six minor hockey games were played at Memorial Arena last evening, three in the squirt division and an equal number in the midget section. A double shutout in a squirt game and a penalty shot goal in the midget fixture were the features of the night.

SQUIRT

The Bruins and Black Hawks battled to the first scoreless tie of the season in the opening game at 6.00 p.m.

A pair of two-goal efforts gave the Rangers a 5-3 victory over the Canadiens. Allen Hurst and Ron Calligan each fired a brace of goals with Rocky Taylor getting the odd one. The Hurst brothers, Jim and David each tallied for the Canadiens.

The Maple Leafs whipped the Red Wings 5-1 in the other game, Raymond Smith fired a pair of goals with one each for Larry Stewart, Robert Leckie and Chuck Butler. David Williamson was the lone Wing marksman.

MIDGET

Team Five marched to another victory, 6-3 over Team Four. John Brennan scored two goals and an assist, one of the goals coming on a penalty shot. Earl MacDonald also had a pair of goals and a helper while Fred Asselstine drew one assist. "Red" Keller and Don Deacon scored for the losers with Brawley assisting on one.

Team Two downed Team Three 3-0 with Larry Soden in the winner's nets turning in a fine effort to gain his shutout. Lucas and Ivo Kravda potted the goals with Thierson drawing one assist.

The third encounter saw Team One shade Team Six by a 3-2 score, Gord Fuller, Butler and Terry Deslauriers fired the goals with Garry Rowbotham picking up one assist. Ivo Regent netted the lone Team Six tally.

Referee Jerry Mahoney was a busy man with the whistle, handing out 16 penalties and the penalty shot during the midget games. No games are scheduled for next week.

Russians Whip Harringay 4-0

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Thousands of Russian televiewers saw the London Harringay Racers outskated and beaten 4-0 by the Soviet national ice-hockey team here Thursday night.

Period scores were 0-0, 2-0, 2-0. It was Harringay's fifth defeat by the full international Russian team, who scored a total of 36 goals to the London club's eight. Racers' only win in three Moscow matches was against the Soviet B team Wednesday night.

There was all-round praise for Harringay's Canadian netminder, Ron Kibbey.

"TERRIFIC" CONDITION

Harringay captain Bill Winemaster said: "The Russians are in the best condition, athletically, I have ever run across. They are in terrific physical condition and could keep up the pace of their skating all night."

But Winemaster tipped Canada to beat the Russians in the winter Olympic Games in Italy in January, stating: "Given normal weather conditions, I think the Canadians will beat the Soviets in the Olympics."

Harringay leaves by air for Prague today for three matches in Czechoslovakia.

Dutchies Trim Hamilton 7-4

HAMILTON (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A defeated Hamilton Cubs of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A 7-4 Thursday night in an exhibition game watched by 512 fans.

Jack McKenzie, Jim Horne, Charlie Brooker, Bob White, Jim Logan, Paul Knox and Don Rope scored for Dutchies, who will represent Canada in 1956 world hockey championships at Italy.

Brian Smith with two goals, Guy James and John Roe scored for Cubs.

Chicoutimi Trims Lions 9-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The surging Chicoutimi Saguenenns, piling in all their goals in the first two periods, Thursday trounced Trois-Rivieres Lions 9-2 at Chicoutimi and moved two points away from second place in the Quebec Hockey League.

Montreal Royals, in a slump, dropped a 5-2 decision to Quebec Aces at Quebec and endangered further their slim hold on second rung behind the Idle Shawinigan Falls Cataracts.

The Aces fashioned their first two-game winning streak of the season by scoring three times in the first period, and moved up to a fourth-place tie with Trois-Rivieres. Both have 17 points, 11 behind Chicoutimi.

Christmas Season Descending Early on All TV Networks

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Whether the world's problems are growing more complex or we simply treat them more complexly is subject to debate. In any event, the burdens of good journalism are greater, and this applies to the electronics journalists of television and radio as well as to what you read in your daily paper.

Saturday, for example, CBS radio is tackling the complex problems of the public schools at 9:05 p. m. EST in a 55-minute program narrated by Eleanor Godfrey.

Most CBS radio network stations, the National Education Association and the citizens committee for the public schools were called in to find 10 communities across the United States where various typically critical school situations could be dramatized. Hundreds of persons spent thousands of hours to place on tape a total of 40 hours of interviews and discussions—almost two solid days. This had to be cut to 55 minutes.

7h Christmas spirit has descended on television a week early, as witnessed by some of the interesting programs appearing this weekend all times eastern.

Tonight (Friday): CBS-TV, 8 P.M. — A live one-hour telecast from Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Baily circus winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

Saturday: CBS-TV, 9:30 p. m.— "Ford Star Jubilee" presents Ed (King) Cole, Debbie Reynolds and Red Skelelon in a parade of songs and sketches.

Sunday: NBC-TV, 4 p. m.— "Wide Wide World" visits Mexico, Cuba, Canada on the theme of "Preparations for Christmas."

CBS-TV, 5 p. m.—"Omnibus" presents singer, dancer and actress Eartha Kitt starring in Oscar Wilde's "Salome." This is Miss Kitt's biggest dramatic role on television to date.

NBC-TV, 9 p. m. — "Goodyear Playhouse" presents Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn in "Christmas 'Til Closing," a comedy involving the impact of commercialism on the religious season.

Gordie Howe of Detroit and Bert Olmstead of Montreal narrowed Jean Beliveau's lead in the National Hockey League scoring race to four points Thursday night.

Each now has 30 points, four behind Beliveau. Big Jean leads the goal-getters with 19 and Olmstead is tops in assists with 23.

Loretta Young Returns to Her TV Show Christmas Night

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Loretta Young will have a special joy this Christmas. She'll return to her television show on Christmas night.

The actress was stricken April 10 with peritonitis. For month she was in hospital, and Hollywood was concerned for her life. Now she has completed the long road back to health and is once again making films for her popular Sunday night show. But there's a difference.

"This time I'm appearing only every other week," she reported. But she denied that the stiff filming schedule of her previous two years caused her illness.

"It could have happened to anyone," she remarked. "While I was in the hospital two other women were admitted with the same thing; theirs had not been caused by overwork. But it's true that I was run down and didn't bounce back with the vigor that I might have."

WEIGHT DWINDLES

Her weight dwindled to around 90 pounds during the illness. Now she's up to a healthy 117 and is mighty proud of herself.

"I never thought I could do it," she said. "Why, I never weighed that much in my life. I always averaged around 110 pounds.

"I'd like to get up to 120, but I don't know if I can make it. It's hard for me; I've never been much interested in food."

How did she accomplish her weight gain? By hourly malted milks and other "forced feedings," and by giving up cigarets.

"That was the hardest thing of all," she remarked. "I've always loved to smoke, and I had to ask God for the will power to give it up. Someone remarked that my illness had been accidental, and I'm inclined to agree. If it hadn't happened, I never would have given up smoking, and I never would have stopped working so hard."

She laughed as she recalled a remark she made, and to her spirits were at a low ebb. She snapped: "If I didn't think all this was going to be worth something, I wouldn't take it."

Now she's back with her family at Christmas time and able to do the work she has enjoyed most of her life.

Yes, Loretta figures it was all worth something.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A responsive period for both intricate and simple situations. You can handle either if true to your sensible self. Don't worry over material gains; work in artistic, social, spiritual.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Today may surprise you with its generous returns for your unselfish devotion to others' welfare. A bright outlook, vivacious as usual.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Give as quickly and unstintingly as you are willing to take. By giving proper attention to little duties and showing fairness to your family you will find a contentment not attained elsewhere.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—This day will be almost what you make it. Loved ones will co-operate; outside interests are at your service. Much depends upon what you desire and work for. Show only your finer qualities.

You born today have unusual magnetism to draw people to you. You are steadfast, loyal, honorable, so you can hold friends easily. You are often sensitive, impulsive. Both these tendencies must be wisely controlled lest they cause unhappiness and estrange friends. You could do exceptionally well in research, science, chemistry, law, promoting big propositions, in business or charity organizations. Birthdate—John Greenleaf Whittier, poet; Ludwig von Beethoven, German composer.

RETIREMENT PLAN FOR

"On December 5th the forums dealt with the topic, "Can Farmers Have Old Age Security?" with three interesting perspectives reported: Foxboro, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Reynolds; Brookdale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sine, and Stirling at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hagerman.

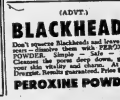
The three forums think that things being as they are, farmers might better retire on the farm. A farmer retiring off the farm would have to have a steady income, perhaps added by light work of some kind. If he has no direct descendants and the farm goes to strangers he should retire off the farm.

By retiring on the farm he may still carry on some of his activities and has the advantage of keeping up his previous interests and associations. People who have always been active would not be as happy, healthy or contented to live in complete retirement.

Foxboro says that if they retire off the farm inactivity will soon be the finish of them.

In order to prepare financially for retirement a farmer must be thrifty and plan early in life.

A good plan would be to buy insurance or bonds. A little laid by regularly builds up to quite a sum through the years.



One forum suggested a small amount laid by regularly in a separate account that wouldn't be used unless necessary.

Reserve Judgment

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada Thursday reserved judgment on a bid by Thomas Wade, Toronto fast owner, to prevent a new trial for former mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto on charges of slander and libel.

The retrial was ordered last May 9 by the Ontario Court of Appeal, overruling a conviction and award of $40,000 by a 12-man Toronto jury in 1954.

Mr. Ross had charged Mr. Lamport with slander and libel in newspaper interviews he gave to reporters for the Toronto Star and Globe and Mail Oct. 30, 1953.

Dulles Informs NATO Cold War On Once Again

PARIS (AP) — State Secretary Dulles of the United States told the NATO council of ministers Thurs. that the East-West cold war is on again after nearly a year of Soviet policy zig-zagging.

Discussing the trends and motives of Russian policy in 1955, Dulles declared that the new rulers of the Soviet Union have ignited dangerous new cold war fronts in the Middle East and south Asia.

He added, however, that the 15-power Atlantic alliance had overcome greater dangers in the past by remaining ever vigilant and united.

Dulles spoke at the opening of the first council meeting since last summer's Big Four "summit" conference at Geneva and the foreign ministers' subsequent deadlock in the Swiss city.

At the annual year-end meeting of foreign, defence, and finance ministers, the United States was represented by State Secretary Dulles, Defence Secretary Charles Wilson, and Treasury Secretary George Humphrey. External Affairs Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Harris represented Canada.

The council will discuss the problem of retooling the West's defence machinery for greater preparedness in the expanding atomic age and Russia's renewed offensive in the Cold War. But the main Western Allies believe the Red challenge will be as much economic and political as military.

Would-Be Bank Robber Arrested

HAMILTON (CP)—A would-be bank robber with an artificial leg walked into the Bank of Montreal on James street north before closing time Thursday and said to teller Dianne Laking: "This is a holdup, can we do it quietly?"

As he talked to the teller an accountant rang the bank alarm. Just before police arrived the man walked out empty - handed and boarded a nearby bus. Police followed and arrested him. The man was unarmed.

Forest Barnes, 35, was charged with attempted robbery.

Third Escapee Is Captured At Brockville

WHITBY (CP)—Peter Callas, 31, of Toronto, third patient to escape from the Ontario Mental Hospital here, was recaptured Thursday night at Brockville, police here said.

Officials said Callas, who disappeared Wednesday while on a Christmas shopping trip in nearby Oshawa with his mother, was not considered dangerous. He had responded well to treatment, they said, and would have been considered for release soon.

READY FOR DENTISTRY

Third Blizzard Victim Found In Saskatchewan

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatchewan's third blizzard victim was found Thursday frozen to death on his father's farm 60 miles southwest of here.

Garfield Leopard, 39, who worked with his brother Maurice, 31, on the family farm, had been missing since Monday night when he and his brother set out to tend cattle.

Shortly after they started out from the stores, Maurice's hat blew off and his lantern went out. He turned back to the house and when he started toward the barn again, he could not find his brother. Garfield's body was found Thursday frozen in a slough about a quarter mile from the farm buildings.

FORECAST SNOW

More snow was forecast for today and the weather office said enough wind to cause ground drifting would occur. But no repetition of the blinding blizzard that struck Monday was expected.

Only one person was still listed as missing today. He is farmhand George Buttes, 34, who disappeared Monday in the Hallrite area of southern Saskatchewan.

Two other deaths were attributed indirectly to the storm. A Regina woman collapsed and died while shovelling snow and a Moose Jaw railway employee died after walking to work through deep snow.

With the major blow over, the main task now is to open roads and restore life to normal in the snowed-in communities throughout southern Saskatchewan, where schools have been closed and services slowed almost to a standstill since Monday.

150 REBELS SURRENDER

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters)—About 150 rebels belonging to the Peoples Volunteer Organization—pro-Communist members of a wartime resistance movement—have surrendered to the Burmese army, it was reported today. The mass surrender was the biggest since the Burmese government proclaimed new amnesty terms Sept. 30.

Colombo Plan Contribution To Be Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has moved swiftly in an apparent attempt to counteract any cold-war advantage gained by touring Russian leaders in South Asia.

The external affairs department announced Thursday that Parliament will be asked to approve a Canadian contribution of $24,400,000 to the Colombo plan in 1956-57, an increase of $8,000,000 or 30 per cent over the 1955-56 amount.

The Colombo plan for co-operative economic development in South and Southeast Asia was established in 1950. Since then Canada has contributed $133,400,000 in cash and equipment, trained 292 Asian students in this country and sent 91 technical assistance experts abroad.

It was considered significant here that the announcement of the proposed increase followed closely on the visit by Russian Premier Bulganin and Communist party secretary Khrushchev to India, Pakistan and Burma, all members of the Colombo plan. Russia recently promised economic aid to India and Burma.

The department said the $8,000,000 increase will be used to cover partial costs of an NRX atomic reactor Canada will supply to India; additional costs of the multi-million-dollar Warsak power and irrigation project in Pakistan, and more assistance to countries which to date have received only limited technical assistance from Canada. So far, India, Pakistan and Ceylon have received nearly all the Canadian aid.

$300,000 Fire At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A Viaduct five-hour blaze ripped through a centrally - located building housing a dry goods company early today, causing damage estimated by the owners at more than $300,000.

No serious injuries were reported but several firemen suffered minor sprains, bruises and burns.

Occupants of rooming houses near the structure threw a story brick structure on St. Lawrence boulevard and more than 25 families fled from tenements in the rear of the building were forced into the streets by near - zero temperatures.

The fire, of unknown origin, began in the first-floor store of the Schreter Dry Goods Company and spread rapidly.

The stricken building is located a short distance above St. Catherine street, the city's main-artery, in a district that may in the near future be made to make way for a low-rental housing project. The section is one of the oldest in the city.

In the milder air ahead of this disturbance, maximum temperatures today will be near freezing in the southern half of the province and from 15 to 20 in the far north. Colder weather, however, will again move in behind the low. Great Lakes reigns Sunday following the passage of the low.

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United Nations general assembly bogged down in a diplomatic tangle late Friday night over a lottery scheme designed to break the deadlock on a disputed security council seat.

Instead of winding up the 13-week-old 10th session, assembly delegates recessed and agreed to come back Monday morning to vote on a new agenda on a hotly contested plan to give Yugoslavia the council seat next year and the Philippines the seat in 1957.

Assembly president Jose Maza of the Philippines called the plan after 34 ballots failed to elect the third non-permanent member of the security council for 1956-57. The proposal drew immediate protests from a dozen delegates and the adjournment until Monday came after the 35th ballot failed to produce a winner.

CALLS MEETING

Maza called representatives of the United States, Britain, Russia, and France into his office after the 34th ballot. Then he met with representatives of the African-Asian bloc and the Latin American group.

He also called in Brig.-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines and Leo Mates, Yugoslav ambassador, who proposed the plan calling for the assembly to elect the country whose name he pulled out of a box first. Under the proposal, that country would agree to serve until the end of 1956, then resign and allow next year's assembly to elect the other for the remaining year of the term.

Those present said both Romulo and Mates agreed.

Maza was blindfolded and the names of Yugoslavia and the Philippines were put in a box. Maza drew Yugoslavia's name first.

Later when Maza announced the lottery commission, a dozen speakers immediately assailed it.

NOT ENOUGH VOTES

On the next ballot Yugoslavia received 34 votes, the Philippines 19. Forty was the required two-thirds majority on the ballot.

Pleading tiredness, the delegates, then adjourned the assignment.

Mates said he was sure that the contest could be solved by the Maza lottery idea, and that the Philippines would withdraw in favor

HEAVY FLURRIES SWEEP DISTRICT

Well, is there any doubt about it?

If this morning's snow flurries are anything to go by, Belleville and district may rest assured of a White Christmas.

(Author's Name below)

1955 will soon be over, but it has left many medical discoveries behind as well known Salk vaccine. Much has been learned about heart and really work by using the increasing number of radio isotopes.

Soon, in our time we hope, we will learn many things that still are problems. Perhaps in 1956 medical science will find out how to cure a cold as easily as we now can pneumonia. Research scientists will discover much in 1956, and we are carefully reading all available reports to be prepared to serve you better.

Theatre Guild Will Not Enter Play in Festival

The Belleville Theatre Guild will not enter a play in the Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival this coming spring.

Ronald Cambridge, Guild president, told members at their recent meeting that it would be impractical for the Guild to take part in the festival.

He said, however, that Syd Rose had agreed to direct a play for the Belleville Recreation Department. Casting for this play, the title of which has not been announced, will begin in January.

An interesting talk on training and organization of amateur drama followed by an impromptu performance by members of the Bloor local story of Ruth featured the program.

In charge of this ambitious exercise was Lillian Vallance, a resident artist in Belleville, who has an impressive background of training and accomplishment in the fields of ballet, drama and opera.

Mrs. Vallance spoke of the need for participation by all members of the organization for training in mime, elocution, stage movement and relaxation for expert dance in acting with and against others, and for the development of a competent and self-contained stage crew.

Mrs. Vallance illustrated portions of her talk by enlisting the help of four girls who the mimed performance of Ruth. Marry Deacon accompanied the action on the piano with music of her own composition.

Mrs. Vallance was introduced by Robert Tanner and thanked by Jean May.

Freighter Runs Aground At Port Stanley

CLEVELAND (AP)—The coast guard dispatched a cutter Friday night to assist the Great Lakes freighter Peter Reiss, which ran aground at Port Stanley, across Lake Erie from Conneaut, Ohio.

A coast guard spokesman said the freighter was not in "serious" trouble, but could not get under way because strong winds were holding it up against a mud bank. Winds were reported at 22-25 miles an hour, and were due to rise to 35 miles an hour.

Commercial tugs from Detroit will try to free the vessel, while the coast guard cutter stands by to render any necessary assistance, the spokesman said. The freighter was believed bound for Toledo.

Johnny Myers, Seriously Hurt In Accident, Starts Business

A young Belleville man, who for past 16 months has been fighting for recovery following injuries received in an auto accident, that almost claimed his life, is this week commencing a business venture.

He is Johnny Meyers, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyers, Chatham street, who on Thursday will open a new Shell Oil Company gasoline service station on the corner of North Front and Moira streets.

At an opening feature Johnny will have some lucky Belleville or district motorists free gasoline and service from now until the end of January.

From the date of opening next Tuesday customers will receive a free chance on the draw each time they patronize the station. A lucky ticket will be drawn and the winner will receive a rebate for all his purchases made to the end of January.

In September, 1954, Johnny was critically injured along with three young Belleville people when the car in which they were riding left the highway east of Shannonville and crashed into a tree.

Suffering from a broken back he lay helpless on a hospital bed for weeks as doctors despaired for his life. However, with sheer determination to live, Johnny fought his way toward recovery and after 15 operations and months in hospital he is now able to get around and is looking with confidence to the future.

His business venture as a service station operator evolves from a desire to be active as possible and yet be "on his own." He will operate the service station with a staff of two or three helpers.

Coming from Ottawa with his parents when nine years old, Johnny attended Belleville Collegiate and following completion of his studies there was with Truck and Farm Supply as assistant parts supervisor until his accident. Since he got out of hospital and until recently he was again with Truck and Farm Supply.

His many friends in the city wish him good luck and fortune in his new business venture.

Industrial Commission Trio In New York for Interviews

Mayor Both, accompanied by the chairman of the Industrial Commission William Argue, and R. A. Pringle, Q.C., city solicitor, left by plane yesterday morning at the request of the Industrial Development Department of the Canadian National Railways to interview several industrial prospects who plan to locate in the Belleville district.

While there, in addition to interviewing the above prospects, arrangements have been made to discuss future industrial development with officials of the Canadian Trade Commissioner's service industrial departments of the various Canadian banks.

It is the hope of the city council that by continuing an aggressive industrial program with centralized industrial development, the city-owned industrial site near the Sidney-Warkworth-Belleville plant will be completely sold by the end of 1956.

The interview with officials of the Canadian Council office has been arranged through Mr. Frank S. Follwell, M.P.

10,456 Books Circulated By Library in Nov.

Total circulation of books at the Corby Public Library during November was 10,456, reported chief librarian Miss Olive Delaney at a meeting of the Library Board Friday evening. Of this total 5,419 were boys' and girls' books.

New members enrolled at the library during November totalled 157 of which 88 were adults.

The library's film department loaned 66 films to members of the Film Council and performances were booked 23 times. Dick Powell, Film Council member, gave an interesting talk on photography to 15 persons.

Board members decided to start improving the value of the record library by buying new records.

Miss Catherine Kelly, a librarian on the staff of the Sarnia Public Library, was appointed to the position of assistant librarian in Belleville and will commence her new duties in January.

Miss Colleen Lowe has been employed as a junior clerical assistant.

LIBRARY RENOVATIONS

It was reported that major renovations to the library basement were in progress. Renovations include the replacement of the present floor with concrete and the construction of a concrete block wall to make a new furnace room from usable work space.

Members of the Boy and Hi-Y Clubs, who voluntarily moved thousands of books from the basement to make way for the contractor were praised by board members for their work. A letter of appreciation is to be forwarded to each club.

A request from the Camera Club for use of a portion of the basement for a dark room had to be turned down because of lack of proper drainage of the area sought.

Dr. Marius Riley, eastern representative of the Great Books Foundation, conducted three special meetings in the library during November and eight new members enrolled in the group.

Twenty members of a conversational French club have been meeting every Tuesday.

Last month's regular meeting of the Library Board was featured by the showing of a film entitled "Freedom to Learn," and a panel discussion. Forty-five members attended the meeting including representatives from the schools.

Many Legends Of Christmas

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Why have we so many Christmas legends, Mummy? Teacher says there are dozens of them—and why is a legend different from a story?" Junior asked eagerly.

"The story of the First Christmas is beautifully but very briefly told in the New Testament. Saint Matthew writes of it in one chapter. Luke, whose gospel is supposed to be based on the account Mark received from Peter, has only one chapter too covering the birth of Christ until He was grown. For many many years this story was passed on by the common people by word of mouth. It is likely that often a story teller added a little part here or there which he may have imagined."

"Then are all our Christmas legends not true—just made up stories?"

"Does it matter?—actually quite a number of them are based on "Infancy Gospels" which were not included in the Bible. Two of these old manuscripts were supposed to have been written by James and by Thomas and another one was the Arabic "Infancy of the Saviour."

In the gospel story, there is no indication that the Infant Jesus had a bed of straw or that the ox and ass shared the stable with the Holy Family. The Wise Men are not called Kings, nor are they named as three in number—although they have been given the names Caspar, Melchior and Balthasar in folk lore. There is no complaint about an inhospitable Inn Keeper, just the simple statement "She brought forth her first born Son and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room in the in."

BRIGHT STAR

Among the many quaint stories which were centred around the journey of the Wise Men is the one which tells of the bright star which guided them. It moved in the sky until it stopped above the entrance to the Nativity Cave, the Magi realizing they had reached their destination. At that moment the star fell into a well in Bethlehem, from which Joseph drew water for Mary. It is believed, until this day, if the pure in heart look down into that well, they can see the reflection of the Christmas star.

In part of Europe, boys and girls put out food for the birds and beasts on Christmas Eve because they believe the legend of the adoration of the ox and the ass when Jesus was placed in the manger. The ox is credited with tossing hay into the manger with his horns while keeping the infant warm with his breath. It is thought that the birds and the animals in the forests and fields still sing the song of praise of the Little Lord Jesus on His Birthday night and talk to each other in human speech.

But in the legends there are other birds and insects which have part in the Christmas drama.

One tells of the robin getting his red breast by fanning the embers, of the shepherds' fire so it would not go out. Another relates how the nightingale learning to sing with the angels their song: "Glory to God in the highest, peace on earth, good will to men!" The little beetle who lived in the Nativity Cave was supposed to have been turned into a firefly. When he wanted to go out and tell his friends of Mary and her infant in her arms, an angel took a sparkling jewel from her hair and gave it to him to light his way.

HUMBLE SPIDER

Even the humble spider figures in these folk tales of Christmas. It is said that he spun his web over the door of a shed where the Holy Family were hiding from the Roman soldiers. The rough centurion saw the web, concluded no one had entered recently and passed on. Mary touched the spider's back with gentle touch and a cross appeared on his back.

There are folk stories about the palm tree, the cherry, and the holly bush helping the Holy Family in their flight to Egypt. The plants share the wonder of the Nativity too. According to legend, the herb—bedstraw, ivy dry and withered in the stable. But when Mary rested on it, the bedstraw revived and put out a faint perfume. Rosemary was said to be the bush on which the Baby Jesus' washing was spread to dry and it too was given a delicate scent.

One of the best known stories is that of the Christmas Rose. The little Christ Child received the simple gifts of the shepherds, a home-made rattle, whistles and a calendar of wood. The Three Kings had given gold, representing the respect shown to a ruler, frankincense which is the offering made on an altar, and myrrh which symbolized incorruptibility. Hovering in the background was a little shepherdess, Madelon, who dearly longed to give a present too. But her hands were empty and she went outdoors and wept bitterly.

The Angel Gabriel saw her crying and tried to comfort her, asking, "What dost thou desire?"

"A gift for the Christ Child—" Madelon answered.

"What gift dost thou wish?" asked the angel.

The little shepherdess answered, "Alas, the shepherds and the Kings have given Him everything — for the Baby has no flowers—But where could I find flowers at this time of the year?"

Then Gabriel took his staff and touched the ground. Immediately up sprang a lovely plant with beautiful white blossoms, fair and pure — the first Christmas roses. Swiftly Madelon gathered the roses and carried her bouquet to give to the little King.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

TAKE TIME TO BE HOLY

Take time to be holy, Speak oft with thy Lord;
Abide in Him always, And feed on His Word;
Make friends of God's children, Help those who are weak,
Forgetting in nothing His blessing to seek.

Take time to be holy, the world rushes on;
Spend much time in secret with Jesus alone;
By looking to Jesus, Like Him thou shalt be;
Thy friends in thy conduct His likeness shall see.

Take time to be holy, Let Him be thy Guide,
And run not before Him, Whatever betide;
In joy or in sorrow, Still follow thy Lord,
And, looking to Jesus, Still trust in His Word.

Take time to be holy, Be calm in thy soul,
Each thought guard and each motive beneath His control;
Thus led by His Spirit to fountains of love,
Thou soon shalt be fitted for service above.

A sermon preached one night in England, more than three-quarters of a century ago inspired the theme and title of this hymn of consecration.

The preaching took place at a religious service at Brighton and the man in the pulpit used as his text, "Be ye holy as I am holy". W. D. Longstaff of Sunderland, England was one of the listeners that night and when the worship was over the stanzas of "Take Time To Be Holy" began running through his mind.

When the Moody-Sankey evangelistic party went to England, Mr. Longstaff became interested in services held in his home town, and in others, and Mr. Sankey who was song leader for all the spiritual meetings was delighted with Mr. Longstaff's song.

He published the hymn in his "Gospel Hymns and Sacred Solos" in 1891, and it was widely used for years in prayer services on both sides of the Atlantic.

A Lift For Living

Wonders Which Grow With Us

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

There are some wonders we outgrow; there are other wonders which grow up with us. Airplanes belong to the first category, stars, for instance, belong to the second. When we were children we learned the rhyme:

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How I wonder what you are!
Up above the world so high,
Like a diamond in the sky."

To be sure, I did look up at the stars when I was a lad. But I did not spend much time wondering about the stars. A new sled or a new bicycle could take my mind off the stars any time. But as I have grown up, I have discovered that the wonder of the universe has grown up so much faster.

The heavens seem immeasurably vaster to me now than when I was a boy. When I read Dr. Harlow Shapley's estimate of the diameter of the Milky Way at one quintillion, 800 quadrillion miles, I am simply lost in wonder. Yes, there are wonders which grow up with us.

And Christmas, which we celebrate next week, is one of the wonders which grow. I confess that Christmas was the red letter day of the year when I was a child. When the red bells and the green wreaths began to appear in the windows and the air of temperature started to rise. The excitement, the expectation, the glow continued to mount as the day drew near. Yes, bright before Christmas — well, that was the greatest night of the year.

LIFTS WORLD'S HEART

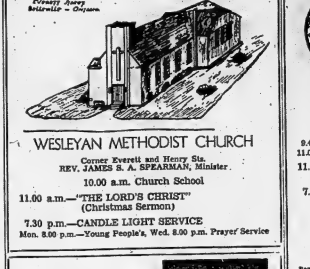
The emotional excitement of Christmas has cooled with maturity, but the wonder of it has deepened and widened. Whereas in my childhood I thought most about the presents to be received and given, now I think beyond the gifts to that tidal wave of good will which sweeps up the coastline of the world. What is the power that lifts the world's heart at Christmas time?

I know, of course, that Christmas is celebrated as the birthday of Jesus. But why is it so different from the birthdays of other great men? The memories of national heroes, however great, fade with the passing of time.

And then the wonder of Christmas grows still more, as I think that not only does the observance of it become more widespread with time, but also that our time itself (calendar-wise), starts with the First Christmas.

Nineteen centuries have passed since then; but no other date can be seriously considered as important enough to displace the birth of Jesus as the basis for the world's calendar. No other figure in history could fitly apply to himself the words which Jesus is recorded as using when He said: "I am the door".

Christ is the door which divides recorded time into before and after. On Christ the door is the hinge of history. That is the wonder which grows. With the birth of Christ something began whose end is not yet.



And what was it that came into the world with Christ? What was it that justifies Jesus in saying, "I am the door"? It was this: Christ is the door by which Good comes so personally to man.

COMPREHEND DARKNESS

When we try to comprehend the darkness of that pre-Christian world, a personal experience comes to mind. Some years ago when I was a student, a slight operation which I had undergone took a sudden turn for the worse. It was This is the wonder that grows. After midnight and the doctor could not be reached. The nurse exhausted all her known resources, and sent out for some medicine, only to find that the drug stores were closed.

Vividly do I still recall the seemingly interminable experience of those few dark hours. Hungrily my ears listened for the sounds of the city's waking life. Impatiently my eyes kept turning toward the windows to catch the first signs of approaching sunrise. When the crosale sounds of the milk-wagon heldonged the stirring of the city, it seemed heavenly music to me. I always think of that night when I hear the cry in Mendelssohn's Oratorio, "Watchman, will the night soon pass?"

The wise men of the world were looking for some star of hope to guide them through the darkness. The plain people, like the shepherds, were looking for a Savior to deliver them from the drabness and futility of existence. Then Christ came to reveal that "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son" to save it.

CHIANG GIVEN TOO MUCH ROPE?

Tuesday, T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist China's delegate to the United Nations Security Council, shot up his hand to veto the admission of Outer Mongolia to the United Nations. That touched off a series of Russian vetoes of 13 Western-sponsored nations.

Wednesday, a news report from Tapei, Formosa, said that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was delighted with Tsiang's handling of the affair.

It would be interesting to know what Chiang thought of the situation later on Wednesday, when 16 of 18 nations listed on the original motion sponsored by Canada had been admitted to the UN and only Japan and Outer Mongolia excluded.

This change was the result of a quick shift in Russian policy. The Soviet delegate, Arkady A. Sobolev, requested an emergency meeting of the UN Security Council and withdrew all his vetoes of applications except that of Japan.

That this change was gratifying to the majority of members of the UN is certain.

Jack Best, Canadian Press staff writer, says: "Angered over China's action against Outer Mongolia, which touched off the Soviet veto barrage, a number of delegates had been admitted to the UN and only Japan and Outer Mongolia excluded.

This change was the result of a quick shift in Russian policy. The Soviet delegate, Arkady A. Sobolev, requested an emergency meeting of the UN Security Council and withdrew all his vetoes of applications except that of Japan.

Russian diplomats probably believed that this would heighten the chances that the UN would decide to unseat Chiang's regime. Mr. Tsiang thinks otherwise-but one may be pardoned for wondering whether the Russians are not perhaps better judges of the temper of UN delegates than is Mr. Best.

Meanwhile Chiang, having been given more than enough rope by the wily Communists, must be wondering whether he has perhaps hanged himself.

PAKISTAN'S INDUSTRIES

In 1953 there were 54 jute factories in Pakistan and they pressed raw jute into bales valued at Rs 178.0 million.

The Pakistan News Digest is gratifying for that statement. Unfortunately it neglects to indicate how much Rs 178.0 million is in dollars and cents but that jute seems to have brought Pakistan a lot of hay. Since jute goods are Pakistan's leading export, this is understandable.

If the reader does not pull a hoot about jute, then he might be interested in Pakistan's second-ranking export which is, rather surprisingly, sports goods. Just what kind of sports goods is not disclosed but we have a suspicion that badminton equipment is probably included. Perhaps footballs too, and how about polo ponies? If these sports goods are polo, how will they fare under the Quality Control Scheme which the government plans to introduce into the sporting goods industries?

Oh, yes, if some one is thinking of going some place different for holidays this year, Pakistan is now taking a survey of tourist resorts to make it possible to "coordinate efforts of various departments, agencies and commercial establishments" in order "to provide better accommodation, communication, transport and other facilities."

Sounds almost like home.

All except that jute and Rs 178.0 million.

GERMANY IS IN THREE PARTS

All Germany, like Gaul in Caesar's day, is divided into three parts.

That fact has a tendency to escape our attention.

"West Germany Not Rest Still United" reads a headline over an article in "The Bulletin" issued by the West German Government.

Ah,-yes, says the casual reader, they want to unite West Germany and East Germany.

A map on the same page, though, provides food for thought. Studying it we find that the Germany of 1937 has been divided into three parts. West Germany is less than half of the 1937 Reich. The remainder has itself been divided roughly in half, into East Germany and into territory awarded to Poland.

Does German talk of unification refer only to the linking of West Germany and East Germany, or are the Germans dreaming of the day when they will wrest from Poland that territory which she acquired after the end of the war?

It is an interesting question.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 17, 1935

Mrs. Philip F. Canniff of Edmonton, formerly of this city, and Mrs. C. T. Seymour of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. C. B. Scantlebury.

Mrs. Charlotte Wickett of Rosetown, Sask., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. R. Clapp, Victoria Avenue.

Mr. O. A. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall entertained the members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian choir, staff at their home, Bridge Street east, on Friday evening.

Miss Helen Deroche, Miss Mary Roberts and Miss Jean Dyer were the hostesses at the Badminton Club party this evening.

On Wednesday evening a number of the fellow workers of Mr. W. J. Colden, gathered at his home on Foster Avenue, in honor of his retirement from the service of the Canadian National Railways, and during the evening his friends presented him with a handsome mantle clock.

There are still some who remember Joe Morgan, hatter and furrier. He evidently thought he should also according to the following ad. in our file copy at the date in 1885: "Toboggans, tobogging, tobogins, tobogans, it really do not matter how it is spelled—but I have them at all events." Joe Morgan — store opposite the Argyle American Hotel.

December 17, 1925

Prime Minister Mackenzie King is observing today the 51st. anniversary of his birth; he was born at Berlin, Ontario, now Kitchener, on December 17th, 1874.

Turkeys are selling at 50 cents to 60 cents per pound; geese 30 cents per pound; ducks $1.50 each, and chickens 23 cents pen pound.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Reid motored to Kingston today.

Mr. John Gibson of this city has left for Florida where he will spend the winter months.

The Rev. Father McCarthy of Read was a visitor in town today.

Confronted by the telegram the bridegroom-elect turned to Miss F. E. Gannett, owner of 22 newspapers and six radio stations in the United States, and pleaded, "Sir Anthony is a friend of my Dad, but I want to be married to myself. My father worked hard for his money. I intend to do the same."

One is inclined to believe the bride forgave the deception. She admires her new husband more for his attitude.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BOOKS I LIKE

The late Dr. William (Billy) Lyon Phelps, the famous Yale teacher of literature, was an unusual and inspiring human being. He loved about everything that was good and beautiful. As a reviewer of books he would say the nicest things about them, so he was sought by publishers for his opinion from all quarters because they knew he couldn't say something good about a book he would say nothing. I have books of his in my library that reveal the man. One is "What I Like," and two others are "What I Like in Poetry," and "What I Like in Prose."

When you discover what a person likes, you discover that person, for we are what we like. Charles Lamb, in one of his delightful essays, tells of Coleridge, who "holds that a man cannot have a pure mind who refuses apple-dumplings!" Then Lamb remarks: "The whole vegetable tribe have let their suit with me. Only I stick to asparagus, which still seems to inspire gentle thoughts."

Isn't it wonderful that we each have our personal likes and dislikes! They add a certain zest to the gaiety of life. A very dear friend, and a fine writer of books, once told me it was silly for me to be such a lover of books that I collected "first editions," and he said: "I thought books were just to be read!" Well, I read my first editions!

I like books in the same manner that I like people. They are the ones who write books, and who put their best self-expression into them. I like those I have known, and I like those I have not known.

I spent a delightful evening with a friend who loves books as I do, and when he went over his library with me and we talked about our favorites we noted that his shelves were spotted with many that stand on my book shelves, like raisins in mother's puddings. So we had a literary feast together as we each

The Diplomatic Marne

(New York Times)

In the First World War the Germans came twice to the River Marne in France, once in 1914 and once in 1918. Both times they nearly won the war, or engaged in another kind of war, fortunately bloodless, in which the Russians are on the aggressive. We might say that the Russians were stopped in the Marne by their diplomatic Marne when the Marshall Plan was announced. They have come again now to the same diplomatic river.

One of the evidences of totalitarianism in government is the haste and precision with which policies can be changed. When Stalin died, Russia seemed to smile. When Lavrenti Beria, head of the secret police, was shot in December, 1953, smiles and laughter seemed to go out of Russia. When Premier Bulganin and party secretary Khrushchev went to Yugoslavia alive, Mr. Molotov, smiled at San Francisco, and in the Geneva in August, a sort of warmth spread round the world. But now these men smile no longer.

We look around the world with a sense of dismay. Gone are the end of the foreign ministers' conference in Geneva, from which much was hoped and in which so little was realized. Mesarq, Bourguiba and Ben Bella are leading the Far East, doing what they can to work up trouble for the French in the Moslem racies. In Berlin Moscow is attempting to create a crisis over it, tending to turn its sector of the city over to East Germany—purely to create trouble. The Soviets are not only offering to help Egypt to build a dam on the Nile, they are also providing arms for a fratricidal war between Arabs and Israelis. They are supporting Tito in Yugoslavia, Liberia, Libya and perhaps even the Gold Coast in Africa.

Where the light of modern civilization had begun to show they are bringing in darkness. They are attempting to corrupt Japan. They are fomenting trouble in the Asian northern part of what used to be Indochina. They are fostering resentment without offering any system to carry out the program. They condemn the British and French plan and carry out a great explosion in the upper air.

These are the Russians of late 1952. They hardly seem like the same persons as the Russians of early 1955. Why did they change? Why does the wind blow from the north instead of the east? The ways of the totalitarian state they can change at will. But in exercising that power the sinister faith. They evidently hope now, as they hoped nearly forty years ago, to enslave the world.

They are perhaps too wise in the chilly ways of power to attempt years to invoke a great war. The Communists see that it is by and their ends without such a war, move into areas of misery and despair where even the make-believe Communists heaven seems to the multitude better than what it has.

What is the answer? Avoiding and adhering to the end of all things, what can we Americans and our friends do to win the second Marne? Le us face the facts of life in our time. The world is divided between races are weary of their old subordinate role. They will not only be free, they will share with their white neighbors the mastery of the world. The Russians can lie to them, promising them this gift when there is no intention of doing so. They can slowed. We shall not lie, not betray. We shall cling to the old morals but because it is of the nature of democracy to have to listen to both sides. We have the best battalions and arm the battalions of our friends with what, we have been doing.

We must also face the choice between armed men using weapons and men at work producing goods to sustain life. The Soviet Union our aid to other countries has declined from a peak because our military assistance at the cost of economic assistance. We may have to remember that the Russians, Ho not buy our way into the hearts of their people. But we have failed to give work to the idle, heal the sick and show hope to the underprivileged races of the world how to stand up and be free—free even of us, our domination and our wishes.

If we did this much we would have small cause to worry. Freedom, more than any H-bomb or even a mere physical weapon, will drive back the enemy that now threatens us. And to say this much is not to win our battle. We must unlimber the artillery of truth and freedom and go into action.

Birds of Prey Serve Purpose

(Saskatoon Star-Phoenix)

A book just published under sponsorship of the Audubon Society suggests that a book should be taken at the old idea that birds of prey are a menace to game, which should themselves be destroyed in the interests of other game.

Apparently wildlife research has now shown that in fact, when wildlife abundance is food and cover, and that hawks and owls are not a formidable influence. In some instances they actually help by controlling rodents which destroy the eggs and young of game birds. They are also beneficial in that they control interference and speed in game species — increasing their gameness, as it were.

This is interesting information. It verifies the balance in nature which cannot disturb without loss of one kind or another. In that light, man should be slow to declare any species useless.

UN Assembly Becomes Bore

(Hamilton Spectator)

In that monstrous glass house down on 42nd Street in New York City, diplomats, sixty nations meet in assembly to discuss the behavior of the world. They talk and talk and talk and the other thing; they deplore and admonish; they are righteous and indignant by turns; they are acrimonious, frivolous, pious and dull by turns; they are wordy and inconclusive. Onward roll the platitudes, the mock indignation, the tears and the sighs that surprise nobody and most of them do not interest history, but lead to oblivion. And the public, which pays for it, yawns. The UN assembly is suffering the fate of all those who talk too much — it is becoming a crashing bore.

The Assembly complains that the newspapers and other organs of public information do not give its debates the space and attention they once did. It is offended that governments, instead of submitting their problems to the assembly, do indeterminate and bad tempered battle, sometimes even to the point of refusing to settle them through traditional diplomatic channels.

But the Assembly has no right to complain; people are impressed only by executive action, not wordy rigmarole.

In an article in its current issue The London Economist playfully suggests that since the Assembly is a gigantic sounding board similar to a radio and television studio, governments use it should pay for their time. When a delegate has had his say (regardless of worth and relevancy), a red light should flash and a bell ring, and if he persists in talking he should be switched off. Or, the article suggests, the speaker's podium should slowly descend into the floor, leaving a giant organ in some cinemas, into the basement. The idea certainly has merit — and not only for the UN Assembly.

The UN Assembly is becoming victim of its own verbosity. If its findings are to have any significance its findings are accepted by the public at large with half-critical indifference, then it has only itself to blame. The remedy is at hand. Brevity rules and crisper debates might yet restore its prestige and it can in a large measure regain its attention. At present it is in danger of becoming, in a wordy world, the worst offender.

Finds No Fixed Age To Commence Music

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

In a recent news report, which I found very interesting, various opinions were expressed by music teachers in Calgary concerning the age a child should be before starting music lessons.

My own teaching experiences prompt me to say that the stage of "readiness" occurs at almost any age. I find every child is individual, and two children of the same age may be vastly different in their stage of development.

Many parents and teachers feel that "no child should attempt music until he has had a school background, but with modern methods employed, this is entirely unnecessary.

The desire to make music can come at any age, and it is the teacher's responsibility to stimulate and love of music the appealing students may have, whether they be 5 or 50.

Similarly to pupils, music can never be more than an interest-ing hobby unless they are also treated as such, rather than hoping to impress friends and neighbors with an astonishing display of dazzling technique. The first lesson with a new pupil, and I ask for no greater preliminary than that music may have, be they young or old.

A charm to make bad good, and good provoke to harm."

Personal Health Talks

"I, Thi and Memory"

As she greets me? No. I have to run down the street to the former home of a person of the same name—and by the time I get back with the name it's too late. I've lost the need and interest, but it seems no use—the moment I take my mind off the name it's gone, and I just can't get it back without running down the street after it.

Doddering! A little, maybe, but it seems to me I never had a better memory for names than I have now. I was notably absent-minded in my youth.

Many books and essays deal with impaired or poor memory and how to improve the memory.

Let's agree that I'm no specialist. I'm just passing along what many readers have reported, namely, that a daily ration of iodine and a daily ration of thiamin (B-1) both of which are nutritional elements, not medicines, eaten with a bit of care and functional efficiency — has improved their memory.

All I can promise, for child or grown-up, is that a daily ration of iodine and thiamin can do no harm. Whether it will improve either and attentiveness or memory or both is for you to decide, if you try it. Being nutritional and not medicinal, it requires a trial of not less than three months.

KINGDOMS AND EMPIRES

Caesar's motto was, "Aut Caesar, aut Nullus"—Either Caesar or nobody. He must be put first and furthermore he must be kept first in the mind of the people if his Empire was built.

Christianity is scarcely different from this. It takes as its motto, "Either Christ or nobody." The early church tried to do as it was force people to accept his teachings. Modern thought is that many would disagree with him and oppose him. He told them to be right ahead in their opposition. But what he warned them never to do was to straddle the issue. He was tolerant of other points of view but he was never tolerant of compromise. "Make the tree good and the fruit good; or make the tree corrupt and the fruit corrupt. . . ." No man can serve two masters, for either he will love the one and hate the other or else he will cleave to the one and despise the other.

Few situations in life are "either-or" but the Christian life certainly is. Either Christ or nobody. There can be no second-grade Christians. Those who try to do things as a half-way commitment to Christ. We cannot be Christian part of the time and something else once in a while.

"Either or nobody"; "Christ or nobody"—on such mottos are kingdoms and empires built.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Rabbits became in recent years a serious plague in Britain as far as agriculture is concerned. In 1952, it was estimated that in the early evening approximately flowing like streams with hundreds, even thousands of rabbits scampering for the woods edges as I walked the country roads. Very particularly, therefore, are the advantages imported a rabbit disease called myxomatosis with the virus from which they infected a large number of live-trapped rabbits which were then released in various parts of the isles. The effect was almost instantaneous and deadly. I find every child is individual, and two children of the same age may be vastly different in their stage of development.

Many parents and teachers feel that "no child should attempt music until he has had a school background, but with modern methods employed, this is entirely unnecessary.

The desire to make music can come at any age, and it is the teacher's responsibility to stimulate and love of music the appealing students may have, whether they be 5 or 50.

Anna came to Canada from Italy just four months ago. Anna's a polio victim. Now, she's getting much-needed braces and treatment at the Hospital for Sick Children. Friends of the hospital currently are helping children like Anna by sending in their donations to the Christmas appeal of the hospital. An estimated operating deficit—due to increasing costs and greater number of children—of $213,776 must be made up.

Hospital for Sick Children Needs Funds to Meet Deficit

TORONTO — The Yuletide generosity of its thousands of friends-supporters once again being sought by The Hospital for Sick Children to help it substantial, although reduced, annual operating loss.

This year, careful management will reduce the anticipated 1955 deficit to $213,776 from the operating expenses, or $213,776. J. Grant Glasco, chairman of the Board of Trustees, said in announcing the annual Christmas campaign of the hospital "where no child knocks in vain."

During 1954 the hospital cared for 20,000 bed-patients and provided more than 101,000 treatments to out-patients, representing the largest number of children looked after by any children's hospital in North America.

Reason for the hospital's inevitable annual financial gap is twofold. First of all, the hospital's revenue from all sources — patients, grants, investments — falls short of meeting the mounting cost of care and treatment. Secondly, each year swells the number of boys and girls who come to the hospital, from across Ontario, many sections of Canada and even from foreign countries.

On the average, one child is admitted to the hospital every 24 minutes (round-the-clock, Mr. Glasco explained. "Every day we have more than 500 children in our cots and some 300 others are examined and treated in the out-patient clinic."

Reporting on the hospital's increased services last year, Mr. Glasco said 12,112 operations, 4,042 blood transfusions, 33,853 X-rays, and 83,170 laboratory tests had been carried out.

The hospital also conducted nearly 50 research projects last year. As a result of research at the hospital a method was developed for the large scale commercial production of "Salk" vaccine.

The constantly increasing cost and scope of medical services and research, coupled with the great number of children who come to the hospital each year for help — are the reasons for the operating deficit, Mr. Glasco said. Address of The Hospital for Sick Children is 555 University Ave., Toronto.

Hannukah, Eight-Day Jewish Festival, Ends This Evening

Hannukah — one of the greatest of Jewish holidays — comes to a close this evening, after an eight-day festival period.

The holiday is of particular significance to the Jews of North America for it hails defence of freedom and triumph over oppression.

For all Jews it depicts two great victories, one military, the other spiritual. Too, for all men of every belief, it is recorded as the first struggle in history when man fought not for material possessions, but for ideals, particularly the ideal of human liberty.

Briefly, Hannukah celebrates the victory of the Jews nearly 200 years before Christ under its leader Judah Maccabee, over the oppressive measures of the Syrian king Antiochus, who attempted to replace Judaism with Greek culture.

For the Jews then, it is a sky time.

It is marked by the lighting of candles in the home and special prayers of praise and thanksgiving. In their war a salute to religion's first martyrs and to the human spirit refusing to be intimidated Hannukah, meaning dedication, itself emphasizes the importance of the spiritual victory more than that of the military triumph.

IDEA PROVES SUCCESSFUL

After the death of Alexander the Great, the various rulers of his empire continued his process of replacing local cultures and religions with that of the Greek. The idea proved successful everywhere but in Palestine. A courageous spirit smouldered among the loyal followers of Judaism and when Antiochus came to the throne in 175 B.C. his determined measures to further the Greek culture and particularly religion, fanned the flames of revolt.

After a period of passive resistance, battle banners were raised by the Jews in defence of their religion and freedom. Fighting with a reckless determination, spurred by the knowledge that failure meant the disappearance of Judaism, the Jews triumphed.

The victorious Jews symbolized their triumph by cleansing the Temple and rededicating it after its defilement by the propagandist of Greek culture. The celebration lasted for eight days and it was decreed that a similar festival be observed annually to mark the deliverance.

RABBI GIVES MESSAGE

To mark the end of this year's holiday here, Rabbi Morris Lewin has written this special message:

"The great Italian philosopher Croce wrote that the history of mankind could be written in terms of the struggle for liberty.

"In this struggle the Jewish people have played their role. Hannukah, originated as a festival expressing the triumph over religious oppression. We are, therefore, appreciative of the freedom of conscience granted to us by our brother Canada as she does all her many peoples.

"This gratitude we would like to translate into concrete deed for the enhancement of Canadian power and prestige.

"Hannukah is, also, a Festival of Dedication and Festival of Lights. To the descendants of Abraham, Hannukah is a time of dedication for finding His light glowing on all His children, and with sympathetic understanding trying to increase these lights for the greater glory of the Heavenly Father—the Father of all His creatures."

A CHRISTMAS STORY
The Coming of the King
by Norman Vincent Peale

The Adoration of the Shepherds

V—TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY

While Jesus was being born in the stable at Bethlehem, there were some shepherds on the nearby hills, watching their flocks through the night. Today, if you visit those hills and fields, you will still see the flocks grazing, and whitecloaked shepherds, who might almost be the same shepherds, standing by to see that no sheep wander away and that no bulls or fox comes down from the hills to steal a lamb.

This one night several of them were talking together as they guarded their sheep. Suddenly, it seemed to them as though the very skies opened up and they saw a great choir of angels. The choir was singing and it was wonderfully beautiful music. They had never heard such music in all their lives. They listened and they heard the words the angels were singing: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

They were troubled about this miracle and couldn't understand it. Then an angel explained to them and comforted them: "Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

Then the angel told them that they could easily recognize the baby. They would find Him wrapped in swadding clothes and lying in a manger. So, after the angels left, the shepherds decided that they would go to Bethlehem and see for themselves this great thing the angel had told them about.

As fast as they could, they hurried do the inn at Bethlehem and there, just as the angel had said, they found the stable, the manger and the child. And so these simple men from the countryside became the first people, other than Mary and Joseph, to look upon the face of Jesus.

Tomorrow: WISE MEN FROM THE EAST.

(Corrected final paragraphs in Friday's instalment.)

The kindly dumb animals came and peered at the babe who had been born so humbly amongst them. We don't know what they said to each other or, indeed, if they said anything at all.

And then Jesus remembered that, months before, he had had a strange dream. An angel had appeared to him in his sleep and had told him that Mary would have a son. The angel told him then to name that son Jesus.

So, now, he picked up the baby and placed, him in his mother's arms. "He will call the child Jesus," he said.

PICTON
Friends Rally To Aid Soldier As House Burns

PICTON — Friends are rallying to aid a Picton soldier, his wife and four children, who lost all their possessions when fire destroyed the house in which they were living near Cherry Valley.

Flames in Athol township are being canvassed for funds and clothing, and many others are responding to the appeal.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesson Hayes and family resided in a tenant house owned by James Connors. Mrs. Hayes had gone about 75 yards distant to secure milk. Her son, Jason, Jr., age 5, came running to cry "the house is on fire." His three-year-old sister, Janice followed him. So quickly did the fire spread that nothing could be saved. The Hayes lost $300 in cash which had been secured in anticipation of a hospital bill, a TV set, washing machine and all the clothing except that which they were wearing. The children's Christmas toys were also lost.

Mr. Connors, who owned the house and carried no insurance, lost furniture and other household effects.

The fire is believed to have started from a wood-burning stove. Wind in a favorable direction assisted volunteer firefighters in saving nearby buildings.

PICTON
Warden Parks Banquet Host

PICTON — County Warden Murney Parks was host last night at the annual Warden's banquet, when two hundred guests enjoyed a turkey supper, and an interesting program. Many tributes were paid to the Warden by members of council, who were in turn praised for the co-operation they had given.

Sheriff H. A. Colliver acted as toastmaster for the gathering of two hundred, at the Parish hall. Warden James Sprackett of Hastings County, replied to the remarks of Warden Parks. Toast to the Women of Canada was given by C. T. Young, Q.C., and George Tustin, M.P. Toast to the province of Ontario was given by Judge W. S. Lane and Norris Whitney, M.P.P., and that to the County of Prince Edward by John Arnaud and R. L. Perkin. A group of Toronto artists provided a program of music and acrobatics.

CATTLE GO TO PERU

A shipment of Prince Edward cattle to Peru is to be made in the near future, according to Tom Hays of Hays Ltd., Oakville, who is in the county buying bred Holstein heifers. The cattle will be flown from Malton to New York and then by boat to Peru. Among breeders who have sold cattle for this purpose are H. Ketcheson, Colin Hudgin, Gough Bros., Gordon Parks, Roy Welbanks, Allan MacDonald, George Hubbard, Monfa Farms, Curtis Doxsee, E. M. Parks, Leland Doxsee, E. E. Walt and Ross Spencer.

PICTON
Beaver Build Large Dam At Black Creek

PICTON — Beaver have invaded Prince Edward County, far from their natural habitat. At Black Creek, seven miles south of Picton, George Maycock reports the animals as having felled some twenty trees. Most of these are young popular several inches in diameter, but one was nearly a foot thick. The trees had been chewed in lengths and then dragged to a nearby stream where a dam is being built. Since no damage will be done, the animals are not being molested.

Also in the news is an item reported by Lawrence Magee of Sillsville. While cutting pumpkins to feed the hens, he noted that the seeds inside had already begun to sprout. The pumpkins were solid and growth of the seeds is unusual.

SHOPPERS GET BREAK

Christmas shoppers in this town are getting a break. Usually it is necessary to deposit pennies in the parking meters. At town council this week it was decided that free parking would be in force from December 22 until December 27. The action reflects the council's spirit of goodwill engendered by the holiday season]

Letters From Mexico

By ARNOLD MEYERS

Editor's Note: Last year the Ontario Intelligencer was pleased to publish letters dealing with the topography of Mexico, its people, its architecture, and its flora as viewed through the eyes of a writer, and former resident, Mr. Arnold Meyers, who is again spending some time there with his brush. Beginning today, more letters will be published from time to time, as received. The first one follows.

Mexico City, Yucatan, Mexico.

"There are two main places where people meet in a Latin American city the main plaza and the market. Of these two, the most important for the meeting of minds is the plaza.

PICTURESQUE ZOCALO

"The great plaza of Merida, properly called the Zocalo, is a large affair very picturesquely decorated with several species of Mexican pine. These are trained into various squarish shapes, much as one would see in any American city. Dominating the Zocalo on the east is the fine old Cathedral de Ildefonso, and as far as I'm concerned, it's the main artistic attraction in the immediate vicinity.

"Sauntering under the huge laurel trees which border the Zocalo a few days ago, I accidentally found myself accosted by a young brown-haired fellow of very stalwart appearance.

"'You from the States?' he queried, with a smile.

"'No, from Canada.' "Oh Canada! What part?"

"I explained my origin and we introduced ourselves. He informed me that his, himself, was from the state of Ohio.

"You know, Meyers, my wife and I and our children have been living over at Oaxaca, for six months. Then we decided, on the advice of friends to move over here. Well sir, we thought we'd be smart. We took the train from Oaxaca down through Coatzalcoalcos and thus across the base of the Gulf of Mexico for a song. Little did we know what lay in store for us.

TIME MEANS NOTHING

"Well, things went swell for the first few hours, but from then on, the complexion of things began to change. The train stopped at every tool shed or work crew and the whole affair was a mix up in chronics. Oh, time meant nothing—nothing at all. Everybody just climbed off and loafed around for a while, got back on and eventually moved on. By now I know how long it took us to get to Campeche? A full week. Well, I'm telling you we had to lay over in Campeche for two days just to recover from the ordeal.

He told of a place in the far interior of Quintana Roo called Chichen Itza where the Mayans worship their old gods, and that the white man is definitely not welcome. In fact, they have sentries posted with loaded rifles and quite prepared to blow the head off any one foolish enough to attempt an entry.

"Finally, it appeared that Everett had come "up" an impasse with the owner, who, incidentally was a middle-aged woman from Merida. He couldn't quite understand her Spanish and he wondered if I could do any better, but to me it was even worse. She wanted 200 pesos per month ($15.00). He didn't seem to feel that he could afford that much (although, heaven knows, it's little enough).

"By the time we were ready to come away they had not yet definitely settled the deal. The lady from Merida, Everett and I returned to Merida in the same cab. The seats of the car where the sun had been shining for days on end, not you couldn't bear sitting on them. On the way back, she took us into her mansion, obviously the home of quite a wealthy person—all manner of antiques about. She had been in Paris, in fact had a daughter who was studying operatic singing there. She was a charming old lady, though.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It is not unusual, indeed it is very popular, for commercials, especially radio characters, I must confess, to enjoy reminding people about anniversary dates. It is not uncommon, however, to observe an anniversary date which has a rare object of tangible evidence commemorating a rare and remarkable personality, such as General George Washington. Next year 156 years ago last Wednesday, December 14th, 1955.

Six years after General Washington died, or in 1805, there were medals struck in the United States to commemorate the death of the great American patriot and the first president of the United States. There are three known medals in existence today — two in the Metropolitan Museum, New York City — and the third is owned by and is in the possession of Mrs. W. N. Ponton, 26 Bleasdell, Belleville. Surely this is a rare article about which a story of factual history might be woven.

When the medals were struck, they were cast from bronze cannon captured by General Washington and one of Mrs. Ponton's forebears was aide to the General. He was a resident of Virginia at the time and it is his medal which is now the proud possession of Mrs. Ponton.

The story behind the medal is a picture of General Washington in base-relief with the words "General Washington, inducted to His Memory, D. Eccleston, Lancaster 1805."

The wealth shows up in the multiplicity of fine homes we passed along the way. In Progreso, the road is bad; for one to go from there on to Merida would be a nightmare, for the road is full of holes, but Merida is a city that caused the daily procession of huge trucks carrying henequin to the mill to detour around the city to the old Cathedral de Ildefonso, and as far as I'm concerned, it's the main artistic attraction in the immediate vicinity.

"Sauntering under the huge laurel trees which border the Zocalo a few days ago, I accidentally found myself accosted by a young brown-haired fellow of very stalwart appearance.

"'You from the States?' he queried, with a smile.

"'No, from Canada.' "Oh Canada! What part?"

"I explained my origin and we introduced ourselves. He informed me that his, himself, was from the state of Ohio.

"You know, Meyers, my wife and I and our children have been living over at Oaxaca, for six months. Then we decided, on the advice of friends to move over here. Well sir, we thought we'd be smart. We took the train from Oaxaca down through Coatzalcoalcos and thus across the base of the Gulf of Mexico for a song. Little did we know what lay in store for us.

TIME MEANS NOTHING

"Well, things went swell for the first few hours, but from then on, the complexion of things began to change. The train stopped at every tool shed or work crew and the whole affair was a mix up in chronics. Oh, time meant nothing—nothing at all. Everybody just climbed off and loafed around for a while, got back on and eventually moved on. By now I know how long it took us to get to Campeche? A full week. Bornholm Lovely Isle in the Baltic Sea

By Lavonia Stockelbach

After waiting more than forty years to visit this island it seemed advisable to prepare oneself to be disappointed. It was a rocky island; it was silent; storm-beaten it lay bound and boots could be held up for weeks and so quiet all our plans for rail or plane connections. Still that siren island continued to call and I sallied also to my fellow companion who had never been there and who, like me, was curious to go.

We had been visiting friends near Elsinore and had to rise at six to catch the train to Copenhagen, cross that city by the quay to get on the boat for Bornholm.

The dining-room at the station looked appetizing with its bouquets of flowers on the tables, its neatly dressed, rosy cheeked waitresses and its delicious breads and pastries.

We left feeling ready to face another day after having eaten on the boat in due time. Truly the Danish ships must be the cleanest in the world. If Scandinavia is next to Godliness" the Danes must be high up on the list for Godliness. One can easily believe that civilization is the result of the twin disciplines of patience and soap and water. Not elbow grease added, just as deodorant. Perhaps the fact that the day was another of the bright sunny days that this year of our land has so startled us with its weather-worn peoples of Europe. It was warm and we settled comfortably and contentedly to our seven hours' journey, watching closely, at least within sight, of the eastern shore of Sweden.

ANCIENT CASTLE

By plane one can make the distance in fifty minutes for $6.75 but sailing seems to me preferable when there is a reasonable length of time.

Bornholm is spoken of as an island of white, very white, sand dunes, blue water and green forests. One must also add the huge outcroppings of granite in the folds of which is to be found specimens of purple heather. The heather of Bornholm is especially rich in lavender tint; here it is a deep purple that enhances the color of the granite and the blue of the air for trees. Apart from the heather it seemed very dull.

Bornholm is an island in the Baltic Sea midway between Sweden and Germany.

It is also an island of huge barren hills of granite and sand. Here it is the centre of a great herring industry, that long fishing is particular interest to one coming from another little island, Grand Manan, in the Bay of Fundy. We landed at Ronne, a town of 13,000 inhabitants that dates back to the 12th century during which time it has been attacked by the Swedes and Germans, the last time in 1945 when it suffered dreadfully during the bombardment of the Germans.

The Russians were then our welcomed allies but they were also to fight the Germans and of those days we were to hear many tales with a pleasing ring about the valor of the Swedes having sent over 2,000 wooden boats to take the place of those destroyed.

TIDY DWELLINGS

The houses cosy and very tidy dwellings of one storey built close to the street. In the streets like the houses, spotlessly clean and stretching out to the sea. One is never conscious of dust or sight of the Baltic and surely no air in the world could be purer than it. I know only one scent as sweet and that by sharp contrast, the air after a snow storm.

Along the water-side were delightful little gardens, some very small to be called parks, with comfortable benches apparently in no risk of the destruction of elements of naughty children. The town had all the charm of an old-world seaport place. It had also the most modern developments of industry pertaining to its shipping and fishing industries.

INTERESTING SHOPS

Of particular note were the book shops and their contents so often to be seen in the windows of Danish mark. One found translations into Danish of the "Saturday Evening Post" and other magazines and stories of adventure.

Going Places

Arizona Is Resort Paradise

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Arizona, the land of the long prairie where the coyotes howl and the wind blows free, has been down there in the southwest corner of the United States for a long time, the coyotes howling, the wind blowin' free, and the sun shinin' hot and steady day after day year round.

There were white men snooping around almost half a dozen generations before the better publicized first arrivals in New England, and the enchantment of the strange and beautiful desert has been part of American lore throughout our history.

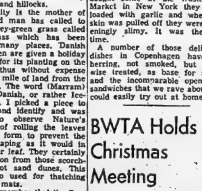
But as a tourist resort it has had unfortunate problems to cope with in the minds of the west for Westerners, and either too close to magical California or just too far away from the east for Easterners. Its appeal for many years was limited to a comparative handful of devotees who could afford the time and expense of a long trip to enjoy the wide open spaces, and passionately believed that here was the closest approach to heaven on the Western continent.

It's the direct result of a parochial bunch of eastern travel editors and commentators what all the yippee-ay was about. Until the past few years a long weekend in the southwest was within the range of possibility, American Airlines strapped the DC-3 on its wings and mid-Thursday morning last month and deposited us in Tucson half a day later in time for a real old-fashioned western barbecue dinner.

After getting over our initial disappointment in discovering that the first sun-bronzed, bowlegged cowpoke we met was a redhead with a ginger moustache, we found that the orgy was confined to a single white cotton-puff cloud marred the vast vista of sky, but Arizonans said that that was unusual.

As incredibly warm as the days were, the nights were cool enough to keep warm.

NO HUMIDITY



The absence of humidity in the desert drives away the heat of the sun as soon as it begins to sink below the horizon, and the cool night rain that through breakfast it's as cool as it could be—but than you could want it.

Rain? Well, thunderstorms once in a while, mostly during mid-winter, but not enough to seriously hamper anything.

And is it near to the east or Northern Europe? Not a little as long weekend? As far as the time is concerned, how often have you had half an hour's drive—just as little as a long weekend?

The expense is a matter for your own pocketbook, but for a full vacation, particularly considering the reasonableness of some available accommodations, $34 one-way air fare from Toronto to Tucson, Bob Fraser. Her captivated listeners nodded unanimously.

The exchange of Christmas gifts concluded a pleasant evening.

Empire Room

Empire Room guests on the second floor, they felt sure we'd be taken for authentic Arizona cattlemen.

The big story in Arizona is the climate. But few casual passers-through take them that way to go to southern California in the mid-summer tourist season, ever see it. Those who do become missionaries they have of it are shrouded in the haze of the steadily blazing 100-plus sun, which continues to reign long hours after it has set.

Indications of this punishment from late fall until midspring it offers a consistent and comfortable warm climate which probably surpasses even Florida for dependability and takes almost all the gamble out of choosing a resort for its weather. That's a great deal more than we can say for any other climate we've seen in North America.

SUNSHINE

The sun shines an astounding average of 11 hours a day year 'round in Arizona. In midwinter it reaches well up into the 80's for an adequate four or five hours between the morning and late afternoon.

It's the driest weather we've ever seen and the only one in which you can spend all day basking without getting painfully becoming headachey, or nauseated.

Indicative of the consistency of the weather, Arizona's airports are hampered by weather a greater percentage of the time than any others in the country.

Completely overcast days, with no sunshine at all, are so rare as to be phenomenal. The common parlance for partly days so much a part of the weather through the rest of the country are considered terrible in the southwest. During the four days we spent there only one night's white cotton-puff cloud marred the vast vista of sky, but Arizonans said that that was unusual.

As incredibly warm as the days were, the nights were cool enough to keep warm.

PRETTY DISPLAY

A Coventry street store has drawn admirers with a nursery scene. As the cuckoo clock strikes midnight and the fairy waves her wand, the toys come to life.

But Christmas has its wicked fairy, too. Prices have risen sharply and purchase taxes, imposed in the emergency October budget, have increased the price of such practical presents as kitchenware, sheets, towels or blankets. Phonograph records were also affected by the budget, but the sales still are reported above normal, though long-playing records are less popular than the standard ones.

Christmas celebrations generally take the form common in North America, with Christmas trees, holly, mistletoe, family festivities and sumptuous meals. In Scotland, however, Christmas festivities tend to be less exuberant than at Hogmanay, the Scottish new year, when the real enthusiasm is uncorked.

Christmas Pageant In Batawa Church

BATAWA—After several weeks of rehearsals and planning a fine Christmas pageant will take place in Batawa United church Sunday night at 7:30.

Mrs. A. Storey, who conducted the successful pageant two years ago, is the director this season. More than thirty persons are taking part in the program and the church has been gaily decorated for the event. Dozens of candles will provide the lighting for the pageant. A hearty welcome is extended to all residents of the neighborhood and elsewhere who wish to attend.

Three Charged With Murder In Man's Death

COCHRANE (CP) — Three bush workers were charged with murder Friday in connection with the death Thursday of Joseph Rizzo, a 70-year-old nearby Hunta storekeeper.

Florent Lapointe, 23, and Armand Hebert, 21, both of Cochrane, were remanded in custody on charges of robbing the merchant when word of his death was announced. The trial was interrupted and the two, who had pleaded guilty to the charges, were remanded in custody.

The third man, Paul Gauthier, 26, also of Cochrane, was remanded Wednesday.

Friday morning, the three were charged with murder.

Rizzo was beaten and robbed Monday night. He was found, unconscious and bound hand and foot, in his store Tuesday by a bread company delivery man.

CASH MISSING

Police said they think Rizzo, who lived behind his store 15 miles east of here, heard prowlers and got up to investigate.

About $130 in cash was missing and the store had been ransacked, they said.

Rizzo was driven to hospital here but he died without regaining consciousness.

Crown attorney Wilfred Dupont said his office may ask for a further two-week remand when the three men appear for preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Veteran Alberta Legislator Dies

EDMONTON (CP)—The death of 88-year-old George Hoadley, who served continuously for 26 years in the Alberta legislature and for 14 of those years as a provincial cabinet minister, was reported here.

Word was received from Victoria that Mr. Hoadley died in hospital there Wednesday.

In 1909, as a Conservative, he was elected to the Alberta assembly for Okotoks. He was subsequently re-elected for the same constituency in 1913 and 1917 and as a Conservative sat with the opposition during a Liberal reign.

In 1921 he changed parties, joining the United Farmers of Alberta, who unseated the Liberal government.

That year, Mr. Hoadley became agriculture minister and in 1925 was also named minister of health. He held both portfolios until 1935, when he became health minister and minister of railways and telephones.

Mr. Hoadley was defeated in a bid for re-election in 1935, when Social Credit swept to power in the province.

SPEAKER RESIGNS

QUEBEC (CP) — Alexander Tache resigned Thursday after 11 sessions as Speaker of the legislative assembly—the longest term ever served in the post. Mr. Tache will become a district judge in his home riding of Hull. He will be replaced by Maurice Tellier, 38-year-old Union Nationale member for Montcalm riding.

Indians Watch Magistrate Hold Court in North

MOOSONEE, Ont. (CP) — The magistrate hurriedly ate a sandwich and gulped a cup of coffee before sliding behind the lawyer's desk to preside over court.

Outside, a dozen Indians stood in the darkness, their faces pressed against the schoolhouse windows, watching the proceedings. Another 50 or so sat in the classroom seats and stood along the walls.

Magistrate Marcel Leger was an hour late arriving at this remote James bay community Wednesday because the train from Cochrane, 200 miles to the south, made many extra stops to deliver Christmas supplies and gifts.

Serious cases here are rare. None of those found guilty will spend Christmas in jail.

HOMEBREW CHARGE

A hefty squaw and her little husband were charged with having homebrew on a reserve.

Four Indians pleaded guilty to drunkenness. They were to pay their fines so the magistrate agreed to defer payment so they wouldn't have to go jail for the holiday season.

One long-limbed youth faced his fifth offence of drunkenness. He was fined $25.

"You have to stop drinking," magistrate Leger said. "You cannot stand liquor. You are making a fool of yourself before everyone."

In the case of the couple charged with having homebrew, RCMP Cpl. John Daoust testified he and two other officers raided the home. Factory island and found a man and woman there and a gallon jug of brew.

The squaw and her husband were said married.

Cpl. Daoust said everyone knew the brew was for use by the family and he believed the man's story that he knew nothing of the brewing. The charge against him was dropped.

The man found in the house was fined $25. The woman, Cpl. Daoust said, was old and unable to walk the 10 miles from her home to attend court. He said he would deliver her by snowmobile for the next court session.

The squaw testified she gave the old woman raisins, sugar and molasses to make the brew. The deal was that she would get half the brew and the old woman would have the other half to sell so she could buy groceries.

She was innocent, she said through an interpreter, and besides, she complained, the first brew the old woman made wasn't any good. She was found guilty and sullkily paid the $25 fine.

Plans now are underway for a $100,000 Ontario Provincial Police building which would include courtroom space along with living quarters for a constable and his family, four cells and a garage.

However, the garage actually will house a snowmobile and a boat.

District inspector Ralph Corrier said Thursday after arriving here to select a site for the building that there was no need for a police car. Roads in the village are the only ones in the district.

OPP were stationed here for summer duty three years ago. A year-round detachment was established last year but the constable now lives in the Ontario Northland Railway staff house.

Man Suffocated In Lunch Room Fire at Preston

PRESTON (CP) — Trapped in dense smoke while his three-room apartment burned, Norman Patterson, 65, proprietor of a lunch room here was suffocated Friday.

The fire is believed to have started in a chesterfield and may have been caused by a lighted cigaret.

Coroner Dr. C. G. Powers removed several items from the apartment for further examination. An inquest may be held.

Full extent of the damage has not been estimated. Owner of the apartment is O. J. Little, chairman of the Preston public utilities commission.

Concede Evatt Retains Seat

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Australia's Liberal-Country party coalition, triumphant in last Saturday's general election, conceded Friday that it had failed to oust Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, leader of the Labor opposition, from his place as member of the House of Representatives for Barton, New South Wales.

The count is still incomplete, but a scrutiny indicates Evatt will have a majority over the Liberal candidate, W. T. Arthur.

Meanwhile the breakway anti-Communist faction of the Labor party seems certain to hold the balance of power in the Senate. Latest figures show that an anti-Communist party candidate, Frank McManus, should win the seat in Victoria, to deprive the government party of a second seat, and secure a majority in that chamber.

Bruce Mines has a population of 1,100 to 1,200. e is a shopping re for the belt of good farm-ns are of the period around 1900 en Lord Percy Douglas and d Sholto Douglas, grandsons of Marquess of Queensberry who erties.

The Douglas brothers lived in a lely frame house overlooking

The trip had its mental hazards.
e mail led right through the wn cemetery, long since aban-
ned. Passengers from England usu-lly arrived at night. "I sure used fly through that cemetery in e dark," Mr. White recalls.
The Douglas brothers carried on extensive surface development. They built a narrow-gauge railway to link various operations and later it was extended to the rock lake mine, some 10 miles north. Local folks dubbed it the "Nip and Tuck."

They were followed by U.S. interests and one of their representatives was William Braden, whose son, Spruille, became a U.S. diplomat.

There is no accurate record of value of Bruce copper production. In 1866, an Ontario mining authority estimated the total from beginning of mining operations at between $3,500,000 and $7,000,000. Final stage of mining activity ran from 1914 to 1921 when the Mond Nickel Company shipped the silt-ings here to its flotation smelter near Sudbury for fluxing purposes.

The current diamond drilling is being carried out by Bruce-Presto, a subsidiary of Preston East Dome which has branched out from its parent gold mine in the Timmins area to look for other mineral and holds major interests in the Blind River uranium field 60 miles east of here.

Bruce folks hope the diamond drills may hit uranium here too. Recently local interests reported indications of a find on a former N field, over on the north shore ore bodies now being explored.

As for copper, it's known to be there. The question is whether the grade is high enough to make it worth-while. Ontario mining operations a profitable venture. Preston, which arranged settlement of mining taxes, hasn't disclosed results of its extensive prospecting.

Mr. White says "we're all just hoping."

Mayor Grigg, serving his 24th consecutive term, declines comment.

Skin Grafts From Convicts Help Save Boy

MONTREAL (CP)—Skin grafts donated by relatives of the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary helped save the life of a 14-year-old boy, it was learned Friday.

The boy, whose name has been withheld, suffered third degree burns, was seriously burned by fire last September. Medical authorities at the Montreal General Hospital said the boy's entire skin area, with the exception of his face, was affected.

Some 30 men volunteered to donate their skin to the boy. Eight strips of skin were taken from the arms and thighs of each of the volunteers.

Doctors said the boy, who had received 40 pints of blood through transfusions, is now "coming along nicely."

Star-Phoenix Raises Price

SASKATOON (CP)—The Saskatoon Star - Phoenix Friday announced an increase in its single-copy rates in the newspaper's history.

The paper said carrier-delivered rates in country points would be boosted 5 cents a week to bring them in line with city rates, and single copy rates in both the city and country would be raised from five to seven cents.

GIVE AWAY HALF-BILLION DOLLARS

Gifts of $500,000,000 to 3,500 hospitals and 615 private colleges and universities are announced by the Ford Foundation at its New York city offices. Shown giving details of this biggest donation in philanthropic history are H. Rowan Gaither, Jr. (left), president of the Foundation; Henry Ford 2nd (right), chairman of the board of trustees, and Devereaux C. Court Upholds Validity Of Wheat Board Act

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Manitoba court decision has ruled against a turkey raiser who challenged powers held by the Canadian wheat board. A verdict the other way would have cast constitutional doubts over Canada's grain marketing system.

But the fight involving the board's authority to control the domestic grain trade is not over yet. Judgment on a similar case is expected to be delivered in Saskatchewan next week or the turkey farmer's lawyer announced plans to go to the Supreme Court for a binding decision.

BOARD IS VALID

Mr. Justice Ralph Maybank, in a judgment handed down in Dominion Queen's bench, ruled Friday that the Canadian Wheat Board Act was valid and constitutional in doing so, he dismissed a civil suit brought against the Canadian Pacific Railway by Stephen F. Murphy.

Mr. Murphy sought a court order declaring that he was entitled to ship feed grain to his Prinsdale and Mission City farms in British Columbia and that the CPR must carry it. The board, in 1950, refused to carry the shipment on the ground that the CPR did not have an authorizing permit from the wheat board.

Because of the constitutional issues raised, the federal government was brought into the case as a third party.

Mr. Maybank not only tested the validity of wheat board legislation dealing with movement of grain from province to province but also the whole complex method of marketing Canada's grain. The board sole purchaser of Canada's wheat, oats and barley.

Written reasons of the 50-page judgment were expected to be released today.

Judgment on a similar case is expected to be delivered in Regina, Albert, Sask., next Friday by magistrate W. G. Elder. Hector Dupuis, a farmer from Dupuis, Sask., was charged with delivering oats into a railway car without first obtaining permission of the board. The car was shipped to Fort William and the grain sold last August.

Mr. Brunet served notice on the attorney-general of Saskatchewan stating that the Wheat Board Act is ultra vires the federal regulation of trade and commerce, nor of agriculture in the province.

During the Manitoba court hearing last March, M. J. Finkelstein, lawyer for Mr. Murphy, argued that the Wheat Board Act was contrary to Section 121 of the British North America Act which says Canadian produce may move freely between provinces.

Prairies Likely To Get More Heavy Storms

REGINA (CP)—Parts of the blizzard-battered prairies may be in for more of the same.

Some forecasters in the western Prairies were expected to get near-blizzard conditions this afternoon, and blowing-snow conditions would spread across Saskatchewan and most of Manitoba, the forecasters said.

Their predictions came as the Prairies were beginning to return to normal after being staggered by the winter's worst blizzard, which took at least three lives during its rampage earlier in the week.

Officials of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways said Friday they were working to capacity to clean up the snow that still blocked four CNR and one CPR branch lines.

It was first believed one of the victims, Imp. D. J. McCombe, commanding officer of the North Battleford subdivision, died from carbon monoxide poisoning when he left the motor of his ditched car running. However, it was later found death was due to exposure.

Hunting Season Took Big Toll of Hunters, Also Game

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The 1955 hunting season took a heavy toll of hunters as well as game.

At least 70 persons died from accidents. Many were dropped by bullets aimed by other hunters at what they thought were deer. Others died when they carried their guns carelessly or failed to observe precautions while unloading or cleaning weapons.

Some drowned when they ventured out duck-hunting in rough water in too-frail craft.

Two hunters were shot when they made the mistake of carrying a slain deer on their shoulders as they went back to camp. Other hunters saw fur moving and started shooting.

The toll, already higher by one than 1954's count, was taken despite an advertising campaign conducted by most provinces asking hunters to use more caution in the woods.

Figures on the year's toll are still not complete. All provinces still have some seasons open, and game wardens' reports have not all been submitted, to provincial governments.

The actual figure is considerably higher than 70, since five provinces do not include drownings in their reports.

Ontario, which sent a record number of hunters into its woods, had 33 fatalities from gun accidents only, 24 more than any other province and 13 more than in 1954.

Poor conditions would spread across Saskatchewan and most of Manitoba, the forecasters said.

Their predictions came as the Prairies were beginning to return to normal after being staggered by the winter's worst blizzard, which took at least three lives during its rampage earlier in the week.

Officials of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways said Friday they were working to capacity to clean up the snow that still blocked four CNR and one CPR branch lines.

Most Time Lost By GM Workers

OTTAWA (CP)—A strike of 17,000 employees of General Motors plants accounted for most of the time lost in 24 work stoppages during November, the labor department said Friday.

The GM strike which began Sept. 19, along with the strike of aircraft factory workers at Downsview, Ont., and Wire and Cable factory workers at Toronto, accounted for 347,000 man-working days, 91 per cent of the total lost time.

The stoppages in November involved 21,296 workers with a time loss of 379,200 man-working days. This compared with 21 stoppages in October with 23,368 workers involved and a time loss of 378,760 days.

In November, 1954, there were 24 stoppages involving 20,645 workers and a time loss of 326,843 days.

Justice Orders $19,500 Be Paid To Complainant

TORONTO (CP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario has ordered businessman John O'Part to pay $19,500 to the woman with whom he lived for 11 years, but turned down her request for $500,000 alimony.

Mr. O'Part, a patent medicine manufacturer, also was ordered to pay $3,640 a year for the support of their eight-year-old son, Richard Henry.

Cyprienne La Salle, a former Montreal restaurant hostess, had asked $500,000 or $500 a week as separation allowance and as income, fees and salaries for the period she lived with Mr. O'Part. She also wanted $250 a week for the boy.

GIVEN HOME PROPERTY

Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson made the awards yesterday after a five-day hearing. The settlement was based on the value of some property given the woman by Mr. O'Part and later sold.

The order gives Miss La Salle $170 a month for her son's maintenance and $11,000 a year for private schooling. She also will get interest from June 1, 1954, on the awarded herself.

Justice Ferguson said Miss La Salle had framed her statement of claim as though it were a divorce action. He added:

"But a claim of that sort is only appropriate bet w en married people. The plaintiff and the defendant in this case are not married, so the claim for alimony can be put aside."

MEXICAN DIVORCE

Miss La Salle had contended she was married to Mr. O'Part in 1943 after he obtained a Mexican divorce from his wife.

"No Mexican court had justification to grant a decree to one not domiciled in Ontario," the Justice Ferguson said.

Mr. O'Part denied he had gone through a marriage contract with the plaintiff. He said he had introduced her to his friends and associates as his wife, but they were living in an "adulterous relationship" from 1943 until they separated last January.

Miss La Salle said she needed the settlement to maintain the standard of living to which she and her son were accustomed. She said her son had worn hand-tailored $60 suits since he was three and refused to wear a suit costing only $30.

"I learned to drive in a Cadillac," she added.

Russian Leaders Out to Smash Baghdad Pact

By PETER JACKSON

KABUL, Afghanistan (Reuters) — The main aim of Soviet Premiers, Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev's visit to Afghanistan is to use Afghanistan to "smash the Baghdad Pact," a Western diplomats here.

These diplomats quote Khrushchev's own words while in Kashmir: "It is apparent to all that the Baghdad Pact is directed against the Soviet Union and other peace-loving countries. For this reason it is our aim to weaken this military alliance. This could lead to dangerous adventures."

Afghanistan, which borders on Soviet central Asia, has been visited two members of the Baghdad pact, Pakistan and Iran. But it is a "dagger pressed to the heart of the pact," as one diplomat put it.

The Russian visit may make use of Afghanistan's long-standing dispute with Pakistan over the Pushtu-speaking peoples of Pakistan.

SHOULD BE INDEPENDENT

Afghanistan claims that the Pushtu-speaking Afghans, known variously as Pathans, Pakhtuns and Pushtoons—should have an independent state. It has even called Pakhtunistan the land of the Pakhtuns. This Afghanistan defines as an area between the Afghan border and the Indus—in fact most of western Pakistan.

Indian officials in New Dehli said the Soviet leaders had given the impression in talks there that they would probably offer arms to Afghanistan which would find their way to the Pakhtun areas.

Western diplomats in Kabul believe the Soviet leaders may announce their support for Afghanistan against Pakistan as they did for India in the Indian-Pakistan dispute over Kashmir during their Kashmir visit.

Apart from political issues, the Russian leaders are expected to offer Afghanistan increased economic aid to draw her closer to the Soviet sphere.

Economic Expert Becomes Teacher

OTTAWA (CP)—John J. Deutsch is leaving Ottawa as one of the federal government's top ranking economic advisers to teach at the University of British Columbia.

The switch in mid-1956 will end 20 years of federal service by the 44-year-old assistant deputy finance minister and secretary of the treasury board, the 100-man bureau which keeps watch on government spending.

A one-time editorial writer for the Winnipeg Free Press, he will become head of the economics faculty at UBC, taking over from Henry Angus, who will retire next year.

Consumer Spending, Capital Expenditure in Britain Rise Faster Than Does Production

Written For The Canadian Press
By GEORGE ABRAHAMSON

LONDON (CP) — Continual but not entirely successful attempts to curb the inflationary boom marketed the British economic scene throughout 1955.

Production increased by almost five per cent while consumer spending and capital expenditure both productive and non-productive rose much faster.

Attracted by the booming home market, imports in the first 10 months rose by £480,000,000—or 17 per cent—over 1954. But exports were only £180,000,000—just eight per cent—higher.

YEAR-END IMPROVEMENT

The adverse trade balance widened by £300,000,000 to £727,000,000, and the gold and dollar reserves fell by £210,000,000 by Nov. 3. Yet as the year ended, the balance of payments appeared once again to be in equilibrium.

The need for stringent anti-inflationary measures was evident early in the year. The government raised the bank rate by one-half per cent, and then later by one per cent to bring it to 4½ per cent. Interest rates for public works were also boosted.

Early in the year, the curb on hire purchase was tightened, and then strengthened in July. By then, however, it was clear further action was necessary.

While various short-term interest rates were raised, banks were advised to reduce advances to an average of 10 per cent, and a "credit squeeze" was applied by the treasury in the field of long-term money market.

Since these steps failed to bring early relief, the purchase and profits taxes were raised in October, thus contracting income tax concessions in April.

EASY SUBSIDIES CUT

This action was followed by restrictions on loans to local authorities. Public capital expenditure on all but urgent and essential projects was slowed down.

The various anti-inflationary measures had a progressively restrictive effect on the credit volume in the second half of the year. But so far they have failed to halt the wage-price spiral.

Wage rates rose sharply in spring and edged higher after the costly dock and rail strikes in the following months. The cost of living advanced slowly, and basic industrial materials also grew more expensive, although there was a partial correction in the autumn.

Increases are primarily helped to keep prices of industrial manufacturers for export fairly stable. The unsatisfactory showing of exports was due to excessive home market absorption and to a deterioration of British competitive strength.

A slight decline is coal production due to the manpower shortage has been made good by larger imports, but iron and steel output rose satisfactorily. In consumer goods industries, employment declined, and there was a similar contraction in housebuilding.

On the other hand, all metal-using industries surged ahead and closed the year again with full order books. With labor shortages becoming more acute in these trades, he flunked a sobriety test.

DRUGGED, HE SAYS

mechanization and automation account for a growing proportion of industrial plant expenditure. Investment on new production capacity is becoming more selective.

BOOM IN SECURITIES

The stock exchange boom in industrial shares reached its climax about the middle of the year, when though the impact of higher interest rates were felt by fixed-interest securities in April.

Credit curbs caused temporary inconvenience to the discount market, small business firms, and indirectly to property dealers and the building societies which were forced to raise their mortgage rates to 5½-5¾ per cent.

By November, however, the financial markets had settled down to the "dearer money" policy. Early in December, the ordinary share index was still three per cent higher than at the beginning of the year, though 12 per cent below the mid-year peak.

Fixed-interest government securities were 12 per cent lower, with gold mining shares down 20 per cent. Oil and base metal values showed substantial gains during the year. Among others, shipbuilding and television shares were the only substantial advances. Chemicals, electrical and other engineering shares retained some of the gains of the first-half of 1955 while textile, stores, tobacco and food shares all were lower.

In the final quarter of 1955, a slight but distinct improvement occurred in economic fields.

Lutheran Congregation Moves Again

Long history of migration and eviction for the Palatine family of the Lutheran Church is being repeated now with the removal of their community buildings at Morrisburg, Ont., as part of the Seaway development. The Palatines, named after St. Lawrence seaway development. The Palatines, named after their place of origin in Germany, from which they were first evicted, were among the first and most numerous of the United Empire Loyalists, settling in Ontario after leaving all their possessions behind in New York State. This time, however, their flight is a peaceful one, with full compensation granted for all material losses. The cup, held by Rev. F. J. Howald, Lutheran pastor, and Mrs. Sam Schwertfeger, commemorates one of the earlier Lutheran triumphs. It was given by the congregation to a local M.P.P. in 1844 when he obtained for them compensation when Anglicans took over their church. (Central Press Canadian).

Machinist And Poet

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by Jack Tremblay

Just about 100 years ago a 37-year old machinist worked in a dirty, dust-laden foundry on the outskirts of Montreal. For ten and a half hours a day, he labored at this sweaty engaged in a tough and dirty trade.

His fellow workers talked and laughed with him, talked of their jobs and their hard way of life. None of them was rich. Most of them had barely enough to live on. In the slight, fair-haired machinist they had a sympathetic friend. Most of them never knew that they were entertaining a poet with an international reputation who had been described by a great critic at the day as "the greatest dramatist since Shakespeare."

Charles Heavysege was born in Liverpool, England. His parents were poor and, at the age of nine, he was taken from school and sent to work as a machinist apprentice. He had little time for books and not the opportunity to see only a few books. Almost everything he did is remembered and could recite by heart.

The boy's father was a deeply religious man and disapproved of reading beyond the page of the Bible. Young Charles, however, managed to save enough money to buy a copy of Shakespeare's plays which he read in secret. This book, the first he ever owned, he kept with him for the rest of his life.

POETIC DRAMA

Shortly after his arrival in Canada, Heavysege completed his own poetic drama, the story of Saul. Using his small earnings, he had the book published at his own expense and nothing more might have been heard of him or his work had not a copy of the book reached Nathaniel Hawthorne, the great New England writer, who was then in London. Hawthorne was greatly impressed and sent the book to his author friend in Boston.

In a short time, Heavysege became world famous. His work was reviewed in the great literary journals, one critic in the world praised the machinist for his great dramas. Longfellow called him the "greatest American Shakespeare", and many other classed his poem among the world's classics.

The machinist poet was invited to Boston to speak to literary clubs and societies. He was hailed as a genius. Then, he returned to his foundry bench. His wrote and published a few other books, none of which was a success and he died poor and almost forgotten.

Today, his books are all out of print. A volume of poetry by Charles Heavysege is a rare thing, sought by collectors of early Canadian literature. The author is not even known by name to most Canadians.

YOUR CAR

Poor Driving Can Cause Oil Leakage

By EUGENE MILMOE

Nothing seems to worry a car owner as much as an engine that uses more than the normal amount of oil. Usually, he thinks only in terms of serious engine trouble or oil leakage, but there are many other possibilities.

A clogged crankcase ventilating system, for example, or a faulty pressure relief valve might be to blame for high oil consumption. Fuel pumps with valves a vacuum booster serving the windshield wipers are also fairly common oil fenders. If the booster pump diaphragm becomes cracked or porous, oil drawn through it to the intake manifold can be considerable.

And let us not overlook the "man behind the wheel". Poor oil mileage can come from the type of driving the engine is subjected to, the careless way the clutch is operated or the kind of oil used.

E.T. asks: "I have gone over all my tires but cannot find any bumps or flat spots which might be causing the thumping noise on my 1952 convertible. Can you suggest any other tire trouble I should look for?"

(A) Make a careful inspection to determine if one of the tires are slightly oval-shaped or eccentric.

BRAKE SHOES LOOSE

From S.S.: "I tried adjusting my brake pedal but it still has too much free play. Do you suppose the master cylinder could be responsible in some way?"

(A) It could. Free pedal play will also be excessive if the master piston is defective.

C.H. writes: "When I start out in my 1950 car every morning, I can hear a kind of hollow knocking sound from the motor. After I have driven a few miles, I don't notice the noise any longer. Can you diagnose this mysterious trouble?"

(A) It sounds very much like piston slap, caused by one or more pistons with too much clearance. Usually, the noise is loudest when the engine is cold and seems to disappear when it is fully warmed up.

AFTER BURNING

C.S. asks: "A new muffler was installed on my 1949 car early this year. Now, it is burned out or broken like the first one. There has never been any loud knocking and the car has not been driven over rough or rocky terrain. The garage man who installed it insists the valves must be to blame. Can you either verify or refute this argument?"

(A) Leaky exhaust valves can cause after-burning or combustion in the exhaust system. The intense heat which builds up, as a result, will certainly shorten muffler life.

From P.D.: "My 1950 model runs well except for a few noises when shifting after I have driven for a while and the car is well heated up. This noise never happens, however, when the car is cold."

(A) The trouble could be due to a poor or light grade of transmission oil which thins out too much when subjected to heat.

Garden Notes

Gloxinias and Gifts For Gardeners

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Perhaps you have wondered what these plants with the big velvet bell-like blooms were.

They are gloxinias and, since the blooms last a long time, they make lovely gifts. If you grow one or get one this is how to care for it.

Gloxinias need light. They thrive in an east, south east, or a south window during the winter. A warm night temperature is needed, so if the window is cool and drafty move the plant away from it to where the temperature will not fall below 65 degrees. Dry atmosphere is also a detriment to growing gloxinias. They need a fair amount of humidity. You can increase moisture in the air by placing a planter packed with sphagnum moss near the plant. Keep the moss wet.

Tepid water should be used for watering. Allow soil to become fairly dry before supplying water. Water thoroughly and allow to drain. Blot up any water that falls on the leaves if the sun is shining on them. Water and sun cause brown spots on the leaves. Use liquid plant food every two weeks while the plant is in bloom.

When blooms have faded cut back to the lower two leaves. Decrease water until plant starts to growth again, or withhold water entirely until foliage withers, then store the tuber until it starts to sprout again.

Leave in the pot and store in a cool basement. The pots should be sprinkled with water once a week to keep the tubers from shriveling. When new leaves develop replace the top inch of soil with fresh soil; bring the plant into a sunny window and water as before.

Gloxinias are as easy to propagate as African violets. They make lings using small leaves. Root them in water, sand, or vermiculite.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS

For the outdoor gardener you can buy a beautiful gift of a hundred pounds of his favorite plant food, or a scarifying fork. It has three spoon-shaped tines that effectively open up compacted areas in the lawn. Another tool lifts out round cores of soil so that moisture, food and organic matter can seep freely into the soil.

Sprayers, dusters, water soluble food applicators, pruning shears and lightweight plastic hose are other good gift suggestions.

The Saver of Mothers

By NICHOLAS MIKA

(Article 10)

On a hot summer day, more than a hundred years ago, a young Hungarian doctor brought the entire General Hospital of Vienna into an uproar. He accused himself and his fellow doctors of murder. "We are all guilty," he shouted, "with our own hands we are killing the women in our hospital! We are not worthy to call ourselves doctors!"

His colleagues were astounded, they thought he had gone mad. No one had ever dared to criticize the famous Vienna hospital. Besides, who was this man to make such a statement?

Well, he was just a simple doctor among thousands, an assistant in the maternity ward, not even a name in the medical world. But there was something about him that distinguished him from others. He had sharp, observing eyes, a sensitive heart and the courage to say what he thought.

HIGH DEATH RATE

He was haunted by the terrible conditions in his ward where one out of every three or four women died of childbed fever. How could this be happening in a place of the joy on the face of a happy young mother slowly change into the agony of the killing fever?

The question grew desperate. He wracked his brain day and night searching for an answer. Why was the death rate in his ward four times as high as in the wards where midwives instead of doctors attended the patients? He did not have to wait long. The sudden death of a young woman gave him the answer. While performing a post-mortem examination, he had cut his finger and soon died of the same symptoms as the women in childbed fever. The cause was infection.

Gradually the pieces began to fit themselves together. Was not he himself in the autopsy room almost every day examining parts of the dead bodies and did he not go from there straight to his patients? Did he not touch the tender tissues with hands that carried the infection of the dead? It was he, the doctor, who brought the childbed fever to his women. He and the students who barely wiped their hands after they left the dissecting room. His and his fellow doctors' hands were the murder weapons. And that was the explanation for the lower death rate in the wards where the midwives attended.

"WASH YOUR HANDS"

At last he knew how to fight the deadly enemy. "Wash your hands!" became his battle cry. "Wash them thoroughly, not only once, but twice, three times! Scrub them with soap, wash them in chlorinated lime water!"

The medical world of his time did not know of germs and called him the Hungarian fool. Despite the fact that with his method of disinfection the death rate from childbed fever was lowered tremendously in his ward, he was pushed out of the hospital. He also lost his position as lecturer at the University. But he did not keep silent. On the street or in coffee-houses he spoke to people by handing them pamphlets in which he accused all doctors who did not scrub and wash their hands or being killers.

His friends laughed at him and when his behavior grew more and more eccentric, his wife brought him to an asylum. But though the world was cruel to him, his fate was merciful. He died a day later of the same disease against which he had fought desperately for a lifetime — blood poisoning. He was derided and scorned by the thousands of mothers owed their lives from then on to this simple doctor, Ignaz Semmelweis.

Ignaz Semmelweis appears on Hungarian stamps in 1955.

Heavy Early Fall of Snow In Manitoba Puts New Twist To Winter Sports Activity

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—A heavy early snowfall which spread nearly 40 inches of snow across Manitoba last month has put a twist in winter sports activity in the province.

Game hunting has slowed to a level which has some officials worried, but the record snowfall caused all clubs to report a resurgent interest that is bringing flocks of skiers back to the sport.

Deep snow restricted hunters in the south and the provincial government was forced to extend the deer-hunting season for a week in the hope that a bigger kill would be made, to prevent possible starvation in the spring among a surplus deer population.

HUNTERS HAMPERED

A. P. Davey, chief Manitoba game guardian, says the number of hunters so far has been "very much lower" than normal, cutting down the total number of deer shot in the regular season. Normally, game authorities aim at a 70 per cent kill-off to keep available food in proportion to herds.

The snowed-in conditions may result in a serious over-population of deer with overbrowsing and a scarcity of feed, Mr. Davey says. The animals themselves are snowbound and not able to move in a wide area in search of food.

But skiers are jubilant over the early snowfall. They took off ski-skiing centres at Brandon, La Riviere, Minn., 120 miles south of Winnipeg, and Grand Mere, Ont., in mid-November, well ahead of the late December starting times of previous years.

Puffin Ski Club, largest in greater Winnipeg, has reported that its season-opening membership this year was 230 per cent higher than last year when some of the province's clubs almost dwindled out of existence. One member says new life may be returned to the sport which five years ago claimed more than 1,000 members in the province.

DEER PLENTIFUL

The snow, however, has taken its vigor out of the hunters. 32,000 of whom took out licences last year. They have had to rely on bombardiers, crawler-type tractors, horse-drawn sleighs and snowshoes to take them deeper into the bush to find the deer which are plentiful.

Deer are plentiful and most of the old-hand hunters bagged at least one, Mr. Davey says. The moose season, which opened in mid-November and is to be plentiful, particularly in northern regions.

Elk hunting has been restricted to the area around Riding Mountain National Park in western Manitoba and elk, too, are working game officials.

The snowfall has forced them out of the park and they are invading farms and causing damage to hay and straw stacks. Resources Minister J. E. Greenlay says a sizable portion must be killed off or the damage will likely continue.

To the skier, the early snow has meant a revival of a two-year dream—development of a winter resort on the slopes of Riding Mountain Park, situated in Manitoba. The park was approved as a ski resort by a federal expert in 1953 and the government subsequently promised to build a seven-mile road into the area and clear the slopes.

The one condition was that private capital first build a lodge and skier conveyance. Interested Chambers of Commerce have banded together to raise the money.

Bulletins From Birdland

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

THE LONG SLEEP

From about 600 B.C., people have been intrigued with the disappearance of birds in autumn and their reappearance the following spring. Aristotle was one of the first to discuss migration, having noted cranes, pelicans, geese, and so on passing overhead.

Comments on this subject made by the Roman naturalist Pliny show his keen insight, but on one point he seems to have been wrong. He was confident that many birds hibernated. This theory persisted through the centuries, never even scientists of the eighteen hundreds stating that flocks of swallows had been found in muddy bottoms of ponds, that storks, kites, and doves remained hidden in trees or caves all winter.

For 75 years, however, this hibernation theory has been questioned by bird students, and the discovery of the winter homes of one species after another have solved proof that the word "migration" should be substituted for "hibernation". Nevertheless, in the last 15 years or so, we have learned about the habits of various kinds of birds, and exploration has led to many discoveries.

A few examples of torpidity have come to light, usually among swallows, swifts, and hummingbirds; and at least one poor-will is close kin of our Whip-poor-will) did hibernate.

HIBERNATING BIRD

In December '46, the biologist, Edmund C. Jaeger, inadvertently came upon a poor-will tucked away in the wall of a canyon in the Chuckwalla Mts. of California. This gave us the first conclusive evidence of a hibernating bird, though animals did this regularly. Bats had often been found in caves, hanging by one leg.

The bird was cold to the touch; its eyes were closed; and when picked up and stroked it gave no sign of life. Ten days later, Jaeger returned with another naturalist. This time when being handled the poor-will stretched its wings, and suddenly flew up to a tree.

In November of '47 Jaeger returned with special instruments. His bird was in the identical crevice. Over a period of 36 days, its temperature was found to vary only from 64.4 to 87 (certainly it should have been 106), a mirror held to its nostrils showed no breathing was taking place, and its weight became less and less as the fats taken into its system prior to the long sleep were gradually consumed. In February '48 it was banded.

From November '49 to February '50 motion pictures of the poor-will were taken on the spot, portraying these various happenings. Then, after four years of observation, it disappeared. And so we now know that Piney was not entirely wrong.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

(By CHRIS LEGGAT)

The first meeting of the local association of Boy Scouts since the yearly-elected president, Mr R. D. Arnott, Q.C., in the chair, met at Christ church parish hall on Monday.

Regional Commissioner Archie Lewis and District Commissioner Ollie Owen gave us the highlights of the commissioners' and presidents' conference held at Kingston. The annual theme for 1956 is "Conservation," which means "Wise use for food, fun, funds and function." The conservation pledge is "I give my pledge as a Canadian to save and faithfully to defend from waste the natural resources of my country—its soil and minerals, its forests, waters and wildlife."

A.D.C. Pitt Storm speaking on Cub activities informed us that the Cubs were responsible for the the float in the Santa Claus parade. All packs are in a good healthy condition and are planning for another busy year.

The 2nd Cobb pack entertained 18 Cubs from the O.S.D. Cub pack under Akela, Mrs. K. Graham assisted by Miss Gwen Legault and Miss Jean Harper. This was a Christmas party complete with Santa Claus and tree. There were presents for everyone and before long it was very difficult to know which boys were which. They all thoroughly enjoyed themselves, including the leaders. We congratulate Akela M. Kemp and her assistants for the Christmas spirit so ably demonstrated by her Cubs.

The swimming at the YMCA, has completed another successful year and will commence the 1956 season on January 21. Nearly 100 boys were registered during the year and 46 boys earned badges, 30 Cubs, 12 Scouts and 4 Rescuers. The 4th Group led with 12 badges followed by the 1st, 2nd and 5th, with six each. Recent winners are Cubs Neil Miles and Jack Colwill of the 2nd. Cubs Charles Yanover and W. Wolfenden of the 5th, and Scout Stuart Godden of the 6th. Stuart and Scouts Barrie Arnott and Jim Churchill have joined the instruction staff. These young men with Jack Trainer as leader, are doing a wonderful job, cheerfully giving up their Saturday afternoons to teach our Cubs.

Note to leaders: Please send your boys to the YMCA on Saturdays at 2.00 p.m., for free instruction. There is no fee— the YMCA donate the pool for this project.

Labor Bodies Complete Briefs To Government

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor bodies have made their annual legislative submissions to the cabinet, without getting any definite government commitments.

Ministerial consideration — described by Prime Minister St. Laurent as "careful" or "sympathetic" on different points—was the best assurance the union men got on scores of proposals suggested by their groups.

The delegations, which met cabinet members over the last three days, represented the 800,000-member Trades and Labor Congress, the 400,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, the 100,000 members of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the 40,000 workers in the independent railway brotherhoods.

Many of their suggestions called for stepping up social services—including a national health insurance schemand there also was a general request for lower income taxes.

HIGH DEFENCE COSTS..

Mr. St. Laurent's general reply was that Canada has to continue high spending on defence and he does not think the Canadian people would want to pay a higher level of taxation for additional government services at this stage.

Friday's two briefs came from the CCCL and the rail brotherhoods.

The CCCL laid emphasis on a health insurance plan, which it said should be launched jointly by federal and provincial governments and administered by the provinces.

It also called for federal action to stem cost weather unemployment, declaring the prospects for this winter are for a large number of jobless.

Mr. St. Laurent replied the winter outlook seems better than a year ago and added that the government is doing its best to step up winter work.

The rail brotherhoods contended there should be central control of the various forms of transportation including railways, airways, shipping, highways and pipelines. At present, the federal government regulates railways, airlines, interprovincial pipelines and some shipping.

The brotherhoods argued that the closely-regulated railways are at a disadvantage against competitors not so tightly controlled, notably highway transport.

bers. "Those who describe the boycott as a fiasco are idiots."

The boycott will continue next week, said Louis Laberge, a Montreal machinist and chairman of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council. The council is one of the three big union bodies behind the boycott.

"We are pleased there was no disorder," he said.

USED CARS

Union officials claimed to have transported by auto 10,000 persons who ordinarily would have taken trams or buses. But Christmas shoppers filled up any gaps.

Back of the boycott are the recent fare increase of two tickets for 25 cents from three for 26. This also touched off the $100,000 mob attack on MTC vehicles a week ago.

Tuesday, mayors of suburban municipalities served by the MTC are to meet again with Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau to discuss the MTC financial situation and co-operation in assisting the commission.

In court Friday, 33 persons appeared on charges arising from the riot. Most were fined, but there was one one-month sentence.

Police arrested 121 persons during the riot.

Labor Boycott Of Trams Is Lost In Christmas Rush

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor boycott Friday of the municipally-owned Montreal Transportation Commission got lost in the Christmas shopping bustle Friday.

"No difference at all," reported MTC officials, estimating 200,000 travellers for the day.

"It went just the way we wanted it," reported one of the six-man organizing committee, representing 200,000 Montreal union members. "Those who describe the boycott as a fiasco are idiots."

The boycott will continue next week, said Louis Laberge, a Montreal machinist and chairman of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council. The council is one of the three big union bodies behind the boycott.

Expressions Made to Order for Parade

Citizens of Duisburg, Germany, wore "smiles you could see for miles" when these handsome creations paraded during the annual carnival. There were a few sour-pusses, a few leers and a few blank expressions, too, as the artist managed to capture moods on a giant's scale. (Central Press Canadian.)

Hunter Who Kills Deer Owns It

PEMBROKE — The deer hunting season brought with it the usual number of disputes as to who owns the deer once it is shot. In some cases, hunters shot deer which were being driven by other parties or by other parties' dogs. In other cases, disputes arose when a hunter killed a deer which had been wounded by a member of another party. Often, conservation officers of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests are called in to settle such disputes and give quick judgment on matters which have exercised legal minds for centuries.

Who owns the game? The question goes so far back into history that the Roman rule, as quoted by Justinian, specifies that wild animals become the property of him who reduces them to possession. Until they are reduced to possession, however, they belong to no one.

District Forester Douglas N. Omand explains:

"For many years in England, all wild game was held to be the property of the sovereign who could hunt himself or delegate the right to hunt to certain people, usually landowners. Blackstone, in his commentaries, takes this interpretation. Subsequent uses in England, however, show that only certain species of game and fish are actually royal property, notably swans, sturgeon and whales.

"The ruling English case on the subject now, recognizing the right of Parliament to legislate regarding the taking of game, does not place all game in the category of royal property. Since most Canadian law is derived from English Common Law, it is safe to state that the actual killing of a wild game animal is what decides its ownership, and then only if its killing involves no infraction of existing law.

"Pursuit of an animal does not constitute possession, nor superficial wounding. The man who kills it and takes possession of the carcass is the owner.

"For most people, of course, the unwritten laws of sportsmanship and fair play provide all the answers needed to settle disputes of this kind," Mr. Omand points out.

Medical Teams Finish Campaign Against Trachoma

PARIS (Reuters) — Medical teams touring the arid plains and mountains of south Morocco are ending a two - year campaign against the eye disease trachoma, scourge of the Arabs.

This disease, often spread by flies which swarm around the eyes of Arab babies, has rendered an estimated 25,000 Moroccans totally blind.

Seventeen mobile medical teams, sponsored by French authorities, the World Health Organization and the United Nations Children's Fund, by Christmas will have examined the 340,000 Arab inhabitants of southern Morocco and treated those suffering from the disease or its precursor, conjunctivitis.

Aureomycin ointment is used to treat the inflammation of conjunctivilis and the granular excrescences on the inside of the lids in trachoma. When necessary, the sufferers are operated on in hospitals or mobile operating theatres.

The task of the medical men is complicated by the fact that many of their patients already have had their eyes treated by local "healers." The remedies of this include splitting on the eyes, treating them with vulture's gall, painting them with cosmetics, cutting off half the eyelids and applying a red hot iron to the temple.

The campaign against eye diseases began with a "pilot campaign" in the Skoura region. Nearly all the 10,000 people in this area suffered from trachoma. Today, half of them have been cured by application of aureomycin or operations, and the rest are on the road to recovery.

Following the success of this test, the campaign went into full swing. An average of 30 operations a day are performed upon patients who spend about three days convalescing in tents set up around a mobile operating van.

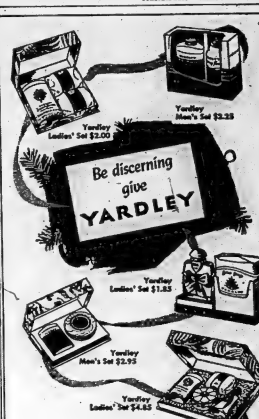
Havelock Home Razed by Fire

HAVELOCK, Ont. (CP)—A shortage of water Fri. repeatedly frustrated Havelock firemen as they tried to save the burning frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Watson and their six children.

"Three times we had it licked but each time we ran out of water," said fire chief Ray Bell. By noon only the rear of the two-storey building was intact.



The fire broke out about 8 a. m. and Mrs. Watson, who was alone with her children, took refuge in a neighbor's home.

Cause of the fire is unknown. Damage was estimated at $4,000.

Firemen had to draw water for their pumper from wells near the house. Havelock, 22 miles east of Peterborough, has no water supply. Ratepayers voted Dec. 1 to have a water system installed.

Canadiens Suffer Blow When Plante Forced To Retire From Injuries

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

TOUGH JOB

The TPT's have a tough weekend schedule facing them. Tomorrow night they trek to Brockville to take on the Maggdonas and on Sunday afternoon they cross hockey swords with the Colts in Cornwall. Incidentally the Maggdonas have cut Dagenais, Legris, Lonner and Clarke adrift for various reasons and have acquired two former Interman Keshets, Deenil Crowder and Cliff Baldwin. Baldwin scored two of the Maggies goals against Kingston the other night, while Crowder was good for another. The Goodies-Maggies game marked a new low in Kingston attendance, some 1664 watching the hostilities.

ROOKIES ELIGIBLE FOR CALDER TROPHY

When the electors go to polls at the half way mark of the 1955-56 National Hockey League season to name the outstanding rookie in the league for the first half of the season they will have a long list of candidates to select from. There are no fewer than 27 players eligible for the Calder Memorial Trophy this season.

Some of these 27 players are not in the league right now, while others have just entered the circuit recently. However, technically they are all candidates and eligible for the trophy.

More rookies have worn the livery of the Toronto Maple Leafs than any other club in the season thus far. Currently with the Leafs are such eligible candidates as Dick Duff, Earl Balfour, Ken Hurst, Marc Reaume, Gerry James, Billy Harris and Jack Bionda. Other first-year players who have been with the Maple Leafs this season but are not with the team right now are Willie Marshall, Barry Cullen and Dave Reid.

Detroit Red Wings have had five rookies with them this season, although one, Eddie Stankiewicz, played only five games and Ivan Hillman played seven. Neither is with the club now. The three first-year performers who have played for the Red Wings all season are: Glenn Hall, Johnny Bucyk and Norm Ullman.

Boston Bruins have had four freshmen dot their line-up this campaign. Two, Orval Tessier and Ed. Panagabko, started the season and played all the games for the Bruins until less than two weeks ago. At that time they switched places with a pair from Hershey, Leo Labine and Al Nicholson. Hetherington and Nicholson are still with the Bruins.

Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers, the two front-running clubs, each have three potential Calder Memorial trophy winners in their ranks. Each team started the season with these players and, barring all appearances they will stick for the rest of the season. The Canadiens have Hedlri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, Claude-Provost and Jean-Guy Talbot.

Andy Hebenton, Bronco Horvath and Guy Gendron are the three Ranger rookies. Chicago Black Hawks have introduced only two first-year players with the team this season but they are two of the best. The pair of forwards are Hank Ciesla and Pete Latende, and both made the jump to the NHL direct from the OHA Junior "A" league.

Glenn Hall of Detroit, is the only goalkeeper among this year's crop of freshmen. The oldest NHL rookie is Ranger's Andy Hebenton. The former "Kenora Cougars' star is 26, which is considered old as r[illegible] go.

It is understandable that Toronto and Detroit had more rookies this season than the other clubs as they are the two youngest teams in the League.

To be eligible for the Calder Memorial trophy a player cannot have played more than 70 games in any previous season. Playoff games do not count nor do the three-game tryouts for amateurs.

VASKO RATED HIGHLY

Elmer (Moose) Vasko, captain and star defenceman of the St. Catharines Teepees juniors, has been rated as a $100,000 hockey player by Tommy Ivan, general manager of the Chicago Black Hawks. Ivan is banking on Vasko helping the Black Hawks a lot next season. The high-scoring rearguard has always been on a first-place club and Ivan is hoping that first-place complex will rub off on Chicago. Ivan figures Vasko could hold his own in the National League right now but he wants to give him one more year of seasoning with St. Catharines.

The big, rangy defenceman caught the eyes of the fans here when the Teeps played the TPT's an exhibition game some time ago. He looked "big league" that night with a sterling performance. He flashed plenty of offensive ability and his work behind the blueline marked him as definite National League calibre.

"CONSCIENCE CLEAR"

"Why, Clarence—what a clever way of dusting the TV!"

NEW YORK (AP)—Miler Wes Santee feels that any questions about his expense accounts will be cleared up satisfactorily and they will be able to run in the 1956 Olympics.

Before returning to Quantico, Va., after winning the mile at Thursday's Metropolitan Handicap meet, the marine lieutenant from Kansas said:

"My conscience is clear and I doubt that the special AAU committee supposed to be investigating the entire picture of athletes' expense accounts would find me guilty or would want to under the circumstance."

Goalie's Nose Is Fractured By Flying Puck in Practice; Is Replaced by Don Perreault

By The Canadian Press

Jacques Plante runs into more injuries against his teammates than against enemy snipers.

The 26-year-old netminder with Montreal Canadiens was knocked out of National Hockey League action Friday when he was hit in the face with a puck during practice. Plante, the league's leading goalie, suffered a broken nose and will be out for at least two weeks.

It was the second time in the last two seasons that Jacques was hurt in practice. In the 1954-55 campaign, his cheekbone was fractured, putting him on the sidelines for 18 games.

SERIOUS BLOW

Plante was hit by a puck fired by forward Don Marshall in a workout at Montreal Forum. Marshall's shot was deflected by defenceman Butch Bouchard.

It was a severe blow to Canadiens. Plante has been outstanding in the Montreal cage this season. His is one reason why Canadiens are leading the league by 12 points over the second-place New York Rangers. Canadiens brought up Don Perreault from Shawinigan Falls of the Quebec League to take his place.

Plante, a native of Mont Carmel, Que., has allowed only 45 pucks to get by him in 30 games. He and Glenn Hall of Detroit Red Wings share league shutout honors with six apiece.

Perreault will get a taste of big-league goaltending tonight. Canadiens clash with Chicago Black Hawks at the forum. The Hawks will be two points behind the leader. They trail the Red Wings, who are idle tonight, by four points.

In the other game tonight, the Pittsburgh Hornets Bruins play the cellar - dwelling Maple Leafs at Toronto.

Bruins Friday recalled forward Ed Panagabko from Quebec farmers Hershey Bears of the American League. Four Beantowners are on the injured list. Allan Stanley is out with a pulled leg ligament, Doug Mohns has a shoulder injury, Lorne Ferguson recently pulled a leg muscle and defenceman Fernie Flaman suffered a leg injury Thursday night in a game against Hawks.

Player changes were made by the sinking New York Rangers Friday. The parent New York Rangers is six points ahead of Detroit, called up left winger Jim Bartlett and defenceman Aldo Guidolin and Providence Reds of the AHL and left winger Pete Conacher from the American League Buffalo Bisons.

Ranger coach Phil Watson promised a shakeup if Rangers lost their fourth straight game. The Blueshirts did—a 2-0 setback by Canadiens at Montreal Thursday.

All six teams see action Sunday. Rangers play host to Leafs while Canadiens are at Detroit and Boston is at Chicago.

Jitters Send Otto Graham Into Retirement

CLEVELAND (AP)—Otto Graham says increasing pre-game jitters—and not age or fading ability—are sending him into retirement.

"So much depends on me," explains the 36-year-old quarterback of Cleveland Browns, who are working out in the snow for the Dec. 26 National Football League championship game against the Rams in Los Angeles.

Graham says this will be his last game for the Browns because these pre-game butterflies in the stomach are getting worse and worse.

"I don't worry about it during the week," he told a reporter Friday. "It's the day of the game that gets me, Why? My nature, I suppose."

CHANGED HIS MIND

He wanted to retire after last season but heeded coach Paul Brown's pleas that he come back for one more year.

Graham says he wasn't afraid that this season would be an anti-climax after his great performance in the 1954 championship victory over Detroit Lions. He scored three touchdowns and passed for three more in that game.

"The way I look at it," he said, "there was no reason why I should have had a lousy year. If the ability is there, you don't lose it that quickly. Of course, you may get bad breaks and such."

But the 1954 season was the best year.

"It's worked out very well. It's been a lot of fun, no question about that," he said. "And the pay is good."

It's about $25,000.

Canucks Whip Majors, Increase Lead Flyers, Biltmores Nip Teepees, Cubs

By The Canadian Press

It's the same old story in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks and Toronto St. Michael's Majors are battling it out for first place while the rest of the pack has bunched together in a fight for the other positions.

Canucks defeated the Majors 3-2 at Kitchener Friday night to increase their lead over the Toronto team to three points.

Barrie Flyers edged Hamilton Cubs at Barrie and Guelph Biltmores won a 6-5 decision over St. Catharines at Guelph.

The results left the TeePees and Cubs deadlocked in third place with 18 points apiece, six behind St. Michael's and one ahead of Toronto Marlboros, Guelph and Barrie, all tied with 17 points.

The largest Kitchener crowd of the season—1,507 fans—saw Canucks score three goals in little more than two minutes of the second period to win.

Left winger Walley Youngberg counted twice and right winger Walt Tkaczuk scored the other. Frank Mahovlich scored both Toronto goals.

Barrie Flyers were ahead 3-1 after 40 minutes, Hamilton tied it up 24 seconds into the third period but a goal by Danny Patrick midway through the frame gave Flyers the win.

Dick Cherry and Roy Partridge were the other Barrie marksmen. Cummy Burton and Brian Smith counted for Hamilton.

Guelph took the lead twice during the game but each time St. Catharines come back to tie it up and go ahead for a short time during the latter stages.

Biltmores led 1-0 after the first period. Teepees moved 3-2 after the second and both teams scored a pair of goals in the final frame. Al Cherry, Dan Bellini, Ron Howell, Bob Forhan and Brian Webber counted for Guelph. St. Catharines scorers were Art Stratton, with a pair, and Mitch Plata and Ab McDonald.

Tonight there is one game scheduled — Barrie at St. Catharines. Kitchener - Waterloo plays Marlboros in the first game of the Sunday doubleheader at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Guelph and St. Michael's complete the twin bill.

No Room In Amateur Ranks Turns Pro

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tennis promoter Jack Kramer said here Friday that a major factor in the decision of Rex Hartwig to quit amateur tennis and his position as Australia's best doubles player was the fact that there wasn't much chance for him to play singles in Davis Cup competition.

Commenting on the young Aussie he recently signed for his professional troupe, Kramer said:

"Hartwig was not mad or malicious but he felt that the singles team of Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall was set—as well it should be since both were so successful—and there just was not room for him in the singles picture."

Percy Verdicts Graves in 6th

NEW YORK (CP)—Tony Percy of Drummondville, Que., used a stinging left jab Friday night to outpoint Wilfred Graves of Edmonton in an all-Canadian six-round boxing bout at Madison Square Garden. Percy weighed 159½; Graves 153.

Graves dropped Percy with a right to the jaw for an automatic count of eight in the sixth round but it wasn't enough to swing the votes.

Percy, 8-apparnata of welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, used his left jab to pile up points against Graves, roundly grades sized from the amateurs.

Soccer Lost Its Kick

Britons Had Little to Cheer In Sports Cavalcade of 1955

BY ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—British sport in 1955 resembled the Sahara desert—a lot of it but little to catch the eye.

Britain's long golden summer helped make new spectacles a rare cost in many outdoor sports, particularly track and field.

For the Chelsea Soccer Team, it was a tremendous year. The Pensioners won the 1954-55 football league championships for the first time, squashing the comedians' perennial joke about them. Newcastle United took the birth Football Association Cup, joining Aston Villa and Blackburn Rovers in the elite class.

Elsewhere, American Tony Trabert set the stage for embarking on his professional career by winning the men's tennis singles at Wimbledon. On the track, Chris Chataway, Gordon Pirie and John Disley were in the forefront. There was a flurry of autobiographies by runners, too, one by Roger Bannister on the four-minute mile, and another by Jim Peters, the great Emsralian runner who collapsed within sight of victory at the British Empire Games in Vancouver.

FEATS BY CANADIANS

Canadians provided two of the year's brighter achievements. At 17, Toronto's Marilyn Bell one hot July Sunday swam the English channel to become the youngest to conquer the rough 21-mile course between France and England.

And a University of British Columbia eight of whose members rowed with more confidence than they might be expected to muster in the Grand Challenge Cup of the Henley Royal Regatta, won the Canadian United against the University of Pennsylvania in the final.

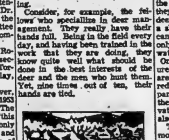
Even so, said The Times, the Vancouver oarsmen "can hardly be considered that their fame is now irrevocably burned into Henley history."

Soccer's ills continued, in Britain's international matches and attendance receipts. At the end of last season, 3,000,000 persons had stopped attending soccer contests, and the trend was obvious in the 1955-56 season.

There was talk of a "super league" of 24 of the best clubs in both to strengthen the international teams and increase home interest. But the idea failed to stir great interest in football league circles.

MEDIOCRE RECORD

England's team lost to France, Portugal and Wales, scoring victories against the Republic of Southern Ireland and Denmark. England added a 4-1 victory in November to its earlier 1-1 tie against Spain.



In keeping with the drastic economies of club finances, player deals fell off during 1955, and there were no big-time cash third division.

Cricket ran through its best season for some time, with close, bright, almost rainless summer and a South African team which battled England all the way before losing the five-match series 3-2.

Britain's crop of tennis youngsters fared badly at Wimbledon, but got further along the Davis Cup trail than expected. Old-timer Tony Mottram turned professional and Wimbledon as usual was an all-overcrease show with Trabert, American Louise Brough and Australians Ken Rosewall and Neil Fraser triumphing in the two singles classes and the men's doubles.

In boxing, the British string of title fighters was cut down sharply. Heavyweight champion Don Cockell failed in his bid to unseat world champion Rocky Marciano; former middleweight champion Randy Turpin lost his last chance at a comeback at the hands of Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Ont., and Peter Waterman, in line for the world flyweight crown, was badly cut when he challenged the style of play from two-handed to one hand.

In the women's division, Mrs. Shirley Harris, Montreal, placed second to Mrs. Dianne Leeming, Toronto, third and Mrs. Trudy Lees, formerly of Vancouver and now of Regina, fourth.

After many years of rigid enforcement of the buck law here in Pennsylvania, the use of this method was raised over the declaration of an open season on the deer now really something to experience. The state had far too many deer and the biologists knew it.

During winters of heavy snows, when the deer are "yarded" and able to reach only a limited amount of food, the loss from starvation was astounding. The trees in our mountainous areas—the true deer country—were browsed to the extent where the "deer line" showed all too plainly.

The woods were denuded of all edible vegetation that was within reach of the deer. Deer, of necessity, they took to the fields and the open country, becoming grazing animals instead of browsing animals. Obviously, drastic reduction of the herd was both indicated and necessary.

Public indignation ran high that fall. Kill does and fawns, indeed! Yet, was an order designed to reduce our deer herd to the vanishing point in short order. Something should be done.

Happily we have had enough doe season now and to be counted the critics, of the Game Commission that the state biologists know their business.

Pennsylvania was not alone in its lament—wreaths over the deer law. Other states, such as New York State and Michigan, had their troubles also. However, they have passed the critical stage and as a result are in better condition otherwise.

Now word comes from California that the deer picture there is not a happy one. The Wildlife Management Institute of Washington, D.C., reports that the California Fish and Game Commission is quite unhappy over matters as they now stand. Consider the figures as they were in 1953. Matters have not improved since then.

California has the most deer, the report states, of any state in the Union—a counted herd of 1½ million. Also, the license sales show that it has the most deer hunters. Yet with this ideal situation only approximately 5 per cent of the herd was killed by hunters in 1953.

Those figures surely do not make sense. It would have been far more practical, both economically and for the wise management of the herd, if the hunters harvest had been 25 or even 30 per cent.

HERDS TOO LARGE

The state biologists know that deer herd is too large. Also, they know that you can't stockpile deer like so many cans of beans on a shelf. Like other animals, deer can increase their numbers safely only to the limit of the food, water, and cover on their range.

Once this limit is exceeded, nature takes over and nature's ways are usually extreme. The herd is reduced by malnutrition, disease, parasites, predators, adverse weather conditions and outright starvation. The biologists know this also.

They know that the ideal and most humane way to reduce the herd is by hunting. Economically it is sound and it gives the sportsman the knack that he prays for when he buys his licence. If hunting does not reduce the herd, then nature does it for him, harshly and wastefully. It's as simple as that.

Our hunters can set to the Fish and Game Department of California—the Director, the members of the Commission, and, in particular, its biologists. Evidently their hands are tied. All they can do is to tell the public what is needed in the way of adequate legislation.

You can wish to know more about this unhappy condition—and if you do, here's how. Write nearly most—drop a card or a letter to the Department of Fish and Game, 926 J Street, Sacramento 14, California, and ask to have sent to you a booklet titled "Now is the Time to Harvest." That will give you the whole story in detail.

STILL "VERY SICK"

TORONTO (CP)—Debra Bonner, a four-months-old infant sped from Orillia Thursday with spinal meningitis, is "still a very sick child," the Hospital for Sick Children said Friday night. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bonner, she was driven to Toronto at speeds of more than 90 miles an hour after becoming ill Thursday. The hospital said it will be "three days at least before any change in her condition is noticed."

Bob Bedard Canada's Top Tennis Player

MONTREAL (CP)—Bob Bedard of Peterborough, Ont., Friday night was officially named Canada's top-ranking tennis player for 1955, replacing Lorne Main, who toppled to fifth place.

Mrs. Dorothy Sladek, Montreal, was named top-ranking woman player in the Canadian lawn tennis ranking lists released by Dr. George Leclerc, chairman of the national ranking committee and the Davis Cup selection committee.

In the men's division, Henri Rochon, Montreal, was ranked second followed by Don Fontana, Toronto, and Lawrence Barclay, Montreal.

Main of Toronto and Vancouver, who held No. 1 spot in 1951, 1953 and 1954, fell to fifth position. The association statement said the change was due to the fact that he only played in a few tournaments and also that he changed his style of play from two-handed to one hand.

In the women's division, Mrs. Shirley Harris, Montreal, placed second to Mrs. Dianne Leeming, Toronto, third and Mrs. Trudy Lees, formerly of Vancouver and now of Regina, fourth.

Lightburn Wins Over Dupas In Close Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Ludwig Lightburn moved forward persistently against a dancing target Friday night to win an unanimous decision over Ralph Dupas of New Orleans in an interesting 10-round match at Madison Square Garden. Dupas weighed 135½, Lightburn 137½.

So close was the match between the steady puncher from Biloxi, Mississippi and the clever, 20-year-old boxer from the South that referee Harry Kessler called it one of the closest fights he ever scored. Lightburn received 5-4-1 for Lightburn, Judge Jack Gordon scored it 6-3-1 and judge Bert Grand 6-4-1 for Lightburn. The AP card was a tight 5-4-1 for Lightburn with a flurry of scores in the final seconds deciding the issue.

Trabert Wins First Match

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tony Trabert Friday night won his first match against Pancho Gonzales in Jack Kramer's professional tour. Before a crowd of 4,183 at Pan Pacific Auditorium, Trabert scored 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. Mrs. Gonzales now leads two to one in matches.

Pancho Segura downed Rex Hartwig, 8-2, in a full set match.

The pros play here again tonight and then move on to San Francisco.

Will Review Olympics Plans

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Members of the International Olympic Committee meet here Jan. 24 to review plans for the 1956 Melbourne games.

Their discussions, on the eve of the winter games opening here Jan. 26, will also cover the Olympic equestrian events at Stockholm, June 10-17, 1956.

The group, headed by IOC president Avery Brundage of the United States, will also hear preliminary reports on the 1960 winter games at Squaw Valley, California, and the 17th Olympiad scheduled at Rome that year.

The committee will also hear a report on steps taken to prevent unauthorized use of the Olympic emblem of five interlaced rings. There have been complaints the emblem has been used for advertising purposes.

PLAN OLD PEOPLE'S HOME

KITCHENER (CP)—The Guelph presbytery of the United Church of Canada has taken an option to purchase three buildings on Willow street in adjacent Waterloo as a home for old people. It was announced Friday. The property was formerly the 4-H Club Hostel and Accident Assurance Corporation head office. Rev. O. P. Hoasie, chairman of a presbytery planning committee, said the home would accommodate 35 persons at $60 to $80 monthly.

Indians Nudge Bulldogs 3-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Paul Oliver's boarding penalty Friday night cost Windsor Bulldogs a game and sole possession of second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Herve Dejordy of Stratford Indians scored with five seconds remaining in the league's only game to give the Indians a 3-2 win over Windsor at Stratford. Oliver had been penalized at 18:01 of the period.

The victory tied Indians with the Bulldogs for second place. Each team has 24 points, 11 behind the leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. Owen Sound Mercurys are in fourth place with 21 points, five ahead of Chatham Maroons.

TIED SCORE

Stratford took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by George Aitken and Lou Bender. Windsor tied the score on Andy McCallum's second-period marker and a final-period goal by Frank Sabbagh.

Dejordy led an attack of five Indians forwards into the Windsor end with seconds remaining to play and beat goaltender Bruce Dale for the winning goal. Earl Flick and Tommy Walker drew assists on the goal.

Tonight Stratford is at Owen Sound and Chatham at Kitchener. The Dutchmen play at Windsor Sunday.

Solunar Notes

More About Deer Management

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

It must be frustrating experience to be employed as a biologist by one of our state conservation departments. How these men can work whole-heartedly under handicaps imposed upon them is a matter which passeth all understanding.

Consider, for example, the fellows who specialize in deer management. They really have their hands full. Being in the field every day, and having been trained in the work that they are doing, they know quite well what should be done in the best interests of the deer and the men who hunt them. Yet, nine times out of ten, their hands are tied.

Snead Slips Retains Lead With Par Round

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — The weather turned cold Friday and so did Sam Snead's putter, but the Slammer's even par 70 was good enough to give him a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the $15,000 Sanford open golf tournament.

"I missed putts all over the course," Sam said as he walked off the windswept, chilly course. His record six-under-par 64 in the opening round gave Snead a 36-hole total of 134.

Bunched in second place just one stroke back of Snead were Al Balding of Toronto, Walker Inman of Augusta, Ga., Leo Biagetti of Willoughby, Ohio, Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem N.C., and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill.

Inman and Balding shot 66—low on the day. Biagetti had a 67 and Furgol and Ferree fired 68s.

Argos Offer Glick $12,000; No Taker

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts made their pitch Friday to Saskatoon Roughriders for halfback Glen Glick, star halfback from Colorado A and M and bonus choice of Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

Team manager Harry Sombilon of Argos put on the line a $12,000 offer he hoped Glick will accept, to play for the Big Four football club in 1956.

Sombilne said the 25 - year - old halfback did not sign a contract and it is unlikely he will before he leaves by plane Sunday to return to Fort Collins, Colo.

"We're optimistic he'll sign with us eventually," Sombilne added.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN

BRANTFORD (CP)—Fire of unknown origin Friday destroyed a barn on the farm of Lorne Bell of Millan in west Brantford. Loss was estimated between $15,000 and $20,000.

Ex-Yankee Ed Lopat Named Manager International League Virginians

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Ed Lopat, crafty lefthander who was a stalwart of five world championship New York Yankee teams, Friday was named manager of the Richmond Virginians of the class AAA International League.

Terms of his one-year contract were not disclosed.

It will be the first managerial assignment for the 37-year-old Lopat, a major-league pitcher for 12 seasons with the Yankees and Chicago White Sox.

"It's a wonderful opportunity," said the curly redhead, who added that he'd be a playing manager for the team, which finished last in the past season.

The Virginians, purchased by a syndicate of businessmen Nov. 14 from the federal tax collector for $20,000, have a limited working agreement with the Yankees. Lopat was recommended by Yankee general manager George Weiss.

The government seized the club and its assets in October and sold it at auction.

"Steady Eddie," won 109 games for the Yankees in seven full seasons (1948-54) with a baffling assortment of slow stuff. He lost 51. He won four world series games and lost one.

PAY WAS SMALL

In four years with the White Sox before being traded to New York he posted a 50-49 record.

The broken into organized baseball in the summer of 1937, when Brooklyn Dodgers sent him to Bridgeville, N.C., for $50 a month.

"I've looked forward to managing for our five years," said Lopat, a native of New York city. "Few fellows have a chance to get

"I feel I can still pitch and will and maybe help some of the youngsters develop."

Lopat said plans for bolstering the fortunes of the Virginians will be made in Florida early next year.

He will conduct his own baseball school at St. Augustine until Feb. 5, then he'll join Yankee manager Casey Stengal at the American League club's school for rookies at St. Petersburg.

Coach Pop Ivy Signs New 3-Year Contract

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy, who has guided Edmonton Eskimos to two Grey Cups in two years, has agreed to a new three-year contract with the football club, president M. L. (Mac) Robertson announced Friday.

Lieberman said the new contract will be formally signed when Ivy returns early in January from a scouting trip in the United States. Ivy left for his native Oklahoma on Monday with his family.

The new contract supersedes a three-year agreement Ivy signed when he came here for the 1954 season to replace Darrell Royal, now coach at Mississippi State.

No terms were disclosed, but it appeared certain that the contract was better than Ivy's original pact.

VOTES INCREASE

MONTREAL (CP)—City council Thursday night voted to give itself a 100-per-cent salary increase. The proposal, which still needs approval of the Quebec legislature, would double the $1,500 annual pay of city councillors. It would raise the indemnity to $2,000 from $900 and the tax-free personal expense allowance to $1,000 from $600.

BEAUTY IN THE ANTI-PICKET LINE

Something new and fancy in picketing is introduced by model Judy Andrews, who appears elegantly gowned in front of a New York concern where members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union are on strike. In striking contrast to the glamorous sign carrier from the American Society of Fashion Designers is one of the ILGU pickets, who stands in a doorway waiting his turn. The model is picketing the picketers, not the fashion house. (Central Press Canadian).

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was writing a long list of people not to forget to send a Christmas card to, and she said to pop, Oh dear, William, I'm sure to forget somebody who is certain to send us a card. It's my annual nightmare. What can I do about it, William? she said.

You might read through the telefone directory, you'll find practically everybody there, pop said, and me said, Now William, try to think of somebody I might casually overlook, I mean people who send us cards every Christmas through thick and thin.

Well yer, come to think of it, pop said. You know, that chap and his dumpy little wife that are always so cheery and pleasant. We get greetings from them every year. What's their name? he said, and me said, I think I know vaguely who you mean. Cant you manage to be a little more definite? she said.

We just saw them a short time ago, pop siad. They're just the type that would never forget anybody at Christmass time. They're both always smiling as if their jaws would break. You surely remember them, he said.

Well, I do and I dont, ma said, and pop said, I've got it, they always include a fussy fellowe with their greetings. That's it, they're the cuppie that run that cleaning and dying establishment on the Avenue, he said.

Oh my goodness me! lands sakes I might of known you were talking monsense, me said. Just the same, William, you've given me a clew. You've reminded me of that clean looking little Mrs. Hooper who invariably sends me a Christmas card although we haven't seen each other for ages. Its certain I'll have been set for next April, change 5 words in 3 years.

SALMON FISH WHEEL

This fish wheel, with a basket-like revolving device, scoops salmon from the Fraser river near Hope, B.C. It is used by fisheries department biologists for tagging fish. The rig is mounted on 22-foot-long pontoons and is an improved version of a crude Indian fish wheel. The baskets are 10 feet deep and 10 feet long and are mounted opposite each other on a central steel shaft. (CP Photo).

Scientists Using New Device To Scoop Salmon Out of River

OTTAWA (CP)—West coast fisheries scientists have come up with a new device for catching fish—a fish wheel whose basket-like revolving nets scoop salmon from river waters.

The rig, mounted on 22-foot-long pontoons, it being used by fisheries department biologists in Fraser river fish-tagging operations. It has proved more efficient than the former hit-or-miss method of trying to catch fish with a dip net.

The story of the fish wheels is told in the December edition of the federal fisheries department's publication "Trade News" which said it actually is an improved version of a device used by the Indians in catching fish in the Yukon.

It was a crude Indian fish wheel which fisheries biologist Mr. McLaren and engineer K. Lucas saw that gave them the idea. The wheel was then adapted by fisheries engineer L. Edgeworth from a design submitted by the Alaska department of fisheries.

The rig consists of two basket-type nets made of seine mesh stretched over a series of J-shaped pipes. The baskets, each 10 feet deep and 10 feet long, are mounted opposite each other on a central steel shaft fastened to the centre of the floating pontoons.

The rig is made fast to the river bank by steel cables attached to winches which provide some manoeuvrability.

The fish wheel is turned on its axis by the action of the swift river current on the nets and on paddles attached to their sides.

In operation the basket net on the downstream side scoops up fish swimming upstream against the current and retains them within the net. As the basket rises above the water level, the fish drop into a sloping trough which deposits them gently into a screen-covered "live" fish box.

USED ON FRASER RIVER

During tagging operations the scientists remove the fish from the "live" box, tag them with plastic tags and then release them on the upstream side of the rig.

The device was first used in September in Fraser river salmon tagging operations near Hope, B.C. Within 10 minutes the fish wheel had scooped up its first live salmon, dispelling doubts as to its efficiency. The rig requires fewer men than the old dip-net method of catching fish and the 16-foot sweep of its baskets, samples a larger volume of water.

Since its installation, the rig has caught hundreds of salmon of various types which are being tagged in connection with scientific studies of the migration of the fish up stream to their spawning areas.

Little Benny's Notebook

Dopey Shorty Judge's grandfather Mr. Peevy was telling Shorty's dog Junior for a walk, and I asked him if he knew any stories about cannibils, and he said, I ought to. He said he was always afraid of man eaters when my ship got stranded on one of the Seesaw Islands. They would of eaten me up for sure if I hadn't been lucky enough to save the king's life, he said.

G, how? I said, and Mr. Peevy said, A lion was creeping up on him step by step, and the king was standing there with his spear poised, but he was so parrilized by fear he couldn't move a mussel. I looked that lion strate in the eyes and hipnotized him. It's a trick I learnt when I worked with the circus. I held that lion with my eyes while I climbed a tree backwards and meanwhile the cannibil king had time to relax enough to run away. You never saw a more grateful king. He rewarded me by offering me one of his dawters in marridge, Mr. Peevy said.

Did he have many? I said, and Mr. Peevy said, Dawters? He had twenty, and being a practical man he picked out the one for me that had the least chance of finding a husband, namely, a female faces to tell the king that he'd be giving me a bigger reward by letting me stay single, but he thought I was expressing my gratitude in my own language, and I knew I'd get eaten after all if I downright refused to marry her.

How did you get out of it? I said, and he said, That's another story, it's time for my milk and cinnamin grog now.

And he went in the house without telling the other story.

Compensation For High Water Will Be Sought

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The Lake Ontario Property Protection Association is seeking a compensation clause covering high water damage in the plans announced last Friday to regulate lake levels.

On the advice of Norman Alterby, chairman of the Lake Ontario Land Development and Beach Protection Association of Rochester, N. Y., the Ontario group Thursday sent a telegram to General A. G. L. McNaughton asking identity for erosion due to high lake levels.

Gen. McNaughton is chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission.

The Rochester association has sent a similar communique to Senator Leonard Jordan, chairman of the American section of the IJC.

OBJECT TO MAXIMUM

Controls to maintain the lake levels between 244 and 248 feet above sea level were announced by the Canadian and U. S. governments. The associations are objecting to the 248-foot level which they feel endangers property.

State Department Compiling 'White Paper' on Treatment Chinese Reds Giving Americans

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States state department is compiling a "white paper" of cruel and inhuman treatment which it says Americans held in Communist China are suffering at the hands of the Chinese Reds.

Officials reported this as the state department disclosed Friday night that Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson has protested to Red China's envoy Wang Ping-nan at Geneva against such treatment of Americans.

The U.S. officials indicated that Johnson's protests, as far as they know, have brought no change in the treatment.

CAN'T COME HOME

The state department also announced that Johnson has repeatedly protested to Wang against the failure of the Reds to permit U.S. citizens to leave China in accordance with the Johnson-Wang agreement announced last Sept. 10.

There are 14 Americans still held in Chinese Communist prisons. Beginning last Sept. 6, 27 Americans have been permitted to leave China but the U.S. contends that this partial release is not enough and that the 14 should also have been allowed to come home long since.

Officials declined to give any details of the "cruel and inhuman treatment" with which they charge the Reds.

They said full information would be disclosed when the record now being put together is published as an official document, generally known as a white paper. They did not say how soon this might be.

ACCUSE U.S.

Friday night's announcement was prompted by a Chinese blast issued Thursday in Geneva.

The Reds accused the U.S. of not living up to its part of the agreement. State department officials called the Communist charge "absurd" and "silly."

In its formal statement the department said all bars to Chinese departures from the U.S. had been removed months ago and that the Indian embassy, which represents Red China's interst in such matters, of Sept. 19.

Of the original 129 Chinese students barred from returning to Red China, 39 now are reported to have left. American officials say the evidence is that the rest are not interested in going home.

160 Are Killed In Lebanon Flood, 200 Are Missing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (CP) — The worst flood in recent years in Lebanon has killed 160 persons across north Lebanon today, with some 150 persons reported killed and 200 missing.

The torrent cut the coastal town of Tripoli in two, destroying about 100 buildings and wrecking six bridges.

The Iraq Petroleum Company's refinery near Tripoli stopped work this morning and company officials reported work can not be resumed for five weeks.

Squads of soldiers and volunteers are still clearing the debris and the final number of casualties is not yet known.

Coroner's Jury Decides Man Took Own Life

CASTLEBLANEY, Ireland (AP) — A coroner's jury decided Saturday that 35-year-old Michael Blair took his own life while "had a lot of family worry."

She said when Blair went to bed Thursday night he drank a laundry and soda and took a few sleeping tablets and asked her to stay with him for a few minutes until he went to sleep.

Some time later, she said, she heard a shot and went to Blair's room and found him dead. A .410 shotgun lay on the bed.

800 Evacuated From Theatre In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—More than 800 people were evacuated from a west end theatre Saturday night after police and a Toronto newspaper got a bomb timed to go off at 10:30 p.m. was planted in the building.

The scare, now believed by police to be the work of a "crank," sent squads of police to the movie house. Working under tension, they began inspecting an empty theatre—police searched the building until well past the 10:30 deadline.

Doug Sleuhing, night news editor of the Toronto Telegram, said he answered the phone just before 10 p.m. and a voice asked:

"Are you the night editor? Take close attention. There's a bomb in the theatre. It's there set to go off at 10:30 p.m."

Police officers from the Toronto suburb of Swansea reported receiving a call earlier warning of the bomb.

Feature film on the billing at the theatre was "From Here to Eternity."

STRATEGIC SAAR VOTES TO UNITE WITH GERMANY

90 Per Cent of Voters Cast Their Ballots

By BRACK CURRY

SAARBRUECKEN (AP)—Voters of the strategic Saar valley have taken another long stride toward reunion with Germany.

The German-speaking Saarlanders turned out Sunday to elect a parliament dominated by three big pro-German parties. More than 90 per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots.

The three groups—the Christian Democrats, the Democratic party and the German Socialist party—are pledged as a coalition to make this 991-square-mile frontier industrial land a full state in the West German republic.

The three parties got 63.9 per cent of the total vote, and party leaders promptly vowed to "unerringly pursue the goal of returning Saarlanders to the Fatherland."

Their jubilation was tempered, however, by their failure to win 15 per cent of the votes necessary to give them the scrap the Saar's autoonomous constitution immediately. They won 33 of the 50 seats in the Saar parliament.

Since the end of 1947 the Saar has been nominally an autonomous state but subject to French economic law, currency and customs. The Saar parliament replaces a pro-French legislative assembly elected in 1952. Career Premier Heinrich Welsch is expected to take over the formation of a new government.

The results of Sunday's election clear the way for the big three pro-German Christian People's Party (CVP) of Premier Johannes Hoffmann to amend the constitution. The CVP has collaborated with the French in the past. So has the Saar, but Hoffmann's party and five smaller factions have said they will now try to block the constitutional changes necessary for returning the border state to Germany.

The pro-German parties had backed the CVP "reluctantly" before they ended its rule two months ago in the CVP-sponsored "Europeanization" of the valley.

After the final returns were in, Christian Heinrich Schneider, chairman of the Democratic party, and Hermann Neuber, chairman of the German Socialist party appeared before correspondents in the Saar parliament building.

Schneider, who had bitterly assailed the CVP, questioned sharply at the press conference about his pre-war association with Hitler and the Nazi," he shouted. "I have been no Nazi since I was cast out of the party in 1937 and I have evidence to prove it."

Schneider was questioned sharply at the press conference about his pre-war association with Hitler and the Nazi party, but shouted back: "I have been no Nazi since I was cast out of the party in 1937 and I have evidence to prove it."

Neuber was questioned closely about his pre-war association with Hitler's party two years later for his leading Socialist anti-Nazi labor union clients as a Saarbrueckenlawyer.

Comet Halves Usual Time for Flight From Vancouver to Toronto Sunday

TORONTO (CP)—The Comet III, Britain's vaunted hope of the airways, streaked into Toronto Sunday on the home leg of a 23,600-mile global test flight.

The silver, swept-wing jet airliner flew the 2,100 air miles from Vancouver to Toronto in three hours, 45 minutes, breaking all records for the route. Canada's fastest airliners take about eight hours on the same trip, with a brief stop in Winnipeg.

The Comet aircraft, designed to seat 60, averaged 500 miles an hour with a top speed of 587 over Manitoba. Capt. John Cunningham said the four Rolls-Royce engines performed as flawlessly on the tailwind.

The floods in Toronto's northwestern suburbs were clogged most of the afternoon because of the huge plane's arrival. Police reported an estimated 10,000 automobiles streamed into Malton airport until parking lots on the airfield and at the nearby Avro Canada aircraft plant were packed.

Then word whispered through the crowds that the Comet would land at nearby Downsview airport and the motorists were on the move again. The plane was timed on its arrival at Malton from Vancouver to Toronto at a 23,600-mile global test flight.

Guided Missile, Radioactivity, Radar Major Defence Projects

OTTAWA (CP)—Guided missiles, radioactivity and radar continued to occupy the close attention of the Defence Research Board in 1955.

In its annual year-end review, issued today, the board listed several achievements and projects "of particular interest." Most of the board's work is highly secret —if fact, the number of scientists and other personnel employed by the board has never been made public.

Some items:

1. An aerodynamics feature at the board's Valcartier, Que. laboratory was used to test characteristics of various guided missile models. The laboratory staff built a supersonic wind tunnel for aeronautical research in six weeks.

2. Board scientists continued to collect precipitation periodically to determine radioactive content. The board said: "While the data to be count reflected a yield sufficient to prove harmful in humans, animals or vegetable life. In all cases, when an increase was noted, it proved to be insignificant."

3. Project "Wood Duck," a research study concerned with effects of birds on radar systems, was carried out at the Jack Miner bird sanctuary near Kingsville, Ont.

4. Work was completed on the Heller, new anti-aircraft weapon for Canadian infantry and considered the best weapon of its type in the world.

5. From an old army searchlight, scientists constructed a solar furnace which employs the sun's rays to provide intense heat. It is used to test resistance of various materials to high heat.

6. Radiation fallout patterns, useful in formulating evacuation plans for Canadian cities in event of air attack, were studied.

7. Effects of severe winter conditions on soldiers in the north were studied at Fort Churchill, Man.

The board completed a headquarters reorganization initiated in 1954. It now has 10 directorates instead of the original four.

Severe Arctic Weather Moves Into Prairies With Heavy Snow

EDMONTON (CP)—It was bitterly cold on the Prairies while Vancouver and Victoria faced a major snowfall.

That was the weather picture in Western Canada today—35 hours before the official start of winter.

The severe Arctic weather, which moved through Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba during the weekend, is followed by a couple of days a blizzard which left three dead and one missing in Saskatchewan.

Overnight low temperature ranged from 10 below in Lethbridge to 50 below in Prince Albert.

Edmonton, with a low afternoon temperature of 8 below was the warmest place on the Prairies Sunday. It was 27 degrees warmer Sunday in Lethbridge but the thermometer climbed to 19 below during the day.

Other low readings Sunday, all below zero, were: Jasper 41; Calgary 33; Prince Albert 37; Saskatoon 33; Swift Current 30; Winnipeg 18; Churchill 27.

The 24-hour outlook was colder. For instance, the weatherman predicted the following overnight mins for Sunday for early hours of today: Edmonton 20; Grande Prairie 40; Lethbridge 10; Saskatoon 40; Moose Jaw and Winnipeg 35.

On the coast, Vancouver was expecting five inches of snow, and Victoria had almost a foot while the temperature was 24 above.

Western Canada's first heavy fall of snow piled into two-foot drifts by an 18-mile-an-hour wind.

3 Persons Killed As Jet Runs Amok Inside of Hangar

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Three persons were killed and a hanger was destroyed by fire when a jet fighter plane ran wild on a flight line today at the Lincoln air force base.

One of the dead was the pilot. Bodies of the other two were removed from the hangar ruins.

Base officials said the destroyed plane, when the fighter plane unaccountably developed 100 per cent power, jumped its chocks while preparing for flight.

One of the destroyed craft was a navy patrol bomber with whose modification the runaway fighter plunged.

The pilot was identified as Lieut. J. G. Sprouse R. Chapman, Jr., 25, of Grand Island, Neb., a Korean war veteran.

Chapman's plane first struck a patrol bomber, plunged through another bomber, then the tail of a twin-engine training plane a navy spokesman said. The hangar, he said, still spurring flames.

Witnesses estimated its speed from 40 to 50 miles per hour. Inside the hangar the runaway craft plowed through a third plane, hit a tack bomber, and came to rest against another. A third plane beside the hangar was burned.

Dozens of men, including the two others killed, were inside the operations office and other offices housed in the hangar. Four other persons suffered minor injuries.

Youth Wounded By Policeman In Orillia Church

ORILLIA (CP)—A youth was shot in the back Sunday as he fought a policeman in a church basement.

Harry Stephens, 19, who is charged with breaking, entering and theft, was in serious condition in fair condition at hospital.

Police said Sgt. Mervyn Wright and constable William Blanche were sent to investigate a reported breakin at St. Paul's United church. Blanche, they said, was knocked to the floor after chasing a man to the basement and he fired at his attacker.

Police said Stephens was unarmed.

North Korean Foreign Minister Called U.S. Spy

LONDON (AP)—Tass, the Soviet news agency, said today Pak Hon Yung, former foreign minister of North Korea, has been sentenced to death as an American spy.

The agency, in a broadcast monitored here, said the indictment charged Pak entered North Korea from South Korea on American orders in 1946 and worked to disrupt the Red Party. It said espionage, movement from the inside by espionage, subversion, murder and sabotage.

Pak was appointed foreign minister Sept. 10, 1953. The first indication that he was being purged came on July 27, 1954, when Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov addressed a message to Lee Don Gen as "foreign minister."

South Korean intelligence sources reported Pak was executed by firing detachment, Kim Il Sung, was purging his party of pro-Soviet elements and replacing them with pro-Chinese Communists.

Friendly Game Ends in Broken Jaw for Singer

NEW YORK (AP)—Phyllis McGuire, youngest of the singing McGuire sisters, has a broken jaw. Her husband broke it in a friendly rough-house game.

The singer's jaw was swollen on the Arthur Godfrey shows, will have to do without Phyllis' services for several weeks. Phyllis is in hospital and her jaw is wired to help it heal.

Dorothy McGuire, who is living with Phyllis and Phyllis' husband Neal van Ellis, explained the broken jaw this way:

Saturday night the two girls and van Ellis were playing a game with their French poodle, Pierre. Phyllis threw a shoe above each other around until Tinker comes to the defence of the one who is taking it," Dorothy said.

"Well, at one point Neal slapped Phyl in the face with his open hand. That ended the game right there. Her jaw hurt her so much that we called a doctor. He found that it had a little fracture. So Phyl went to New York Hospital and that's where she is right now."

JORDAN-HELD JERUSALEM AREA SCENE OF RIOT

Report Demonstration Aimed at Baghdad Pact

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Crowds of demonstrators today tried to storm the Sheikh Jarah quarter of the Jordanian-held City of Jerusalem, where the Turkish and other foreign consulates are situated.

From a vantage point on the Israeli side of the city border the crowds could be clearly seen as they swayed and broke before a force of Arab Legion soldiers and police who fired sub-machine-gun bursts above their heads.

Sporadic firing continued around the Turkish consulate after the crowds made off, and later a fire engine raced to the scene. The demonstrators were reported to have tried to set fire to the building.

Foreign consular officials who crossed the armistice border said the attempt was made by demonstrators shouting slogans against the Baghdad pact, of which Turkey is a member.

Demonstrations have been going on in Jordan for three days against British proposals that Jordan should also join this Middle East defence pact, which Egypt and Saudi Arabia say splits the Arab world.

STAGE DEMONSTRATIONS

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—Stage demonstrations were staged today against the British proposal that Jordan should join the Baghdad pact on Middle East defence.

A general strike was in operation in this capital of the Arab kingdom.

Demonstrators shouting slogans against the pact went to government house, where their leaders made speeches. The demonstrators were then dispersed.

Police and students had clashed Sunday in a second day of demonstrations over the pact, which is supported by the pro-British party of Premier Hazzah Mahali.

Britain, Pakistan, Turkey, Iran and Iraq are members of the pact, which is designed to safeguard the security of the Middle East. Egypt and Saudi Arabia oppose it on the grounds that it divides the Arab world.

Boy, Girl Friend Die Violently After Quarrel

Driver Steers Car Between Bridges, Down Embankment

TORONTO (CP) — A quarrel between Peter Kosteluch, 23, of Toronto and his girl friend Mary Mann after a party ended in violent death for both of them early Sunday when Kostelnch's car shot between two bridges near the entrance to Queen Elizabeth way and plunged 60 feet down an embankment.

Police said Kostelnch had been arguing with Miss Mann, also 23, while taking her home in martyr Lord Credit because she had not given him enough attention at the party.

Alex Pyzevas, 22, and Stella Franz, 20, both of Toronto, were riding in the back seat of the car. Both were injured in the crash.

Police said as Kostelnch's anger mounted so did the speed of the car.

They quoted Pyzevas as telling the driver to "be careful or you'll kill us all."

Pyzevas told police he pushed Miss Franz to the floor and threw himself on top of her just before the car plowed off the pavement.

Police said his action probably saved the couple from more serious injury.

Nine Are Hurt As Truck, Tram, Car Collide

TORONTO (CP)—Nine persons were injured today when a streetcar, truck and car collided.

Police said the truck, driven by Michael Principe, 20, skidded on snow-covered street car tracks and collided with the oncoming streetcar and auto. None of the injuries was serious.

Streetcar passengers said the operator Ewing Smith "acted like a hero." When he saw the collision was inevitable, he left his seat and stood with one foot on the windows to shield them from flying glass.

One passenger said Baillie stood at the front of the damaged car and told all the passengers to keep calm and move out slowly.

There was smoke issuing from the floorboards as though the streetcar was going to burn, the passengers said. The driver of the streetcar was evacuated without any trouble.

The accident occurred on King Street west near Strachan ave.

VESSEL DOOMED

Since Friday night the ice girdle around Pelee Island's coasts has widened and the Judith Mary now is caught in it. The ice is holding her although her bottom plates are ripped open and her engine room flooded.

A 60-mile-and-hour wind is blowing from the south-east today and this is turning to ice round her sides, deck, mast and rigging, making her heavier. Put off her perch on the reef and carry her across the supporting ice of the bay beneath the waters of the grey, frost-gripped gulf.

Her crew is chipping it off to keep her weight down and to keep free the engine room and they should be trapped below decks by a thick "igloo" of ice.

But the harsh Baltic winter was slowly getting the upper hand and Judith Mary was turning into a shapeless mass of ice.

Christmas Card Makes Ninth Round Trip

MACON, Miss. (AP) —Mrs. Wiley Lentz will open a clean envelope this week and pull out a tattered, yellow Christmas card — the same one she's received every other Christmas for 18 years.

A sister, Mrs. O. L. Turman of Laurel, Miss., first sent the card to Mrs. Lentz in 1937. Next year Mrs. Lentz decided to cut down on her budget. So she returned the card to her sister with this greeting:

"We can't afford new ones 'Cause times are just too hard

So we send our best wishes The sisters have been exchanging the card with new verses ever since.

Fourteen Seamen Hack at Ice Threatening Doom

LIVISA, Finland (Reuters)—Fourteen seamen in a grounded British motor ship were hacking for their lives today at the ice-bound vessel their little ship down into the blizzard-swept Gulf of Finland.

As the 14 men, nearly exhausted, smashed doggedly at the ice, the Finnish sea rescue services were trying to batt through snow and ice to reach them from the 300-ton vessel, the Jdith Mary.

The sailors have been trying to fight off the encroaching ice ever since their vessel, which was chartered only last summer, went aground in a snow storm last Friday night off Licsa, on the rocky Finnish coast about 60 miles east of Helsinki.

Attempts to rescue them by lifeboats and by a helicopter have been prevented by blizzards and high seas.

Edward B. Lally Dies Suddenly In Toronto

An active figure in the sphere of education of the deaf, Edward B. Lally, 237 John Street, was stricken suddenly in Toronto yesterday and died in Toronto Western Hospital. He was in his 56th year.

Mr. Lally was manager of the National Society for the Deaf and itself of Hearing, an organization which he founded in Toronto fifteen years ago.

Born in Read, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lally, he first became associated with his life's work after his graduation from Queen's University. In his early twenties he became associated with the Ontario School for the Deaf in Belleville. While there he took his first step in that broad step forward in his chosen sphere by establishing a vocational guidance course for the students at the school. Still with the Department of Education he went to Toronto some 15 years ago and set up the National Society for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, an organization based on a keen supporter of many branches of sport.

A Catholic, he was an enthusiastic figure in the Knights of Columbus and also a member of the Holy Name Society.

Mr. Lally is survived by his wife, the former Betty Smith, two daughters and one son: Pauline and Mary, both at home, Thomas, now a law student at Osgoode Hall in Toronto.

He also leaves three sisters and two brothers: Mrs. James (Angela) Herlihy, Mrs. Francis (Mary) Buckley, both of Read, Mrs. Godfrey (Margaret) Donegbue of Belleville; Leo Lally, of Read, and William, of Detroit, Mich.

Resting at his late residence. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Pre-occupation One Cause Of Traffic Mishaps

"Pre-occupation is one cause of traffic accidents which constantly shows up in statistics," according to Chief of Police Wm. Ellis today, "but I think it is pretty generally known that distraction and worry do influence a driver's judgment.

"Just a little thing like going over your Christmas shopping list as you drive along is enough to cause a momentary lapse of attention, and that is all it takes for an accident to happen. Pedestrians, their arms full of parcels or their minds on other Christmas purchases, step off the curb and into the paths of approaching cars.

"December is a dangerous month for motorists and pedestrians alike," said Chief Probert.

"So I urge all citizens of Belleville to honestly examine their walking and driving habits and resolve to be more careful than ever during the hectic holiday season.

"Cross only at intersections and don't forget to look both ways. Don't always depend on drivers being able to see you at night. It's safer to air than to be sorry.

And motorists — please adjust your speed to road and weather conditions so you can stop in an emergency. Use chains on snow or ice. They cut braking distance as much as 40 or 50 percent.

"Speaking as a Police Officer, I know too well that there is no easy way to learn that someone in your family has been killed in a traffic accident. There are few comforting words available to the Police Officer who bears the tragic news to the stricken family.

"Most people refuse to believe that anything unpleasant or disastrous will happen to them, but warnings and cautions are not only for the 'other fellow'. Forewarned is forearmed, says the old slogan. Don't let death spoil your holiday!"

Post Office Staff Working Through Deluge of Mail

"Christmas," said Dickens, would mean nothing without the interchange of greetings."

The Belleville post office staff heartily concur. Particularly, the interchange of greetings at Christmas gives them a veritable Dickens of a time.

Working around the clock the staff are clearing for work through the deluge of Christmas cards and letters and a flood of parcels from nearly every corner of the world to ensure prompt-as-possible delivery during the holiday season.

This week the post office will have its hands full and the hub of one of the most important merry features of Christmas, for it is only through the mails parted friends and loved ones may link up with each other for the gala festival.

In the lobby there is something akin to mild confusion as throngs of people patiently shuffle toward the wicket to buy their stamps, register letters and have parcels weighed, hurried across to the counter to affix stamps and search for the proper boxes to deposit their mail.

Behind the wickets there also is bustle but there is little confusion there.

Under postmaster Carman Masters, the regular staff of 46, 12 ranks swelled nearly four times by additional temporary help, is tackling the task at hand to move the mails through.

Every division of the office is feeling the impact of the seasonal rush.

There is increased personnel selling airmail and registered letters, special delivery and handling two-cent stamps for Christmas cards. There are more letter carriers, more clerks in the sec. There are more letter sorters and more parcel sorters.

139 ADDED HELPERS

To pad his staff against this year's huge tide of mail, postmaster Masters has found it necessary to hire a temporary force of over 139 helpers. Distributed throughout his department they are helping the dispatch of mail not only for the city but for the whole county.

The big push started Friday and will gradually taper off as the flood of mails subsides nearer Christmas. But the even-time postmaster Massey estimates every one of his staff will work an average four hours overtime per day.

An additional three trucks have been adder to the delivery service to keep the heavy flow of mail post from becoming glutted. On the streets over a score of letter carriers are augmenting the regular foot-sloggers of the department.

Upstairs on the second floor of the post office a heavy force of sorters works ceaselessly, handling mail for every part of Canada, the U.S. and the world in general.

In the basement beneath the building parcels are being sorted and distributed into various bins and bags for city delivery. In just five days some 2,985 parcels have been delivered in the east end section of the city while over 3,300 have been sent out in the West Hill and business sections of Belleville.

The parcel post this year also presents an interesting sidelight for Belleville.

More people, it appears, are seeing in Belleville cheese a gift typical of their city. Postmaster Massey comments there are "very many" cheese being sent through the mails from Belleville this year.

Overall mail volume, he points out, also is not easily determined at this time.

Asked if the increasing of his staff is nearly four times its regular size could be taken as an indication of a comparative increase in the mails, he could only reply: "Four times . . . Christmas."

Christmas Party For Children Held by ANAF

With the local armouries providing ample room and facilities, some 300 children on the occasion of their annual Christmas party.

Under the enthused entertainers from Northern Electric under the leadership of Bill Salter, kept the festivities at a lively pace and the spirit of Christmas and Santa Claus dancing in the eyes of the excited kiddies.

Clowning clowns, entertaining plays and Christmas music and songs held the youthful stalwarts enthralled until Santa arrived at 2:20, when bedlam broke loose. Santa rode around the armouries on the top of an open convertible, cheerily shouting his merry "Ho Ho Ho" which was literally drowned out by the clamoring of the youngsters.

Gifts of toy planes, vanity sets, flashlights, etc., for the starry-eyed believers, brought forth many "Ohs" and "Ahs" as the children filed past the generous elves.

Entertainment chairman Jack Boyle and his hard-working committee can be justly proud of the success of their annual Christmas party in the history of this local unit. Heartfelt thanks go to Lt.-Col. Fairman for the use of the armouries; to Bill Salter and his group for entertaining; to Pervel Stallkovich for his fine job; to the Ladies' Auxiliary members for their many efforts; to Nick Boziak for the expert handling of the P.A. system; to the Northern Electric for many contributions and last but not least to the many parents for ecring and controlling the well-behaved children.

Time cannot erase them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever,
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Ever remembered by Dad, sisters Hilda and Bessie, brother Percy.

THORN. — In loving memory of our dear father, Alexander Thorn, who passed away December 19th, 1952.

But still in memory dwells,
The one we loved and will miss while,
Of him who once sat there.
—Lovingly remembered by son Charles, daughter-in-law Marjorie and grandchildren.

THORN. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Thomas Thorn, who passed away December 19th, 1954.

Dear Dad, best of all.
—Ever remembered by wife Percy and daughter-in-law Eunice.

THORN. — In loving memory of a dear father, Alexander Thorn, who passed away December 19th, 1952.

Upon a farm' will he fell asleep,
With work and play he was in deep;
We have lost, but God has gained,
One of the best in the world contained.
—Forever to be remembered and loved by son Percy.

THORN. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Thomas Thorn, who passed away December 19th, 1954.

The time has come when you were with us,

Slippery Roads Responsible For Rash of Accidents

Andrew Lindsay, 63, of Hallburton, suffered a broken ankle when his car left the highway near Jones' Creek, west of the city and slammed into a tree.

At Avis' curve, west of Desoronto, a car driven by Hugh Donaldson of Hamilton, went out of control, ripped out a row of guide rail posts and then continued on for 150 feet into a field before coming to a halt. Both accidents were investigated by Provincial Constable Al Coulson.

Your Belleville General Hospital was a busy institution during October.

Hospital administrator Kenneth Box, reporting to the Board of Governors when all statistics for the month were complete, revealed that the hospital operated at a surplus, while serving more patients.

During October there were 581 admissions, 50 more than the previous month, with a total of 5,000 patient days. There were 96 births and 826 visits to the emergency department. 31,000 meals were served to patients and staff.

At the end of October there were 237 full-time and 74 part-time employees on the payroll. Net earnings from patient accounts totalled $83,864. Expenditures totalled $79,200 of which $48,500 was for salaries.

Other activities mentioned in the administrator's report were: the Women's Hospital Auxiliary's shadow plan program; the hospital's public relations film, and the Auxiliary's new project to refurnish certain areas of the nurses' residence.

Plans for Christmas include a special service for student and graduate nurses on Christmas morning. Following the service the student choir will sing carols throughout the hospital. During the day various organizations will distribute gifts to patients.

McFarland did not appear at court in Picton Tuesday for questioning in connection with an action for damages by the town of Trenton.

Christmas Party Of Lions Club Huge Success

Rev. Sidney Larman of Holloway Street United church, was the guest speaker at the Lions' club meeting on Thursday evening at the Shrine club in Belleville. Mr. Larman's talk was filled with many interesting comments on salesmanship of the Lord's work. Lion Tom Colden thanked Mr. Larman on behalf of the club.

The annual Lions' Christmas party was held at the American Optical Company on Sunday. Special thanks go to Lions International director Nostram Sprague of Trenton, who handled the role of Santa Claus in his usual sparkling way and also thanks go to Carson Elliott who so aptly filled the role of the clown much to the delight of the children. The party consisted of singing of carols and several small entertainment sets put on by the children of the Lions club members.

The Lions Christmas Basket draw was held and the winners have been released to the press and will be notified personally by Lion secretary, Bill Bray. Century club draw was also held and the winner for December was Miss Susan Pinder.

Lion president Harry Gibson introduced two new Lions, Charlie Cumberland of Frankford and Glen Phillips of Cobourg, both of these fellow Lions being transferred to the city of a recent date.

Many thanks are extended to the people of Belleville and district for their wonderful support to the Christmas Basket draw. It was a success and we have already used the monies for calamet operations and toys for the needy.

PC Women Hold Meeting

The regular meeting of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association was recently held in Kiwanis Centre, with a very good attendance.

It was a Christmas pot-luck supper with Santa Claus, who had a gift for everyone. Christmas carols with everyone singing, and Miss McCullough at the piano, was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Barclay gave two lovely solos; accompanied by Mrs. Burgoyne. A sum of money was donated to the Salvation Army for their "Christmas Cheer Fund" also a little red box on the table to receive donations for a sick member was well patronized.

Mr. Elmer Sandercock and Mr. Leo Grills, both gave an interesting talk but they had both eaten so heartily they couldn't do justice to oratory.

Police Blotter

Investigation of auto accidents took up most of the time for city police during the weekend with no less than 10 mishaps reported. Otherwise occurrences were few.

Patrol officers reported a plate glass window at the Metropolitan store broken, presumably by a stone. At a local drug store a shopping bag containing several parcels of merchandise was taken by mistake.

Group to Sing Carols Thursday On Front Street

Belleville this Christmas will recho to some right merry caroling, if the local SPEBSQA has its way.

Full tilt, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet - singing in America, about 20 SPEBSQA'rs will meet at 7 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. building on Thursday. From there the group will set out on Front St. bent on singing in the Christmas cheer to the city.

However, as nearly everybody knows, the SPEBSQA is made up entirely of males. Thus, an invitation has been issued to anybody who desires — especially the ladies — to join in the singing.

So remember the time—Thursday at 7 p.m. — the place — the Y — and the girls are specially invited.

MERRILY WE ROLL ALONG

It has been said that there are three kinds of lies—lies, damn lies and statistics.

Statistics have often been faintly praised as being among the dullest and most boring conversation pieces in existence. But, like them or not, we are all stuck with statistics.

Some statistics most people get stuck on, at one time or another, and for varying reasons, are those pertaining to automobiles. The price of the car, finance charges, repair bills, maintenance and service charges, new tires, and gasoline prices, are the personal, day-to-day concern of the motorist. Figures for all these items have a distinct and unmistakable impact on one's wallet, if not always on one's consciousness.

The sum total of statistics about Canada's automobile business, as may be imagined, is impressive. A blizzard of such statistics has recently swept across editorial desks all over Canada in the form of a booklet entitled "Facts and Figures of the Automotive Industry" published by the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

In 1954 Canada's auto makers produced 357,000 passenger and commercial vehicles, a decline from the peak production of 480,958 vehicles, in 1953. Sales of new vehicles in Canada in 1954, including imported makes, totalled 382,000 units. Retail value of Canadian production was $989,518,000. In 1954, 154,104 new vehicles were financed, meaning that of the 382,628 sold, some 228,524 were not financed or purchased outright. Financing was done for 384,624 used vehicles, or in other words, more used vehicles were financed in 1954 than there were new vehicles sold. Total amount of financing was $611,646,000.

Net cost of materials to manufacturers was $477,309,375. Wages to an average of 29,000 employees totalled $106,000,000. Factor cost of material totalled $583,371,814. Selling value of the products at the plant totalled $666,286,542 leaving manufacturers with $72,914,728 over and above the cost of these two basic commodities.

What did manufacturers do with this money? Capital expenditures for new buildings, new machinery and repairs and maintenance to plant and machinery took $40,327,000. Outlay for new construction was $13,341,000 and for new machinery, $16,312,000.

The automotive wars also a feast of burden in carrying much of the federal and provincial tax loads in 1954. Federal sales and excise taxes amounted to $137,821,048 or $31,821,048 more than was paid in 1953. Provincial revenue in 1954 provincial revenue from registration fees for all provinces amounted to $91,752,000. Revenue from taxes on the sale of more than two billion gallons of gasoline in all provinces amounted to $235,742,000. Provincial governments in Canada collected from registration fees and gasoline taxes an average of 24 per cent of their total revenues in 1954.

Total taxation on cars and gasoline sales in Canada in 1954 was $465,314,988 or just $11,994,387 less than the total amount of money spent by auto manufacturers for materials.

Bound directly to the auto industry are three other major industries—auto parts manufacturing, petroleum products and rubber industry.

In 1954 the parts manufacturing industry employed an average of 18,990 workers and produced goods with a selling value at the plant of $839,403,631. The petroleum products industry employed 12,363 workers and produced goods with a selling value at the plant of $855,904,202. The rubber industry employed 16,933 and its goods, at the plant, had a value of $264,187,669.

Parts manufacturing, petroleum products and the rubber industry together had 47,248 employees and production with a selling value at the plants of $1,359,522,502.

The auto industry is big business any way one looks at it. Its size and the value of its products make it one of the cornerstones of the Canadian economy. Money derived from taxation of its manufactures is one of the principal sources of provincial revenue. In 1954 Ontario had a total budget of $386,287,000. Registration fees and gas taxes raised $119,301,000 or 30.7 per cent.

In 1954 there were 3,564,514 cars, trucks and buses registered in Canada and a passenger car for every 5.7 persons.

Since World War II, 825,000 vehicles have been scrapped in Canada or more than the entire new vehicle production of the industry in any two years since 1945. In other words 20 per cent of total new vehicle production 10 years he has been scrapped illustrating a complete replacement of the nation's vehicles every five years.

Statistically speaking, if anyone has a car or truck that is more than five years old, his vehicle is out-dated. If the car was bought in 1955, statistics indicate that it, and all other 1955 cars, will be scrapped in 1960. Meanwhile, Canada, Canadians and the automobile industry roll merrily along.

THOSE SIDEWALKS!

Ouch! Those Belleville sidewalks are hard. That fact would not be brought so forcibly to our attention if Belleville did not have so many considerations citizens.

Unfortunately, when the city did not remove last week's light snowfall from the sidewalks, a number of energetic residents took it upon themselves to remedy the situation.

In front of the homes of the lazy, the snow left by the city scoop packed itself into a hard and comparatively safe surface.

On those sections of sidewalk which had been conscientiously cleared by the owner of the abutting property, the sun melted enough snow to provide the night frost with the raw material for a skating rink.

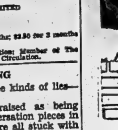
CHRISTMAS TIPS

Christmas shopper, if for me
You are store-ward bound today,
And a handkerchief you see
Made of silk and very gay,
Though admire it others might,
All my handkerchiefs are white.



Should some hosiery in a box,
Gaudy colored, catch your eye,
Though I am in need of socks,
Pass the ends and purples by.
I shall have to take 'em back
If you do not pick 'em black.

If within a necktie store
You discover something grand,
Let me tell you just once more
I don't wear a four-in-hand.
If the gift is meant for me,
Just a bow tie let it be.

If surpenders catch your eye,
As no doubt the bright ones will,
In all safety you may buy;
I am one who wears 'em still!
To your color choice I'll bow,
No one sees 'em, anyhow!

They Buried Wrong Man

(New Orleans Times-Picayune)

A Mississippian likes to tell about the one Republican vote that counted on election day—and where in his home town. Everybody knew it was cast by an old former Union soldier who had been wounded and left behind during the Battle of Shiloh.

When the old-timer died, the town gave him a fine funeral, then heaved a civic sigh of relief that they had escaped another vote.

But that Fall, when votes in the presidential race between Hayes and Hughes were being counted, a sudden consternation arose.

"That Republican vote has showed up again!" one of the tabulators yelled. "We buried the wrong man!"

TODAY'S TALK

SPRINGS

Springs in a vehicle are very important. They not only contribute to the life of the vehicle but to the comfort and pleasure of the ones who ride in it. Take the automobile for example. The riding qualities have been perfected so that now there is almost an absence of discomfort, thanks to the springs. But—if the road happens to be rough the springs then do double service.

We need springs in our character, to carry us over the rough spots in life with the least possible discomfort. We need the springs of courage, patience, will and of faith. Without these qualities the achievement of real happiness is all but difficult. A broken spring slows up all good progress ahead, when it's in a car that you drive. Likewise when it's a broken spring in character we are liable to flounder and we make little or no progress ahead!

Life's pathway should be made as smooth and comfortable as possible, and this rests largely within ourselves. Our attitude of mind, our cheerful spirit, our desire to be useful and successful—each contributes to our peace and tranquility. We can conquer the ills if we are well springed!

William James, the noted psychologist, had this to say: "The great thing, then, in all education, is to make our nervous system our ally instead of our enemy. It is to fund and capitalize our acquisitions, and live at ease upon the interest of the habits we have framed in alliance with our nervous system, can give us what perfect control we can in the art of life." Riding quality. We go forward without discomfort.

Thus it is that spring action in a human being can be as important as the same in a riding vehicle. Life's contests, dreams, and useful objectives unfold naturally and smoothly when we go forward, without worry and troubles, making for a pleasant journey day by day. Good human springs collier-ably are fallured

Visits Ship's Graveyard

(BBC Weekly Talks Summary)

"The life of a ship is unexpectedly short. Every man a car or a plane but not as long as a railway engine or a house. Obviously not as long as a house, yet so many of the men who sail in ships look on them as houses - homes, not just another method of transport," said Patricia Burns in a BBC talk, moved to these reflections by a visit paid to a breakers yard, at Grays in Essex. People, perhaps especially Britons who had seen the Queen Mary fall sentimental when they heard of a famous vessel being broken up.

"When the Lmer Empress of Australia and the battleships Rodney and Nelson, for instance, were dismanted at Inverkeithing on the Clyde a few years ago, hundreds of people from all over Britain wrote asking for something to remember them by. I was the works' shop manager met many of the requests and his heart often sank. Sheffield did a small trade in souvenirs made of Nelson's armour. "I have a souvenir like that myself - a rosewood writ box lined with blue velvet with a small silver plaque on the lid engraved in black, spidery writing: 'In memory of the Royal Yacht Fairy, taken to pieces in 1857.' said Patricia Brent. "My father bought it when, as a boy, he helped to break up the ship. Her world's ports. After she had docked all movable gear was taken off to be sold, and the hull was towed up river to a mudberth where she would be left to rot. Then, when the tide was at its lowest point, explosives were placed and blowing out and washing down her oil would be left. It is important that there would be no explosions or fire when the acetylene cutters started work.

When the captain came ashore he would leave his ship but he was leaving his ship but he was comparatively new and quite unsentimental. He had only been with her day and was pretty worn out. The real sentiment was left to the ship, into the bright, gaily painted engine-room, with its red plush settee for breaking and in the mate's found two black kittens sleeping in the warmth of the engine and was broken when the gang went to work. They had to get rid of the ship and their job is to destroy an abandoned hulk as fast and ruthlessly as they can, without sentiment or feeling. In the British Pride's database were many considered worth saving.

Inside the porcelain washbasins and the bunks and furniture were smashed up because it would take too much time to take them out intact. Some of the timber would be sold to make chairs. Practically everything not made of iron or steel was destroyed," she said. The gang would start at lunchtime; they came up against concrete in the bows and the men had to be issued a primitive tool to destroy it. A huge hammer which was lowered on to a crane and dropped into the hold to splinter away the obstruction.

As the shambles in the hold grew other workers with oxy-acetylene rezized the jagged chunks of iron and steel and dumped them in the hold, where they were cut up bit by bit on the quay. At last the shell of the ship, which was lower and lower around on the tide to the finishing berth, where the plates of the bottom were cut away, round by round, like slices off the top of a cake. Then the last section would be left with the British Pride's name inscribed on it. Demolition contractors with twenty thousand tons of iron and steel scrap which will be cut into furnace-size pieces, and fed into Siemens-Martin furnaces with coal and refined with chemicals to become new steel for ships and cars.

"But every ship is something of a ghoulish nature about the way it is torn from its debris. So in a year or two another oil tanker may be plowing its way from the Persian Gulf to the Persian Gulf with some of the British Pride's steel in her hull. Ship-breaking yards are the birthplaces of new ships as well as the graveyards of the old," said Patricia Brent.

Women Voters Show Courage

(Danville, Ill., Commercial News)

Those inclined to underestimate the power of women should find little support in their shaky position in the record of the girls of League of Women Voters, as some American League members are finding out.

Currently, the League of Women Voters has a "Get-Out-The-Vote" program which is intended to promote the exercise of individual rights under the federal Constitution.

When this program drew fire the other day from the national executive committee of the Legion, Mrs. John G. Lee League president, replied:

"The League of Women Voters will not withdraw its support of Freedom Agenda. Believing as it does in the principle of free speech and free examination of all ideas, it will not yield to intimidation, coercion or fear of false charges."

Because the League of Women Voters has done good work in the cycle of free speech and free examination of all ideas, it is frequently under attack. But better than many of its critics, it seems to understand that this is a time of change of ideas — the right of the individual to think for himself, to study as he chooses — is the very essence of a free nation.

The League seems a matter of partisan politics. Its interest is geared to public affairs, Republicans and Democrats but to the public. It has been and is concerned with the importance of sustaining individual liberties and policies that will preserve freedom. Certainly its members don't say so but they are showing the courage to make a place in the political scene where the foibles of the opposite sex have long been exploited.

Because the League believes that the right of free speech should be exposed to the light of public scrutiny, it continues through the years and forums to do just that. There is little need, it seems, to relate that it is by no means the largest or even great on open discussions and free examination of issues.

The League would cease to merit its existence the day that it refuses to examine controversial ideas and issues. We are glad it is sticking to its principles. It has the spunk to do so at this time, a time when the nation needs such a stand, a time when it is the duty of women to motivate all too many actions. Its program will inevitably pay dividends to the public, here in Danville as elsewhere.

Excavating Old Pyramid

(BBC Weekly Talks Summary)

Leonard Cottrell of the BBC who has accompanied Dr. Zakaria Goneim to Egypt, where work is continuing on the excavation of a buried pyramid built nearly five thousand years before the birth of Christ, gives the on-the-spot recordings in which Mr. Mohammed Zakaria Goneim, the Egyptian archaeologist in charge of the excavation's, described the season's work. Mr. Goneim told of some of their successes and of their disappointments, of their problems to be solved, and of their hopes for next year. He left a vivid picture in the minds of listeners of what it is like to work in the dry, joyless underground galleries.

"No one" he said, "has not crawled on hands and knees along the galleries beneath a pyramid and experienced the feeling that the excavators can fully appreciate the sensation which Howard Carter must have felt.

You worm your way along some dark corridor on hands and knees, your face an inch or two from the lamp gleams on minute crystals in the limestone blocks which corridor disappears into blackness. You turn corners feeling your way with your hands. The corridors have been left behind, and suddenly you realize that you are about in a place which has not heard a footfall for thousands of years. Above you is more than one hundred feet of solid rock and above that again, rests the mighty bulk of the pyramid. No one with imagination can have such an experience and not be profoundly stirred."

Twentieth Century Iron

Anemia means literally lack of blood, or particularly insufficient hemoglobin. Hemoglobin is the red coloring matter, an organic iron-compound, that not only makes the pale straw-colored serum look red but carries oxygen from the lungs to every part of the body and picks up and carries back to the lungs the carbon dioxide produced by oxidation, combustion, metabolism. The hemoglobin is the life of the blood serum or plasma, but almost entirely in the red corpuscles. So, in most instances, the accurate measurement of the amount of hemoglobin in a drop of blood gives the same information as a blood count (count of the red corpuscles in a given fraction of a drop of blood). Thus, a healthy man has 4,500,000 red corpuscles in a cubic millimeter (approximately 1/60th of a drop) of blood, and a corresponding hemoglobin level of 90 per cent. These are less average measurements. A red corpuscle count of anywhere from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 and a hemoglobin measurement of anywhere from 85 to 105 per cent may be normal for many individuals.

There are four kinds of iron. As I recommend only two, namely, "twentieth century iron" and ferrous (iron) gluconate, a type of iron as readily assimilated and as easy on the stomach as the iron in eggs, beef, spinach, liver, oatmeal, dried prunes, wheat, raisins, raw cabbage or dandelion greens. "Twentieth century iron" is natural for simple hypo-chromic anemia, the anemia I call "the Gray Sickness — it seems to have become quite prevalent in women since third or fourth decade, since chlorosis, "the green sickness," formerly prevalent in teenage girls, has become rare.

A piece to follow this one will call attention to some common causes of anemia that are too frequently unrecognized.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The highest expression of morality, somebody has said, is for people to be willing to forgive the sins of others' mistakes, so as to escape payment, for it or get off cheap.

There must be a great satisfaction in the mind which can look on the nobler characters amongst us who insist upon paying in full for their mistakes. It is probably a better feeling than having money in the bank—and all debts paid.

One of the commonest mistakes we make is in misjudging people. We think we are the only ones who make that particular mistake we are the least likely to admit it, and condemn it alone to anybody else. We may be honorable enough to admit mistakes of judgment in business, in our work, in our purchases, in our investments. But when it comes to a mistake about people, it is almost impossible to get us to admit it. Unable to justify our mistake, to climb doggedly to our opinion, and, often enough, to keep on seeking further reasons to dislike the victim of our error. Stubbornness is a vice.

Well, now this is the magic moment.

I think who might have been here in this pile five years ago, ten, twenty.

It is the one magic moment in the 8,760 hours of the year in which to pay for a mistake.

Pay it.

It. How do you pay for misjudging people? Not by "forgiving" them in the vast majority of us with regard to the emotions. We would prefer to get back to the time in the experience of feeling shame; we would rather fall down the cellar stairs than suffer acute embarrassment. I wonder why? What little cowards we are.

Well, I bet you are making out your check in your mind right now. You likely have a list, or perhaps this time, you have saved the Christmas cards you received last year, in a string-tied bundle; and likely to attack the problem of dressing the envelopes to all those who remembered you then.

Mmm-hmmm! It is a pleasant task, even if stressed with the season. Ah, the pretty pretty cards of last year. See how you remember the sender, the emotion, all the Christmas friends. You are softened up a little.

Well, now this is the magic moment.

Sentence is the word here in this pile five years ago, ten, twenty.

Sentenced To Go to Bed

(The Times of London)

"Prisoner at the bar," said the judge in Erewhon, "you have been found guilty by your fellows of laboring under pulmonary consumption, and after mature trial before a jury of your countrymen, you have been found guilty."

Everyone embraced the unfortunate wretch to imprisonment with hard labor for the space of three months' existence, tempered by two daily tablespoonfuls of castor oil.

That was a savage penalty, but at this time of year milder ones are inflicted on people in the High Court but by purely domestic tribunals. The delinquent shows the usual signs of a severe cold by a volley of sneezes or by snuffling with feminine unrest.

He is sentenced to a period of detention. He is ordered to bed after breakfast in bed next morning and warned of the dire results that will befall if he fails to keep to his bed.

If there is as much as the suspicion of a temperature in bed he will stay for the whole day and be dosed, not indeed with castor oil but with aromatized quinine. This sentence is far from a disagreeable one if it is carried out properly, and it is the going to bed on the night which contains the blessed knowledge of that long lie next morning.

Should the sentence be extended and the patient remain in bed for a whole day or even more he may find himself beginning to develop some of the characteristics of a hardened offender. It may be he has been told not to smoke, since it is bad for the throat.

Like the old lag who secretes tobacco in some crevice in his cell he will seize the moment when his guards have left him to snooze, and secrete a rank cigarette in the receptacles next door.

This is, however, an unwise course, very likely entailing an appearance before the magistrate in the morning on criminal medicines. He had far better stay peacefully in bed and read a book. Reading is the very light and wholesome, and does not tend to telephone bed during away into a petulant silence because he might catch a chill in somebody's draft.

These are blessed privileges and the first sentence in bed is the most regal of all.

Square Meal's Stronghold

(Sherbrooke Record)

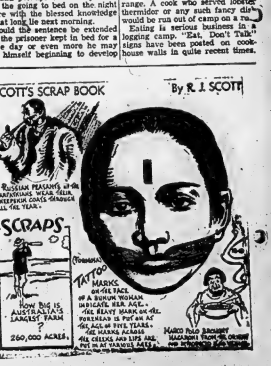
The logging camp is almost the last North American stronghold of the square meal. Food is good, massive and simple. A cook who tried to spice up some leftover steak would be grilled on his own range. A cook who served lobster thermidor or any such fancy dish would be run out of camp on a rail.

Eating is serious business in a logging camp. "Eat, Don't Talk" signs have been posted on cookhouse walls in quite recent times.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

KEEP FIRST THINGS FIRST



We hear a great deal today about the "Ecumenical Movement" and "ecumenism." The truth is that we are not so badly divided as we appear. The Church of the Protestant Christians in the United States are divided by about twenty denominations—not 200 as we sometimes hear.

There is a great movement on today to unite the churches. It is known as the "Ecumenical Movement"—a word derived from a Greek word meaning house. The Ecumenical Movement, therefore, is a movement to unite the churches into one — literally into one house.

There are good things about this movement and things that are not so good. Certainly there are too many denominations today. Sometimes they overlap and compete. Sometimes they represent temperamental differences. There is a very real difference between the sermon any of the Protestant churches. The differences are in doctrine, in liturgy and forms of church government.

Behind authority on church union has recently said: "The ecumenical movement is the result of conviction that the union of the church is the supreme good in the new moment in history when the supreme need is for its rebirth." Surely efficiency of administration and the simplification of overlapping agencies will do us no good if soul goes out of our religion.

Let us not put secondary matters before first, which church government before divine grace.

Lady Wernher Champ Owner, Breeder of '55

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP)—Women owners and breeders making men take a back seat in British horse racing—turning it into the sport of queens, instead of kings.

Lady Zia Wernher is the champion owner and breeder for the 1955 season. Miss Dorothy Paget and Mme. Suzy Volterra of France finished among the top eight owners and breeders.

Fifty years ago a woman would not have dared to race horses on British tracks in her own name. The few who defied convention by owning racehorses ran them under pseudonyms.

The Duchess of Montrose, for example, was "Mr. Manton" on the turf and the actress Lily Langtry raced as "Mr. Jersey."

Now women take as big a part in racing as men. And apparently know just as much about it. Queen Elizabeth is a keen and knowledgeable racing fan. She was champion owner last year.

PREJUDICE REMAINS

But even the enthusiastic interest of the royal owner has not removed the last of the turf prejudices against women.

The Jockey Club, ruling body of flat racing in Britain, refuses to issue a licence to a woman trainer. The women easily get around that one. They manage the training stables and a male assistant holds the official licence.

The most prominent "woman trainer" is Mrs. Johnson Houghton whose assistant, Charles Jerdein, finished eighth in the trainers' championship with $73,786 in winnings.

Lady Zia Wernher, fair-haired and blue-eyed, won $129,766 in purses last year. Her most successful thoroughbred was another miss — the two-year-old filly Meld. Meld won three classics—the 1,000 Guineas, Oaks and St. Leger. It was the first time a filly had done that since Pretty Polly in 1904.

Lady Zia Wernher is the daughter of Grand Duke Michael of Russia and married millionaire industrialist Sir Harold Wernher in 1931. King George VI and Queen Mary attended the wedding.

The Wernhers live in one of the stateliest homes at Luton Hoo, Bedfordshire, where the Wernher family art collection is housed.

Horse racing is Lady Wernher's main hobby. She even named that Meld would win the Oaks. "It was quite fantastic," she said, "because I don't usually dream much. But I saw my colors of green and yellow by lengths and lengths."

A CHRISTMAS STORY
The Coming of the King
by Norman Vincent Peale

The Wise Men in Jerusalem

VI. WISE MEN FROM THE EAST

The shepherds now pass out of this story. But we can be sure they never forgot they were the first strangers to have looked upon the baby face and form of Jesus.

And, even as they looked, other strangers were on the way. Far off in the East, three wise men had seen a star blazing in the heavens. They lived in different countries and had never met. One was from Babylon perhaps, the second may have been from India and the third possibly from Persia. But they all saw this new star in the sky, one they had never seen before. And, somehow, it beckoned to them, and they set out to follow it. They travelled over mountains and deserts and seas, following the star. As it moved before them, always in the direction of Palestine, their paths crossed and they met. So they followed the star to Jerusalem, for that is where it led them.

Because each of them was a king as well as a wise man, they went to see King Herod, who was king under the Romans, and asked him: "Where is He that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen His star in the east, and are come to worship Him."

Now, Herod thought of himself as King of the Jews and this disturbed him greatly, for here, it seemed, was a baby who was destined to take his place. So he called together all his own wise men and advisers and asked them where the prophets said the new King would be born. They looked into their scrolls and found that the child would be born in Bethlehem. Then Herod called the wise men from the East to him and asked them to go to Bethlehem, find the child and come to tell him so that he too might go and worship.

The wise men left Herod's palace chastened, and there was the star, still in the sky. They began once more to follow it.

Gideons Visit County Home, Hold Program

The auxiliary of the Belleville Camp of Gideons had the privilege on Wednesday of having a Christmas program with the ladies at the "Home for the Aged".

The president, Mrs. H. Robinson welcomed the ladies.

They all enjoyed a time of Christmas carol singing led by Mrs. V. Weir.

Mrs. W. Watson told the lovely Christmas story, and each one received a gift of candy.

In return, the Gideons received lovely smiles, and warm hand shakes, which made one feel "It was good to be there".

What a wonderful opportunity the Gideons have to be witnesses, giving themselves with the whole truth of the Word of the Lord and watching again with the shepherds and wise men, for His coming again in the clouds of glory.

THROUGH CHRIST

"The shepherds saw the angels;
The wise men saw a star;
So God gives His children,
No matter where they are—
A glimpse of His great glory;
A star of hope to guide;
The Bible tells the story
Which we must publish wide.
O, give me understanding
To witness Lord, for Thee—
To tell the world of all things
Through Christ, who strengthens me."

YULE SPIRIT EXPRESSED IN CAROLS

As much a part of the Christmas scene as Santa Claus and evergreen trees are the Yuletide choirs, singing the religious aspect of the festive season in hymns and carols. Young boys, more often found with hockey sticks in their hands, enter into the spirit of Christmas when carols are sung. (Central Press Canadian).

Princess Stuns Style Experts With Costume

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret, who rates on nearly everyone's list of best dressed women, stunned style experts Sunday with a costume for the races which they say violates the rules of fashion.

She shocks the fashion world," says a front-page headline in one Sunday paper, The People.

The pretty princess sported the costume when she went to the races at nearby Hurst Park Saturday with the Queen and the Queen Mother. Although the stylists criticized her, they admitted they were intrigued by her unconventional getup, which consisted of:

A stocking-like goblin hat of heavy soft material, a short cloth coat with mannish lapels and a fur collar, a dress of different material than the coat—yet coat and dress have large matching black buttons, suede shoes, suede handbag and—pigskin gloves.

Three of London's best known fashion experts—who begged that they remain unidentified—looked at the costume and gasped.

Said No. 1:

"It seems a strange blend of town and country wear, and neither is the right thing for a race meeting. You can't mix suede shoes and suede handbag with pigskin gloves."

Said No. 2:

"The coat is too short for an ordinary coat and not short enough for a short one. On the other collar is wrong and the lapel line is not at all smart. However, it's darling of her to wear it."

Said No. 3:

"I can't follow the style. With that tunic it's essential that the dress should be of the same material. Yet princess does not rule. Yet she's matched the buttons. Extraordinary, to say the least, and different."

Your Christmas Fireside Can Be Bright With Color

If you wish to get as much "color" as possible in your Christmas observance, here's a novel idea.

Pine cones, small kindling or chips can be so treated as to give off colored flames when burned in the fireplace. Dipped or soaked in a solution of various salts or certain metals, cones or chips will burn with a distinctive color. Cones will not readily absorb water, so salts must be suspended in a solution of turpentine.

Compounds which produce specific colors when burned are: Red — strontium chloride; green —barium chloride; blue-green—copper oxide or copper sulfate; orange—calcium chloride; lavender—potassium chloride, and yellow—sodium chloride.

A second method — if only cones are to be used—is to dip the cones in paraffin and before the paraffin hardens sprinkle with the following chemicals for desired color effect: Green—copper sulphate; red — strontium nitrate; orange—calcium nitrate, and yellow—sodium chloride.

To prevent corrosion in stove stencils, wash them promptly after use in hot soap or detergent suds, then scald and wipe dry.

Sunshine Will Be Power Behind One of the Next Great Scientific Advances of World

By RENNIE TAYLOR

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sunshine, which is large number of people think of as something to bask in, will be the power behind one of the next great scientific advances.

It will be used to change ocean water into fresh water. It will heat homes in winter and cool them in summer. It will supply electric power in places which have no coal, oil, gas or hydro resource.

Just when this will happen is hard to foresee, but the scientists primarily concerned say it will get under way on a large scale as soon as the conventional fuels begin to get really expensive.

The means for doing things with sun power already are available. Many of them were shown at the recent world congress on applied solar energy, held here and in Tucson.

STILL INEFFICIENT

At this stage the machines for utilizing sun power on an industrial scale are notoriously inefficient, but they are getting better all the time.

If the price of gasoline should jump to $1 a gallon and other energy fuels should rise accordingly, solar scientists say the age of sun power would come quickly, perhaps along with or not far behind atomic power.

The amount of energy poured on the earth by the sun is calculated in figures far too large for the average mind to grasp. Researchers at the University of Washington, building a test sun power apparatus, say the total amount reaching the earth in one year is equal to one million million million million kilowatts.

With such a supply of solar energy, there is fantastically wasteful. About half the radiant energy which strikes the earth's surface bounces back immediately into space, and is lost. Plants use only a minute fraction of the sunshine which strikes their green leaves and sparks the process of vegetable growth, on which all life on earth depends.

COULD BE USEFUL

Heat, whether from the sun or other source, is one of the most elusive forms of energy. It leaks out of everything and cannot be stored in any quantity for long. Even the best of the man-made vacuum bottles are wasteful in tricky ways. So only a small part of the input remains available for useful work.

However, even this small residue can be tremendous. Elmer C. Easton, an engineer at Brown University, says if ways could be found to utilize one half of one per cent of the total available solar energy, the world's power problem would be solved.

Several researchers at the symposium here exhibited devices rated at five per cent and upward in efficiency. Some said a general level of 10 per cent is possible.

Among the instruments which caught the eyes of people from the sunshiny desert areas of the world were stills for producing fresh water from the ocean at somewhere near economic cost.

One of these was developed by Dr. Maria Telkes of New York University, a leader in solar power research. Ocean water runs slowly through a shallow trough covered by a transparent gable roof. Sunshine beating down through the roof heats the water. Some of it evaporates and settles on the under side of the roof. There it trickles down to alittle gutters near the trough rim and runs off into storage containers as pure water.

COSTS GOING UP

Machines like this, Dr. Telkes said, some day will in effect cause rivers to flow backward. The sea will be turning back to the land the fresh water that came to it from streams.

Dr. Telkes estimated that her machine could produce fresh water from the ocean for about 68 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Present prices for irrigation water vary widely, but an acre might be around seven cents per 1,000 gallons.

With conventional irrigation costs going up and solar still efficiency improving, the time may be near when booming sunshiny semi-desert areas such as southern California and Arizona will get their answer to water problems via solar power.

RYLSTONE — The Women's Association of Rylstone United Church held its annual meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Ray Stewart on Wednesday afternoon, with seven ladies present. The meeting opened with the hymn, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," followed by Scripture reading, Luke 2: "The Christmas Story."

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Switzer, the minutes of the November meeting were read by Mrs. Ellis Jones, as were the minutes of the 1954 annual meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED

All officers were elected by acclamation, with the exception of Mrs. Ellis Jones, who was chosen as assistant to the president. The officers are as follows:

President, Mrs. Ray Stewart; vice-president, Mrs. Jim Milne; assistant, Mrs. Ellis Jones; secretary, Mrs. Wilfred Spencer; treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Rutherford; Sunshine committee, Mrs. Lily Anderson, Mrs. Will Rutherford and Mrs. Chester Mckeown; pianist, Mrs. Thomas H. McKeown.

It was decided to give $10 to missions and send flowers to a former member who is now a shut-in, and a book to another shut-in. "While Shepherds Watched" was sung and a reading "The Babe of Bethlehem," was given by Mrs. Will Rutherford. Christmas carols were played by Mrs. Ellis Jones at the piano. A reading, "A New Words of Praise" was given by Mrs. Thomas M. McKeown and a duet, "Silent Night," was sung by Mrs. H. E. Bezan and Mrs. Will Rutherford, with Mrs. Ellis Jones accompanying.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Thomas H. McKeown, Springbrook, with Mrs. Wilfred Spencer and Mrs. Ellis Jones as conveners.

Boa Constrictor On the Loose

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 12-foot boa constrictor was on the loose in New Orleans Sunday and its owner in jail.

Standley Lykins, 29, calls himself a snake charmer, female impersonator and aerialist. But police call him a shoplifter.

They charge he stole a radio and a tie set from a downtown department store Saturday. When they questioned him later, Lykins told them that pawn tickets for other stolen articles were in his locker at home.

Officers opened the locker. Out popped two boa constrictors. A five-foot one was caught immediately. But the 12-foot constrictor dangled away.

Five Rockefeller Bros. Enjoy Luxuries of Wealth in Privacy

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—There probably isn't a place in town where on any given working day, you can see a greater concentration of shiny, chauffeured limousines than in Rockefeller Centre.

But none of them belongs to the owners of this vast, multimillion-dollar property—the five Rockefeller brothers.

It is a Rockefeller habit, by training and inclination, to enjoy the luxuries of their wealth in privacy and leave public displays to others. Besides, they frequently find it more practical to walk, ride a bus, subway or cab to their offices.

Rockefeller Center cost about $125,000,000 to build in the 30s. One may assume it is worth considerably more today, perhaps twice as much. Sole ownership of the common stock has passed from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., now 81 and relatively inactive, to his five sons. As big as this property is, it does not represent the largest single hunk of the brothers' wealth. That still lies in oil stocks in various companies, left them in trust by their father and grandfather.

The advantages of great wealth being obvious, what, if any, are the disadvantages?

MUST PROVE SELVES

"There's always the risk of spoiling the children," says David Rockefeller, who has six. "Another disadvantage is that there are always people who assume that no matter what one does it's because of his wealth or name, not because of one's own ability."

This last echoes a theme you detect frequently in the Rockefeller family. Each feels a personal need to prove himself an individual and a useful, productive human being.

David, the youngest, is 40, handsome, reserved and somewhat formal in speech and manner. His first ambition was to go into politics. Later, he chose banking. His rise to executive vice-president in 10 years may prompt skeptics to point out that, after all, there's a lot of Rockefeller money in the Chase bank. They overlook the man's own ability and his thorough education in the field: Harvard business school, London school of economics and a Ph. D. from the University of Chicago.

Being the last to marry and the only one to get divorced (he settled $5,000,000 on his divorced wife Bobo), it was inevitable that Winthrop, now 45, would be tagged the "playboy." This description overlooks several items. He was the only Rockefeller to work with his hands in the oil fields where grandfather started the family fortune. Winthrop sweated out a year as a laborer to learn from the ground up. He put in another 14 years in various capacities.

PRIVATE AID PLANS

It was dynamic Nelson Rockefeller who started the family's own private foreign aid program through two private organizations he founded. The non-profit American International Association for Economic and Social Development, to which the brothers have given $1,200,000, has helped the governments of Venezuela and Brazil and Venezuela.

Laurance Rockefeller, when he isn't dealing with the affairs of Rockefeller Center spends most of his time investing venture capital in aviation, electronics and housing.

Chief philanthropist in the third generation of Rockefeller—not in money but in effect—is John D. III, who devotes his time to nothing else. Others handle his business interests.

$100,000 Fire At Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — An estimated $100,000 damage was caused Sunday when flames broke out in an east-end candy store and spread to four adjoining business places.

Fire chief Leonard Stenglein, who estimated the damage, said the fire apparently was started by an overheated motor in a refrigerator in the rear of the Candy Kitchen.

The candy store was virtually destroyed and a hardware store, variety store, drug store and restaurant were damaged. All were two-storey frame structures.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bonter Sr. are the proud parents of a little daughter, born at Barker's nursing home on December 13th, a sister for five brothers.

Israelis, Arabs Agree No Peace Talks Likely Soon

Israel Outlines 8 Points For Settlement of Strife

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Israeli and Arab spokesmen who have been talking separately in Washington about terms of a possible agreement appear agreed on one thing only: No peace talks are likely soon.

Informed Israeli sources say Israel has told the United States state department of a package of items on which it might be willing to make concessions but which do not include cession of any territory or return of Arab refugees.

These sources emphasize that no optimistic conclusions should be drawn from the U.S.-Israel talks, as there is no evidence of any increased willingness on the Arab side to discuss terms Israel would accept.

CALLS ON DULLES

Abdel Khalek Hassouna, secretary-general of the Arab League, met correspondents after a call Monday on State Secretary Dulles. Asked about prospects for Israel-Arab talks, Hassouna replied: "I don't think they are at all encouraging" as a result of the Israelis' attitude and the Arabs' rigid positions near the Sea of Galilee.

Syria has asked the United Nations to expel Israel and order sanctions against her because of an attack on Syrian territory this month. Israel said the attack was retaliatory.

Hassouna would not say whether he had given Dulles terms the Arabs would consider for a basic settlement. He referred reporters to public statements he and other Arab leaders have mad.

These have spelled out continued Arab insistence, as a starting point for talks, on the 1947 boundaries UN plan—the Israel-Jordan restricted than the present ones—and willingness to offer Israel the chance to return. Other Arab diplomatic sources said the Arab countries have not given the state department any outline of position comparable to the Israeli one.

The Israeli proposals were:

1. Direct talks between Israeli and Arab representatives, especially with Egyptian envoys.

2. The immediate settlement of frontier lines but no unilateral cession of territory by Israel.

3. The re-creation of Israel as the hub of the Middle East communication wheel. Israel would be willing to permit the Arabs to establish links with their communications on the north-south artery between Egypt and Lebanon and between Egypt and Jordan from east to west.

4. Israel in return would expect the Arab states to grant her similar rights in their communications facilities in Arab territories.

5. Israel would be given free port facilities at Haifa.

6. The Tel Aviv government would be willing to pay compensation to Arab refugees in the Middle East. Israel would not accept back their former homes in Israel was ruled out, but the Israeli government has proposed to accept the United States' offer of a loan to help compensate refugees.

7, Co-operation with the Arabs to plans for sharing waters of the Jordan and Yarmuk rivers.

8. The maintenance of the status quo in the divided city of Jerusalem.

Magi Bringing Refrigerator to Crib Arouse Protest in House of Lords

LONDON (AP)—The wise men from the East brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, says the sacred Christmas story.

But the kids in Warrington, north England, peering into an electricity board show window at a nativity scene, saw that the magi were bringing a washing machine, an electric stove and a refrigerator to the crib. A crier proclaimed:

"Wise men choose gifts that last!"

The matter was aired today in the House of Lords where Lord Teynham wanted to know whether "such disgraceful and blasphemous commercial advertising by a nationally-controlled industry in a Christian country" would be stopped.

The Earl of Munster, paymaster general replied that the government is sorry and that the magi have stopped advertising electrical appliances.

LIBERALS RETAIN QUEBEC SEAT IN BY-ELECTION

J. Armand Menard Wins Over 6 Opponents

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—The Liberals retained the constituency of St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville in a federal by-election Monday despite an apparent breach in their ranks.

J. Armand Menard, mayor of the town 25 miles northeast of Montreal, won over five opponents, including three Independent Liberals. He succeeded the late Postmaster-General Cote who held the constituency from 1945 until his death in August.

In the traditionally-Liberal constituency, the vote was Mr. Menard 9,927; Philodor Ouimet, Independent Liberal, 8,117; Dr. Vial Lavoie, Progressive Conservative, 3,131; Armand Menard, Independent Liberal 49; Charlemagne Hebert, Independent Liberal, 60; and Gaston Viens, Labor-Progressive, 15.

There were 28,500 eligible voters.

BIGGER LEAD IN '53

In the 1953 general election Mr. Cote received 16,088 votes, the Progressive Conservative candidate 12,022 and the CCF aspirant 236.

The by-election provided the House of Commons with its 11g full quota of 265 members.

The standing in the Commons: Liberals 170; Progressive Conservative 53; CCF 23; Social Credit 13; Independent 4; Vacant 262.

Mr. Ouimet, who had charged that J.-Armand Menard was picked by a "packed" convention as the official Liberal candidate, led the lively by-election but then dropped steadily behind the winner.

Dr. Lavoie, Armand Menard, Mr. Hebert and Mr. Viens all lost their $200 election deposits by failing to get 25 per cent of the votes cast for the winning candidate.

WOULD RUN AGAIN

Armand Menard—no relation to the winning candidate—and Mr. Ouimet were Lapalme's cabinet colleagues in the by-election.

Much happened on the hustings during the campaign attracted little attention. But interest developed in the voting because of the disagreement among the Liberals.

A rival Liberal nomination convention had to be called off when rival factions showed up with their own candidates and raised such a rumpus the chairman was unable to proceed. Then the names of 3 candidates were placed before that meeting.

Only a few days later Brig. J. V. Allard, rumored slated for a cabinet job, announced that he would not be a candidate in the by-election. Eight men died when Trans-Canada was chosen by a second Liberal convention. Mr. Ouimet then launched a campaign as an Independent Liberal.

Armand Menard and Mr. Hebert later announced they, too, would run as Independent Liberals.

SUPPORTED OUIMET

In the midst of the division, the provincial Liberal party announced officially that it was not supporting any of the candidates.

Speakers said the accident apparently occurred when one plane was having trouble with its landing gear and the other flew under to grab to take a look. This is often done.

BRITAIN'S COMET SETS SPEED RECORDS

Coming in for a landing at Downsview airport, Toronto, Britain's new Comet III jetliner swoops low over parked automobiles after beginning its record trip from 35,000 feet while 200 miles from the airport. The plane broke the Vancouver-to-Toronto air record, travelling an average of 580 mph, to cover the 2,190-mile distance in three hours and 55 minutes. Previous record for the run was held by a TCA North Star at six hours.

RAF Group Captain John Cunningham, left, piloted the plane from Vancouver, with Squadron Leader Stuart Reglar, as co-pilot, which will be in production before the U.S.-made Douglas jet transports. (Central Press Canadian Photos)

Four U.S. Air Force Planes Collide Over Florida, 11 Die

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Four United States Air Force planes collided in two separate accidents over Florida Monday and brought death to at least 11 airmen.

Eight men died when two B-47 jet bombers collided over the outskirts of Tampa. Flaming wreckage showered the countryside.

A few hours later an F-86D Sabre jet smashed into a B-29 bomber in the air over Fort St. Joe, about 175 miles along the Florida west coast, and killed three fliers. Three others are missing.

The Tampa planes fell dangerously close to a trailer park. Terrified residents said they thought an earthquake had struck. One plane exploded on contact and the other seconds later.

Spokesmen said the accident apparently occurred when one plane was having trouble with its landing gear and the other flew under to grab to take a look. This is often done.

Then both must have hit a downdraft, causing them to collide. Two men tried to jump to safety, but their chutes failed to open in the short space to the ground.

The crash of the B-29 bomber wreckage fell about five miles west of Port St. Joe on a busy highway and barely missed a dozen beach houses.

A part of the wreckage ripped the shirt of an unidentified man who was helping his family into their car. The man was not injured.

"The planes collided with a very bright flash that lit up the sky," said the highway patrolman. "After the first explosion, they separated into two smaller balls of fire, then they exploded again."

Witnesses said two or three parachutes were seen after the crash. Search parties went into the woods and area north of the highway to hunt for the men.

Unofficial reports said the jet was acting as an interceptor on a simulated bombing run by the B-29, and that the pilot apparently misjudged the distance between the two planes.

Yugoslavia Finally Elected To UN Security Council Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Yugoslavia was elected to a seat on the UN security council today as part of a lottery deal under which Yugoslavia and the Philippines will split a two-year term.

The action of the General Assembly ended a record-breaking deadlock in which 36 ballots were cast during the last two months. It also cleared the way for recess adjournment of the assembly's 1955 session.

This morning's vote was 43 for Yugoslavia, 11 for the Philippines, one for Finland one for Sweden. The 43 was five more than the required two-thirds majority of those present and voting.

While the split-term deal had the backing of both Yugoslavia and the Philippines, as well as Russia and the big Western powers, there was no vote on the deal as such. The assembly merely elected Yugoslavia to a two-year term.

The understanding was, however, that the Yugoslav delegation would resign at the end of one year and that Finland would then be elected. Yugoslavia was chosen to serve the first half of the term after its name was drawn out of a box by assembly president José Maza last Friday night.

The deal was the same as the one which had been turned down by the 76-nation assembly last week. The vote showed that the plan still was unacceptable to many delegates.

While the voting was secret, most of the 11 votes cast for the Philippines and the 13 abstentions were understood to have been Latin American and Asian countries which had stood behind the Philippines in the long contest. Many of them had questioned the propriety and the legality of the lottery procedure.

There was no debate prior to the voting. Canada has supported Yugoslavia.

CANADA DECLARES NORTH VIET NAM HALTED REFUGEES

Minority Report Made By Truce Commission

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government says there is little doubt that the communist regime in North Viet Nam deliberately achieved to prevent movement of refugees to non-Communist South Viet Nam.

The Canadian position is set forth in a minority report attached to the fourth interim report by the international truce supervisory commission for Viet Nam, Laos and public Monday, Canada, India and Poland comprise the commission.

It is the first time that the Canadian report, in citing chapter and verse on Communist obstructions to movement of refugees, will cause increased distrust of the North Viet Nam Communists and the South Viet Nam and thus make much less likely any elections for a re-unified country.

SPLIT UNDER TRUCE

Under the Geneva truce agreement of July, 1954, Viet Nam was split into non-Communist south and Communist north. Elections were scheduled to be held for a reunified Viet Nam in July next year.

The feeling here is that South Viet Nam will be over-run by means of entering into any political scheme with the Communists now that the country has seen what and how they failed to live up to the Geneva agreement in respect to refugee movement.

Under the truce arrangement, persons were given a certain time —the period expired last July 2— to move in the direction of their choice. Some 803,000 persons have left the Communist north for the south despite Red obstructions; less than 5,000 have moved from the south to the north, or for the most south to north.

There have been estimates that wanted to leave North Viet Nam but didn't make it.

The Canadian report said Communist soldiers were frequently stationed in the homes of Roman Catholics to prevent them from leaving their homes in groups to wait with the commission's inspection teams.

ORGANIZED MEETINGS

The report said local Communist authorities often organized outof-village meetings to coincide with the arrival of the inspection teams so that persons could not approach the teams were called away from their villages.

In other cases, would-be evacuees were grouped in village churches and the Communists tried to keep the teams from entering the church grounds on the excuse that services were in progress. The Canadian report added:

"Such devices in many cases that the local clergy had been intimidated and in some cases killed by the lengthy terms of forced residence and imprisonment."

Eden Confers With Cabinet

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden met with the cabinet today in what was generally believed to be the last session before he goes to Jamaica for a 4-day rest, ending a world-girdling flight.

Glistening in the hard-blue winter sky, the Comet swooped across Dorval airport and into a flight pattern south of the city before touching down.

It was not a record flight, and accurate comparisons were declared impossible by aviation authorities who stressed the many factors involved.

George Bernard Shaw's Last Play Finished by One of His Disciples

LONDON (Reuters) — George Bernard Shaw's last play — an unfinished one which drama critics said was not worth publishing or performing — was turned into a finished work by a former Irish stage-hand who was himself a playwright.

Shaw wrote five scenes, covering 13 typewritten pages, before he died. The playwright left a legacy at the edges, was consigned by the public trustee to the manuscript department of the British Museum after experts declared that the work was not worth publishing or producing.

The public trustee guards the copyright, and must decide whether to give Britton permission to publish his expanded version and allow a production of the play by the London Coronet Comedy.

The play, as far as Shaw went with it, is the story of a man with a domineering personality who was himself put by his entourage to a successful businessman.

Shaw's version ends abruptly. The playwright who now rare praise from Shaw for a play, he had written 25 years ago, took on the job of finishing Shaw's last play, entitled "Why She Would Not—a Little Comedy."

Winter Jumps Gun, Blankets Canada With Arctic Air

White River Again 'Champ' With 46 Below Zero Mark

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winter jumped the gun on Canada Monday night and brought a country-wide sample of mid-winter cold.

Cold arctic air, ignoring the almanac which says winter officially starts Wednesday, brought the coldest temperature readings of the season to the whole country. A Canadian Press survey showed.

For the west it was nothing new. The temperature hasn't gone above zero for 11 straight days.

The west, except for Vancouver Island and lower British Columbia, reported the coldest general temperatures. It was 29 below at Beaton River, B. C., about the coldest spot in the province Monday night.

In Toronto it was three below while in Ottawa the mercury dropped to 15 below. Montreal recorded a 13 below.

Comet Arrives At Montreal Homeward Bound

MONTREAL (CP)—The jet airliner Comet III, Britain's gleaming greyhound of the skies, zoomed from Vancouver to Montreal today at what her pilot laconically described as a "reasonable speed" for miles an hour. The flight took 52 minutes.

John Cunningham, chief test pilot for the de Havilland Aircraft Co. Ltd., who piloted the airliner after touchdown there was no attempt at a record.

The 2,190-mile flight was considered too short for the silver Comet to reach its cruising speed at a suitable altitude. The four - jet transport is scheduled to begin its first B.O.A.C. service a day, ending a world-girdling flight.

Gliding in the hard-blue winter sky, the Comet swooped across Dorval airport and into a flight pattern south of the city before touching down.

It was not a record flight, and accurate comparisons were declared impossible by aviation authorities who stressed the many factors involved.

EDMONTON (CP) — Winter began officially Wednesday but it will be difficult to convince most prairie residents that autumn didn't expire seven weeks ago.

The weatherman had more bad news today, forecasting "no letup" in the cold weather, 20 to 25 degrees below normal for this time of year.

The Prairies, now in their 11th straight day of temperatures below freezing, were joined in the record-breaker category by British Columbia where a heavy snow in the southwest burned to slush.

In the eastern Prairies, the temperatures will rise slowly in southern Manitoba but in the north temperatures of between 30 and 40 below are expected.

Freezing rain was falling at scattered points on British Columbia's lower mainland area, making road travel dangerous. But there was some hope there as the weatherman forecast that warm air is reported moving in from the Pacific.

The "hottest" spot on the western Prairies Monday was Medicine Hat, where the mercury "soared" to one below. The high at Prince Albert was 15 below, the lowest maximum recorded in the area's larger cities.

Probable highs today, said the weatherman, will be from 10 to 15 below in the north and five below in the south.

But even these low temperatures showed no deterioration Sunday night when the mercury went to 30 below at Edmonton and 43 below at Prince Albert.

CHICAGO (AP) — Icy blasts knifed deep today into the midsection of the United States. And sliced a wide path over most of the eastern half of the country.

It was below zero in sections of New York state.

Readings in the midwest were not as low this morning as 24 hours earlier but they still were below zero and near zero in most of the region. Readings ranged 10 below s international Falls and Redwood Falls, Minn.

Cloudy skies and light snow formed a protective blanket in Minnesota on the path of the Arctic air. At Bemidji, Minn., it was 11 below zero compared to 45 below Sunday morning.

Thermometers stayed below zero all day Monday in parts of Minnesota, North Dakota and northwestern Wisconsin and over the other north central states. The day's high at Alexandria, Minn., was a chilly 15 below. The high at Minneapolis was nine below, a rise of 12 degrees over the early morning low. It was around seven below this morning.

Temperatures in central New York state reported below-zero weather this morning. Sub 1 below at Watertown and Massena and six below at Utica. It was near zero at Syracuse.

The freezing line extended from northern South Carolina to southern Arkansas, northern Texas and northward to the northern Rockies.

Chicago shivered with readings in the 20s after a record-breaking straight night.

Warmest areas in the U.S. were in southern Florida and parts of Arizona. Monday's high mark was 80 at Miami.

Picasso Ceramics Will Be Shown In Exhibition

An exhibition of Pablo Picasso ceramics will be shown at the January meeting of the Belleville Arts and Crafts club in King George Public Library.

The exhibition will consist of 18 mounted pictures in color of work done by Picasso after he had studied work dating back to 400 B.C. In 1948, while visiting the local museum in Antibes, south of France, Picasso was struck by the symmetry and design of a collection of ceramics that dated back to 400 B.C.

Announcement of the exhibition was made at a recent meeting of the club.

Program at the December meeting included an exhibition of pictures by Hedley James and Ed Buchanan. One of the photographs was a picture of Manly Macdonald autographed by Group of Seven.

Mr. J. A. McCaffery spoke briefly on judging art. He said that he looked for strong design, color and the message of the painting.

Slides from the art gallery on ceramics, metals, tapestries and ivory were shown. Roman Cambridge showed slides on the flowers of Trinidad.

Coffee meeting was under the direction of Mrs. Jean Grant and Audrey Berecht.

Modern Three-Room School Is Opened on Tyendinaga Res.

One of 66 new Indian schools to be built in Canada this year, a new $70,000 three classroom school with home economics and shop department, was officially opened Monday afternoon on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve near Deseronto.

The basement playroom-auditorium of the handsome new school was filled to capacity as the opening ceremonies got underway.

World of welcome were expressed by Master Donald Brant, one of the 18 pupils attending the new school, and Chief Nelson Green, head of the Mohawk tribe on whose reservation the new school is built.

Lt.-Col. Robert M. Jones, director of Indian Affairs Branch, told the assembly of parents and children, officials and other guests present that Indians in Canada were entitled to the same interest in education with many attaining success in professional and other fields of endeavor.

Many Indian girls were becoming registered nurses; in Quebec an Indian man had become a successful doctor, while in British Columbia there was an Indian dentist.

Col. Jones said there was no reason why a Canadian prime minister could not some day come from the Tyendinaga reserve.

Since 1945 enrolment in Indian schools across Canada has almost doubled from the 16,000 enrolled a decade ago. This year 68 new Indian schools had been opened at a cost of over three and a half million dollars.

ENROLMENT INCREASES

Enrolment at schools on the Tyendinaga Reserve had also increased in keeping with other schools. In 1939 there were 130 Indian children in schools on the Reserve. Today there are 168 public school pupils with an additional 38 pupils attending high school at Belleville, making a total of almost 200.

Frank S. Follwell, M.P., for Hastings South, and Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings West, also spoke briefly as did G. Nelson, public schools inspector for Centre Hastings, E. A. Orr, principal of Belleville Collegiate, Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School, and Clarence Hagerman and J. D. Dawson, school board representatives from Tyendinaga township and the town of Deseronto, and Dr. W. Boyce, former reservation doctor.

Don R. Cassie, B.S.A., superintendent of the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve, acted as chairman for the opening ceremonies proper.

A MODERN SCHOOL

The new reservation school constructed a short distance east of the reservation council hall, replaces the former Mission School just east of Deseronto. It is modern in every respect. There are three classrooms, with a complete home economics department and a shop department for which equipment is now being installed.

The school is of one-storey and basement construction and has hot water oil heating. Construction was commenced December 1st, 1954, and the formal accompaniment at the opening of the school term in September.

The school is being used as a senior school accommodating grades 7 to VIII as well as a special opportunity class.

Bus transports children up to ten miles to the new school.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT PREVAILS

The Christmas spirit predominated throughout the entire program with every room having its quota of Christmas carols and recitations. During the opening ceremonies, school children sang Christmas numbers and presented a trio to play "The Right Presents."

A former public school pupil, Miss Wilma Brant, now attending high school in Belleville, introduced Lt.-Col. Jones with Mr. Howard Alton, school principal, presenting the speakers.

At the conclusion of the program tea was served in the home economics room to guests and visitors.

24 Below Zero at Bancroft Coldest Registered in County

Jack Frost clutched the district in an icy grip last night sending temperatures plummeting to 24 below in the city to 34 below in the northern sections of Hastings county.

Bancroft registered the coldest dip of the year when the mercury hovering around the 34 below mark at an early hour this morning.

No snow nor clouds were apparent in the district, the sun shining brilliantly from a blue icy void.

In the city Jack Frost got in his nefarious work shortly after midnight. At that time the sinking mercury sent it to 15 degrees, dipping sharply it sank to 5.5 below at three o'clock and at five a.m. stood at 11 below.

Still getting colder the official thermometer at the Filtration plant registered 11.5 below zero seven o'clock and a half hour later slipped to 12.2. That was the coldest part of the morning. The sun tempered the biting cold somewhat at this time of the sight a.m., the temperature was 11 below.

Mid-Hastings county shivered in a temperature atmosphere with Marmora and Madoc registering that figure while Stirling was two degrees below that. Helzburg, it was stated, survived a 17-below attack, while Tweed Road residents "sweated out" a 22-below airing.

Over in Picton, the RCA gunners "on the hill" formed threes with the mercury bobbing at 20 below while downtown residents jelled in a 14-below sunshine.

Wellington "the coldest spot when the weather is hot" lived up to its atmospherical paradox. The lakeside villagers went to work as the sun shone on a 12-below atmosphere.

Garage owners had a field day. Many cars were stalled and had to be towed for defrosting.

The lone happy man this reporter met was the one had built a rink for his kiddies—and flooded it last night.

Police Blotter

The deep freeze even struck the crime front Monday night with city and provincial police reporting an exceptionally quiet night.

City police reported one drunk, theft of a battery from a local citizen's car and the theft of parcels from a parked auto.

Provincial police were asked to be on the lookout for a 1954 car reported stolen at Trenton.

Nucleus of Army Air Force Being Trained in Man.

RIVERS, Man. (CP)—A nucleus of a proposed army air force is quietly training soldiers as pilots at this joint services air training centre.

A large number of personnel have been trained to fly fixed wing light aircraft and 20 servicemen have graduated as helicopter pilots since the light aircraft school opened.

At an Ottawa press conference recently Lt.-Gen. Howard Graham, chief of general staff, said the army will recommend to the government within six months a plan for creation of its own air force.

FOR SHORT FLIGHTS

Lt.-Gen. Graham said the army wants planes and helicopters to move troops and supplies over short distances but it has no intention of entering into competition with the RCAF.

The army's school here consists of three instructors—two from the army and one from the air force. Each class has been made up of four air force and two army students. Most of the army pilots are from the service corps.

Students taking the six-weeks helicopter course already have their light aircraft wings and at least 3 hours' flying experience. The course consists of reconnaissance work, rescue flights and liaison missions.

Army pilots are now being sent to Fort Sill in Oklahoma for advanced training on the larger types of helicopters and return as qualified instructors.

HAVE OFFICER RANK

Pilots are officers, usually lieutenants or captains. They pass the same week-long aircrew examination as the RCAF and take first flight instruction at the Brandon Flying Club under civilian instructors. They take another three months' training at Rivers before receiving their army wings.

The army's light aircraft, the Cessna L19A, is used for artillery spotting with an experienced gunnery officer at the controls for reconaissance and communication, usually with an army service corps pilot.

Until recently the officer commanding the school was Major N. W. Reilander, an artillery man who has been flying since the Second World War. Reilander was promoted to lieutenant-colonel commanding the 1st Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and his successor has not yet been named.

Use Approved Equipment On Christmas Trees

Don't say to yourself—it couldn't happen in my home. Take care! Christmas trees will burn—if they are ignited. Don't run any risks with the lighting. Select Christmas tree electrical equipment that has been approved by the Canadian Standards Association, and not candles for illuminating your tree and window decorations. Make sure your Christmas this year will be a safe one.

A fire hazard exists when the wiring of Christmas lights is frayed or the bulbs used are unsafe or if sparks are created in connecting or disconnecting lights. Before you break any connections between sets of lights on a tree, make sure the plug, inserted into the wall outlet has been removed. Be sure there are no frayed wires, loose connections or broken sockets. Watch those Christmas gift electrical toys and your electrical appliance gifts. Choose those which comply with the safety standards of the Canadian Standards Association. Follow carefully the wiring instructions that are provided with each set of Christmas tree lighting to prevent the possible overloading of circuits. If any extensive holiday wiring is planned, call a competent electrician to do the work.

The Canadian Standards Association Approvals Laboratories test and examine electrical equipment to ensure that they conform with safety standards for fire and shock hazards.

Therefore, look for the CSA Symbol of Safety. If the electrical device has been approved it must bear evidence of CSA approval either by a label, approval number on the manufacturer's name plate, or the CSA monogram.

Christmas tree electrical lights and outfits bear the CSA label marked for indoor use or outdoor use. Be sure that you do not use a set labelled for indoor use to decorate an outdoor tree.

CSA approved equipment is accepted by all Electrical Inspection Authorities throughout Canada. So do not take a chance. Be sure that your electrical equipment or appliance is legally acceptable—is safe to use—that it is CSA Approved.

Don't let a preventable accident ruin a joyous Christmas.

Town Moves To Jail Senator For Contempt

TRENTON—A motion has been brought by the town of Trenton against Senator W. A. Fraser to commit him to the common jail for contempt of court.

The motion is the latest move in a legal battle between Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton, and the town of Trenton which started last month when Mayor McFarland brought a suit against the town over certain industrial properties in the town.

The motion for contempt against Senator Fraser charges him with failure to attend upon an examination in the action between McFarland and the town of Trenton. It is believed that on the day he was to appear Senator Fraser was in Toronto attending ceremonies for the laying of the cornerstone of the new $9,500,000 Lord Simcoe Hotel with which he is associated.

A motion to have Mayor McFarland put in jail for contempt of court was adjourned indefinitely by the Supreme Court of Ontario on Monday. That motion was brought against Mr. MacFarland in the name of the town of Trenton and charged that he failed to appear in Picton for questioning in connection with the action.

The original action was brought against the town of Trenton by Mr. McFarland. The dispute involved the Central Bridge Co., of which Senator Fraser was formerly a director.

RIGHT-OF-WAY DISPUTE

On November 10th, Mr. McFarland's solicitor issued a writ against the town of Trenton for an injunction restraining the town from signing an agreement with Central Bridge Co., which would give the company a right-of-way over certain lands owned by Mr. McFarland to give access to No. 401 Highway. There was also a suit for damages.

E. Nourse of Picton, counsel for Mr. McFarland, said the dispute arose from Trenton expropriating land as a right-of-way for Central Bridge Co., through a 44-acre tract owned by Mr. McFarland.

He said Mr. McFarland maintained Trenton could not expropriate private property for a private company.

In speaking of Mr. McFarland's failure to appear in court Mr. Nourse said that he had a previous engagement in Ottawa.

"In view of the important nature of his engagement in Ottawa I told him not to appear that day and I appeared in his place," said Mr. Nourse.

WANTS BY-LAW QUASHED

Application to quash the Trenton by-law expropriating the property has been filed said Mr. Nourse.

On November 18th, the town signed an agreement with Central Bridge Co., and a new motion was brought by Mr. McFarland to prevent steps being taken under the agreement.

Trenton Mayor Ross Burtt, councillors Gerald Weaver and Robert Smithers and town clerk O. W. Larry, along with officials of the Central Bridge Co., and others were subpoenaed by Mr. Nourse to appear for examination.

Those subpoenaed appeared on two different occasions but refused to answer questions on the advice of counsel K. G. M. Ross of Belleville.

Mr. Ross brought a motion to set aside the examination of Mayor Burtt and councillors Weaver and Smithrim as an abuse of the process of the court.

While there are several motions pending in the suit it is believed that no statement of claim has been delivered to the Ontario Supreme Court by the plaintiff Mr. McFarland.

Priest Murdered By Chinese Nationalists

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters)—Roman Catholic authorities here today confirmed the reported murder Rev. Elodoro Farranzo, an Italian priest, after his abduction 3 days ago by Chinese Nationalist guerrillas.

His body was found by a Burmese army patrol Dec. 15. Press reports said he had been seized by the Chinese while travelling with three villagers.

Lake Ontario Property Owners Meet at Winona

HAMILTON (CP)—Members of the Lake Ontario Property Protection Association filled the Winona Legion Hall Monday night, as their president Albert Holland told them that the Federal Joint Committee was "paying little attention" to the association's request for a 246-foot level of Lake Ontario.

Mr. Holland said the commission had ignored the 246-foot lake level when the Ontario Hydro asked for a maximum level of 248 feet. The 246-foot level was fixed by the commission last May.

The levels set by the commission were 244 feet from April to November and 246 feet from Novemb to March. The property owners noted that March was the worst month for erosion on Lake Ontario and yet the highest level was allowed for this month. They insisted that the highest level that should be allowed for their safety was 246 feet.

The meeting was told that between 1945 and 1953 four farmers in one section near Niagara-on-the-Lake had lost over $12,000 in property due to erosion.

A resolution was unanimously passed by the members proposing that the provincial and federal governments each pay 40 per cent of the cost of protection to the lake front owners' lands and the property owners would pay the remaining 20 per cent.

Vote for Reeve In Stirling Ends in Tie

STIRLING, (Special) — A recount will be necessary to decide who will be the Stirling reeve for 1956.

At yesterday's municipal election in this village Reeve Russell K. West and Harry Philp each polled 280 votes and a recount of the ballots has been ordered. If a tie still results during the recount the village clerk Fred Mabry will be called upon to cast the deciding ballot to determine which man will serve as council-head for the next year.

In the only other voting at yesterday's election Jim Wright was elected to council. Mr. Wright received 248 votes, deposed the two opponents for the one seat open: William Montgomery received 141 votes, Lindsay Pollock, 107 and Frank Stapely, 67 votes.

At the first nomination meeting held a month ago three other councillors were elected by acclamation. These were Albert Wells and Kenneth Ray of this year's council, and J. V. Holt.

SHOULD WE TURN BACK THE CLOCK?

Dorothy Thompson, the well known newspaper columnist, recently delivered the 1955 Marfleet Lecture at the University of Toronto's Convocation Hall. She based her talk on impressions gained during a recent visit to Russia. It will be no surprise to readers of Miss Thompson's columns to learn that she is opposed to reports, her lectures appear to have dealt at least as much with what we may term the philosophical problems posed by the growth of Communism as they did with the countries which met her eyes during the tour. Indeed, one may doubt that Miss Thompson would have been invited to deliver the Marfleet Lecture if she had been merely an objective reporter of facts, rather than a talented interpreter of them.

Reading Miss Thompson is not without its frustrations. Her points sometimes appear difficult to grasp, perhaps because her viewpoint shifts. This, far from being an inherent weakness, may be a great strength. The ability, and the willingness, to alter our beliefs and opinions in the face of additional evidence or careful study of facts already known is an indication of maturity and integrity, rather than a sign of inconsistency or instability.

This ability and willingness to alter opinions, however, makes it doubly difficult to attempt to assess what Miss Thompson was saying on the basis of news reports of her lectures, necessarily greatly abbreviated. No matter how skilfully and conscientiously a reporter may endeavor to condense portions of a lecture, there is always the danger that he will overlook or omit a point or a qualification which may be essential to a correct appraisal of the speaker's views on some specific issue.

When, therefore, the Canadian Press reports Miss Thompson as saying that the Soviet Union "constitutes a spiritual challenge to a Western civilization largely empty of a vital spiritual faith", it would be premature to take issue with what she meant. But it is permissible to question the validity of what, we fear, many will believe she meant.

For instance, she is reported to have said that Russia's fanaticism is a primary source of its strength. "It possesses the will to enthusiasm in an age in which the experiences of the soul are rejected as hysterical".

There is a plain inference here, we suggest, that "the experiences of the soul" should not be rejected as hysterias. That may be true if we properly define the interpretation as to what are "the experiences of the soul." Unfortunately the remainder of the report of Miss Thompson's speech does not infer that she was referring to the soul which should not be rejected as hysterias were those common in the 13th and 14th centuries. She could not imagine, surely, Marxist communism or the Russian variety of it making the slightest impact upon Western Europe of those years "when cathedrals of transcendant loveliness arose . . . like tall flowers from the ground; when princes and princesses harnessed themselves to carts to draw the stones for their erection."

These are the same princes and princesses, incidentally, who thought it fitting to slaughter, en masse, how a man hanged for slaying a rabbit on the royal preserves.

The "experiences of the soul" in the 13th century included the Children's Crusade, when some 30,000 children from France and 20,000 children from Germany set forth to capture the Holy Land from the infidel, with many of the children perishing and being sold into slavery by Marseilles slave merchants and many of the Germans' children dying from hardships in their march across the Alps.

"Crusade expeditions," says the Encyclopedia Americana, "represent a phase of that fanaticism of the Christian that sometimes comes over even intelligent people in an inexplicable way and it is from this standpoint that they have been discussed by writers. The Children's Crusade corresponds to the witch baiting of more modern times, or to some of the many spiritual manifestations of older periods."

It might also be said to correspond to that fanaticism which Miss Thompson notes in Russia, that willingness to believe that the end must justify the means but that it justifies any means, including purges, brain-washings and slave labor camps.

Surely, the way to defeat this fanaticism is not to attempt to match it, but rather to regard as a threat to the devil this power of fanaticism to enthuse; to cling tenaciously to the belief that to clash such fanaticism as the devil can muster at this time will require strength to turn back the clock to the 13th and 14th centuries; and to remember that these are the days which are best recalled, even at this time when gothic and princesses built lovely cathedrals, but as the years when the world was only just beginning to emerge from the Dark Ages and the practices which gave them their name.

SPOILING STREAMS

One of the saddest sights for a trout fisherman is to see his favorite trout stream, either here or there, making "improvements." Ditchers are machines which turn streams into drains. What used to be a merry, chattering, meandering brook becomes nothing but a long, straight trench, with ugly piles of naked gravel on either side. The stream that is left has as much character as a trickle through an eavestrough. (Wingham Advance-Times.)

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1955, Edgar A. Guest)
By EDGAR A. GUEST

MACHINE AND MAN

The factory engine wouldn't start
And so they took the thing apart
To search for flaws.
They took it down from top to base;
They looked at flange and gear and case
To find the cause.
Something's broken, they declared,
And what it is must be repaired.

Nearby a drowsy workman stood,
And someone muttered: "He's no good
Just let him go!"
They didn't take that man apart
To think to search his mind and heart
The cause to know.
Nobody thought to ask him why
There was no lustre in his eye,
But had they looked into his gloom

When engines in a factory stop
We search the things from base to top;
But when man breaks,
They seldom that we pause
To search his life to find the cause
Of his mistakes.
Yet, we might mend him could we find
The thing that's preying on his mind.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now, this is a good day of the week before Christmas to do a little thinking about eating. To the next two days, when we have time to be putting our alimentary equipment in good working order. When Christmas and New Years Day will be upon us. By which I mean, for multitudes of us, two three-day prandial busts. If you don't know what a prandial bust is, I must confess I didn't either until a columnist ago I went scrounge in the dictionary. But the words convey as well as need be the sort of thing we are going to be up against in the next two weekends. I know of some families that are going to divide the festival up—for instance, they will have everybody for her Christmas dinner Saturday; then George will have them all Sunday; and Monday, Dad and Mother will put on the heroic traditional spread for the immediate family. But even if the turkey is presented Sunday, it will hang over—(what is better than cold sliced turkey with lots of salt on it?—into Monday.

But it will be New Years that will do us in. For a great many Canadian homes where persists the Scottish tradition of Hogmanay, or the dining room table laden with a cold turkey, a cold ham, cold ham, cold meat loaf, (maybe a haunch of cold spiced venison, or three or four old wild ducks) or with all the fixins of jellies, jams, cheeses, cakes, the celebration will actually begin Saturday afternoon, and carry on right through Sunday to Monday night, with some thing on the table for all comers, at any hour.

One way or another, it is going to be two long weekends of eating. And in its prospect, I would like to quote a French friend of mine who has just passed through on his way to Paris for the rest of Christmas.

"Everybody in North America admits," he says, "that you eat too fast. In our countries, food has become as a function. We eat and eating has become a mechanical process. We eat as a motor car tank with gas. To you, food is fuel, not the occasion of conversation in a minimum of time wastefulness.

"To intelligent Europeans, whether well-to-do or not, food is something to be paused over and appreciated like a beautiful view, or the sight of a lovely woman or handsome man. Or perhaps like music. You pe... sit as you might listen to a three minute jazz record. Or if you are faced with a symphonic meal you turn up the speed of the record, so you might listen to Brahms' first symphony at double speed!

Do you suppose this Christmas and New Years, we might make a deliberate effort?

It would delight Grandma, or Mother, or whoever does the cooking.

South African Shows Colors

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

If anyone has any doubts about the complete unrepentance of the government of the Union of South Africa in its relations with the natives, the following incident should eliminate them.

It has been announce within the past few weeks that Father Trevor Huddleston, of the Anglican community of the Resurrection, has been recalled to England by church authorities. Father Huddleston was the outstanding foe of the South African native and the leading opponent of apartheid. Whether his recall is due to the reluctance of the Anglican Church to become involved to the extent that Father Huddleston had involved it is the affairs of the Union, we cannot say, his move was merely routine, is a matter for speculation.

The fact remains that all reports that he has left South Africa to remain have been ignored. Naturally, in a state which has become authoritarian in spite of trappings of parliamentary government, the meeting was a matter for great rejoicing among the Afrikaans majority which controls the country and has reached the stage where they will simply silence a white European who opposes them.

Their state of mind can, perhaps, be best illustrated by a letter which was received by Father Huddleston from Mr. Hermann Sherman, one of the four chief officers of the South African Information Office. The open immorality of this letter from a public official is a shocking reminder of how desperate the situation of the Union, it reads in part:

"I fear a man deserved to be drummed out of the country. He is ignominiously deported as an undesirable immigrant. I am glad the last resort to be strung from the nearest lamp-post as a renegade. I hope so."

The letter bore no polite form of greeting, but began:

"I write to say how glad I am that you are leaving my country. You have left undone things to provoke the most un-Christian feelings in the breast of those who are able to form an appreciation of the mischief you have worked here."

This letter was shown to Mr. Douglas Reed, the distinguished editor of a London newspaper, who was a friend of Huddleston's, and the priest had never met Biermann.

Mr. Reed, indeed figure of the Anglican priest among the natives has by now become legendary. He was always present during the mass movements of natives when they were driven by the elites to housing sites arbitrarily selected for them. His championship of the rights of the coloured people was not confined to pleading in the courts of justice for those the people he championed and was trusted by them in a country where not many whites could claim that distinction

His going from South Africa will mean the end of a very effective champion of the natives' cause and to the rights of the down-trodden.

Hypochondria On Increase

(Hamilton Spectator)

In a report he published the other day Dr. H. Mackenzie-Wintle, medical officer of health for south Oxfordshire in England, declared that hypochondria, a malady which the public "enjoys", is on the increase.

The fantastic array of purges, nerve sedatives, tonics, concentrates, rejuvenators, smell banishers, and the like are constantly used and irradiated that, and impregnated with, the modern diet. Hypochondria is widespread and gullibility unlimited," says the doctor.

Hypochondria — and we are reminded that it is, literally, a medical sense — has become a national disease. Indulgence. Quite a lot of people these days have a short list of symptoms to take care of. But there are some who can could meet a friend with a bad cold, and not only have the friend expected to have a remedy — "that new thing that sold, stops it dead."

Most many of these potions and pills are not purchased with any expectation of a cure. Indeed quite a lot of those who know what to do if they suddenly lost their appendages, or died, even imagines that having recovered from the shock they would look around for another set, being careful to ensure that the new ones were quite genuine.

As Dr. Mackenzie-Wintle pointed out in his report, ninety-five per cent of those consulting their doctors could be thrown into the river without any later result, except giving the water a rather queer taste.

If the doctor is to be believed it would appear that although the Indian medicine man with his covered wagon is no longer in evidence there is still plenty of customers about.

Royal Mail 400 Years Old

(BBC Weekly Talks Summary)

"How many people know when the Royal Mail first started?" said Colin Jackson, broadcasting in the BBC's "Talks" programme. The answer was more than two hundred years ago, in King Henry VIII's reign. Another surprising discovery was that in the days of Queen Victoria there were only four postmen in the whole of England — "Hands, Knees, Boots and Saddle." It is known that the population at that time was only a fraction of what it is today.

These and many other facts about Britain's postal system he learned when taking in a pre-sale look at a collection which had attracted philatelists from both Britain and overseas. It contained scores very early postage stamps and date stamps put on postal parcels in the days before postage stamps as such existed. People who grumbled now about paying 3½d. for a letter to Australia would have had an easier time then for there was a choice on letters and no charge for them either.

But the 1841 customs changed and the first date stamps were issued. One of them was included in the BBC programme, a small hand-peg, with the dies on the ends of the prongs, one bearing the name of the month and the other the date. The reason for introducing the stamps was to prevent people using the franks (wafts) and making a good recovery. There are four years later he had hands, but he was dubious about ever going the operation his doctor advised.

He made a survey of the company's files and found the records showed 23 per cent recurrence after operation.

So the man chose injection treatment for his hernia. In some cases there is no choice — the only treatment that offers a reasonable chance of cure is radical operation. Here is what that is:

The injections never detach the man from his ordinary activities more than ten to twenty minutes in the doctor's office. The whole course of treatment was uneventful. The hernia was cured, and there has been no indication of recurrence in the three years since the treatment.

Not that recurrence after injection treatment is less frequent than it is after radical operation. If the particular case is suitable for injection treatment he method has these advantages:

(1) No hospitalization
(2) Usually no loss of time at work or other ordinary activities.
(3) No anesthetization (except a local anesthetic in some cases).

Inexperienced doctors have sometimes the opinion that operation for hernia recurring after injection treatment would be more difficult than operation for hernia recurring after radical operation," say Dr. Fantus and E. Gordon stated:

"Previous injections, and fibrous tissue proliferation resulting from the injections, in no wise interfere with the operative procedure or the operative results."

Railroad Gardening

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

The environment of a railway depot is not usually an attractive place, but a number of railway station reports on a BBC broadcast how people can be induced to use the floral schemes around so many of the railway stations. There are even beautiful gardens in London where the Underground system has open sites, and in the suburbs, where are in the country, especially at the junctions where there may be only one or two trains a day. There the station-master/porter-gardener has every chance to dig and put in most of their time gardening.

The station staff make use of the locally colored flowers such as nasturtiums, marigolds, antirrhinums, carnations, and, of course, roses. Shades of color are used to make flowers hang from the roofs, and trailing plants have been extending the length of the station. It is the most hidden by climbers of various kinds. Some stations have perhaps 100 feet on either side of the platform to be a landscape which would do credit to the best professional gardeners. The climate being what it is, there is a long season, the year around. Where appropriate, the station staff have been made to conform to some local industry, as in the case of a railway training ground for thoroughbred cottontary entries into the scheme; others have chosen the theme of horses jumping gates and so forth, with precious trees and hedges.

Station staffs are encouraged by the British Railways Board giving prizes in each region for the best displays.

WE HAVE RESPONSIBILITIES TOO

A prominent theologian tells a story of a conversation he had with a theological student. The young man said that there was much preaching in the day but relyupon the grace of God to save us from our predicament.

The theologian declared that, "a sentiment of this kind is rank heresy, for any man who thus professes disavows responsibility in the name of Christ grace cannot be Christian."

Reliance upon the grace of God is a great comfort and encouragement. If, however, such reliance becomes an excuse for our not doing certain things we can do, then the pious sentiment of the theological student is precisely what his professor said it was—rank heresy.

There are certain things we can-not do. The issues of events are not in our hads but in God's hands. There are, however, many things brawn, common sense, and the courage to attempt to do some. We can be sure God will not do for us what we can do for ourselves. God will not send a miracle when we are commanded in the Bible to exercise our own faculties. He will not make the world better without our cooperative efforts.

We must rely upon God's grace for the ultimates; we must rely upon nothing but our own efforts for making the advent of the ultimate possible. And we are culpable if we care for a moment's gossip that is to be leaving in God's hands tasks. God most surely expects us to perform and gives us power to perform.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EARTH POWER

We speak of the substance of the earth as just plain dirt, but when we look at the wonderful power of the earth. It actually is the power-house of the universe. It is what God formed to care for all his creatures, man, animals, and birds as well as the plant and tree formations.

From the soil come our grains, fruits, vegetables, trees, metals and precious stones. Each one is a miracle in itself and has a power so potent and valuable as beyond belief. The soil of the earth which all our life and happiness depends. Miraculous as all our discoveries have been in the world of earth, hidden away are perhaps billions of secrets as yet unknown, nothing at the present time. What would inventors and scientists do without the knowledge gained from earth power?

The mysteries of earth power is what has enabled scientists to get wealth out of the air itself! The Creator wasn't satisfied merely to bring into being the earth itself. He formed the sun, the clouds, the snow, in fact our entire solar system that the earth might have food and drink for its sustenance.

How very wonderful!

We can repeat, again and again, "What hath God wrought!" Look at the intelligence of birds and even small animals, so seemingly helpless in this big world yet all appear happy and industrious. I watch a mouse in my house squirrels from my window, and they seem happy. However I marvel at them. I do not pity them, for they know more than I do about what is best for them and happy.

Many had done great things in harnessing the power of the earth and delving into its secrets. Who can guess how this new atomic energy is going to be developed? May it never curse the earth and mankind through misuse of it. All life ended everywhere would be the result. Let us contemplate the greater life ahead.

He Didn't Say It!

Admiral Radford is credited for saying that no woman belongs in Parliament. However, he would probably have joined the ladies even more if he had said they all belonged there.

A heart defect was responsible for nine-month-old Mona's critical condition when she first came to the Hospital for Sick Children. After a rare operation her condition continues to improve. The increased cost of caring for more and more children each year has once again faced the Hospital with a substantial operating deficit. Friends of the Hospital are currently sending in their cheques to meet this need.

Then followed the joy and the heavenly chorus when the Christ Child was born.

Foreign Christmas Customs, Habits Outlined at WMS

The December meeting of Tabernacle United WMS was held Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. May, the president, presided and Mrs. Duff was the pianist. There were 17 members and nine visitors present.

Mrs. May read an article on "Christmas Giving." Christmas and giving are closely linked. The secret of all giving is giving of ourselves.

Mrs. Fisher led in prayer.

Miss Johns had charge of devotional and took as her theme "Christmas": In part, Miss Johns said "everybody is so busy with Christmas gifts for friends, parties, decorating of homes and stores, wearing ourselves down with buying, arrangements for receiving relatives and friends, we have no time for Christ. It is His birthday, but in the work and worry, we have forgotten to invite Him to His birthday party. We do need music in the churches, ling decorations in stores and homes. Even when Christ was born the people in Bethlehem were too busy to know that the angels appeared in the heavens, proclaiming the birth of Christ. The angel said, 'Fear not for behold I bring you glad tidings of great joy. Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace'."

There were 12 calls reported made.

Mrs. Webber favored with two solos accompanied by Mrs. Duff: "At the End of the Day" and "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Lent introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Gilmour from Bridge Street United church, who spoke of some of the customs and habits that people of other countries have brought to this country.

Mrs. Gilmour also told the story of Mrs. Shuttle, the sharp-tongued woman and how she had become very bitter because she had lost her husband and son. The neighbors, most of them along with Pastor John, tried to help her but she wanted to live alone. Gradually she was won, but not before the accident of the burning of the Christmas tree and the building in which they were to hold their Christmas carol singing.

Mrs. Shuttle allowed them to hold the Christmas meeting in her home.

Mrs. Barker (in the story,) had been much against any one bothering about Mrs. Shuttle but on Christmas she took a turkey dinner to the woman who had been so bitter.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Archibald and a social time held at the close of the meeting with refreshments and a cup of tea being served.

The Star in the East

VII—THE GIFTS OF THE MAGI

In the world of two thousand years ago, wise men were called "magi" and, often, because of their wisdom were made kings of their people. But, being wise men as well as kings, they knew they must come to worship a king even greater than they, so they continued to follow the star that had led them from their homes.

Finally Casper, Melchior and Balthazzar—for those were the names of the magi — noticed that the star had stopped moving just above the inn in Bethlehem. They got down their camels, followed the rays of the star into the stable and found that their journey ended at the manger where lay the infant Jesus, with his mother Mary standing at his side.

They fell down on their knees and prayed and worshipped Him. Then they gave Him gifts they had brought with them from the East. Casper brought him gold, for the many material things we hold precious. Melchior gave Him frankincense, a fragrance, which stands for the thoughts we have in our minds. And Balthazar's present was myrrh, a bitter gum, representing the sorrows we all must face. In those days gold and frankincense and myrrh were rare and valuable, truly the gifts of kings.

Of course, Mary was astonished when these important men came and knelt down before her baby, just as she had been when the shepherds came and told her their story. But in her heart she was certain that her baby had a wonderful mission in the world.

While these thoughts were passing through Mary's mind, quite different thoughts were going through the mind of King Herod back in Jerusalem. What could he do, he asked himself, to prevent this child from taking his throne?

Queen Victoria Pupils Stage Colorful Christmas Operetta

Displaying marked histrionic ability, senior pupils of Queen Victoria School staged a delightful operetta in the school auditorium last night before a large enthusiastic audience of members of the Home and School Club.

The operetta, "When Santa Forgot The Swiths" was melodically interspersed by duets by the young actors against the background of a choir of sixty pupils composed entirely of three grades.

The production was beautifully staged while the performances of the youngsters bespoke intensive training and competent instruction.

And a distinct credit to the artistic and creative ability of the senior pupils was the production of "The Nativity" which formed the third part of the operetta. Done entirely by the pupils the settings were as colorful as they were impressive. Detail was not forgotten while the actors displayed a splendid sense of pantomime.

The story of the operetta revealed the Bennett family planning mainly through the efforts of Mrs. Bennett (Ira McLean) to entertain wealthy New York guests at Christmas. To the more or less disgust of the children, Tom (Alan Barclay) and Sue (Elizabeth Handall), and the reminiscences of Grandmother (Enid Cooper) Mrs. Bennett goes through such elaborate preparations that she is spoiling Christmas for the family.

However Fate steps in and last-minute word reveals that the guests unable to come. Mother is disappointed but Father (Peter Carver) and the children contrive to get Mamma to invite the Smiths, a poor but large family to Christmas dinner. They unconsciously teach the Bennetts the real meaning of Christmas.

Other young actors were: maid, Lorna Golden; Mr. Smith, Glen Helm; Mrs. Smith, Sharon Sweet; the Smith children, Rose Huntley, Gloria Maxwell, David Hurst. The two twins were Jack Gaudette and Gary Locke. Santa Claus was an "unknown". Jim White was the messenger boy.

The choir was admirably conducted by Mr. J. Carswell, who trained and directed it.

Splendidly narrated by David Leech, the story of "The Nativity" unfolded in colorful sequence. The costumes were excellent and in keeping with ancient days. And the chorus was heard to splendid effect in the rendition of familiar Christmas melodies.

Taking part were: Frances Potter (Mary); Larry Lemaire (Joseph); Jack Irwin (innkeeper); Dean Shindell, Murray Beeman, Larry Luther (shepherds); Henry Brooks (King Herod); Paul Tweddle, Bruce Alexander, Gail Worley (the three wise men); H. W. Thomas (Herod's counselor); and T. Porter, V. Anderson and Linda Reid (angels).

Principal E. S. Fairman in a post-operetta address paid tribute to the pupils and staff. The operetta, he said, was performed, staged and managed by the pupils, while the staff gave invaluable assistance in instruction, music, costumes, etc.

Members of the staff who played behind the scenes" roles were Mr. Carswell, Miss M. Mulholland (opening); Miss Marion Rawson, (pantomime, scenery and staging assisted by pupils); Miss Margaret Weddell, Mrs. Lorraine Otto (make-up); Miss A. Gilmour, Miss Sylvia Shier and Miss Rawson (costumes); Miss Helen Smith (pianist) and Mr. William Moxam (stage manager).

During the ten-minute intermission Vic White led the audience in spirited singing of Christmas carols.

St. Andrew's WMS Elects 1956 Officers

The December meeting of St. Andrew's church Missionary Society met in the church with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. Weir, opened the meeting.

The minutes were read and business conducted.

A Christmas program was presented by Mrs. Craig and her group.

Mrs. Craig and Mrs. Bondy read the Christmas story from Bible readings. Other messages were read by Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Weir, Miss Blair and Mrs. Metzger. Each passage was followed by the singing of a carol and the lighting of a candle.

A beautiful solo "O Holy Night" was rendered by Peter Van Everdingen, accompanied by Mrs. Boyce at the piano.

The reports of the year were read by the various officers and approved.

1956 OFFICERS

Mrs. Craig presented the new slate of officers for 1956. They are: honorary president, Mrs. R. MacLean; president, Mrs. Weir; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Parsons; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Barlow; secretary, Mrs. Fleming; treasurer, Mrs. Diamond; pianist, Mrs. Boyce; home helper, Mrs. Mansell; supply, Mrs. Baragar; literature, Mrs. Beavis; "Glad Tidings", Miss Mackintosh; Welcome and Welfare, Mrs. Kane and Mrs. Yorke; flowers and cards, Mrs. Bell; press representative, Mrs. Rollins.

An impressive dedication service was given by the Rev. R. MacLean.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Legion Members' Children Enjoy Yuletide Party

On Saturday afternoon, the Christmas party for the children of the Canadian Legion members, was held in the Legion hall, Coleman Street.

At 2:30 the children started to arrive some accompanied by their parents and at four o'clock the party was in full swing.

The program started out with "Jingle Bells." Music was played by Mr. George Gulliver with Mrs. Bamford as master of the singsongs.

Movies were shown by Mr. C. Legate, which the children and adults enjoyed.

At 4:30 a telegram arrived stating that "Santa is on his way. I am at Trenton and will soon be in Belleville."

While they waited for Santa, cookies and soft drinks were served to the children by the committee: Mesdames Meeks, Batchelor, Young, McGillivray, Slater, Helm, Dehope and Jeffs.

At 5 o'clock the ceremony of bell and that great big "Ho Ho Ho" everyone knew that Santa had arrived. George played "Here Comes Santa Claus," accompanied by Mrs. I. Young at the piano.

The beautiful tree was laden with Christmas gifts for all the 123 children and all received a gift suitable for their age. Large bags of candy and oranges were also distributed.

Much credit is due Mrs. Jeffs and Mr. Bill Hearman, who were chairmen for the Christmas tree and the buying of the gifts.

Mrs. James Ritchie conducted a novel game which was enjoyed by all. Prize-winners were Mrs. Cliff Brown, Mr. D. Leeming and Mr. W. J. Todd.

The members of the executive sang, "We Wish You a Merry Christmas," as a beautifully decorated Christmas cake was carried to a table laden with all the good things to tempt one's appetite.

The president presented a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Page as a token of the esteem in which they are held. Mr. Page replied fittingly and thanked the ladies for their co-operation.

Launching London 'Deb' Frickiest Affair in World

LONDON (AP) — Launching a debutante in London is one of the trickiest affairs in the world.

Just now ladies who wish to present a budding belle to the Queen are flooding the lord chamberlain's office with letters. The petitions must be in by Dec. 15.

Having an eligible girl of 17 presented at the royal court is relatively easy compared with some of the low jinks, manipulations and big-powered financing that follow.

Presentations come in March. All that the proud parents have to do is to get someone who's been presented at court to forward daughter's name to the lord chamberlain.

Complete strangers will sponsor the damsel—for a consideration. This advertisement is typical:

"Peeress would like to chaperon debutante the London season. Write box ——."

REAL STRUGGLE

Unless the girl has a criminal record or is an active member of the central committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union, she'll probably be accepted.

Then comes the real struggle. No general has to deploy his forces more adroitly than a matron steering her fledgling through a London social season.

In this costly parade of the 17-year-olds papa can be separated from large wads of money.

A season can cost from £1,000 to just how high you want your daughter to kick that social pong. There have been heavily fortified fathers who forked up £20,000.

For some girls it's a never-to-be-forgotten experience . . . soft lights and sweet music . . . handsome young men . . . boy meets girl . . . night rides on the Thames . . . champagne and caviar . . . long weekends in the countryside on hilarious house parties in the still stately homes. . . .

For other girls the season can be a hellish stretch of awful weeks filled with heartbreak and humiliation at trying to keep up with richer or prettier girls. Some parents employ public relations experts to keep the girls' names before the public.

United Church W.A. Entertains Visiting W.A.'s

AMELIASBURG — The ladies of Ameliasburg United Church W.A. entertained recently in their church. There were guests present from Salem W.A., Centre W.A., Massassaga Mountain View United Church, Rossmore W.A., Salem W.A., St. Alban's Guild and Victoria W.A.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me."

The devotional was given by Mrs. Parliament with Mrs. John Wannamaker reading the Scripture.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Clinton Sager of Ameliasburg W.A.

Mrs. Rough of Burr's W.A. replied to the welcome.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, the guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. T. A. Sills.

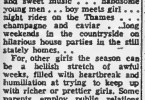
Mrs. Dobbs took for her subject, "Leadership," defining the qualities of a good president or leader.

Mrs. Otis Sills thanked the speaker for her interesting message.

A reading, "A Little Talk With Jesus," was given by Mrs. Marjorie Donald, of Salem W.A.

Mr. Farrow gave the closing prayer.

Mrs. Harold Wood, president of Ameliasburg W.A., was the leader for the day and Mrs. T. A. Sills pianist.



Thanks and appreciation go to all the ladies who helped in any way to make the afternoon a success.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOW GOOD ARE YOU AT ARITHMETIC?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have been married for five years to a very attractive, good-natured man, whose career seems to have had a great deal. He is do not repeat, nor do I re- the fact that in his particular business he does many young and attractive girls. What I do resent is that on the trips he has to make often takes these girls out, and sometimes I get an idea he has only interested in them.

I have tried not to show that I resent it, and so have mentioned to him only once or twice. Each time he has answered: "I take them out only because we are always together and it seems more social thing to do. It has nothing to do with romance. Maybe I do stay around a little, but you are the only girl I love, and there never will be anyone else. Don't I come from every trip as fast as I can, and don't I bring you almost every penny of my salary?"

Well, I think I should accept his explanation, and also accept it just as he is, or should I leave and make my way alone where I wouldn't have such things to worry about.—Alice.

Dear Alice:

Perhaps you will think it an odd test, but it is nonetheless useful to help solve an emotional problem by means of a little simple arithmetic. In other words, when you are finding it hard to decide which of several courses to follow, title on each of them a figure which represents, as far as you can approximate it, its value to you in terms of emotional satisfaction, then pick the course of action which carries the highest figure.

Thus, as I see it, in the way your particular case lies, would work out if you used the method I have suggested to solve it.

Suppose you take the figure 50 as the value of the set of circumstances in which you would prefer to live. Then put a figure also on each of your other alternatives and see which of them comes nearest to 100.

How much, for example, is it worth to you to have a husband who supports you and never only faults appears to be at when business takes him away from you he goes out for the good times, and you think, also by your own admission you are practically a widow? Is his salary to a man do much "playing around" as he has left after paying his wife's nearly every penny of the money he makes? Serious thinking comes in higher than at.

Well, does a home and that kind of a husband rate a mark of 85? Or only about 40? You're the one who gets sick first, and then how about your suggestion that you might divorce him and make your way alone? What is the emotional satisfaction you put upon a life like that? 10? Or would the absence of your husband and what he gives to companionship, concession to love—because it certainly sounds to me as though he does love you—give that figure down a little to say 75, or even a round 50 or less?

And what other alternatives have you on which you could set a specific value? Only you can decide what they might be, and the place you would place on them. Only, unless there are others which you have held back that would change my opinion if I were to see them, I think I would give or marriage a rating of close to which seems to me a value rth keeping.

What do you think yourself?

CHRISTMAS GLITTER AND GLAMOUR

From little Juliet cap to the point of her satin slipper, she a vision of loveliness—and all ready for Santa.

Just another week and ol' Santa will be with us. You've done your shopping, decked, to lights his load and your biggest closet is prez ably bulging to the limit with gaily wrapped packages for everyone from Grandma down to the wee one who's spending his first Christmas with you. But what about yourself?

If there's any folding money left at all, why not be good to yourself, too? The holidays will probably find you dashing from one festive shindig to another and you do want to look as glitterish as the season itself, don't you? Well, you've still got that week in which to prepare—and a few little luxuries will do a lot to make you look and feel your beautiful best when the man in your life calls to escort you hither and yon.

You're probably all set where your evening gown is concerned, but how about a little added "allfinest" touch—one that's very French? Straight from the famous designer, likes close fitting caps in gold lame and the Grand Dior flowers small turbane, you don't have to patronize Dior or Oscar, however. You can compromise by getting a pretty little Juliet cap, netted in style, and woven either in gold thread or in a shade to match your gown. It will not only make you look pretty as all get out, but will help to keep your coiffure in place through the endangered evening ever. And don't forget that the holidays are actually only the beginning of your winter social life. So you'll find plenty of use for it.

Another lovely French idea for holiday glamour comes from Cartier, the International known costume jeweller. Says he: "Why limit the wearing of a beautiful clip to your frock? You can achieve wonderful effects by wearing it in your chignon, on your glove, on one shoe (or if you have a pair — one on each shoe). Or on the rear view of your hat, or your curse—even on the top of your head."

And speaking of costume jewelry, this is a perfect time to indulge yourself a little and invest in one of the elegant lookinx pendant necklaces that glamorize a woman's swanlike neck and add such a note of luxury to even the simplest of evening frocks. And, if you haven't already, how about splurging on a beaded envelope purse for evening wear? They're especially lovely this year and add so much to holiday glitter and glamour.

Where both fashion and make-up are concerned, the trend this season is toward the romantic, so long gloves are back in style, as are wonderful lace scarves or mantillas, to be worn about the head or the shoulders—whichever's most faltering. Use your most exotic make-up, of course, and don't stint on the perfume. Never forget that, no matter how beautifully you dress, you'll seem loveliier and feel lovelier if you're surrounded with an aura of delightful fragrance. So plan for the big evenings now and you'll be all set when it comes time to say: Merry Christmas!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

GOOD DAYS ARE COMING!

Good days are coming . . . Christmas Day, New Year's Day. Add a good Dime it is, a particularly good time, for Good Works, Good Manners and Good Thoughts. Good Deeds

HERE'S THE REAL SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

We have several relatives and friends who are shut-ins. This year, instead of sending presents to those who live in town, my husband and I and our teen-age daughter and son have just decided that it would be nicer, more thoughtful, if we take our presents to them. So on Christmas Day, after we have gone to church, we plan to deliver our presents. Would you have some suggestions for gifts that would be appreciated? — Anne and Family

A deep bow to you and your family for this good thought and good deed, . . God bless you all. Christmas-like foods are an excellent choice: a brightly decorated jar or basket of cookies, perhaps homemade; or a box of sweets candy, nuts, crystallized fruits, stuffed dates, figs, prunes; and always welcome fruit cake or Christmas pudding, gay jars of fruits or jellies. A pretty bowl of glistening holly with other Christmas greens. A handsome, long-lasting Christmas candle, white or red or green, decorated with Christmas trimmin. A white glass vase or pottery container, filled with glistening branches of lily leaves, which need practically no care and last for months, even a year or two. Or, usually very welcome, an attractive and sturdy bar, to be hung on a chair or bed, convenient to hold book, handkerchief, glasses-case, and other at-hand necessities.

A special delight to a shut-in is a rear-garden in a glass aquarium; to sparkle vividly. Or a lovely framed picture or print of a subject you know is a favorite with your relative or friend. If the shut-in has a phonograph, records (perhaps one a Christmas hymn or carol are an enchanting gift. Comforting gifts are a lingerie pillow, a pillow - rest or an elbow - rest, warm bed-socks, a quilted robe or bed-jacket. A newspaper or book stand. Or, perhaps, take a card which registers a subscription to a newspaper or magazine, or to a book club. Or, several books, each stamps, enclose in a Christmas envelope. Or a pen-and-pencil set, or either one. Or a convenient writing-tablet, with refills. May Good Fortune shine on your Christmas pilgrimages to the homes of these shut-ins who so much need your kind and gentle thoughts!

SHE SHOULD NOT SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

My husband died in the late Fortune shine on your Christmas

Yesterday I was part way through telling you about stuffing for your Christmas turkey when I ran out of space.

Now I will carry on with variations for that stuffing.

STUFFING FOR THE TURKEY (Variations)

(1) Sausage: Instead of the 1-2 cup butter in the recipe that I gave you yesterday (Monday) sprinkle the onions and celery lightly with 1-3 lb. broken up sausage meat. (2) Oyster: add 3 or 3 cup chopped drained raw oysters. (3) Mushroom: saute 1-2 to 1 lb. sliced mushrooms in butter until golden-chopped scrubbed mushrooms with the onion and celery.

GIBLET GRAVY

Place cleaned giblets (liver heart and gizzard of turkey in saucepan. Cover with boiling water and simmer until liver is just cooked through then remove the liver and simmer until gizzard is tender. Cool enough to hand then chop all. Use the stock in making the gravy with fat and brown residue from pan, and stir in giblets.

ONIONS WITH GREEN PEA SAUCE

Allow two 2-inch onions per serving. To serve 12 people make 3 cups medium white sauce by blending together over low heat six tablespoons each butter and flour and 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, and stirring in 3 cups rich warm milk until thick. Add 1 or 2 cups undercooked fresh or frozen green peas and drained. Pour over boiled drained onions in hot serving dish.

GLAZED SWEET POTATOES

Blend together over low heat 1 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup butter and 1-4 cup water. When mixture pour over 12 cooked sweet potatoes cut in halves. Simmer or bake or broil until browned, turning 3 or 4 times.

VARIETY SALAD PLATE

On an outsize glass serving plate or platter arrange 6 perfect crisp well-cupped dried lettuce leaves. In each leaf place different salad items: (1) crisp fine sole slaw; (2) daintily cheese-stuffed celery sticks; (3 dark-scored mustard cucumber sticks or slices, (4) nine-day pickle chunks; (5) radish roses; (6) large ripe olives This is pretty and popular too.

CRANBERRY JELLY

Pick over and wash 1 lb. cranberries add to them 1 cup water and cook until very soft. Press through sieve. Soak 2 teaspoons gelatine in 2 tablespoons cold water five minutes and add to cranberry puree with 2 cups sugar. Stir until dissolved. Pour into moistened mold or individual molds to chill.

LIGHT STEAMED PUDDING

(By request.)

Measure into a large bowl 2 cups fairly firmly packed soft breadcrumbs and over them pour 1 cup milk, 1-3 cup melted butter or shortening, 1-3 cup corn syrup (or honey, or if you want pudding darkish 1-2 cup molasses). Sift together 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon each nutmeg and allspice (these spices are optional). Stir these into the cream mixture. Then add 1-2 cup each golden raisins and sliced glace cherries or 1-3 cup each seeded raisins and chopped citron. Steam in greased mold 3 hours. See tomorrow for Velvet Sauce and turkey roasting directions.

want to send my friends Christmas cards. My friends were especially c rate of me on my husband's h, and I have written them s iters to thank them. Do you fee that I should send Christmas cards even though I do not feel in the spirit to do so?

Indeed I do not think that you should send Christmas cards this year. After your husband's recent death, sending Christmas cards would, I am sure, add a heavy burden of sorrow to the sorrow you are already carrying in your heart, and your friends would certainly not want to have you take on any strain so completely unnecessary. So please, dear lady, save all your strength to meet these not-easy days ahead.

STONE CHURCH W.M.S.

47H. SIDNEY — The December meeting of the Stone Church Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. O. Chisholm on Wednesday afternoon.

IST CAROL WRITTEN

The meeting opened with the pianist playing, "Twas in the Moon of Winter Time," the first Canadian Christmas carol written by Jean deBrebeuf over 300 years ago.

After his massacre in 1649, some of the Indians carried the remembrance of this carol to Quelpec and there Villeneuve sang it in French.

In 1926 it was rendered in English by a Canadian poet, J. E. Middleton. For these words and from the traditional melody, Dr. Healey Willan, Canadian musician, wrote the musical arrangement which is now enjoyed.

The Christmas worship service was taken from the Missionary Monthly, the theme being "What Child is This?" Carol were sung and passages leading up to and including the birth o. Jesus were read by the members. After a prayer of general thanksgiving by Mrs. J. Detlor, the closing benediction was read by all.

Letters were read from Presbyterial officers: Mrs. E. Burnside, Madoc, on "Community Friendship;" "Christian Citizenship" by Mrs. M. Davidson, and one from Mrs. G. Coulter on "Stewardship."

Several items of business were discussed. It was unanimous that the officers for 1955 be the 1956 officers.

Mrs. F. Tucker and Mrs. E. B. Phillips to be auditors again this year and meet at the home of Mrs. W. J. Tufts when others will meet and fill out the reports.

W.A.

The Women's Association, with Mrs. O. Chisholm in charge, held a short business meeting. Mrs. George Tucker gave the treasurer's report showing a good balance on hand. It was decided to hold another bazaar on or near the same day next year. A cash donation was made to the Sunday School for candies at the Christmas concert.

The trustee board will be asked to make necessary repairs to the church, and the W.A. will help pay expenses.

The group leaders for this year were tendered thanks by Mrs. Detlor with the members showing their appreciation by a clap of hands.

Several "thank you" notes were read.

The slate of officers for next year will be completed at the next meeting.

The committee in charge assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Tabernacle Comrade Club Elects Officers

Japan Will Ban School Teachers Under Five Feet

TOKYO (AP) —A controversy is swirling above the heads of Tokyo's women school teachers—in some cases several inches above.

The metropolitan board of education started it by barring teachers shorter than five feet.

The ban goes into effect next school year, but not without howls of anguish from they teachers, the major newspapers, students in teachers' schools and one woman member of parliament, herself a former Tokyo teacher.

The Diet member, Mrs. Haneko Takada, is four feet 10.

The metropolitan board said it put the ban on tiny teachers because Japanese boys and girls are growing bigger all the time and the smaller teachers find it hard to control them.

They also said the little teachers would be handicapped in event of a fire, earthquake or other emergency, which calls for taking charge of students and leading them to safety.

And, the officials added, teachers under five feet can't reach the top of the blackboard.

WALLBRIDGE

W.I. Enjoys Christmas Meeting

WALLBRIDGE—Mr. and Mrs. D. Thompson opened their spacious home for the Christmas meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute. There was a good attendance of both men and women.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with the president in charge.

It was decided to donate to the Hospital for Sick Children, a "letter of thanks" was read for the donation to Trenton Memorial Hospital. The "games night" was postponed until February.

The ladies exchanged 25-cent gifts, after which the men were asked to entertain, which they did most capably.

Mr. S. Nicholson acted as chairman and the following program was presented: guitar and mouth organ music by Everette Phillips; Mrs. D. Woods recited, "No Job for a Man," by Edgar Guest; a duet, "Silver Bells," by Shirley and Sandra Fisher, accompanied by Ross Fisher on the guitar; reading by Hilton Shorey on the zither and mouth organ; Hudson Ketcheson read, "Just Before Christmas," and "The Twins."

The collection was taken in a most unusual way. The men were asked to sew a sock on a sheet and under it place twice the amount of the size of their shoes. The ladies were to sew an apron on the sheet and in the pocket place one cent for each inch of waist measurement. This caused a lot of fun and laughter, and also realized almost $8. C. Woods won the prize for the man doing the best sewing.

Mrs. H. Ketcheson conducted a contest.

Delightful refreshments served by the hostess and committee brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

The January meeting will be held at Mr. and Mrs. O. Chisholm's on Friday 13th. Euchre will be played after the business meeting. The conveners are: Mrs. H. Ketcheson, Mrs. G. Garrison, and Mrs. W. Shorey. Bring refreshments.

U.S. Navy Planes Link Antarctica With New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (AP) — Two United States Navy planes, flying non-stop 2,200 miles from New Zealand's South island, were believed today to have established the first air bridge between New Zealand and Antarctica.

Reports indicated that the planes, two Neptunes with the U. S. Navy's Antarctic expedition, landed safely on frozen McMurdo sound, a channel between Ross Island and Victoria land on the Antarctic continent.

Two Skymaster transports belonging to the expedition, which is headed by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, are expected to reach McMurdo sound late tonight.

Because there are no landing points between New Zealand and the Ross sea, seven ships were spaced 250 miles apart along the flight route to assist the planes.

The joint air-sea operation is a phase of the preparation for the American part in the international scientific exploration and observation to be made in the Antarctic during the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year.

Unitarian Committee Is Busy Providing Overseas Children With Canadian Foster Parents

REAL ESTATE DEALER FOR LOTS ON MOON

James T. Mangan of Chicago, founder of the nation of celestial space, issued a passport to the moon to President Eisenhower. Mangan, who celebrates the 7th anniversary of his nation this month, laid claim to all celestial space in the name of his new state. Though the president now has the right to travel to the moon, Mangan was at a loss to suggest what manner of conveyance he might employ to get there.

—Central Press Canadian

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Unitarian Service Committee here has been doing an unusually brisk business this season providing foster parents for overseas children.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, USC director, said that in eight days this month 20 Korean and Indian children were "adopted" by Canadians.

Under this adoption scheme, Canadians become foster parents by providing funds to sponsor an underprivileged child overseas. It costs $60 to support a Korean or an Indian child for a year. For European children it's $45 for three months.

The Christmas rush is unusual, said Dr. Hitschmanova.

Usually, about 11 children are adopted each month.

NEWSPAPER HELPED

Dr. Hitschmanova said she believes a Toronto newspaper article about 117 Korean children in an orphanage near Seoul who needed sponsors promoted interest in the scheme.

A campaign asking support especially for the Korean children was launched in Toronto on Dec. 7, when the newspaper article appeared. So far 1,300 have been adopted.

Following the article, the USC office here received letters and telephone calls from all over Ontario. As a result, 200 Korean and two Indian children were adopted.

The USC's foster parent plan began in 1940 to help care for orphaned children. Since the program European countries devastated by war, China, Japan, Greece, Italy, Austria, India and Korea now are included in the program.

More than 1,300 children have benefitted from the plan since 1940, the youngsters living in USC - supported orphanages and schools, ranged in age from six to 12.

Funds supplied by foster parents are channelled through the committee and provide food and school supplies for the adopted children. Clothing is provided from USC stocks.

Foster parents are provided with a photograph and a case history of each child and receive regular letters from him. Often they send extra funds to buy gifts for special occasions.

About 50 per cent of the sponsors are individuals. The remainder are school groups, Sunday schools and women's organizations.

Surgery Will Establish Her Identity as Man

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Pearl Augusta Morland of Goderich, 25-year-old housewife, today awaited hospital surgery that will establish her identity as a man.

Pearl, who learned only six weeks ago after medical examination that he was a man, entered hospital Monday for the changes which mean a new life. At the same time the London Free Press told the strange story of the man, reared as a girl and woman.

Pearl Morland was born in an isolated section of Bruce county, without a doctor in attendance, and his parents christened and raised him as a girl. After graduating from school he went to work at a female clerk for a pen company.

He was troubled through his teen-age years by a deep, husky voice and the growth of a beard, but he tried to develop a more feminine voice and continued to wear women's clothes.

MARRIAGE ANNULLED

Last year he met and married Edwin Enmerton, a Goderich carpenter. The marriage was annulled last week by Mr. Justice E. G. Moorehouse of the Supreme Court of Ontario, after presentation of evidence by two doctors that Pearl was a man.

Dr. John S. Winder and Dr. Stuart Bushy examined Pearl in London Nov. 1. Said his lawyer, Robert Mitchell: "Medical evidence is that Pearl Augusta Morland is a man, and surgery will establish that fact."

Later, he said, Pearl will take a new name, move to another town and attempt to begin his life again as a man.

Doctors in Toronto said similar cases have been known but only rarely is the condition not discovered and corrected early in life.

Crown Attorney Resumes Duties In London Court

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Claude C. Savage, resumed his duties as crown attorney in city magistrate's court Monday without further comment by either himself or magistrate Donald B. Menzies on their courtroom verbal clash Saturday.

Mr. Savage walked out of the courtroom Saturday after an exchange with the magistrate over prosecution of a shoplifting case. Magistrate Menzies said he would have to report the crown attorney to the Ontario attorney general's department for his refusal to continue the prosecution.

Referring to the verbal tiff, a spokesman for the government department commented Monday that "It sounds like somebody got out the wrong side of the bed."

No official report of the incident had reached the attorney-general's department Monday it was re-

Indians Refuse To Register Tribal Marriages

BRANTFORD (CP)—Leaders of the Six Nations Indian Confederacy said Monday they will defy an Ontario government order to register all tribal marriages performed on the nearby reservation.

The Council of Chiefs, the confederacy's governing body, said in a resolution they will not comply with the order because they fear they will lose their right under "those solemn and sacred treaties" laid down by the federal government.

(In Toronto Provincial Secretary George Dunbar said Indians were required to register their marriages under changes made in the Ontario Marriage Act a year ago. They were ordered to do so, he said, in a recent meeting at Queen's Park.

(Mr. Dunbar said: "I don't understand why they're against registration. They won't lose any of their treaty rights. All we want them to do is to register their marriage like everyone else in Ontario does.")

CLAIM ACT COVERS

The chiefs said they objected to registration on the grounds that the federal government is responsible for Indian affairs while under the British North America Act only registration of tribal marriages does not come under the jurisdiction of the Ontario government.

In the last Ontario elections, in June, the chiefs said, they had advised Indians on the reservation against voting. Only a provincial from Premier Frost that they would not lose treaty rights as a result of voting. Few of the estimated 3,000 Indians here voted.

Young Orphans Selling Apples To Save Home

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP)—Fifteen young orphans have intensified an apple-selling campaign to raise $2,000 from their Notre Dame de Beauregard farm near here, about 20 miles west of Toronto.

All under 14 years of age, the French-speaking children are trying to save the farm, a home for orphans founded 81 years ago by the late Father Beauregard and Miss Therese St. Jean. The home moved here 12 years ago from St. Catharines.

In the past 21 years, 165 children have passed through the home.

Apples raised on the 32-acre farm are the only source of income for the home. Selling apples is a Saturday-and-Sunday for the children. They realize the apples must be sold if pressing bills are to be paid.

ADD TO BURDEN

In addition to the farmhouse seven eye operations and a motor accident have added to the financial burden of the farm in recent months.

Toronto and Guelph are two of the favorite markets for the young salesmen. The boys also go into smaller communities such as Acton and Brampton and canvass the whole town door-to-door.

However, the plentiful supply of apples in the province has made selling difficult this year. After the children, who are nearly all bilingual, help with the housework and farm chores, Mass Noël their own socks and others help with meals.

Miss St. Jean has operated the farm since Father Beauregard died in an automobile accident five years ago. While the children will be warm and well fed for Christmas, Miss St. Jean said prospects for Christmas presents are not too bright.

Wife of Arctic Pole Discoverer Dies at Age 92

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Mrs. Josephine Diebitsch Peary, 92, widow of Admiral Robert Peary, North Pole discoverer, died Monday.

She accompanied Peary on several of his Arctic expeditions, travelling farther north than any other white woman. She was the mother of two Arctic adventurers, Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford of Portland, widely publicized as "the snow queen" at her birth less than 24 degrees from the pole; and Robert E. Peary Jr., a construction engineer who has specialized in Arctic building.

Police Officer Is Reinstated In London Twp.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Constable Ian Munroe, one of three London township policemen suspended by chief constable George Stronach Dec. 6 during investigation of an incident involving a police car, was reinstated Monday.

Chief Stronach announced the move as he prepared to hear evidence of another officer, constable Howard Harris, who was charged by the chief under the Police Act. The hearing was closed and chief Stronach did not comment on the nature of the charge.

A third officer, constable Gerald Heim, was still under suspension, the chief said. Heim and Munroe are probationary constables and as such are not necessarily entitled to a hearing.

The three policemen were suspended indefinitely after a city police constable ordered a London township cruiser off city streets for having defective brakes. The city officer, constable Stan Irwin, was suspended by chief constable A. E. Knight but later reinstated.

"Both chief constables said they later found the police car to have "near-perfect brakes."

Avro Canada Plans New Jet Airliner

TORONTO (CP) —The Globe and Mail says preliminary work is being made by Avro Canada Ltd. of specifications for a let airliner so "advanced as to be revolutionary—capable of spanning the Atlantic in 2½ hours."

The flight, from Montreal to London, would take about 3 hours in Super Constellations operated by Trans-Canada Air Lines.

The newspaper says in a copyright story by aviation editor James Hornick that the jet would be projected not as a competitor of, but a successor to, several new United States and British passenger jets scheduled to enter commercial service in the early 1960s.

The Globe says development of an Avro plane is based on federal government instruction to facilitate the all-out production of Avro's CF-100 all - weather jet fighter at its nearby Malton plant.

QUOTES CHAIRMAN

The newspaper quotes Sir Roy Dobson, chairman of Avro, as telling a group of aircraft workers during a recent visit here:

"We have put the jetliner to bed now, but we shall probably have it up at another time, and it won't be anything like the one we've just done.

"It will be a truly supersonic job that will go across the Atlantic at, let us say, 1,500 miles an hour and do the Atlantic in 2½ hours with real regularity and in comfort and safety."

Montreal Fire Causes Damage Of $500,000

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 200 shoppers and clerks scurried to safety Monday when a big drygoods store in northeastern Montreal caught fire.

Damage was estimated at $500,000. Dorothy Bergeron, 19, was taken to hospital suffering a broken wrist and pelvis after leaping from a second-storey window. At least another 24 persons, resident in two apartments in the upper floors of the building's upper storey, are homeless. Three firemen were slightly injured.

The fire broke out in the basement of the Melton Cloth department store at St. Hubert and Beaubien streets. Seven-alarm three-alarm blaze was under control about three hours later. 100 firemen and 75 pieces of equipment were at work.

Ten blocks of the surrounding area were cloaked in dirty brown smoke. Persons resident above the store escaped down ladders.

Store manager Maurice St. Jean estimated the value of the store's Christmas stocks at $250,000 and damage to the 50-year-old building at another $250,000.

What to Do If Queen Falls Out of Plane

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The trickiest question on examination papers for Royal Australian Air Force trainees reads: "What is the first thing you would do if you were piloting an aircraft and the Queen of England fell out of the back seat?"

Every answer revealed the utmost concern at such a happening. Some trainees said they would "try to catch her before she landed;" others that they would report by radio and remain in the area as a guide to position.

The correct answer: "Adjust trim tabs to make allowance for the loss of a passenger."

Five Youths Admit Series Of Robberies

TORONTO (CP)—Five men who police charge carried on a miniature crime wave in the Toronto area for the last six weeks Monday pleaded guilty to armed robbery, breaking and entering and miscellaneous charges.

General Graham In Hot Water With Minister

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Gen. Howard Graham is in hot water with Defence Minister Campney less than four months after taking over as chief of the general staff, it was learned authoritatively Monday.

Mr. Campney took exception to statements made by Gen. Graham at a Dec. 5 press conference that the army will recommend to the government within six months a plan for creation of its own air force.

Informants said this is considered a matter of government policy and should not have been discussed publicly, especially when a definite policy had already been decided.

Mr. Campney is said to object strongly to armed forces officers making public statements on any subject that touches on government policy. He has removed one senior officer, Brig. Leo Power, from his post for such a public statement.

SIMONDS RETIRED

Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds was retired as chief of the general staff at the age of 52 to be succeeded last Sept. 1 by Gen. Graham, nearly five years his senior.

The defence department has maintained that Gen. Simonds was retired to give other officers a chance to move up but reports persist he was let out because he publicly advocated integration of service.

In June, Air Vice-Marshal John Plant was removed as chief of RCAF technical services because he advocated integration. It was announced that the army be scrapped have the traditional Christmas Eve services there.

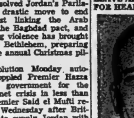
A midnight mass, with the Roman Catholic Patriarch of Jerusalem officiating at St. Catherine's church adjoining the Church of the Nativity, is the largest single attraction for Christmas visitors to Gould, Morgan and Ford families and spent five weeks in the Vatican to execute a bust of Pope Pius XI which now stands in the convent of the Capuchin monks in Rome.

Jordan Parliament Dissolved By King in Drastic Attempt To End Baghdad Pact Riots

JERUSALEM (AP)—King Hussein has dissolved Jordan's Parliament in a drastic move to end riots against linking the Arab country to the Baghdad pact, and the mounting violence has brought a curfew to Bethlehem, preparing itself for the annual Christmas pilgrimage.

The dissolution Monday automatically toppled Premier Hazza el Majali's government for the second cabinet crisis in less than a week. Premier Said el Mufti resigned last Wednesday after Britain offered to supply Jordan with new heavy arms and jet fighters if the country would join the five-power Baghdad pact.

The king did not immediately announce a date for elections for a new parliament.



The Baghdad alliance is a Western-backed defence grouping including Britain, Iran, Iraq, Pakistan, and Turkey. The proposal to include Jordan stirred feuding resentment among Jordanians who feared it might mean abandoning the country's claims against Israel.

The 4 p.m.-to-6 a.m. curfew for Jordan-held Bethlehem — Christ's birthplace—was ordered after 200 to 300 demonstrators Monday stormed the Turkish consulate in the Jordan sector of Jerusalem, smashing signs, flag and wounding the consul-general. Four rioters were reported killed and 27 wounded by fire from Jordanian troops.

The curfew obviously is a safety measure to protect Christian pilgrims, particularly those from the West, who flock to the scene of the Nativity only five miles southwest of Jerusalem. But it is not clear what effect the curfew will have on the traditional Christmas Eve services there.

A midnight mass, with the Roman Catholic Patriarch of Jerusalem officiating at St. Catherine's church adjoining the Church of the Nativity, is the largest single attraction for Christmas visitors to Gould, Morgan and Ford families and spent five weeks in the Vatican to execute a bust of Pope Pius XI which now stands in the convent of the Capuchin monks in Rome.

LEAVE ARGENTINE FOR HEALTH REASONS

Eduardo Lonardi, who led the Argentine revolution that ousted dictator Juan Peron and who became provisional president of Argentina for seven weeks after, arrived with his wife in New York. Lonardi is himself ousted as Argentine chief executive on November 13 by Major-General Pedro Aramburu. Even as Lonardi was arriving in the U., it was reported that another conspiracy to oust Aramburo had been squelched. Lonardi will have a medical checkup while in the U.S.

New Zealand Protests U.S. Surplus Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—New Zealand Ambassador Sir Leslie Munro Monday lodged a protest with the government against expanded sales abroad of surplus American dairy products.

In a formal note he observed that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson on Dec. 12 announced the United States is intending to broaden its disposal of surplus dairy commodities in foreign markets.

"That this would be already in effect," Munro said, "is borne out by the increasing frequency of subsidized export sales and the wider margins permitted above in which New Zealand is chiefly concerned to which such sales are being made."

No other sales of cheese by any town to Britain were made in June and July the prices ranged from 23.5 cents per pound landed aboard ship in New York compared with New Zealand cheese selling in London at 31 cents a pound.

He commented that some 10,000 tons of New Zealand and Australian cheese are on the shipment to Britain, and that United States sales therefore "must seriously have been made at a worse time."

Following representations by New Zealand, Canada has agreed not to sell cheese in Britain at prices undercutting New Zealand's, in Europe it is chiefly usually supplied by New Zealand.

The representations followed sale of about 10,000 pounds of Canadian butter to Communist Czechoslovakia at about 37 cents a pound. At about the time the Canadian-New Zealand agreement was reached, Canada made a further quantity of butter—less than 1,000,000 pounds—about 37 cents a pound, also destined for Czechoslovakia.

Tons of Gravel Hauled in To Fill Chasm Sink

NICOLET, Que. (CP) — Hundreds of tons of gravel hauled in to fill sink in a chasm caused by the recent landslide here sank Monday night beneath the surface of the ground, provincial roads department engineers said today.

The gravel was being dumped on the edge of the chasm near the St. Jean-Baptiste church to see that the approaches to the bridge which spans the Nicolet river could be repaired.

The bridge has been closed since Nov. 12 when a $5,000,000 landslide —which claimed three lives and swept away six buildings—struck this town, about 1 miles from Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Engineers said the gravel, being hauled in by 100 trucks, began to sink in the afternoon shortly before the job was to have been completed.

All work on the approaches to the bridge was called off pending a further study of the cave-in.

TO USE U. S. FUNDS

BELGRADE (AP) — Some $4,- were released Monday for construction of nine Belgrade apartment buildings which will house 270 families. Construction probably will be completed in 1956. The funds accumulated from local sale of U. S. aid goods shipped to Yugoslavia between 1953 and 1954.

PORT HURON, Mich. Israel, Egypt Swap Charges In Gaza Fighting

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel and Egypt swapped charges today over renewed fighting near the Gaza strip border.

An Israeli army spokesman said two Egyptian positions opened fire today on an Israeli patrol after a border clash Monday night between Egyptian and Israeli troops. The spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties in either fray.

Meanwhile, Egypt claimed that four Israeli soldiers and one Egyptian were killed when a patrol crossed the armistice demarcation line and attacked an Egyptian patrol Monday. Egypt protested to the United Nations mixed armistice commission.

First Soviet Ambassador In West Germany

BONN (AP)—The first Soviet ambassador to West Germany, Vasilian Zorin, arrived by plane in the West German capital today.

He was accompanied by his wife, who wore a mink coat and mink hat, and three members of his staff.

Soviet Premier Bulganin and West German Chancellor Adenauer agreed to establish diplomatic relations and exchange ambassadors during Adenauer's visit to Moscow last September. West Germany, however, has not yet announced the nomination of its envoy to the Soviet capital.

Zorin, former deputy foreign minister, travelled in a Twin-engined Soviet transport from East Berlin. Two British pilots flew the plane across West Germany.

Explosion Rocks Chemical Plant

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—One building at a chemical plant in suburban Tonawanda was damaged and scores of windows were shattered by an explosion which jarred homes for miles around Monday night.

No one was hurt in the blast, which sent a column of smoke into the sky.

The explosion occurred in a one-storey concrete building at the Semet-Solvay petrochemical division of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corp. Authorities attributed the cause to a faulty safety valve on a tank containing ethylene gas used in the manufacture of wax finishes and other products.

Windsor Plans New City Hall

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — City council Monday night decided at a special session to build a new city hall in connection with its civic square scheme.

The council also decided in an 11-3 vote, to construct an esplanade modelled after Toronto's University avenue, leading up to the new city hall square.

The new avenue will be a broadened version of the present north-south Windsor ave.

The decision will "force" various properties in the path of the proposed development at present prices for city purchase within 10 years.

A by-law providing $1,780,000 for construction of the new city hall already has been passed.

Members of the party, all from the Toronto-Hamilton area, made the trip in a chartered plane at the invitation of the Overseas League. They are scheduled to return to their homes in Canada Jan. 14.

The trip was arranged by the London and Toronto offices of the league as part of a homecoming scheme to strengthen ties between Canada and the United Kingdom. The party was made up of residents of the United Kingdom who had emigrated to Canada five and six years ago.

Princess, Duke Dance Samba To 'Warm Things Up'

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret danced a fast solo samba to "warm things up" at Buckingham Palace's annual Christmas party for the royal household Monday night.

More than 500 maids, butlers, footmen and pages cleared the floor to watch and applaud the royal dancers.

Then a palace maid took charge of the duke and taught him variations of the valeta. He rarely sat out a dance.

The duke's call to "warm things up" came after the royal party were formally received and danced the first dance—a quick-step. The duke danced with Queen Elizabeth while Princess Margaret gave her first dance to a footman and the Queen Mother danced with a page.

The Queen, wearing an ivory satin evening gown, went on to dance with the yeoman of the plate pantry, holding on to her tiara to keep it from falling off.

The Royal Family stayed at the party for about two hours.

Just before they went to bed, Prince Charles and Princess Anne were allowed to peek into the cream and gold state ballroom decorated with holly and mistletoe.

So New Year's Eve revellers who don't trust themselves at the wheel of their autos. For that one night the Detroit street railway commission Monday authorized its bus drivers to go as far as two blocks off regular routes to drop off passengers at their homes.

U.S. Missionaries Held by Reds For Five Years Are Released

HONG KONG (AP) — Dr. and Mrs. Homer V. Bradshaw, American missionaries arrested by the Chinese Communists nearly five years ago, were helped across the Hong Kong border to freedom today.

Both have long been ailing. Mrs. Bradshaw could not answer questions by American consular and Red Cross officials and her husband, badly run down himself, said:

"I'll take a little while to get ill through to her that she's out."

The Bradshaws, medical missionaries in China since 1926, reached the border of this British colony aboard the daily train from Canton. Officials had to help them slowly to a waiting ambulance which brought them to a Hong Kong hospital.

NO REPLY

Correspondents were shocked by Mrs. Bradshaw's pitiable condition as she turned a blank stare to their questions. One remarked that she looked "worse than Bishop (Alphaeus) Favrel," an Italian Roman Catholic bishop who had to be carried across the border bridge Dec. 7.

Dr. Bradshaw had been in a Canton prison since his arrest, but his wife was transferred to house arrest where she became ill in 1953. The Chinese never made any public charges against them, but presumably they were accused of spying.

With the emergence of the Bradshaws from behind the Bamboo Curtain, 13 other Americans the Chinese have promised to free "expeditiously" are believed still in Red prisons. Five other American citizens not imprisoned but free denied exit permits until this year also have not come out.

Europe Counts Sixteen Dead In Blizzards

LONDON (AP)—Soldiers took up shovels today to dig snow from streets in Scandinavia as Europe counted 18 dead in the winter's first blizzards.

Cold and frost took six lives in Sweden, four in Britain, four in Denmark, one in Norway and one in West Germany.

Twenty-five ships were stuck fast in icepacks of the Bothnian gulf between Finland and Sweden.

In Britain, 40 people were rushed to hospital after two buses collided on snow-banked streets in Liverpool.

VILLAGE ISOLATED

Heavy fog over Britain lifted overnight only to be followed by snowstorms and driving winds. Roads made impassable and workers in England were blocked by snowdrifts and two airplanes were rolled out.

The village of Kiltoncellers, in northern Jutland, has been cut off by snow since last Friday.

Eight Questions Asked Court On Marketing

TORONTO (CP) — The validity of 14 marketing schemes covering 21 farm products will depend on a series of questions to be submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Attorney-General Roberts Mon. released the text of eight questions dealing with Ontario's farm-marketing legislation to be referred to the court by the federal government.

The main question asks whether Ontario's farm products marketing board can legally authorize a marketing agency to carry out a marketing scheme involving the pooling of funds from the sale of a regulated product, deduction of expenses and distributing proceeds.

The second question is on the validity of a regulation which provides for the establishment of a marketing scheme to handle a regulated product.

The third question is on the validity of another regulation which provides for the licensing and appointment of the Ontario hog producers co-operative.

The next three questions deal with the legality of regulations providing for fees charged hog producers, peach producers and vegetable growers in the province by agencies marketing their produce.

A proposed amendment to the Farm Products Marketing Act is the subject of the seventh question. The amendment makes it clear that the farm products marketing board has the power to establish regulations setting up a local board such as the hog producers marketing board.

The last question, a follow-up of the seventh, asks whether the parent board could authorize a local board to impose licence fees on all producers of a regulated product based on the volume marketed, and whether the fees could be used to equalize or adjust returns to the producers.

Man Could Not Remember Where Children Lived

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man who couldn't remember where three of his 24 children live was given a one-year suspended sentence Mon. for non-support of two children.

Elzgin Subber, 47, a city water department laborer, was ordered to pay $20 a month to support the two children of his present wife and $15 a month until $1,000 has been repaid on relief allotments.

Asked by Judge Albert A. Woldman why he didn't support the two children, aged 4 and 2, Subber replied:

"Well, judge, I have 22 more."

THREE MISSING

When the judge asked where they were, Subber said:

"Well, I have nine in Portugal, four in Trinidad, three in Gary, Ind., and three by a former wife here in Cleveland."

"That is only 21," Judge Woldman told him.

"Judge, I know I've got 24 children, but I can't remember where the other three are," Subber declared.

Juvenile court authorities said Subber is living with his fourth wife, having been divorced from the other three.

Series of Safe Robberies Net Thieves $5,000

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's underworld is getting ready for Christmas.

Police said Mon. a series of safe-robberies and hold-ups during the weekend, apparently staged by gangs to "get money for Christmas," netted more than $5,000.

In addition, police said, thieves took about $3,000 worth of anodes from two nickel-plating firms in the city.

Police said the biggest single robbery during the weekend was $3,000 taken from the safe of a Yonge street store.

Detectives said heavy Christmas retail sales have made safecrackers and robbers more active recently.

Gas Turbine Passenger Car Will Be Shown

DETROIT (AP) — A new gas turbine passenger car which General Motors says it has successfully tested will be shown publicly for the first time at the GM Motorama in New York Jan. 19-24.

Although GM reported it has no plans to put the gas turbine car into production, it said the vehicle "gives promise of being able to operate with substantially the same economy as present-day automotive piston engines."

Complete engineering details of the new gas turbine vehicle, named the Firebird II, will be announced later. However the major advance is a new regenerator, or heat exchanger, which recaptures more than 80 per cent of the turbine exhaust heat and uses it to raise the temperature of intake air. This is described as a key factor in the car's improved economy of operation.

The body shell is made from titanium, a lightweight metal of great strength. This is the first time titanium, which presents problems in welding and plating, has been used successfully in an automobile body.

Mackinac Bridge Back Stay Span Floated in Place

ST. IGNACE, Mich. (AP)—The second huge horizontal structure of the Mackinac bridge, the 472-foot north back stay span, was floated into place Sunday.

Working in 9 to 20 degree above zero cold but with no hampering wind, bridge crews secured the span in seven hours.

It marks the final major accomplishment of the 1855 season on the $80,000,000 span between Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas. The bridge, now at the halfway mark, is scheduled for completion in 1957.

The 400-man work force will be gradually reduced this week to 30 or 40 men who will secure structures for the winter and continue receiving construction materials for next spring's work.

The south back stay span was put into place on the Mackinaw City side of the bridge three weeks ago. The two stays are the foundation for next spring's first project, erecting catwalks for stringing the bridge cables.

Kefauver said he will enter a number of state primaries during his "vigorous campaign." (Central Press Canadian.)

ONE TO WIN!

The Whitby Dunlops, who decisively debunked any ideas the Kingston Goodyears had of settling the first-second spots margin last Saturday night, will be the guests of the TPT's at Memorial Arena tonight.

The red-hot flares from Blair's lair should be in rare form after the workout the Goodies gave 'em in Bialrville. Scouts report the Dunnies were clicking like a pair of castenets while the Goodies, punctured early in the tussle, floundered around the ice like two-hoursold mackerel.

Maurey Gagnon, O'Connor, Bonello and Richer had a field day at the expense of Art Chesterton's crew. They flitted gaily up and down the ice like ballet dancers and Master Ken Johnson, who is a stonewall in the nets when playing against our side, must have looked like a bunk at Syrian caboose when the Dunlop snipers finally hung up their puck monikers.

It was no phony victory from what we are told. The Goodyears landed in Bialrville with their shock troops intact all intent to bang a collective sock on the collective chins of Messrs. Blair, Gagnon, Attersley and company.

What happened probably will never be known regardless of what mushrooms from the estimable Blair newspaper column. Only a few days previous the Goodies had deflated their "cork" somewhat by a 5-4 score, while the hopes of the Kingston faithful for another championship raised a trifle. And there is no disputing the fact that the Dunnies, as powerful as they are, are not 13 goals better than the Casterton crew, or any other club in the loop for that matter.

However, just to prove that they had what it takes and were not out for an isolated replay of the Blair boy's handiwork, they almost ended that way, the Blair buckaroos rammed home two goals in exactly 33 seconds with Messrs Bonello and Esther the propellants.

Enter Myles Gagnon and Buck Redmond into the picture. The former and Bonello thought they were smart, Gagnon and Reddy went them one better. Redmond poked home the puck at 3.10 and exactly 13 seconds later Gagnon, figur who provides the "meat," ear tantalizing pearl-ed, for our Billy McMaster, gunned home the rubber to make the count 4-3. Time 3.23.

Up in the press box the Blair statisticians were busy. Billy Smith was talking goals and assists so rapidly over a radio broadcasting mike his mitts almost caught fire, and Wally Brahin, the Blairian statistical demon, yelped for an adding machine. Down below in the seat of the mighty, Blair the Wren was executing a cross between a Zulu war dance, the sword clog, an African hula and a Senegambian buck and wing.

The Goodies strove mightily with what power they had left but it was the effort of a juiced-up mosquito trying to rive in the side of an elephant with deep-blubber. The best they could garner was one each in the first and second frames. Then in the third they signed their last wills and testaments as the Dunlop steamroller was rolled into high ever, and rammed home seven goals while the bewildered, befuddled Goodies did their best to stem the tide.

These Dunlops do not take a defeat without swearing vengeance. They dropped their first game to the Brockville Braydeens by a single goal after a hard-fought tussle—but the next time out slaughtered the men from the riverside town with a lopsided count.

But that is so much water under the bridge. Tonight the TPT's take on the highly-touted tackle-on-ice from Whitby and it should either make or mar the best title of the season or our side will go under from the blasting broadsides of the Bialrville battlewagon.

In the two games the teams have played here Whitby has walked off with the victory, the first by a 6-3 count and the second 7-1. But these scores did not indicate the play. There is no doubt the Dunlops will be all out to repeat the terrific shellacking they handed to the Goodyears but maybe the TPT's will have something to say about that.

In any event the Teeps should be well rested after that two-day jaunt down east and should be at full strength, with perhaps the exception of Keith MacDonald, who, it is reported, suffers a recurrence of a knee injury during the weekend safari. Game at 8.30.

MUD, ME EYE!

A bunch of the boys were re-living the mud and slime of the recent East-West football game the other day with its slithering, slipping and sloughing.

An oldtimer was listening in and after a while started to chuckle. Someone asked him "mucomo?"

"It happened one day in Philadelphia," he said. "In the midst of a deluge of snow and rain the Cornell captain won the toss and bitterly stared out over Franklin Field covered with grey slush."

"Do we have to play football in that fluid?" he asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "What end do you want?"

"Well," said the player, "we'll kick with the tide."

PETERSEN RESIGNS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Resignation of Johnny Peterson, 57, as manager of the Winnipeg Stadium and Arena was announced Monday night by W. Culver Riley, president of Winnipeg Enterprises Corporation, the semi-public body which owns the sports centres in the city's west end.

Riley said that Petersen, a prominent figure in Winnipeg sport for more than 30 years, had submitted his resignation because of ill health.

Riley said no successor had been named but the board hoped to name one shortly.

Florida Baseball Interests Purchase Club for $100,000; Bill Veeck Is New Manager

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—This tourist mecca, which gives solid support to virtually every major sport except baseball, has replaced Syracuse in the triple A International League.

Sidney Salomon Jr., former executive vice-president of the old St. Louis Browns, and Elliott Stein, 36-year-old St. Louis investment banker, bought the Syracuse franchise Monday for approximately $100,000.

Salomon announced the club will be moved to Miami and that Bill Veeck, former president and general manager of Cleveland Indians, will handle the newest entry in the sprawling circuit which includes Toronto, Montreal, Columbus, O., Rochester, Buffalo, Richmond and Havana, Cuba.

AGREEMENT WITH FHLB

The Miami club will have a working agreement with Philadelphia Phils of the National League, Salomon said.

Salomon and Stein made an offer several weeks ago to Martin D. Haake, Syracuse attorney in the group raised $50,000 for the franchise and $53,000 for purchase of equipment at the ball park.

Lawyer Haake said the contract was too involved to be drawn hurriedly and when the deadline for selling the club by the Syracuse group had passed, Haake notified Salomon at his Miami Beach winter home that the ball club was his.

Salomon said he still must get permission from the league's board directors to transfer the franchise and must also get a lease from the city of Miami to use Miami Stadium. He expects no difficulty on either point.

The stadium, built in 1948 at a cost of about $2,000,000, had a seating capacity of about 14,000 but, later, bleachers were removed, reducing this to about 9,300. Brooklyn Dodgers use it for spring exhibition games.

DRAWS BIG CROWDS

Miami draws whopping crowds for football, horse racing, golf tournaments and other outdoor sports. Spring exhibition baseball games also attract sizeable crowds and Salomon hopes that higher classification may lure fans who wouldn't go for the lower-minor-league brand."

At Montreal, Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, said Monday night that the sale will have little effect on the league.

"The transfer will revive an old baseball rivalry between Miami and Havana," said Shaughnessy. "It will add to the travel schedule—but the men of time out slaughtered the men from the riverside town with a lopsided count. given the northern teams another stop-over city on the way to Havana."

Prior to the transfer, Richmond was the last southern stop before the long plane hop to Havana.

Maggies' Protest Upheld by OHA Game Tossed Out

The TT's jumped into a fourth-place tie with the Cornwall Colts last night—and never put a stick on a puck.

The OHA protest committee sitting in confab in the Queen's Hotel upheld the Brockville Maroodemas protest of the game played with Cornwall December 7 which the Colts won 4-3.

The OHA tossed out the game. It will not be replayed unless the result affects the final standing at the end of the schedule.

And all because of a timekeeper's error.

It happened this way.

Brockville was leading 3-2 in the second period when a player was given a minor penalty. He was set in box on the ice until 2.47 seconds later. Meanwhile the Colts rammed home the tying goal, later scoring the winner.

It was an unfortunate error on the part of the timekeeper who had two other stanners in duranceville at the time.

The cancellation of the game drops the Colts back to a fourth place tie with Belleville with 11 points each. Kingston takes over third spot with 12 points. The Whitby Dunlops lead with 19 points while Kingston in second place with 13.

Three Tied For Lead In Laurier Trophy

MONTREAL (CP) —Kitchener Canucks and St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association have moved into a tie with Montreal Canadiens Juniors for the lead in play for the Laurier Challenge Trophy.

But the Canucks and Teepees still have some catching up to do. Although the three teams are deadlocked with 14 points, Kitchener has played three more games than the baby Habs and St. Catharines five more.

Directors of the challenge play also announced the following schedule of games until the end of the year:

Dec. 22: St. Catharines at Hamilton; Dec. 25: Montreal at St. Michael's; Dec. 26: Montreal at Hamilton; Dec. 27: Hamilton at Marlboros; Dec. 28: Montreal at Barrie; Dec. 30: St. Catharines at Kitchener.

The standings:

FIRE COACH

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Norman (Red) Strader was dismissed Monday as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

Announcement of Strader's firing was made by 49er owner, Tony Morabito, at a press conference in his office. Morabito said the action was taken "in the better interest of the 49ers and Mr. Strader. It is effective immediately."

Strader was in his first year as head coach of the pro club, he finished with a record of four victories and eight defeats in league play.

Moe Norman Ontario's Top Amateur Golfer

TORONTO (CP)—Moe Norman of Kitchener Rockway Golf Club, winner of the Canadian amateur golf championship at Calgary last summer, Monday was named Ontario's top amateur golfer for the second consecutive year.

The 25-year-old Norman headed the list of 10 ranking amateurs for 1955 issued by the selection committee of the Ontario Golf Association.

Jerry Magee of Toronto, who tied with Mick Weslock of Windsor Essex for the runner-up position last year, was ranked second for 1955 by the OGA. Weslock placed third.

ONTARIO FAVORITE

Norman's unorthodox style has made him a favorite of Ontario golf galleries. An incessant talker, he seldom takes time to address the ball. He walks up and belts it without a second glance. On the green, he putts virtually in stride.

The selection committee cited Norman's 1955 record as the basis for naming him top amateur for the year.

Besides winning the Canadian amateur title, he was first in the Ontario Amateur Trophy with only a total of 497 strokes for 129 holes; scored 138 in the Willingdon Cup match and held second position all contestants; reached the finals of the Ontario Amateur and was defeated with an extra hole; was runner-up to Gene Littler in the Canadian Open with a two-under-par 286; was second low amateur in the Willingdon Cup "pro" match with boro; won the Burlington and Hamilton Amateur titles; won the Kemsley field day with 70 and the two St. Marys invitation tournaments with 69 and 63.

MORLAND IN TOP 10

Behind the top three in ranking order are: 4—Bernard Johnston, Hamilton; 5—Jack Nash, London; 6 (tie)—Bruce Castator, Toronto, and Norman Morland, Toronto; 7—Dave Morland, Jr., North Bay; 8—Bill Morland, North Bay; 9—Eric Hatson, Toronto; 10—Ernie Bentley, Toronto.

Four others were commended by the committee, including Gary Cowan, Kitchener Rockaway and Wilbur Wilkes, Brantford and Oxford golf clubs.

Norman's best his summer almost entirely to golf. He was ranked 15th by the OGA in 1950, sixth in 1951, got honorable mention in 1952, was sixth in 1953 and top man last year.

MUELLER SIGNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Mueller, the New York Giants' regular right fielder, Monday returned his signed contract to the club from his Louisiana home.

Mueller reportedly received an increase that would put him in the $22,000 level. He hit .306 last season, fourth under his lifetime average of .307 for eight years with the Giants.

May Intends To Remain Tourney King

CHICAGO (AP)—George S. May, Chicago golf promoter whose All-America tournaments are the richest in the world, says he isn't worried about competition.

"It's about time somebody else was offering some money," May said Monday night when informed that Dallas, Texas, is coming up with a $100,000 tournament next spring.

"That's only half of what we give during our All-America in August," May said. "In 15 years we've given away $1,130,370.

"I'll tell you this. Nobody is ever going to beat me. If anybody ever threatens to give bigger golf prizes than I do, I'll raise the ante."

May's tournaments at Tam O'Shanter went over $200,000 last August.

GIVEN CONTRACT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Kuharich, whose Washington Redskins made the most spectacular jump in one season of National Football League play, was rewarded Monday with a three-year coaching contract.

Owner George Preston Marshall, who has hired and fired more coaches than any other NFL president, told reporters Kuharich had proved himself to be "one of the greatest coaches in the business."

'The King Is Dead'

Boxing Guild Outlawed January 15 But Matches Still Be Carded

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing may be dead in New York after the Guild is outlawed Jan. 15 but Tex Sullivan, promoter at St. Nicholas Arena, keeps right on making matches.

Sullivan expects to close today a Jan. 16 pairing between Tony Johnson and Paddy Young, two thumping middleweights from New York.

Contracts also will be sent to the New York state athletic commission for a rematch between Carmine Flore and Gene Poirier, who battled 10 furious rounds to a draw Monday night. Poirier of Niagara Falls, N.Y., weighed 150½, Flore, of Brooklyn, 149½.

The commission may approve the two matches long before the Jan. 15 deadline when all managers are to serve their membership with the banned Boxing Guild of New York. Presumably the bouts would be permitted if approved before the deadline. That decision, of course, would be made by Julius Helfand, commission chairman who now is in Florida.

JANUARY ICE SHOW

The International Boxing Club, which promotes at Madison Square Garden, hasn't announced any New York matches after Jan. 15. However, the garden will be occupied by an ice show from Jan. 12 through Jan. 29, ruling out boxing from Friday, Jan. 6 to Friday, Feb. 3. Syracuse is supposed to get a match Jan. 30 but it hasn't been announced.

The Flore-Poirier scrap was a classic with Flore, the 12-to-5 favorite, piling up an early lead. The 23-year-old Niagara Falls welter closed with a rush to get the draw.

A crowd of 900 paying $1,446 booked the decision. There were no knockdowns.

In announcing the two January matches, Sullivan denied reports that the televised bouts were to move to Boston, effective Jan. 16 with a Bobby Murphy-Chico Vejar rematch.

"We have 26 'live' stations and 16 others show the bouts in kinescope," Sullivan said. "Our contract runs to May 17, 1956. That tell us the TV ratings are higher each week."

NHL Goalies Score 26 Blanks In 94 Games Played To Date

Injured Plante Setting Pace

MONTREAL (CP) — This being Christmas week and all that, let's sidetrack the big guns in the National Hockey League and give the hard-working goalies a break. They deserve it.

For the 94 games played so far this season, the league's official figures show the goalies have come up with 26 shutouts. The comparable pre-Christmas mark a year ago, for 96 games, was only 18 shutouts.

This remarkable performance is reflected in the number of goals. In the same 96 games last season the goalies had given up a total of 591; in only two games less this season the total for the six clubs has shrunk to 476.

LEADERS DON'T CARE

The figures indicate the net-minders' stinginess has hurt the lesser-known players the most. The big fellows whose names usually are found among the leading 10 point - getters seemingly haven't given a hoot about the sudden closed-shop tactics of the staunch goaltenders' union.

To date the leaders, averaging 31 games each, have whipped in 127 goals, were leading 10 at that stage last year, averaging 32 games each, had collected 116 goals.

The assists among the point-getters likewise are better. With the same average number of games played, the big 10 to date have participated in 132 assists compared with 123 at this time last season.

Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens, who is currently sidelined with injury, is still setting the pace among the goalies. He has given up 45 goals in 30 games for a goals-against average of 1.50. His understudy, Bob Perreault, in two games so far has allowed only two goals. Since the Vezina Trophy, the annual award to the top goalie, is based on total goals against the club rather than against individual netminders, Montreal's average is 1.47.

Glenn Hall of Detroit Red Wings is closest with 2.10 and Lorne Worsley of New York Rangers next with 2.14.

The big fellows had poor pickings. Gordie Howe, Jean Beliveau of Montreal, pace-setter among the point-getters, was able to get only one assist in three games but still heads the list with 35 points. He is tops in goals with 19.

There were few changes in the top 10 positions. Bert Olmstead of Montreal, collected a goal and two assist, clung to second place with 31 while Gordie Howe of Detroit and Andy Bathgate of New York remained tied for third. Howe had two assists and Bathgate one goal and one assist. Each has 3 points.

Montreal's Maurice Richard, getting only one assist, stayed in fifth place with 28 points. Teammate Tom Johnson of New York likewise had only an assist in three games and missed a chance to move into a tie with Richard.

Earl Dubbie Reibel and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit were the only ones among the leaders to collect three points. Reibel did it on two goals and an assist and moved from eighth to seventh place. Delvecchio, with three goals as his output, climbed from 12th to a tie for eighth with teammate Ted Lindsay and Ted Sloan of Toronto. Sloan bagged two goals and, with 17, is runner-up to Beliveau for goal honors.

Trabert Trims Pancho Gonzales

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tony Trabert battled from behind Monday night to beat Pancho Gonzales 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 in their professional tennis tour.

Trabert is San Francisco victory before 3,000 made their series score stand three-two for Gonzales and two for Trabert. They meet again tonight at Oakland.

Pancho Segura of Ecuador beat Australian Rex Hartwig 8-3 in a singles-set match. It was Segura's fifth straight win over Hartwig.

DRAWS WITH FIORE

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Poirier of Niagara Falls, N.Y., closed with a rush Monday night to earn a draw with favored Ernie Fiore in a 10-round match at St. Nicholas Arena in which both men were cut around the eyes.

Fiore weighed 143½ pounds, Poirier 139½.

Canadian Team Offers $16,000 To Spartan Back

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — All-American quarterback Karl Morrall, who will lead Michigan State Spartans in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2, says he has a $16,000 bid to play in Canada next season.

He didn't name the team.

Morrall already hall-been drafted by San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League. But he says he won't make up his mind until after bestball season in the spring.

He may forego pro football entirely to concentrate on baseball. Detroit Tigers are reported interested in him.

A second Michigan State player, fullback Jerry Planutis, was asked about a report that he had been offered $13,000 to play in Canada. He said he might be interested in such an offer but would have to have something more solid than rumor before committing himself.

Bob Attersley Invited to Play For Canada

Bob Attersley, sharpshooting ace of the Whitby Dunlops has been placed on the list of the Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen who will represent Canada in the forthcoming Olympics.

Frank Tigert star, who it is alleged, turned down offers to turn professional early in the season, has not yet made up his mind to accept the offer.

Pat Fletcher Named Head Pro At Royal Montreal Golf Club

MONTREAL (CP)—Pat Fletcher, the only Canadian to win the Canadian open golf championship in the last 36 years, is moving from Saskatoon to Montreal and one of the best professional posts in the country.

Fletcher will become head pro at the Royal Montreal Golf Club, replacing Ken Murray who resigned recently. The announcement of Fletcher's move after almost 10 years as pro-manager of the Saskatoon Golf and Country was made Monday night.

The 40-year-old pro still had a year to run on his contract at Saskatoon but Bobbie Andrew, president of the club, said the directors voted to grant his request to take up his new duties here April 1.

The job as pro at Royal Montreal is considered one of the plums of Canadian golf. The course is one of the biggest and best in the country.

Murray retired after 17 years as head pro and 35 years with the club because of an arm injury he suffered two years ago when he slipped on some ice. He took a position with the sponsors of the $26,500 Open tournament.

Fletcher ranks alongside Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Jules Huot of Laval-sur-le-Lac, Que., as one of the top veterans pros in Canada. His biggest victory was at Vancouver in 1954 when he became the first Canadian to win the Canadian Open since Karl Keefer of Ottawa turned the trick in 1914.

Stamps Will Continue As Non-Profit Body

CALGARY (CP) — Shareholders of the Calgary Stampeders football club Monday unanimously endorsed a proposal which would see the sport continued in this city through the operation of a non-profit corporation.

The proposal was advanced by a group at Calgary business men, headed by Mervyn A. (Red) Dutton, Calgary contractor and former president of the National Hockey League. It will now be approved by bondholders of the Calgary Football Co., Ltd., present owners of the club.

The group has pledged to provide all funds needed up to a maximum of $100,000 to finance the operation of the non-profit corporation, to take over the Calgary Stampeder football club and to operate it in the Western Interprovincial Football Union."

R. A. MacKimmie, Calgary barrister who presented the proposal for Dutton and his group said the new corporation would be operated as a "community enterprise with ample opportunity afforded to southern Albertans to become shareholders and to participate actively in club affairs."

COOK MADE COACH

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred (Bun) Cook, coach of Cleveland Barons, Monday was appointed coach of the American Hockey League's all-star team which will play the defending champion Pittsburgh Hornets in Pittsburgh Jan. 10.

Wallace KO's Toronto's Ross

TORONTO (CP) — Welterweight Don Wallace of Barrie Monday night knocked out Toronto Don Ross his first knockout loss in 89 starts in the main bout of a weekly amateur boxing card.

The 24-year-old Wallace sent Ross to the canvas with a right hand at 1:37 of the fourth round for an automatic eight-count. Ross sent back for the count of nine as referee Harry Davis, who gave Wallace a technical-Knockout win.

Al Moss of Toronto and Tommy McCoy of Niagara Falls fought to a 142-pound, five-round draw.

Willie Pastrano Wrecks Layne In 10 Rounds

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A badly-battered Rex Layne, once regarded as the most promising heavyweight in a decade, today predicted nothing can stop Willie Pastrano from going all the way to the championship "if he takes his time."

Wily Willie, the New Orleans middleweight turned light heavyweight turned heavyweight, wrecked to a unanimous 10-round decision Monday night over the mauler from Lewiston, Utah.

Pastrano, who weighed in at a well-packed 185 pounds, danced and jabbed his way into serious contention for Rocky Marciano's heavyweigh crown and all but eliminated the fast-fading Layne from the picture.

"I can't see anybody stopping Pastrano if he can make his limit" said the 208-pound Layne, bathing a deep, raw gash over his left eye. "He's the best I've ever seen."

BIG AS THEY COME

"My weight didn't seem to bother him and, you might say, I'm as big as they come," said Pastrano of Rex with a quick glance at a midsection still protesting crimson from the sting of Willie's jabs.

Despite Layne's blood-smeared testimonials, Pastrano's handlers were away from the championship belt and closer to a title match.

Instead of hollering "Bring 'em Rocky," he was considering a return to the light-heavyweight class for another meeting with Detroit's Chuck Spiesman.

"Everybody wants me to meet Spieser again," he said with a look at manager Whitey Esmond. "I'd like to go wherever there's the best money." New Orleans seemed like the right place. The bout Monday night grossed $18,000 and attracted 8,000 fans.

Golfer Makes Fine Recovery; Feted by State

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—A year ago Billy Campbell lay in a hospital bed with burns on his hands and face. It was doubtful that he would ever play golf again.

Monday the Huntington golfer, state open and amateur champion and captain of the 1955 Walker Cup team, is West Virginia's athlete of the year.

Named in a poll of state sports writers, he will be honored at the victory awards dinner in Parkersburg, W. Va. next month.

The nomination comes just a year after Campbell suffered third degree burns on his hands and second degree burns on his face after smothering flames which engulfed his clothes while he and his wife were making Christmas candles.

Company Refuses To Obey Order Of Labor Board

TORONTO (CP)—A member of the Ontario labor relations board said Monday unless they seek legislative permission to strike while still under contract it employers ignore arbitration awards.

David Archer, Canadian Congress of Labor representative on the 3-man board, made the comment during the board's hearing of an application from the International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL) to prosecute Kingston Steel Inc., for failure to implement an award made by Judge W. S. Lane.

The application concerned a typewriter serviceman whose wage was cut from $67 a week to $55 after he argued with a customer. Judge Lane had ordered the company to restore the employee's salary and pay his lost wages. The company refused, claiming Judge Lane had exceeded his jurisdiction.

"ALL TO NO PURPOSE"

Said Mr. Archer:

"If managements are going to refuse to implement arbitration decisions, which is happening all too frequently, unions will have to go back and ask the legislature to put that right to strike back into legislation."

Ontario unions, he said, had given up the right to strike during the term of their contracts in return for a binding system of arbitration of grievances.

The board reserved judgment.

Russians Realize Television Best Medium of Propaganda

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Practically nobody knows anything about the nature and extent of television inside the Soviet Union today—except some of the Russians.

So it is worth listening to William Benton, former assistant United States secretary of state who recently returned from Russia with what appears to be the most extensive information yet available on the subject. He spent a month collecting material on entertainment and the arts for an article in the Encyclopedia Britannica, of which he's the publisher.

"The Communist rulers already realize," he says, "that television is the most effective medium for propaganda ever available. They'll use it to its fullest effects, for the Russian people are infatuated with television. One can't help but be frightened by Russia's technological progress and its unfriendliness of its indoctrination techniques. They make an element of real danger to the people of the United States."

GROWING RAPIDLY

There now are about 1,000,000 TV sets in use apart from those in the factories and public places where groups gather to watch. (There are more than 36,000,000 in the U. S.).

There are 11 stations operating independently of each other. There are 425 TV stations in 264 American cities.

By 1958 the Russians plan to have 51 stations and about 7,000,000 sets in operation. U. S. industrial sources expect at least 50,000,000 sets in use by 1958).

The average Russian TV set has about a 12-inch screen. This costs a comparable about $325. Nevertheless, nearly every family wants a set, so demand vastly exceeds supply.

ONE ADVERTISEMENT

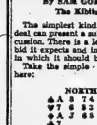
Television in Russia is confined to the evening hours. But the evening viewer sees the best entertainment the Soviet State can offer: feature-length films released to TV before they appear in movie houses. Also, all privately owned companies; the best plays of its full-time theatre companies.

There are no advertisements' of commercial products, but there's many advertisement of communism and the latest propaganda line. Russian television is, in short, completely the instrument of the Soviet government.

'Terps' Favored Over Oklahoma In Orange Bowl

NORMAN, Okla. (CP) — Oklahoma's national championship football team will be the underdog when it meets Maryland in the Orange Bowl battle of unbeaten teams Jan. 2 at Miami, Fla.—or so Sooner coach Bud Wilkinson says.

Wilkinson, who drills his fandom to lose with the same fervor that he drills his squad to win, used his "psychology of losing" lowdown when he began prepping for a second test of the Terrapins.



Psychology, he said, is all on Maryland's side, making this the "most difficult football game I've ever had." Then Wilkinson and his staff began studying films of five Maryland games this season, and a new note was added to the blues.

HAS BIGGER LINE

"I feel we're the underdog because Maryland has a bigger line and its defence is terrific," Wilkinson said. "No sooner we watch the Maryland game pictures the more we're convinced of that."

The coach, whose 1953 Sooners upset Maryland 7-6 in the Orange Bowl, pointed out the situation is exactly reversed for this second struggle.

In that game, Maryland was a national champion with a skein of 33 straight scoring games, while Oklahoma was ranked third. Now Oklahoma is No. 1, has scored in 105 straight games and has won the last 29 in a row—longest current victory string in collegiate football.

The Kibitzer

The simplest kind of a bridge deal can present a subject for discussion. There is a lesson in each bid it expects and in the manner in which it should be played.

Take the simple deal shown here:

	NORTH
	♠A 8 6 4
	♥7 5 3 2
	♦A J 6 5
	♣A J 6 5
WEST		EAST
♠K 5 2		♠10 6
♥K Q J 9 8 4		♥10 6
♦Q 10 9 7 4 3		♦K 9 8 2
♣6 4 3		♣Q 10 9 8
	SOUTH
	♠Q J 9 3
	♦Q 10
	♣K 7 2

The bidding goes like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	3 ♥
4 ♠	Pass	4 ♥	All Pass

To count the tricks in each hand, count one for each high card (ace or king or queen) and one for each suit which is one card short of the expected average of three cards in any suit.

North has two high cards and two shorts in things; total of four tricks. South has four high cards and a short in each red suit; total six tricks. With six tricks in the pair they should reach a bid of four.

An opening one bidder shows five tricks and expects two in the hand of his partner. Each raise by either shows another trick. Thus does each bid of his total number of tricks.

The only raise by south was when he bid three spades over the north two spades. This showed his sixth trick. South raised twice with two more tricks in spades. This showed his third and fourth.

There are players who will tell you that is a wishy-washy form of bidding. The reason they say so is because they do not use any kind of an accurate count. They simply guess when they get close.

Those will tell you that south should jump to four spades when north raises to two spades. If north does not have the fourth trick with which to raise again, the deal does not belong in four.

Let west lead a heart and make four. There is a lesson in it.

Christmas Tree Industry Appears in for Good Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The chips are flying in Canadian forests and woodlots where lumbers hack their way toward what looks like a banner season for the Christmas tree industry.

Street-corner prices in most Canadian cities and towns will be about the same as last year—from $1.25 to $1.50 for small trees and ranging upwards, a Canadian Press survey shows. In some areas prices may be higher because of heavy demand by United States buyers.

Manitobans still get the cheapest trees. On payment of 25 cents residents can troop down a tree of crown land. The provincial government laid out an area 30 miles east of Winnipeg where prospective buyers can cut their own spruce trees.

BUY SIX-FOOT TREES

The season's most expensive trees are probably 1,000 scotch pine now en route to Vesuvesta from Ontario. North Americans and Europeans living in the South American country paid $35 each for the six-foot trees which are individually boxed. The ends lid is refrigerated.

Canada exports an estimated 10,000,000 Christmas trees to the United States each season. Sales have grown rapidly since the end of the Second World War.

Quebec is cn: of the biggest producers. Officials said last year 4,-500,000 trees were cut, 3,719,000 being shipped out of the province. Most exported trees went to the United States.

Government officials estimate the export of trees earns Quebec operators more than $3,500,000 annually.

Prices are expected to be about the same as last year in most areas although they are up 25 cents in Montreal.

ONTARIO TREES

Newfoundland holds the title for the smallest number of exports. Exactly one tree was shipped privately to Cincinnati this year. Most selling is done by farmers who cut trees and sell them from door to door. Average price is $2.50.

Ontario exports 2,000,000 trees a year but no figures are available on domestic sales. Prices this year start at $1.25 for small trees, as in 1954.

British Columbia producers are looking for heavy demand from the northwestern United States. Freezing temperatures in Washington state have done an estimated $1,-

Jennifer Jones Wins 'Audie' Award for Role in Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The actress who was selected the most popular performance of the year was just as surprised by the honor as some of Hollywood.

Some 15,000,000 moviegoers, give or take a few hundred thousands, voted in the audience award poll, and Jennifer Jones came out on top for her role in "Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing."

"It was a real surprise," she says, "and a very nice one. It was a big thrill for me."

BIG IMPRESSION

In some ways, the "Audie" made more of an impression on her than the Oscar she won in 1944 for "Song of Bernadette."

"I was just starting in the business then," she explained. "When you're young and ambitious you don't fully realize some of the wonderful things that happen to you. You take them for granted.

"Now I realize the value of such things and appreciate them more."

Miss Jones said it was especially pleasant to be honored by the public after being "on the outside." What's This—a star admitting she has had flops?

"Oh sure," she said disarmingly. "I've had them — perhaps more flops than hits. It's discouraging to do something you hope is going to please everyone and then find out they don't like it. But there is one good thing — you always find someone who likes a picture you have done, no matter how big a flop it is. That's the strange thing about the movies."

Miss Jones has long been considered one of the most discerning of Hollywood stars, and she admitted that she didn't particularly care for publicity.

"I have no talent for it," she said candidly. "Some people do. But I don't give out anecdotes or tell stories about myself. I'm not misquoted. It's just that I feel I shouldn't have said those things. Then I get all stiff in conversation, but I shudder when I see them in black and white."

As a result, she is seldom interviewed, except occasionally on a movie set. She is being a quiet life with her husband, David O. Selznick, and their 5-year-old daughter, Mary Jennifer. She also has two sons by her first husband, Robert Walker Jr., 15 and Michael, 14.

Extends Lead In American League Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Zellio Toppazzini of Providence Reds increased his American Hockey League scoring lead to seven points during the week while teammate Paul Larivee and Buffalo's Andy Bathgate remained tied for second place.

The pint-sized winger scored six points last week to give him 19 goals and 22 assists for 41 points. Larivee and Wharram collected only two points each and share the runner-up spot with 34 points.

Pittsburgh's Willie Marshall and Camille Henry of Providence have each the most goals, 20 apiece, with Toppazzini and Wharram the top playmakers with 31 assists each.

Fred Glover of Cleveland has spent the most time in the penalty box, 82 minutes. Pittsburgh's Gil Mayer is the leading goalie with an average of 2.75 goals allowed per game.

600,000 damage to the evergreen industry.

The B.C. forest service estimates value of the annual Christmas tree business at $1,000,000. The average street-corner price is $1.50, about double the last year's level.

MARITIMES INDUSTRY

Steps have been taken to end Maritime tree shopping in Nova Scotia which last year exported 2,500,000 trees, most going to the United States. More than 1,000,000 trees went from New Brunswick and 1,000,000 from Quebec to the United States, but Mexico was also a buyer. The 1955 trade is expected to equal that in 1954.

Manitoba cutters will chop 30,-000 to 40,000 trees for sale in the United States and to those in the local market who do not want to cut their own.

Trees now are scarce in Saskatchewan but shipments from the Alberta foothills are expected to increase in the market. Prices are unchanged from last year, ranging between $1.25 and $1.50. Alberta's tree industry is small.

Balsam is the favorite Christmas tree in eastern Canada and many parts of the United States. Spruce has been the most popular in Ontario although pine is catching up. Douglas fir is the first choice of many persons on the west coast.

Officials say there has been a growing demand for younger, smaller trees by apartment dwellers.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Work is not so much what you do but with what attitude and will. Think before you speak.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — This is a good reviewing time; a period for some careful introspection. Family and private matters ask more thorough attention. It's your day to build for greater security.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — More things can be achieved than you may realize — but not if you are dilatory, tactless or hasty. Note others' suggestions without bias.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — There will be some unusual circumstances, events and/or offers due during the next couple of weeks. Be mindful how you conduct yourself, what offers you contemplate, and how you react to situations.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — It is often hard for one to realize the faults that most display to others. Review and consider all suggestions, hints. This is a period for cooperation.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — "Putting off" is not one Libra's errors as a rule, but you may be tempted in this direction. Check to see what is most urgent then proceed with determination, dignity.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Like Libra you may be tempted to put off matters and then become crowded later. Without overdoing it, start briskly, maintain a bright, even tempo, then really go when you should.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Pay heed to little things that could, if neglected, upset the applecart. Allocate duties in the order of their importance. And keep good humor on top.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Give and take in equal proportion? No, never figure it that way. Rather give more, and you will gain most in the end. Subordinate the material to the spiritual.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Take time to think things over before acting, to study details carefully. Extra thought and analysis of current problems needed, then due implementation.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Remember the details necessary to a finished whole. Do not expect too much from anyone. You can gain great happiness through giving — of time, energies, talents.

You born today have strong traits — determination, independence and reliability — that fit you for a position of trust and authority. Do not be too demanding or intolerant of others. You are generous and affable, and your ruling planet, Jupiter, has endowed you with optimism, compassion and spirituality. Some of our greatest church leaders were born under this Sign; also bankers, lawyers, statesmen. You should be very successful in outdoor activities. Higher education and reasoning are strongly promoted under the good aspects of your planet. Guard against unwise speculation and disregard of health.

Birthdate of: Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield, statesman-novelist; Albert Payson Terhune, author.

Ship Making For Iceland After Battering

LONDON (Reuters)—The British cargo ship Cairnavon (6,333 tons) informed Lloyd's here today that she was making for Iceland after a battering in an Atlantic storm.

She said her port lifeboat was lashed, fire had occurred in her stokehold and her chief steward needed medical attention. She expects to reach Reykjavik Thursday.

The Cairnavon left Montreal Dec. 7 with grain and general cargo. After battling through heavy pack ice at the mouth of the St. Lawrence river she ran into continuous severe weather.

Dairy Ordered To Give Up Milk Route

KITCHENER (CP)—The Ontario milk control board has ordered Dixon Dairy Products of Galt to give up a milk route which they pioneered in Waterloo township, a representative of the company said today.

The route of 50 homes will be divided up between dairies in Preston and Kitchener.

The Galt dairy put up a fight to maintain the route, the spokesman said. It took to the board a letter from township council indicating that in view of the long service to its patrons in the township, council had no objections to its selling milk in the township.

Postal Officials Deliver Letter To Right Person

ELMIRA (CP)—Postal officials in this town near Kitchener have decided life isn't always unverisian, despite a Christmas card received recently addressed: Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Floradale, Ont. (I think)."

They managed to deliver that one successfully, and Monday they received one addressed: "Mr. and Mrs. Bauman, Floradale, Ont." Turn left at the dam, the fourth house on the left side after you pass the double curve."

Despite the explicit directions, it was Mr. and Mrs. Bauman who had moved, and the card had to be rerouted.

AFRICAN VISITORS GREETED BY QUEEN IN LONDON

Colorfully dressed natives of the British West African colonies of Lagos and Nigeria are greeted by Queen Elizabeth during her visit to the British Council in London on the occasion of its 21st anniversary. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visited the council's student hostel, where $50 colonial men and women students are housed. The students shown are Flanlayo Williams, 23, of Lagos, left, and R. Sekoni, 24, of Ibadan, Nigeria. (Central Press Canadian).

Little Benny's Notebook

I was waiting along with Puds Simkins just waiting along, and Puds said, C'mon, I bet they still bleeve in Santa Claws.

Meaning 2 little kids looking like sisters holding hands and looking at the dolls and toys in the window of the Cut Rate Novelty Store, and I said, Oh boy let's have some fun, let's pretend we do too.

Meaning bleeve in Santa Claws, and we stopped alongside of them, and I said, Oh, I bet they can't write a letter to Santa Claws yet! No, we dont have to write to him this year, Puds said. Dont you remember, we met him at his house at the North Pole and told him everything we wanted, he said, and I said, O, that's right, we exercised his raindeers for him while he was busy making toys, so he wrote down everything we asked him for, so we wouldn't have to send him a letter.

And I looked at the 2 little kids and they were both staring at us as if they thought we were grate, and I said, Have you kids wrote to Santa Claws yet?

Oh, we dont have to write to him either, we know him, dont we Ellie? one of them said, and the other one said, Oh yes, he got stuck in our chimney last year, and we sent for the plummer to get him loose, and he told us we never need to write to him again, because he'll just read our thoughts every year, didn't he, Bella?

Oh yes, the first one said. So if you boys ever want special attention from him, just mention that you know Ella and Bella, she said.

Aw heck, Puds, let's go, I said. Which we did feeling diskusted.

Butler Is Named Deputy To Eden In Major Shuffle

Macmillan Heads Treasury Lloyd New Foreign Minister

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden announced a wholesale reshuffle of his government today, but the changes have received a mixed reception.

Eden put even cabinet portfolios into new hands, raised one department to cabinet rank and dropped another from the top fold.

Nine of Sir Anthony's innermost official family will stay where they were, and actually only three new men will join the cabinet.

Even some Conservative papers express doubts, and Labor organs jeer at what they interpret as a game of political chairs.

These are the most important changes:

1. Richard A. Butler goes from chancellor of the exchequer to government leader of the House of Commons. In effect he becomes deputy prime minister—a post for which he has been slated ever since the general election last May.

2. Foreign Minister Harold Macmillan succeeds Butler at the treasury.

3. Defence Minister Selwyn Lloyd takes over the foreign office from Macmillan, and Sir Walter Monckton—who has been labor minister—succeeds Lloyd in the defence job.

4. The works ministry is raised to cabinet status and Patrick Buchan-Hepburn, chief government floor leader in Commons, will become minister to replace Nigel Birch. The ministry of pensions has been dropped from the cabinet.

GO TO LORDS

Those removed from the cabinet—essentially men above 65—either go to the House of Lords or to higher titles if they already had peerages.

The shakeup was Eden's answer to increasing criticism from within headed by the Labor Opposition, of inflation on the home front and failure to cope with stepped-up Communist pressure abroad.

After serving as foreign secretary for eight months, Macmillan was under considerable fire even from many Conservatives. His critics accused him particularly of indecisiveness toward the growing crisis in the Middle East, where Arab nationalists are making an all-out bid to move in on the diplomatic and economic fronts.

Lloyd, 51 years old to Macmillan's 61, used to needle the Russians with the skill and effectiveness when he was second-in-command at the defence ministry years ago, and is expected to bring considerable color to a normally staid job.

PRESS COMMENT

The Daily Herald, champion of the Labor Opposition, terms the government reshuffle "more than overdue before" and added:

"It is a reshuffle for the times as were the governments of (Stanley) Baldwin and (Neville) Chamberlain, and it is a true Tory descendant of them both."

The Daily Mail, Conservative, comments somewhat skeptically: "The new team will have the new team imparts to the government a drive and a decision now lacking."

The Daily Sketch, Conservative, says the reported shifts may give "startle Parliament" but that the changes "will go far to strengthen the government."

Million Dollar Court Case Lost By Scrubwoman

TORONTO (CP)—A 57-year-old Irish scrubwoman who said she had scrimped and saved to fight a $1,000,000 action for land she claimed she owned near St. Catherine, lost her fight Tuesday.

Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court dismissed a claim for possession of the property by Mrs. Mary Murphy Finnegan of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Defendants were two third cousins, Frank Drus and Hollizar Wass, and Mrs. Adelina Shrysal, all of Grassthan township; a merchant, William H. Batcsie; the Jordan Wine Company; Dominion Natural Gas Company Ltd., and George A. Hack, the lodgment said.

Mrs. Finnegan claimed she is the legal owner of 242 acres of farm land in the St. Catharines district. She asked for a possession order, interlocutory rents of $6,300 and money spent for the care of her mother who died in 1943—$4,629.

Mr. Justice Wells dismissed all the claims.

W. J. Marr, Mrs. Finnegan's counsel, said the last part of the judgment will be appealed.

Mrs. Finnegan said she kept house for two bachelor uncles, Jack and Jim Nisbet, prior to 1912 when a mortgage holder foreclosed on part of the dairy farm.

She contended that 242 acres of the 500 acre farm had been left to her by her uncles.

Mr. Justice said the land is worth $4,000 an acre.

Mrs. Finnegan said life interests in the land by one of the uncles and her sister prevented her from laying legal claim to it until her mother's death.

The land has been sold and resold several times since 1917. Part of Mrs. Finnegan's evidence was where had been fraud involved about the time park-of the farm was sold to pay off the mortgage.

The tall, grey - haired grandmother said she had saved for two years to raise the $3,000 security required for the Ontario Supreme Court costs. Although Mrs. Finnegan has retained her Canadian citizenship, she lives in the United States.

Mrs. Finnegan said she kept house for her uncles when she was nine years old, after her mother, Mrs. Jane Murphy, suffered a stroke which left her partially ill.

OFFER 10,200,000 SHARES OF FORD STOCK TO PUBLIC

Heavy Market Demand For New Common Stock.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Ford Foundation will sell 10,200,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. stock next month, in the largest equity stock issue in history.

A statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission today disclosed a boost in the planned amount of the public offering. Earlier, planning had been on the basis of sale of about seven million shares.

The new firm told the SEC its earnings in the first nine months of 1955 were a record-smashing $312,000,000.

The registration statement, barring financial records of the 52-year-old company for the first time, listed a surplus—total capital and earnings retained in the business—at $1,840,000,000.

HEAVY DEMAND

The registration evidently made a last-minute decision to boost the amount of the public offering because of indications of heavy market demand for the new common stock, which carries voting rights.

Heretofore, sole voting power has resided in the family and heirs of the late Henry Ford.

The stock sale means a shift from private to public ownership, and the registration statement includes a request for federal approval for public sale of the stock.

Actual filing of the statement with the SEC was made by Ford Motor Co., but management of the petition was issued simultaneously in a dozen cities.

STOCK DIVIDEND

The statement advised the SEC that the company's directors have decided to declare a dividend of 60 cents a share in the first quarter of 1956.

On this basis, the stock would pay $2.40 a year.

The registration statement said, however, that later dividends will vary subject to business conditions and the operating and financial position of the company.".

The estimated record for the first nine months of 1955 showed earnings amounting to $5.83 a share.

The offering price of the stock will be reported to SEC later—probably after the close of the first profitable date on which the stock will be sold by some 700 brokers and dealers throughout the United States.

WEAKER TONE

Speculation on the price has ranged as high as $75 a share, although a price of $60 per share is the estimate would receive three-quarters of a billion dollars in cash for reinvestment.

Several times, the offering represents only about 22 per cent of the Ford stock holdings of the fabulously wealthy Ford family.

The prospectus disclosed that individuals controlled 22.5 per cent share of the capital stock outstanding on Dec. 1, have been paid so far in 1955.

Of this amount, $1.31 a share was considered extra dividends.

'Black Magic Spirits' Are So Strong One Visit by Priests Not Full Cure

LONDON (Reuters) — Ghosts—"black magic spirits"—have invaded a 20-room mansion in Highgate, a suburb of London, causing the well-to-do widow who owns the place.

Mrs. Doris Hatton-Wood believes that for the last three years—ever since she was widowed, in fact—the 40-year-old mansion has been haunted. Her problem is not so strong" that even two priests could not exercise them.

Mrs. Hatton-Wood's mysterious bloodstains on the wall, the widow's housekeeper, Mrs. Winifred Allsop, said firmly. "We didn't imagine it. I saw them myself. I discovered them. They were running down the duck-egg-blue walls."

And a large oil painting mysteriously "hurled itself" at Mrs. Hatton-Wood as she passed it on the stairs. "That painting was secured by two chains," she said.

There are said to be strange footsteps, weird banglight which seem to come from between the walls, a chair which was having been dragged across the floors, an apparition of a Corgi dog, glassware and cutlery flying.

Mrs. Hatton-Wood said that when she could bear it no longer she wrote to Rev. Gilbert Shaw, "a priest active in combatting black magic."

Two weeks ago Father Shaw, in black cassock and accompanied by the father superior of a monastery, paid a visit to the old mansion.

They sprinkled holy water over the rooms and the grounds of the house.

"Things are a bit better now," Mrs. Hatton-Wood said today, "but we still hear the strange sounds. I intend to write to the priests again. I hope they will come back."

TRUMPETER SWAN DIES

A trumpeter swan, brought to the Stanley Park Zoo at Vancouver with a broken wing, is examined by Dr. Richard E. Drew and nurse Mrs. Grace Prosser in Vancouver pet hospital. The rare bird later died in the zoo hospital.

The swan was brought to the zoo from Vancouver Island after an eight-inch silver of wood pierced its wing. There are only about 900 to 1,200 trumpeter swans left in Canada. (CP Photo).

Unemployment Agreements Signed by Two Provinces

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal-provincial agreements on unemployment have been signed by two provinces and likely will be signed by at least six more.

Draft agreements—drawn up after a series of federal-provincial conferences followed by later provincial representations—have been sent out to all the provinces for study.

It was learned Tuesday that two provincial governments have signed. Quebec is not expected to enter the agreement and Ontario is still a question mark. But federal negotiators are that the other provinces will sign.

Under the contracts the federal government is to absorb half the cost of unemployment insurance in any province when the number of the province's jobless exceeds .45 per cent of its population.

The federal share of relief is generally intended to cover persons who are out of work but unable to qualify for unemployment insurance.

Officials said that while the contracts incorporated some concessions in line with provincial views, the fundamental basis of federal contributions is essentially that laid down originally by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Two changes, it was learned, involve the eligibility for relief payments of persons getting some forms of institutional care and receiving occasional municipal relief. Initially barred by the federal government—along with recipients of old age pensions, unemployment insurance and blind and disabled assistance—they will, in line with provincial views, be able to qualify for the federal aid.

The federal government had left it be known about two weeks ago it would send a delegation to Ottawa to press for a different setup. Authorities here have since received no word of any delegation coming, but there were no predictions here that Ontario would be satisfied.

However, the provincial governments can enter the agreement at any time in the next few months. They also have the option of making the federal aid retroactive to the start of any quarter year back to last July 1.

'Long Period of Patience' Required Says Lester Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson says the West has not abandoned hope for German reunification but it might require "a long period of patience."

"We must't assume that anything is finally fixed in Russian policy," the minister—back from last week's NATO council meeting at Paris—told a press conference Tuesday he didn't believe the situation had hardened to such an extent there was no way around the problem.

The Russians had changed their tactics before, he said. Last week, for example, they agreed to admit 16 new members to the United Nations after originally declaring themselves for "18 or none."

In a statement issued at the conference, he said: "They (the Russians) are not merely opposed to German reunification on Western leadership in NATO. They would not even be satisfied with a 'neutralized' Germany whatever that may mean.

"Their present price for German reunification (at the Geneva Big Four foreign ministers conference) was a fully Communist state.

"Therefore, it was obvious they would not permit free elections," the minister said.

Mr. Pearson told the press conference that German representatives give the NATO council full assurances that West Germany would continue to support the West's policy of free elections for a reunified Germany and German association with NATO.

He said the council had pledged its support to West Germany in its policy that there should be no recognition of Communist East Germany and that Bonn was the only lecitimate German government. This had spiked stories that the West's stand on Germany was weakening.

Mr. Pearson said encouraging progress was made in political consultation at the Paris gathering. There had also been "quite a good discussion" on economic cooperation and it was agreed that the NATO council could be used for discussion of such matters as trade between the East and West and trade among the Western nations.

On the military side, the consensus was that the defence effort, in terms of money, was "pretty well established" and the problem now is one of priority. There had been no mention of the possibility of a shift in NATO forces.

Preliminary consideration was given to the possibility of enlargement the council in view of the admittance of 16 new members to the UN.

JORDAN ELECTION TO DECIDE ISSUE OF BAGHDAD PACT

King Indicates Fate Will Depend on Vote

By ROBERT HEWETT

Amman, Jordan (AP) — Young King Hussein counted today on the elder statesman Ibrahim Hashim to calm Jordan Arabs rioting against proposals to join their country to the western-sponsored Baghdad alliance.

The 21-year-old king asked Hashim, 81 and a former premier, to form a caretaker government and prepare for parliamentary elections within four months in this country torn by violence.

The king issued a proclamation indicating that the vote would accept or reject the Baghdad pact.

RIOTS BREAK OUT

The king dissolved parliament and ordered the new elections earlier this week after the rioting broke out. Hazza el Majali resigned as premier, causing the second government change over the issue in less than a week.

Britain has offered to supply Jordan with new heavy arms and jet fighter planes provided the government adheres to the pact. The British proposal aroused widespread suspicion that it was the first step toward forcing Jordan to abandon her cause—the return of Arab lands mushroomed in Jordan cities, from Amman to the old city of Jerusalem. .

Foreign diplomats estimated at least 50 persons have been killed and more than 100 wounded.

Special Squad Will Check On Office Drinkers

TORONTO (CP) —A special squad of about 100 police constables will move into the downtown area Friday around hotels, clubs, bars and business establishments.

Their objective is the office drinker.

Traffic inspector Robert Kerr said Tuesday the men will work under their belt who try to get into their cars will be stopped and charged with drunk.

If the motorist is not in too bad condition, constables have been instructed to put him in a cab and send him home. Otherwise, he will be locked up as a common drunk, inspector Kerr said.

A justice of the peace has been assigned to all night duty so the driver can be bailed out when he sobers up.

Inspector Kerr said many local companies have either cancelled office parties or switched to the noon-hour. Some since the office party drive started two years ago.

Clear and Cold and More to Come, Weather Leaves Canadians Numb

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winter continued to drive Canada today with frigid readings everywhere but the Pacific coast.

The white-cover storm struck officially Thursday. But as far as most Canadians are concerned—as they survey stalled autos, chafe numb noses and shudder before razor-sharp winds—it's been here.

The story's the same from chilled Charlottetown to shivering Saskatoon — clear and cold and more of the same.

Here's a sampling of the maximum temperatures predicted for today: Charlottetown 8 above; Halifax 12; Fredericton; -1; Quebec -10; Montreal -7; Ottawa -10; Toronto 0; Winnipeg -1; Saskatoon -15; Edmonton 2.

Only the British Columbia coast enjoyed moderate weather with 42 predicted for Vancouver and 44 for Victoria. At the other extreme Dawson, in the Yukon, was promising 54 below and Churchill, Man., 25 below.

Seventeen Persons Die In Wreckage Of Florida Crash

Plane Heading for Runway Brushes Tops of Pine Trees

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Seventeen persons died in the flaming wreckage of an Eastern Air Lines Constellation which crashed near the Jacksonville airport early today.

There were no survivors among the passengers and its five crew members.

Eastern Air Lines at New York listed the names of 11 passengers. A child was also believed to have been aboard.

Also aboard the plane was the body of a man being sent north for burial.

The plane, flight 642 from Miami to New York and Boston, crashed and burst into flames after approximately breaking through the tops of tall pine trees about a quarter of a mile from the end of a runway for which it seemed to be headed.

The plane crashed in an area about 1,000 feet from the runway, reaching a height of about 50 feet. Only a few flames are in the area near which the Constellation struck about 3:45 a. m. EST.

WRECKAGE WIDESPREAD

Wreckage was strewn along a path of about 300 yards. The cabin and other pieces of the wreckage was still burning when the first plane flared up. Police said "there was no chance at all" that anyone aboard the plane could have escaped.

Eastern Air Lines said here that the last report from the plane was received a few minutes before the crash and that the report said only that the plane was preparing to make its scheduled landing. The plane had reported no trouble on its flight from Miami.

William Hess, a foundry worker, said he heard the plane as it approached the runway and that its engines sounded in good mechanical condition.

"It appeared to hit the top of three pine trees only about 50 feet from where I was standing," he said.

English Couple Being Returned To Stand Trial

TORONTO (CP) — An English couple, arrested in Liverpool, England, under the Fugitive Offenders Act, appeared briefly in court on $2,200 from the man's Canadian sponsor before being flown to Toronto for trial, police said Tuesday.

Arthur Thomas Reilly, 28 years, his wife Irene, 24, are to arrive in Halifax Friday. They will be met by Toronto police.

Reilly worked for three years as an upholsterer for a Toronto store firm. He quit his job suddenly last October, and left with his wife for England from Montreal.

Shortly after he left, his employer found $17,000 was missing.

They fought extradition on the theft charge, but two weeks ago their appeal was dismissed by a London high court.

Princess Top World News Personality

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Princess Margaret was the top world news personality of 1955.

Telegraph editors of Canadian daily newspapers, asked by The Canadian Press to choose the world's newsiest figure of the year, picked the Queen's sister by a more than 4-to-1 margin over President Eisenhower, their second choice.

The selection was a direct reflection of two spectacular news events—the princess' refusal to wed Peter Townsend and the president's heart attack. These stories also dominated the poll for last year's biggest news breaks.

Newsmen's choice was L. B. (Mike) Pearson, the country's minister of external affairs, but Princess thus resumed the spot he occupied through four years—1950-53 —until displaced last year by swimmer Marilyn Bell.

Miss Bell was second this year, finishing well ahead of Walter Gellhorn, Vancouver's deposed police chief. Hon. C. D. Howe, conservative leader Drew, Maurice Richard, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Fisheries Minister Sinclair were others in the running.

Belleville, however, was not the coldest place in the county. Bancroft again took the honor, with a 21 below recording. The northern village warmed up a little Tuesday, after a depressing 31 below recording on Monday night.

At RCAF Station, Trenton, the low for the night was —14 degrees.

Yuletide Party Of 40 Club Much Enjoyed

With all the Christmas trimmings, both around the turkey and in the general atmosphere, members of the Belleville Club 40 celebrated their annual Yuletide party at the Moose Hall recently.

Special guests at the entertainment were some handicapped children and members of the Belleville Handicapped and Disabled Club.

Festooned in paper hats and the regular party paraphernalia, the guests were treated to a turkey supper with all the "trimmin's" served under the direction of social chairman Laurie Towner and director of the club Helen Ackerman.

A special variety program was presented by local talent, with Francis Rudman acting as chairman.

The entertainment banner was carried by Hugo Diggins and his orchestra, who opened the show with several selections.

The remaining half of the program was given by Freddie Smith and her dancing school pupils. Taking part in the dance numbers were members of the Dornal Caul, Beverley Vogelsang, Francis Rudman, Edgar Nelson and Judy Gill, Sharon Archer and Freddine Smith.

Sharon Bushlow and Audrey Sharpe drew tickets in the turkey draw, and Santa Claus and helpers were won by Helen Ackerman, Mrs. Hugh Reid and David Rayburn.

Transportation to and from the hall was provided for club members by Jack Bush and Orland Pinkston.

Large bags of candy were distributed to the children while coffee and tea were exchanged.

A vote of thanks to the organizers of the party was expressed by Mrs. William Savage.

Brewers' Staff Children Enjoy Christmas Party

Christmas parties among staffs in various industries and stores are the order of the day and a delightful one was held on Sunday at the new Columbus hall on Dundas street, when the children of the members of the staff of the Brewers Retailing Company Ltd. were entertained and visited by Santa Claus. Members and their wives and children were present from Trenton, Tweed, Picton, Napanee and Belleville and were welcomed by Ted Jones, district manager of the company.

In charge of the arrangements were Richard McLaughlin, president of the recreational committee and an energetic committee. After Santa had made his appearance, members of the committee assisted the jolly old man in distributing gifts to every child present.

At the conclusion of the party the staff members enjoyed a social hour before departure to their several homes.

Tenant Suffers When Tap Is Left Running

Safety precautions on the part of an upstairs tenant on East Bridge Street, who left the tap running last night to prevent the water pipes freezing, spelled trouble for the tenant below.

What the upstairs tenant failed to realize was that drain pipes can also become stopped up with the cold weather, and that was just what happened.

During the 17 degrees below temperature the drain pipe closed up with the result that the water backed up through the downstairs sink trap and flooded out onto the kitchen floor.

WESLEY WILSON
(Campbellford)

Funeral services were conducted on Monday for Wesley Wilson, 76, who was instantly killed on Friday night about 8 p.m.

Mr. Wilson had gone to visit a neighbor, George Atkinson, who lives a short distance from his home on Highway No. 30, about two miles west of the town limits. He had been gone about an hour when Mrs. Wilson noticed cars travelling at a great speed along the highway outside the house. She phoned Mr. Atkinson and was told her husband had left about 10 minutes previously. She then went outside and found that it was her husband who had been killed.

He had apparently been out on the highway when a car driven by Donald Nicholson, 23, of Front St., Campbellford, hit him. Chief Constable George Rose of Campbellford was the first police officer to arrive on the scene. He summoned the coroner, D. W. Burgess who pronounced the man dead. Mr. Wilson's body had been carried or dragged about 150 feet from the impact.

Mr. Wilson was born in Meyersburg, son of James Morton Wilson and Elizabeth Ann Rose.

Surviving besides his wife, the former Daisy Davis, are two daughters, Mrs. Edgar Nelson and Mrs. Peter Russell (Ruth) of Peterborough, and one son, William Jr. of Peterborough. He also leaves a brother, Alfred Wilson, and an aunt, Miss Lydia Rose, both of Campbellford.

Mr. Wilson was formed for a living and attended the United Church of Campbellford.

Services were conducted from Bennett's funeral home on Monday, with Dr. D. B. Smith officiating. His body was placed in a vault and will be removed in the Spring for burial in Warkworth cemetery.

Chief Operator Of Cafeteria Hired by Board

Mrs. A. L. Roper, R.R. 1 Carrying Place, has been named as the chief operator of the new Bellville Collegiate cafeteria, which will go into operation at the commencement of the January school term. Cafeteria assistant will be Mrs. Clifford Ray of Wallbridge.

Operators of the new cafeteria were decided at the December meeting of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

In preparation for the opening of the new cafeteria the north and south entrances on the east side of the collegiate will be re-decorated as will one basement classroom now used as a second motor mechanics room.

The December meeting of the board was one of the shortest of the year with the small amount of business transacted being quickly.

Letters will go out to all school bus operators informing them that they must unload school students on the compass at the Quinte Secondary School and not on College street as has been customary with some. Board officials said that College street was too narrow to allow unloading of buses on the street.

The city police will be asked to check with a radar speed stand at the corner of College and North Park streets to determine if this constitutes a traffic hazard.

Ontario provincial police have completed a survey of all school buses and a favorable report has been received on all 14 buses with a few minor details to be looked after.

The board approved of opening a stationary engineering class, title to be changed in connection with night school courses.

Representatives of the high school board, the city department of health and the city council will confer with the Ontario Department of Health with the view of securing additional health services for the two local high schools.

Members of the board planning committee have conferred with Dr. K. E. Eaton, chief superintendent of Education, regarding additional school accommodation and the type of accommodation which will be required by September 1957 for high school students at Belleville.

The board took no action on salaries for local high school staff —that matter being held over until the January meeting.

Board member George Wishart expressed appreciation on the part of the board to board chairman Roy Sills for his interest in the work of the board during the year. In turn Mr. Sills thanked members for their co-operation.

The inaugural meeting of the 1956 board will be held on January 11th.

He succeeds Donald W. Kingdon who recently accepted the position of general manager of the Lake Ontario Region Development Association. Mr. Hamilton will start work in Belleville January 1st.

Mr. Hamilton succeeded Mr. Kingdon as assistant manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce three years ago when Mr. Kingdon came to Belleville.

Mr. Hamilton was born in Riverhurst, Sask. During World War II he served in the RCNVR until transferred to the Fleet Air Arm in 1946 when he went overseas. He served in England and in Scotland as an air frame mechanic until his discharge in 1947.

On his return to Canada he worked for the Massey-Harris company in Moose Jaw, Sask. for a time before coming to eastern Canada.

He has completed the two-year course at McMaster University, Hamilton, and the Ryerson Institute of Technology, Toronto, London, for Chamber of Commerce secretaries and managers of Boards of Trade.

While in Peterborough he was a member of the Board of Stewards of Knox United Church; vice-president of the Kinsmen Club and vice-president of the Ornamental Swimming Club.

Winter Begins On Thursday

Today, December 21st, is not the first day of winter.

According to the stars, winter begins this year on December 22nd at 10.12 a.m.

This is not an attempt to disrupt the nursery rhymes of the past three months and it's winter is here, can spring be far behind?

Those of you who have been shovelling autumn's debris from the sidewalks can rest your shovel handle until 10.12 a.m. tomorrow. There is no point in using winter's chores until winter arrives.

The Ontario Intelligencer is happy to be able to postpone our severe winter by a day.

4-H Calf Club Members Honored By Kiwanians

Kiwanis yesterday literally clapped the lid on another year of club activity at the annual club Christmas party.

And everybody got a part of the applause was outgoing club president Staff McKenzie.

One of the brightest wits of the club, president McKenna, fairly dishtobe himself at his best of chairmanship of club dinners for 1955.

For nearly an hour president McKenna kept Kiwanians literally in stitches with his needle-sharp wit as he performed his final function of the year, when the presentation of Christmas gifts to the club, he succeeded as president by Al Drysdale.

More on the serious side was the annual presentation of 4-H Club trophies to top point-winners of district 4-H Calf Clubs, handled by Ken Burkett, chairman of the Agricultural and Conservation Committee.

Winners of the trophies were year-old Carolyn Thompson, Corbyville, Quinte Secondary School pupil and Lloyd Spencer, 12, of the Hillier and Ameliasburg Calf Club.

Said Mr. Burkett in announcing the awards: "These trophies represent in a tangible way the interest of Kiwanis in the youth of our district."

He also expressed the thanks of the club to A. O. Dalrymple, and the executive agricultural representatives for the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, for their co-operation with the club in its project.

The presentations were made by president McKenna and president-elect Al Drysdale.

The traditional turkey dinner was served by Ivan Shuh for the event, while Vic White led the members in carol singing.

Firemen Busy With Four Alarms

Two defective chimneys, an oven-heated stove and a careless smoker called city firemen out in sub-zero weather last night and early this morning on alarms.

Late last night the reels were called to 1063 Bleecker Ave. where shingles on the roof had caught fire from the chimney. Damage was held to a few burned shingles, firemen said.

Early this morning firemen were called to 280½ Front Street where bedclothes were reported ablaze. A careless smoker was believed to have been the cause of the blaze.

A second chimney fire at Clare's Coffee Shop on Front Bridge Road called firemen out shortly after eight this morning while a few minutes before nine o'clock the reels were called to North Pan Street for an overheated stove.

Legal Manoeuvres Irk Sen. Fraser, H.J. McFarland

TRENTON (CP)—Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton, cited by the town for contempt of court in a legal battle it is waging with a Picton contractor, said today he is "through doing things for this town."

Trenton Tuesday moved to have Senator Fraser jailed for contempt because he did not attend a hearing in Belleville in connection with legal proceedings lodged against the town by Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton.

The town also has appealed to the Supreme Court of Ontario to have Mayor McFarland, a wealthy contractor, jailed for contempt.

Senator Fraser estimated he has given $50,000 worth of land to encourage industries in Trenton. The council, he said, is "permeated with hatred" against him.

"I don't mind what they do to me, but they are hurting the town."

The hearing was scheduled in connection with mayor McFarland's suit for an injunction to set aside an agreement between Trenton and the Central Bridge Company.

Under the agreement the company has permission to use a right-of-way on land owned by Mayor McFarland. The mayor sought an injunction, claiming the agreement lowers the value of his property.

Mayor McFarland said today he "would have given them the land if they had come to me and asked for it in a decent manner."

"But when they start to push me around, I fight back. I'll take this case to the Supreme Court before I give in on it."

The mayor and Senator Fraser said they did not attend the hearing because of a technical defect in service of their subpoenas.

Lawyers for the town and Mayor McFarland said the motions for committal to jail were legal maneuvers and agreed there was no chance that either would be sent to jail.

The Supreme Court has adjourned hearing the town's motion to have Mayor McFarland jailed. Court officials said it is unlikely either motion will be heard before the new year.

Used Dog House Urgently Wanted For Greyhound

Queenie is a beauty, but she has a tragedy. A lithe, fawn-colored greyhound, she is about a year old. About seven weeks ago she was found on a city doorstep and wound up in the city dog pound.

About three weeks later she had a litter of 11 pups.

City dog catcher Charles Thorne did what he could to keep the pups alive in winter temperatures. However, after about four days, the entire litter froze to death in the dog pound, owing to inadequate heating facilities.

Now Queenie has been happily placed in a home on the Foxboro Road, but one thing is missing for her — a kennel.

Today an appeal was issued for a dog house for the greyhound by Mrs. W. A. Gardiner, president of the Humane Society.

It is possible there are several families in the city who once had a dog and a kennel for it, but which is now lying unused in their backyards.

If such a possibility does exist, Mrs. Gardiner would like to know of it.

She said she can be contacted at her home at 323 Foster Ave. Telephone number is WO 8-5263.

UNSUITABLE PROGRAM

Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, as has been the custom of recent British monarchs, will make a Christmas Day broadcast to the people of the Commonwealth. Her broadcast will be heard in Ontario at 10 a.m.

For an hour preceding the broadcast there will be a round-the-world broadcast originating in many countries of the Commonwealth. Theme of this broadcast is a review of the scientific advances of countries in the Commonwealth during 1956. Speakers will be: Sir Edmund Hillary, first man to climb Mount Everest; Prof. J. H. Bhabbo, Indian physicist who presided at the Geneva atomic energy conference; Sir John Cockroft, head of Britain's atomic research station; Sir Edward Appleton, principal of Edinburgh University; Prof. A. C. B. Lovell, first professor of radio astronomy in the world and head of the Manchester University research station; John Gilby, of Canada, who will discuss the growing of crops in the Arctic. Other speakers from Australia, Ceylon, Pakistan and Africa will discuss other scientific developments.

These learned speakers will, undoubtedly, provide an interesting 60 minutes for those inclined to science or to one or other aspects of science under discussion.

But why should it be scheduled for Christmas Day, however, is a mystery. It bears no relation whatever to the subject of Christmas. It does not develop any aspect of the Christmas theme; adds nothing about the real meaning of Christmas. In short, it is most inappropriate.

Christmas themes suitable for a Commonwealth broadcast are available in almost infinite variety. The message of peace; the spirit of sacrifice, the brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God, the strength and family ties are but a few of the thoughts associated with the real meaning of Christmas which are of world-wide concern and which could draw favorable and appropriate comment from the multiple races and religious groups within the Commonwealth.

Canada, certainly, should be able to provide a more appropriate Christmas broadcast on the subject of wealth than comment on the growth of crops in the Arctic or sub-Arctic.

The proposed recitation of scientific achievements is a laudable year-end project. It is out of place as a Commonwealth Christmas broadcast.

SPINSTERS CELEBRATE

In France, spinsters celebrate being spinsters.

On November 25th each year seamstresses from the fashion houses of Paris, wearing their new frocks, and extravagant bonnets, attend a special church service and an annual luncheon given by couturiers to the backroom girls. By tradition, only unmarried sewing girls over 25 are allowed to take part in the festivities and to call themselves "Catherinettes" in honor of St. Catherine, patron saint of spinsters.

The fact that spinsters do not spin on November 25th stirs suspicion amongst the suspicious.

It is all very well to jest about the improbability of any unmarried girl admitting to more than 25 years but the cruel fact remains that in France, they do. The tone of the celebration may or may not be keyed to the church service, but the luncheon, a wedding, is nevertheless replete with repeated "Ah men's."

While spinster seamstresses seem to celebrate, there is a certain pathos about the plan perceptible in their preparations. What better way is there to attract attention than a party? And what is more likely to attract attention than a party for spinsters?

Eligible Parisian males should take warning on November 25th; celebrating spinsters are really just setting their caps for matrimony and rehearsing that long walk down the aisle. It is more than likely that the "Catherinettes" on November 25th are building their annual version of a spinsters' "stag party."

TIME PAYMENT PLAN

William Kelly, a bashful Negro truck driver in Memphis, Tennessee, brought his wife's Christmas present home on November 1st.

The gift—a $395 cocktail watch.

For husbands, wives and watch salesmen this seems like a pluperfect arrangement although the element of surprise has been forfeited.

The surprise, however, is that Willie bought the watch in September 1944 when he made a $2 down payment and asked the store to hold it. He hoped to pay for the watch by the following Christmas. He failed. He set his sights for the following Christmas. It has been "next Christmas" ever since.

By the end of 1955 Willie had chipped in $238.91 towards the cost of the watch. The jeweller, long since fascinated by the marathon layaway plan, made a definite commitment to hold the watch forever if necessary.

A columnist, hearing of Willie's race against time payments, dropped an item in his column that brought in $105.50 in contributions. The new money, plus Willie's 11-year payments, were enough to get the watch from the jeweller's show case to Mrs. Kelly's wrist encumbered only with a mortgage of $56.94—the balance owing on the original cost of the watch and lapse of 11 years.

Which just proves, again, that love is timeless.

JUST FOLKS

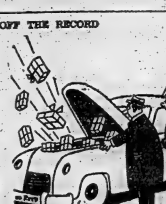
CHILD AND A WATCH



He gave his child a watch to play with,
I think to quell his constant clamor.
A watch to tell the time of day
The youngster bit it with a hammer.

The little wheels and springs went flying,
And ne'er again could they be righted.
With such a sport, there's no denying,
The little fellow was delighted!

To find that bright and glittering say thing
He raised the hammer high above it,
Though 'twas a most expensive plaything.
He didn't know the value of it.

That night the father muttered sadly:
(I quote his comment to the letter)
"Although he used my good watch badly,
The little rascal knew no better."

God gives us all a life to play with
And we misuse it, though we love it.
But oh, too oft it's done away with Before we've learned the value of it.

"Well, living the way we do in a trailer, it's hard for me to find a place to hide the presents from the children."

English Is Confusing

(By W. F., in Providence, R.I., Bulletin)

Arabic, Chinese and Sanskrit may be difficult. But when it comes to confusions and inconsistencies it's doubtful whether any language in the world can touch the one we use.

We had a Belgian at college who had learned English in his native land. One day the Belgian volunteered a boast that he was learning English the one word that caused him more trouble than any other was "fast".

This was a surprise. Had any of us been asked to name a list of the 100 most confusing words in the language I'm sure that the word "fast" would have appeared.

"You may say the horse is fast" and mean that the horse is tied to a hitching post", he explained. "You may say 'the horse is fast' and mean that the horse is capable of moving rapidly. Finally you may say 'the horse is on a fast' and you mean it isn't eating anything."

Chinese is supposed to be extremely difficult because the same word uttered in two different tones may mean two entirely different things.

But don't think that Chinese is the only tongue in which tonal values change the meaning of the word. We have them in colloquial American, too.

Consider the slang word "yeah" for example.

In a straight answer to a straight question it may mean simply "yes" as in reply to the question: "Are you going down town?"

Match with a rising intonation and a question mark at the end "yeah?" may mean "Do you really mean it?" as in reply to: "Sez he bought a $100 dress for the dance".

Parents of teen agers can recognize another value for "yeah" This is the one delivered with a long, dismal sigh in response to such a question as: "Are you going to do your homework tonight?" This "yeah" really means: "I suppose I'll have to but I'd much rather stay here and watch television."

There are plenty of other confusions.

We'll begin with a box and the plural is boxen.

But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.

One foot is called goose but two are called geese.

Yet the plural of moose should never be meese.

If the plural of man is always called men,

Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?

If I speak of a foot and you show me your feet,

And if give you a boot would a pair be called beet?

We speak of a brother and also of brethren,

But though we say mother we never say methren.

Then the masculine pronouns are he, him and his,

But imagine the feminine she, shim and shis.

Russia-East or West?

(Edmonton Journal)

Nikita Khrushchev seems to be in some doubt whether the country he rules is part of Europe or Asia—to one of his speeches in Burma he denounced British "colonizers," and declared that he represented "native of a European nation," he and Bulganin were thoroughly ashamed of what "those other Europeans" had done. Yet a little later he reversed himself and declaimed that Russia was more Asiatic than European.

His confusion is shared by Western peoples generally, who have always been in doubt as to whether to consider the Russians as a European or an Asiatic people.

In fact, however, there does not seem to be much doubt about the matter. By most of the basic tests the Russians belong to the West, not the East. In physical appearance, the great majority are definitely of European type. Any of the present Soviet leaders could walk down the main street of any North European or North American city without attracting any attention, whereas anyone from the Far East would immediately stand out as a foreigner. Russian language is not a dialect of the Slavic sub-group of the Indo-European family; it is considerably more like German and English, and far removed from the Chinese, Japanese or Arabic. For a thousand years before the 1917 revolution, Russia was part of Christian religion, and despite persecution, it is still wide-spread and strong.

Besides these fundamental links, almost all Russia's cultural contacts have been with European countries. When the Russian people first began to read, they eagerly borrowed the arts and institutions of civilization from Scandinavia and medieval Europe. Then, during the Seventeenth Century on, they looked to Western Europe. Germany and France, in particular, provided the models for Russian government, social administration, laws, industrial organization, education, science, literature, and—at last in their more formal phases —art and music. Even the ideas on which the Russian Revolution is based were formulated by a German Jewish intellectual, and put into practice by Russian exiles in Western Europe and America. On the other hand, the borrowings from the Far East, India or the Moslem world are so small as to be almost negligible, and none of these Asiatic influences ever penetrated or had any influence on either the thinking of the ruling classes or the life and customs of ordinary people. To take one homely example, while the excellent sausages and dances of Russian peasants are as remote as possible from the pedantic intricate music and dancing of China, Japan or India.

What makes the Russians seem strange and alien to us is not hardly be any Asiatic streak in their make-up. More probably it is their unfortunate habit, throughout their history, of taking the current fads and follies of Western Europe and adopting them in their most extreme form, with little understanding. When Russia first emerged as an organized state, for example, Christianity was being split from top to bottom throughout Europe; so the Russian Church became the most rigid and irresponsible ruler of all. This has been the pattern of Russian life ever since. Fashion of politics, religion and literature. In our own time, when Communism was the associated forms of totalitarianism became fashionable among Europe's "Asiatic fringe." It remained for Russian revolutionists to put these things into effect with a relentless logic which horrified the rest of the world, including many of the ideas' originators.

Can it be that one reason so many historians prefer to think of Russia as something alien and Oriental is because it is really a sort of distorting mirror in which we see ourselves in an exaggerated form?

Find Hobbies Really Pay

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

While much has been written about the famed "$64,000 Question" television show, which is now in its inception last summer, it continues to hold a high position of popularity for its half-hour duration. Aside from the interesting knowledge displayed by the contestants, the most amazing of all is the strange categories into which they fall.

Apparently to get on this program, he first thing a man must have an outstanding knowledge of a certain subject, which has become his pet study or hobby for years — but the hobbies are legion. Some of the persons never seem to go hand in hand. The big money in the show was won for the first time the $64,000 was won by a rugged looking Marine sergeant who answered questions on cooking, while the second time it was won by a pretty female psychologist whose category was boxing.

Other big money winners, who didn't look the part, were a policeman on Shakespeare, a cellist on opera, an elderly housekeeper on baseball, a church minister on jazz, a former Navy man on women's history, a coal miner on the Bible, and a boy on the contents of pockets to mention but a few. Hobbies, obviously, are a true reflection of men when they seem forlorn on a person's nature or regular employment!

Skirts Disappear
(Bowmanville Statesman)

With small boys in long pants and grown men in knee pants and women wearing pants in all occasions, it's got so you can't tell either the sex or age of the opposite. At least that was the thought that went through our minds while watching 800 young people skating at the rink. Didn't see one girl wear a skirt!

OUTLETS

For a long time, as a boy, I wondered why the Dead Sea was so named. Later learned it was so because it had no outlet. So, for all practical purposes, it was dead. Just a great pool of water with no life in it.

I wonder if that is not the way with many individuals who become confused because of no outlets—no hobbies, no simple pleasures, no special interests to stir the mind and arouse it to pleasant actions.

It's the outlets to our inner lives of water, our streams and seas, that bring us our fruitful fields and abundant harvests as well as the water which we drink in our homes. We are born with that precious substance—energy. Where does it go, what would we amount to, were it not that a healthy energy to accomplish things?

A vacation is an outlet, and a very important one, for no one can devote all his time to work without some play and recreation thrown in as a relief. A hobby, a favorite interest, not only sweeps out the mind of unwholesome and harmful cobwebs, but it is a preventive of many outlets. We become bored with the most interesting people, no matter what they collected—books, stamps, art, old furniture, antiques or records or antiques.

Surely one of us needs to have many outlets. I have looked with wonder and admiration upon the collections of Grandma Moses, who never did say painting until she was in the 70s or 80s or seventy! And she is still at it in her nineties!

Outlets through the means of outdoor sports, golf, tennis, hunting and fishing, help to give those who participate relief from tension and a chance to renew their health and vigor. Hobbies, reading and books are through pleasant companionship. One "Dead Sea" in the world is enough!

Unbidden Guests

Americans who have lived in Japan warned a missionary teacher who is going there not to eat raw vegetables unless she first soaks them in permanganate solution, otherwise she will develop worms, because human excrement is still widely used as fertilizer in Japan and China. Others say that thorough washing with soap and water is enough. They also say fresh fruit eaten uncooked needs the same treatment because fruit may be contaminated by handlers. Also that water for drinking must be boiled. Please advise. (J.P.E.)

That is good advice. It applies also to travellers who go to Mexico or other subtropical or tropical countries, particularly in regard to drinking water and the washing of vegetables or fruits, for the water may be polluted with the germs of amoebic dysentery.

Amebic dysentery is not to be confused with the ordinary acute diarrhea, sometimes called "cholera morbus," which was more or less familiar to us in the early nineteenth century, but which was cured in 24 to 48 hours by a vigorous single big dose of castor oil and (2) fasting on a diet of tea, coffee, sugar or milk, and scraped raw apple (not apple sauce). B.P. was ascribed acute diarrhea to "green apples" or "sun" (sun cholera"). B.P. means before refrigeration.

There was a fine big apple tree in our yard in front of the barn, with branches sturdy enough to support swings and trapezes. It bore a fine crop of little green apples in the fall. "Harvest apples," which Chapel Street neighborhood juvenile gangs regarded as ideal ammunition for battles between groups of boys, and some of us were the ammunition. I had no more stomach for them than I had for other fruits of the garden, such as tomatoes and currants, although that indispensable edifice was situated as far from the apple tree as it was from the tomatoes and currants.

Fish and Game Club Told Deer More Plentiful This Year

Deer hunters bagged fewer deer in the Tweed district during the 1955 season than the year previous.

Percentage of this year's success was in the region of 30 percent compared with 33 percent in 1954, the Belleville Fish and Game Association was told by Lands and Forests official Pete Thompson.

In the season past some 2,918 hunters brought down about 845 deer, according to reports from road checking points. The year previous 3,060 sharp-shooters bagged about 980 deer, Mr. Thompson told the club.

Reason for the lower averages was chiefly the heavy 10-inch rainfall throughout the district in October, which was about seven inches above normal. As a result, lowlying land was flooded, enabling the deer to avoid being tracked down by dogs.

"Hunters' opinions was that there were more deer but they were unable to get them," he said.

Studies indicate the deer population in the Tweed district is still on the uptrend and present hunting pressure will not affect the number of deer to be found in the area.

Barring severe winter, hunters should continue to enjoy hunting comparable to past seasons," he said.

STATISTICS GIVEN

Other comparative statistics on the season show:

The total bag was represented by 38.6 percent adult bucks, as against 37 percent in 1954; 37 percent adult does, compared with 31 percent and 34.4 percent fawns, up from 31 percent last year.

Two films were shown the meeting, one appropriately entitled "The Michigan Deer Story", dealing with problems in the maintenance of the deer population of that U. S. state.

Second film was Canadian, "The Big Muskie", a film which, also gave members a taste for fish over next July when the muskie season opens.

Chairman for the meeting was Don MacKinnon.

A brief speech was given the club by Mike Chubb, field officer for the Moira Valley Conservation Authority.

Next meeting of the Belleville Fish and Game Association will be Jan. 17 and will feature two films on hunting and fishing in Newfoundland.

Broken Rail Cause of Delay Of CNR Trains

A broken rail, sub-zero weather and heavy working conditions were given as the reasons for two-hour delays of Canadian National Railways west-bound trains this morning.

The weather and working conditions are normal but the broken rail occurred at Millbrook, ten miles east of the city.

Trains were detoured on another track after considerable delay but overnight eastern mail did not reach the city until between eight and nine o'clock.

Many city passengers awaiting transportation to points west were forced to wait until the service was resumed while not a few returned home to await a later train.

Working conditions are in keeping with the holiday season and are extremely heavy over the whole system. This, officials stated, also contributes to delay.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Christmas is the one time of the year when families like to get together; when absent members will be returning home, and friends visiting with friends. Since this is so, the social editor would greatly appreciate either telephone calls, or written personal notes of visits of guests two or three days previous to the holiday.

Miss Heather Gordon of Albert College, Belleville, is spending the Christmas holidays at home with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Gordon, Gilmour St., Peterborough.

Weddings

MACINTYRE—HALSEY

On Saturday afternoon, December 17, in a beautiful Christmas setting at Parkdale United church, Toronto, a marriage of interest was solemnized when Marion Halsey, and Miss Bethany MacIntyre, exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony with the Rev. F. C. Diller, B.A. officiating.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hedley of Trenton and Mr. Anita Halsey, of Toronto. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. MacIntyre of Cascas, Venezuela, B.A.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming floor-length gown of pale blue beaded taffeta, the long fitted bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline accented with iridescent beads and sequins, and a bolero jacket above the bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a sequined matching velvet bandeau, and she carried a cascade of white carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Susan Lockhart was maid of honour, wearing a street-length gown of iridescent taffeta, fashioned with a long fitted bodice above a skirt pleated at the hipline. She wore a beige feather bandeau and carried white carnations.

The groomsman was Mr. Edward MacDowall, and Mr. Jack Dow was usher. Traditional wedding music was played by Mr. J. Powell, organist at Parkdale church.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at West Point Manico, where the bride's father received, wearing an effective street length dress of fine white bengaline with allover pattern in gold thread, a gold velvet hat and matching shoes. Her corsage was of Jessana Hill roses. In the absence of the bridegroom's parents, a message of congratulations and good wishes was received, as well as some from other distant friends.

Mr. and Mrs. MacIntyre boarded an evening plane for New York City en route to a honeymoon in Bermuda. For travelling the bride donned an attractive suit of green English wool, with black top coat, black satin hat and patent leather accessories. Her plan to return to Toronto for Christmas eve.

ROBLIN—BROWN

Lovely baskets of everygreen with white and yellow chrysanthemums formed a pretty setting on Saturday, December 10, at 3:00 p.m., for the marriage of Catherine Jane Brown of Brighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown to Murray Bruce Roblin of Toronto, son of Mrs. Edna Roblin, in Trinity United church Brighton, Ontario. The Rev. P. J. Mommerton, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. Lenna Baker, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Frank Hamilton. Given in marriage by her father, Mr. John Brown, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white net over taffeta, featuring a sweetheart bodice with jacket of Chantilly lace having long sleeves. The full skirt fell in graceful folds. She wore a fingertip veil held by matching headdress and carried a white Bible crested with pink sweetheart roses and ferns, and streamers accented with rosebuds.

Miss Nancy Atkins, registered nurse, of Napanee, Ont., was maid of honour, gowned in ashes of roses iridescent taffeta with matching Juliette cap, and carrying a contrasting hand bouquet. Mrs. Douglas Macklam of Brighton, was bridesmaid, attired also in ashes of roses iridescent taffeta, made on similar lines that of the maid of honour with matching Juliette cap, and carrying a contrasting bouquet.

Mr. Morley Connor of Canarchie, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Jack Brown, of Brighton was usher.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother, wearing gold shot taffeta, with matching accessories, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in navy and pink with matching accessories.

Women's Institute

PARKDALE W.I.

Mrs. W. Cone was hostess for the Christmas meeting of the Parkdale W.I. Mrs. C. Keeble opened the meeting in the usual manner. Singing of Christmas carols followed. There were 23 members present with one visitor.

Each member brought gifts of clothing, toys and canned goods that are going to be presented to two needy families in the district. Another basket was packed for the Salvation Army.

A recitation was given by Mrs. P. Murray entitled "The Little Pilgrim", which was much enjoyed. The motto "Don't give a gift unless it comes from the heart," was prepared and read by Mrs. F. Rodgers.

Mrs. N. McKibbon conducted a spelling match from words that pertained to Christmas.

Several pieces of handwork done by the girls for Christmas, were displayed.

Refreshments were served by the assistant hostesses and a social half-hour ended the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Forgie.

MIDDLETON—GEROW

On Friday, December 16, a quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized at 9:00 p.m., at the home of Wing Commander James Dunn, Middleton Park, when Dorothy Evelyn Gerow, of Belleville, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Gerow, was united in marriage to Herbert Allan Middleton also of Belleville, son of Mr. W. O. Middleton of Toronto, and the late Mrs. Middleton. Wing Commander Dunn officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Wesley Gerow, the bride was attractively attired in sky blue taffeta, with pink accessories and shoulder corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Mavis Musgrove of Belleville, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing rose-figured taffeta with black accessories and corsage of pale-pink carnations.

Mr. Robert Heighton of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home in Belleville, which was prettily adorned with evergreens and Yuletide decorations. A buffet luncheon was served. The bride's mother received, wearing navy blue taffeta with pink and silver accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Later, the young couple left for Toronto and points west, the bride wearing a charcoal grey ensemble with grey kidskin topcoat, and corsage of pink Briarcliffe roses. Mr. and Mrs. Middleton will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Trenton and Belleville.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS:

Going Shopping!

In the words of the seasonal song, we are caught, "wandering in the winter wonderland." It is certainly true this year, when every indication points to a white Christmas. If you wander into the woods, you are truly wandering in a winter wonderland whether you are shopping for a tree, or exercise, or the peace of quiet coldness and crunching under foot.

If you are browsing in the Belleville stores you are wandering in another winter wonderland of noisy bustle, the last minute search for a forgotten article, the cheerful exchange of greetings with old friends; and everywhere you look, such a variety to select from, presents itself.

We felt like jogging news the last Wednesday before Christmas revives that old spirit of general good nature, friendly cheer, and happy choice rather than the specific facts of prices and particular suggestions. For the most part, the weighty decisions have been made concerning what special gift to give a special dear one, the minute gifts and to receive in exchange the "Compliments of the Season! Happy last minute shopping!

It is not only a time for buying something new but is also a time for reflection on those things out of the past which are responsible in large part for the wonderful district of the Hastings County of today. "We need something from the archives to tell us how our forefathers lived. To know this we must preserve buildings, furniture and tools. We must know how these things were made, why they were made the way they were, and the uses for which they were intended. To read this in books and pictures is a good thing, but it is infinitely better to preserve some of the things themselves. To let these be lost through our indifference is to deprive future generations of a heritage to which they are entitled."

If you agree with this quotation, you will find it on the back of a pamphlet entitled 'O'Hara Mill' at the Corby Public Library. It tells the story 'about the splendid work of the Moira River Conservation Authority in preserving for future generations one of the most historic sites in the county of Hastings. You may have one of these interesting pamphlets for the asking and, believing many would be interested, we are pleased to pass the news on to you.

We have seen in the news that Canada's Minister for External Affairs has announced that parliament will be requested to grant an additional contribution next year to the Colombo Plan. On November 29, at Brighton, Australia, the Australian Minister for External Affairs turned over to the Indian High Commissioner, an 85-foot, diesel-powered hospital ship under the Colombo Plan. It has been appropriately named "INDAUSTRAL" and will serve 30,000 people living in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands. Amidst all the rumbles coming out of what is misfortunately called "cold war" we are delighted to report the above two examples of friendly humanitarianism and co-operation between sister nations of the Commonwealth.

Everywhere there are people making lists, choosing and buying cards, addressing cards, mailing cards. At this season it seems to be almost a game, an agonizing one, to be sure, but there it is. Men get the fever as well as women, so that makes it general. A man going to the Post Office with a bundle of cards says, 'Why don't we just agree to stop all this!' Another says, "It's just a commercial racket." A woman says, "This card business is a nuisance."

And they are all right, of course, in a way. Yes, we could agree to stop it all. If we wanted to. I simply don't think we want to. Yes, it may be a commercial racket, to a point. But it need not be expensive for anyone. Yes, it is a nuisance sometimes, but then oft but honestly now, it really is not such a nuisance getting them, is it?

Then we put them up on mantels, staircase and such places. Some say this is to show how many friends we have. But might it not be to show ourselves, to give us that extra warmth and assurance we all need at times, to see all its faults, the sending of Christmas cards is a reading out at this time of year, a way of putting our treasured contacts in writing, so to speak. It may be silly, but we go on doing it just the same.

We started our column with 'This & That' about our "winter wonder land" but we got over there in Australia on December the 9th, they were having temperatures over the century mark. Reports on terrible bush fires destroying property and stock block read like the disastrous fires Ontario experienced last summer.

While we creep up to our white Christmas Australia is having one of the severest heat waves in its history.

Mrs. John Buchan Tells of Work Of Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of St. Michael's subdivision of Catholic Women's League was held in St. Michael's high school on Monday evening, December 12 with the president, Mrs. R. P. Burley, presiding.

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted as read. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. K. Bland, sent four letters of condolence, get-well card and letters of thanks to Booth Radio and Bishop Seeds. The treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Boyd, gave a satisfactory financial report. She also sent 150 lbs. of clothing to the mission in the past month. Miss M. Doyle, first vice-president, reported that 323 members have renewed their membership, while 137 have not yet renewed. Mrs. O'Connor has organized two tables of euchre. Mrs. G. Power reported six renewals of Canadian Liturgy magazine and one new subscription.

Mrs. A. McFee is packing the Christmas boxes for Catholic patients in hospital. Mrs. Benevenuto, Sr. is supplying candy for these boxes. In the two months she have been sewing for the Red Cross, Mrs. E. Stafford Bell says they have made eight tunics, three dresses and blocks for a quilt. Mrs. R. E. Barrett will convene the Queen of Hearts Ball, February 14.

The next meeting, January 9th, will take the form of a potluck supper to be held in St. Michael's high school convened by Mrs. S. Domenico. Mrs. B. E. Burley presented Dean Gervin with a cheque for $1,225, the net proceeds from the parish bazaar.

The guest speaker, Mrs. John Buchan, president of the Hospital Auxiliary for the province of Ontario, was introduced by Mrs. E. B. Tally.

Mrs. Buchan explained the object of the Hospital Auxiliary and told about the Shadow Program carried on by the Hospital Auxiliary. She is also where a member of the auxiliary is to help and lay in a department of the hospital.

She gave her impressions of the Ontario Hospital for Psychological department with Dr. Rota and his staff.

Mrs. Buchan was thanked by Mrs. Shannon.

Following adjournment refreshments were served by Mrs. Carl Casey and her committee.

Origin of First Carol Told To W.C.T.U.

The December meeting of the WCTU was held in the home of the mother of the YMCA on Friday, with a good attendance of members and a number of visitors.

The meeting opened with the singing of Christmas carols.

Mrs. Farnsworth, the president, spoke on "Christmas" and "Christmas" basing her talk on "Come Into My Heart Lord Jesus." The world accepted Christ, disunity, greed and selfishness would vanish and war would be no more and peace would reign.

Business followed. A full report of the November meeting was given also reports from the different secretaries.

Two minutes of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Gordon, who crossed "The Great Divide", since the last meeting.

The Temperance report was then given by Miss Reeves.

Miss Barnum spoke of the need of organizations for the young people in the temperance work. "The Youth Temperance Council" would seem the solution and with prayer and work much can be accomplished.

Mrs. Steers took charge of the devotional period reading from Luke 2:8-20 followed by a devout prayer and singing "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men". She also spoke on how the Christmas message reaches so many isolated people by TV and radio.

QUEST SOLOIST

Mrs. Weese introduced the guest soloist, Mrs. R. F. Townsend.

Mrs. Hubbs gave the origin of the first Canadian carol "Twas In the Moon of Winterime".

This carol was written over 300 years ago by Jean de Brebeuf, pioneer missionary to the Huron, in order to interpret the Christmas story to these people in their own language. Twelve weeks after it was written, it was sung at their last Christmas celebration as a tribe at Fort St. Marie, about three miles from the town of Midland.

Twelve weeks after their celebration, the Iroquois stormed the fort and Father Brebeuf and his assistant, Father Gabriel Lalemant, were put to death at the torture stake and the Huron tribe was scattered.

Some of the Indians escaped to Lorette, a village in Quebec, and it is from their descendants its words were written down by Vilneuve and sung in Quebec, in 1926, it was rendered into English verse by the Canadian poet, J. E. Middleton.

Mrs. Townsend, with Mrs. Hubbs as accompanist, then gave a beautiful interpretation of this lovely carol.

She also delighted her audience with "Silent Night" and "Away in a Manger."

Mrs. Hubbs gave a piano solo entitled "The Prince."

Mrs. Montgomery related "The Greatest Christmas Story Ever Told."

The water rose so quickly that many housewives were trapped in their homes while cooking lunch. Fire brigades, soldiers and civilian volunteers quickly moved them out of the danger area.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I'D SUGGEST THAT YOU CHECK UP ON YOURSELF FIRST

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Like many other women my marriage was a happy one at first, but for the past few years things have changed. I am 38 years old and my husband is 41.

The problem is that my husband just doesn't appreciate me, or anything I do for him. He is constantly criticizing me and picking on me, even though I keep the home in beautiful order and cook him the best meals I can. He never takes me anywhere, no matter how much I beg, and he even goes out now by himself and is often gone until very late at night.

I have asked him if he has another woman, and all he says is that he couldn't be blamed if he did, because all he gets at home is nagging, which isn't true. He's the one who does the nagging, and I'm getting so sick of it I have even threatened to leave him. When I've made these threats, he just says: "Well, what are you waiting for?"

I'm disgusted with life when I think how good a wife I've been to him and never got any thanks.

What would you do if you were me, leave him or go on putting up with him? — Mrs. H.R.T.

Dear Mrs. H.R.T.:

Well, if I were really you, I hope the first thing I'd do—and I sincerely hope that I wouldn't wait so long to do it—would be to check on my own attitudes and actions. I'd do this just to make sure that some, at least, of the trouble with my husband might not be my own fault.

Many wives, of course, are entirely blameless when their husbands start to stray, and you must be one of these. But your letter leave me wondering.

For instance, don't you think it might be possible that your husband had got fed up on being told what a good wife you've been to him? And on hearing that you never get any thanks for it? People do get awfully bored and resentful when they're reminded all the time about what somebody else has done for them.

And how very foolish of you to keep threatening to leave him and then doing nothing about it! Do you really expect to scare him into reform that way, when he sees you're not really serious about it?

Oh, I'm not trying to think up excuses for wandering husbands. I'm merely recognizing the fact that most human beings are so made that if they don't get what they want at home—or, on the other hand, get something they most definitely do not want—they'll go out and look for it, or find escape from it, elsewhere. So it's simply commonsense for a wife to study the situation and see if she can possibly put a finger on anything she's doing, or anything she's not doing, that might have a bearing on her husband's behavior.

What I suggest is that you pull yourself together, take a deep breath and make a fresh start. This will mean that you're going to try keeping yourself NOR your home not only clean and neat, but so attractive and so happy that your husband won't want to go anywhere else or be with anyone else.

This new approach won't be easy, because there are too many old habits in the way that you'll have to change before you can expect results. And perhaps, of course, it may not even work and you'll have to try something else. But for right now it's best bet. So if you're serious about wanting to make a change in your husband, try changing yourself. You may be surprised to find how well it works!

Christmas Dinner Menu

(3RD INSTALMENT—CONTINUED FROM TUESDAY)

By Mary Moore

Finally we have arrived at the water. Rub skin of bird with fat most of the water—the turkey or butter, and to avoid frequent basting, cover loosely with double thickness of cheesecloth dipped in melted fat or a piece of aluminum foil, tucking cloth or foil loosely under to keep it clean. Place in oven of 325 deg. Fahr. If cheesecloth is used at either end during baking period, remoisten with pan drippings by basting.

TIME TABLE:

Times here are for poundage of ready-to-cook birds. Allow an extra 1-2 hour if it is important that Christmas dinner is served exactly on time: 6 to 10-lb. 3 3-4 to 4 1-2 hours; 10 to 14-lbs. 4 1-2 to 5 1-4 hours; 14 to 18-lb. bird 5 1-4 to 6 1-2 hours. Some 25-lb. birds will require 8 hours. An 8 to 13-lb. half turkey requires 4 to 5 hours. Dressing can be pounded on doubled foil, half turkey placed over it, and then wrapped in more foil. Three hundred and twenty-five deg. is temperature for all.

One item on the Christmas dinner menu, which I gave here on Monday of this week, which I have not given you the recipe for is

VELVET SAUCE

A variation of hard sauce. Cream until very light and fluffy 1-3 cup butter, and gradually cream into it 1 1-2 cups sifted icing sugar until both are light and fluffy as down. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff and fold in with 1 or 2 teaspoons flavoring such as vanilla, almond, rum or sherry flavoring.

Tomorrow and Friday: Readers' questions answered.

POWDER MIXING AT HOME

A kit which enables you to blend your own powder is the latest phase in the "do-it-yourself" trend.

The "do it-yourself" trend continues unabated and now, in one of its more intriguing phases, it has entered the beauty field, so that Mildly can mix her own powder as deftly and as color-cure as the expert at her favorite beauty bar. It's all done by means of a new powder kit which enables you to mix the right shade of powder for every color you wear—to say nothing of colors you've always thought unbecoming but are simply dying to wear anyway.

The kit contains eight boxes filled with tiny envelopes of the different shades of powder designed to flatter your skin tones; also four powder "toners" which give subtle nuances to the powder shade you mix; a measuring spoon and two bottles of foundation—one for day and one for evening. Included also are twelve miniature boxes in which to store your powder wardrobe and an instruction book telling you how the powder-mixing miracle is performed. The booklet also lists the proper shades of lipstick, rouge, mascara, eyebrow pencil, eye liner and eye shadow to wear with each fashionable color, together with 18 fabric swatches of this season's high style shades. But, most important of all, there's the mixer—a little glass bowl with a plastic cover mounted on a handsome brass base. Once the powder has been measured into the mixer, you just press a tiny button on the base and a plastic blade within the bowl whirl round and round, blending the powder shade you want in from 30 to 60 seconds.

For a practical example of how the powder blending works, let's say that a light gray-haired woman has found a wonderful taupe wool dress for cocktails, with matching jacket to wear by day. Normally this is not a good color on her, but she just loves the color and the costume. She buys it. Then she goes to the cosmetic department and purchases a kit for light gray hair. At home, she follows the instruction booklet for the powder she should wear with taupe, for the daytime. She simply puts into the mixer one package of Powder A, one package of 2, and one package of 7. With the measuring spoon she adds the A,B, and C ingredients the booklet says. She presses the little button on the mixer for 30 to 40 seconds. She puts the mixed powder into the mixer top of the two storage boxes provided and marks it "Taupe Costume, daytime." By the booklet she also sees that when she wears the costume by day, she wears clear foundation, her special powder, brown eye shadow, black mascara, black eye liner, black eyebrow pencil, a vivid lipstick and rouge. There are additional and equally simple-to-follow instructions for what to wear with the costume for evening, including another "recipe" for the evening powder.

Powder refills are available for the kits, which come in eight different versions based on the color of the purchaser's hair.

CHRISTMAS CANDLES . . . TO "GIVE A LOVELY LIGHT"

Christmas time, a time for shining thoughts, should be given the gentle grace and charm of candlelight. So let's light candles! "Light a candle," the Bible tells us," put it on a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house."

"OH COME, ALL YE" . . . TO A CAROL - SINGING PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our family—my husband and four children ages ten-age children—are going to give a Carol-singing party on the afternoon before Christmas. (I do want to tell you that I followed your good advice about writing on our Christmas cards, the invitations to this party of this kind we've ever given. We've invited children and grown-ups, for we know everyone, that all ages, loves to sing Christmas carols. What should I serve at this 3:30 to 5:30 Party? Would I have to serve sandwiches, which would be such a chore to make on this busy day? (3) I'd like to give something, very inexpensive, as a favor to each one. Any suggestion, Mrs. Beeckman? — M.C.

(1) Christmas cookies, pretty and festive, and, if possible cut in shapes symbolic of Christmas (perl little trees, stars, wreaths, and so forth), are the things to serve. (Not all necessarily to accompany wiches.) Be sure to provide a goodly supply of the Christmas cookies, some for eating" on location", and some for take-home loot, always welcome to all ages! (2) For each guest you should have the small inexpensive paper booklet that includes the words of the Carols, music too perhaps. When the guests have all followed words right in front of them, they will sing the Carols with lusty confidence and gusto. These booklets can then be the favors. Or you might have a little Christmas box for each guest, or even easier, a Christmas-decorated paper napkin containing Christmas cookies. Or a tiny corsage or boutonniere of holly or other Christmas green, gay with one or two tiny bells.

TO SEND NEW YEAR'S CARD TO THE DOCTOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I would like to send a New Year's card to our family doctor, who has been so good and kind to us. Having never met his wife or family should I address the card to him only and send it to his office, or should I address it to "Dr. and Mrs." and send it to his home address. How should I word the greeting-card? And should I sign it "Mr. and Mrs."? — M.C.

It would be in best form, more gracious, to send the card to the doctor and his wife at their home address. (This is proper, even though you have never met his wife and family.) Address the envelope to: Doctor and Mrs. John Hall. (Best form to spell his title in full on this social mail.) You might word your message something like this: "Friendly greetings for the New Year to you and your family, and best wishes. From Arthur and Ellen Clark." Don't sign "Mr. and Mrs.—" . . . your signature is your informal name. And since, I judge, you will sign the card, you write your name last.

Mrs. Meiklejohn was given a navy blue leather purse with gloves to match, by the Section, and Mr. Beare and Miss Mumby were also remembered with gifts.

Slim Moroccan Brunette Leads Active Life

FEZ, French Morocco (Reuters)—Morocco's youngest nationalist leader is 18 - year - old Malika Mellani, who has a taste for violence and the ambition to become her country's first woman cabinet minister.

This attractive schoolgirl is head of the women's branch (6,000 members) of the Istiqlal party in Meknes, the fourth largest city in Morocco.

It is not without difficulties that this slim brunette leads such an active life. Malika is at boarding school—and allowed out for only eight hours every Sunday.

She became internationally known during the Meknes riots last July 25, in which eight Moroccans were killed. That day, Gilbert Grandval, then French resident-general, made his official entry into the city. Malika, on vacation from school, put on a gay summer frock and slipped over her shoulders a sash with the green and red Moroccan national colors—her "battle" uniform.

HURLED ROSES

Thousands of Moroccans lined the route. When Grandval appeared, followed by several carloads of French and Moroccan dignitaries, wild shouts of "Long live Ben Youssef" (the then exiled sultan) rose up from the swarming crowd.

Malika hurled a bouquet of red roses which landed on Grandval's lap in his open car. Policemen, thinking she had thrown a bomb, punched her, but the schoolgirl broke loose and ran alongside the motorcade screaming "Ben Youssef" into the ears of the officials.

Grabbing the black beard of the pasha of Meknes, a well-known opponent of Ben Youssef, she tugged violently until he too had to let out a shrill "Long live Ben Youssef."

Malika threatened French, British and American journalists in their cars until several also began to intone slogans glorifying the banished monarch.

Malika's father works in the Meknes post office. She has five sisters. Malika joined the Istiqlal in 1949 when the party was still underground and many of its members in jail for anti-French activities. She made her first political speech the following year, when only 13, to a secret meeting in Rabat. The subject was "Women's rights."

'Christmas Giving, Receiving,' Topic At Pr. Ed-Belleville Club

The Prince Edward-Belleville Club held its Christmas meeting at the YMCA, with the president, Mrs. L. Wannamaker, presiding.

After the usual opening, the president read "The Christmas Message," by Helen B. Anderson.

Business was discussed and Mrs. McCoy reported for cards and letters.

Mrs. Williams, with her co-convener, was in charge of the program.

GUEST SPEAKERS

The guest speakers were Capt. and Mrs. Marks of the Salvation Army.

Coming to the city in June from the west—across Canada—for a time on the staff of the Army Training School in Toronto, where he met his wife—back again to several cities, where the result of his evangelistic work is evident.

Mrs. Marks spoke briefly and led in carols.

The captain's message on "Christmas Giving and Receiving," was sincere and inspiring. "Above all else, let me present our greatest gift from God — who gave us the Christ Child of Bethlehem—that we through Him might know the way of life. Only by learning of Him and giving our lives to Him do we experience the real joys and blessings of the Christmastide."

With the speakers was Ellerby—a gifted soloist—who led in carols and closed with "Silent Night."

The president extended the club son's greetings to all, thanked the speakers and soloist, and on behalf of the club presented cheques for $25 to the Salvation Army. As was the custom, each one wishing to donate a free-will offering brought fruit, jam or clothing.

The refreshments and the social time were convened by Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Shortt, assisted by Mesdames C. Ackerman, Weaver, Fisher, Earle, M. Trumpour, Nelson, Salisbury and Sloan.

Fear of Mafia Made Him Say He Killed Dog

TORONTO (CP) — An Italian immigrant said Tuesday he confessed falsely to the killing of his dog because he feared reprisals from the Mafia—an Italian secret society.

Domenico Delgallo, 50, told magistrate S. T. Bigelow he had replayed no part in throwing his dog from a second-storey bathroom window.

The magistrate dismissed a charge of cruelty laid against Delgallo.

Delgallo's landlord, Vincent Lisardi, 27, was also charged in the killing. He was acquitted. His friend said he believed Lisardi was connected with the Mafia.

Delgallo said Lisardi had thrown out the dog but that to avoid the possibility of reprisal from the Mafia he had assumed responsibility for the incident himself.

Find Woman, Two Children Stabbed to Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman and her two children were found brutally stabbed to death in a furnished Staten Island apartment last night. The bodies were discovered by detectives who wanted to tell her that her husband has been found shot and critically wounded in his car.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Shirley Palin, 25, her daughter Charlene, 4, and son Kedwick, 2.

Detectives said Mrs. Palin was a white woman and her husband, Milton, 27, a Negro. Palin was shot once in the chest and once in the roof of his mouth, and authorities said they would not be able to question him for at least 48 hours.

Mafia he had assumed responsibility for the incident himself.

DOMINION'S RECIPE for a Merry Christmas

Take the crisp cold of a December night, add two generous parts of snow, stir in air so clear it tinkles.

Into a generous heart, mix the wonder of a little girl, the sparkle of a young boy's glance, the love of parents, and set gently before the chimney side.

Add the lightest touch of a reindeer's hooves, a sprig of holly, a scent of fir.

Set the mixture to rise in the warmth of a dream of good will to men. It will be almost ready to serve when it bubbles with warmth and good feeling.

Bedeck with the light of a star set in the East, garnish with shining balls of gold, silver and red. Serve to the tune of an ancient carol in the middle of the family table.

This recipe is sufficient for all the men and women you will ever meet.

With best wishes for a Merry Christmas.

Princess Margaret, Eisenhower Top List of World News Events

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two stories rich in human interest top the list of world news stories for 1955.

Princess Margaret's decision not to marry Group Capt. Peter Town send was picked by telegraph editors of Canadian daily newspapers as story of the year.

Voting in a Canadian Press poll of news editors, Eisenhower's heart attack as close second in news impact.

The editors were asked to choose the top six world and Canadian stories.

Their selections:

World: 1, Princess Margaret's decision; 2, Eisenhower illness; 3, Salk vaccine; 4, Churchill's retirement; 5, Peron downfall; 6, Geneva Big Four talks.

Canadian: 1, Vancouver police scandal; 2, Richard riots; 3, Grey Cup show; 4, Marilyn Bell's Channel swim; 5, Commons filibuster; 6, Banff snowslide.

ALMOST UNANIMOUS

Despite news of the Margaret-Townsend romance, announced Oct. 31, was the nearly unanimous choice for top spot. With the president's illness a close second.

Interest in science generally, and particularly medical news, is reflected in choice for third place of the April 12 announcement of the Salk vaccine's effectiveness. Churchill's retirement and Eden's succession, April 5, marked the close of a great page in world affairs and appealed to the editors in slightly newsier than Peron's ousting from Argentina Sept. 9.

Puzzling moves by the Soviet high command, beginning with Malenkov's demotion and continuing through two Geneva conferences in July and November, rounded out the top six world stories.

The Vancouver police scandal, which began last spring and continued through a still-unfinished commission investigation, heads the list of Canadian events. Montreal riots March 17, sparked by the suspension of hockey player Maurice Richard, took second place over the Grey Cup show put on by Vancouver—and the winning Edmonton Eskimos — as the game was played in the west for the first time.

CHANNEL SWIM

Marilyn Bell, whose conquest of Lake Ontario took second place to hurricane Hazel in the Canadian list in 1954, was represented again this year when her July 31 channel swim was selected as fourth best Canadian break. The successful Conservative filibuster in the Commons, forcing limitation of the Emergency Powers Act, drew slightly more votes than the July snowslide on Mount Temple in which seven youths were killed.

Other Canadian stories mentioned included Saskatchewan storms and floods, plans for the first Canadian atom power plant, the TLC-CCL merger, Gen. Simonds' retirement, the Pearson trip to Moscow, Robert Saunders' plane crash death, the Demuese political squabble, and the Nicolet landslide.

New Foreign Secretary Makes Success of Govt. Ventures

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Britain's new foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, is a dull man with a bad golf game and a middle-age spread—by his own description.

"Nonsense," snorts a friend. "He's brilliant and anyway, you don't star in rastecraft with a golf club or your figure, but with your head."

Lloyd has a reputation of making a success of everything he's tackled, including the late Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Russia's acid-tongued foreign minister and UN delegate.

"Dig that broken record," sighed Lloyd at the United Nations one day as he listened to Vishinsky.

TO BRIGHTEN IT

Asked why he used the jargon of American be-boppers (dig that) broken record means listen to that man repeat himself), Lloyd replied: "Oh, one must try to brighten things up occasionally."

The 51-year-old Lloyd thinks and dresses like his boss, Prime Minister Eden. He is a Methodist by religion and his full name is John Selwyn Brooke Lloyd.

"Who could remember a politician with a name that long," he says, "or why should they?"

But Lloyd had a reputation of always winning top prize.

He went to Cambridge and was elected president of the University Union.

He went out for soccer and was elected captain of the team.

He studied law and became a judge.

He joined the army and worked up to brigadier.

WON ELECTION

He ran for Parliament as a Conservative in 1945 when Labor was winning all over the country and was victorious, with a majority of 16,628.

He hired pretty, stylish Elizabeth Marshall as his secretary—and married her 18 months later. At 28 she's the youngest cabinet wife. They have a three-year-old daughter, Joanna.

He was appointed minister of state at the foreign office when Sir Winston Churchill's Conservative party gained power in 1951 and almost immediately went to Paris as a delegate to the UN assembly.

He tangled with Vishinsky in a tricky debate and the wily Russian confided to a colleague: "The young Englishman—he's tough."

He rose to minister of supply in November, 1954, and just six months later gained cabinet rank as defence minister in the first cabinet under Eden.

STIRLING

Hastings County Federation Of Agriculture Elects Officers

STIRLING.—The annual meeting of Hastings County Federation of Agriculture was held in Melrose Community hall on Thursday evening with a large attendance, when the hall was filled to capacity.

Mr. Bernard Hollinger was chairman acting for president, Earl Sager.

Mr. S. De Mille conducted the sing-song with Mrs. Lorne Weese at pianist.

Deputy Reeve Charles Long of Tyendinaga township, welcomed the gathering and secretary, Bob Philip read the minutes of the last annual meeting with Messrs. Earl Whiteman and Roscoe Robson moving their adoption.

A short program followed when Mrs. Cassidy rendered a vocal selection and Mrs. Pascoe contributed a reading.

The Hart brothers of Plainfield sang several songs with guitar accompaniment.

Mr. George Carlisle presented a full statistical report and they have a good bank balance to carry on the various departments of work. The township's levy, a small-ise on each assessment and this provides the ready cash. The organization sends $1700 yearly to Toronto to assist with the work in the province.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Percy Ray introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Clarence Milligan, of Napanee, who gave a fluent and interesting address on the subject "Finding New Markets." He explained how the high cost of living in Ontario led to a higher price necessary, while in other countries the goods could be shipped here at a lower price. Some countries have cheap labor, others have no winter weather, and all this leads to cheaper production; thus their goods can be imported in Ontario and sold for less.

Farmers here cannot compete with this competition, and yet they must find a good way to market their surpluses.

Mr. Earl Sager voiced appreciative thanks to Mr. Milligan. He also spoke briefly re "Farm Unions", and voiced his disapproval of the same.

A panel discussion followed with Mr. Bernard Hunt in charge of the discussion. The group included: Mr. Irwin McCoy, past president of the Hog Producers' Association; Mr. Clarence Milligan, a member of the Ontario Federation; Mr. Tom Kelly, president Vegetable Growers' Association; Mr. W. E. Bateman, head of the cheese organization and Mr. Arnold Mitchell, head of the Belleville Whole Milk organization. All had a part in the discussions.

A variety of questions were asked and the audience was given a chance to air the subject and suggest improvements. Each of the members urged the support of commodity groups.

Mr. George Carlisle voiced thanks to these men for their fine interpretation of the subject.

It was moved by Messrs. Ronald Longwell and John Kane that the mailing list of "The Rural Co-Operation" be revised in 1956. Each taxpayer is entitled to a copy and the mailing list at present, is not correct.

Messrs. Earl Whiteman and Bernard Hunt were instrumental in putting across a motion that the Commodity groups convene once every two months during 1956 and thus keep up to date on current problems.

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative, conducted the election and the new slate is —president, Percy Ray, Halloway, 1st vice-president, Ross Ketcheson, Moira; 2nd vice-president, Philo Harris, Madoc; 3rd vice-president John Kane, Stirling, R.R. 4; 4th vice-president, Bernard Hunt, R.R. 2, Tweed; secretary, Bob Philp, Stirling, R.R. 4; treasurer, George Carlisle, Stirling, R.R. 2.

The executive will choose a lady director at their initial meeting in 1956.

The in-coming president spoke briefly.

Bernard Hollinger expressed thanks to all who attended the meeting and to all who had assisted with the program.

The members of Melrose Women's Institute served refreshments followed by a social half hour.

Brownell Brands U.E. Union With 'Red Label'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Tuesday attached a "Red label" to the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America and urged its 100,000 members to depose their "Communist dictators."

Brownell also asked the Subversive Activities Control Board to make a formal finding that the big independent union, working on defence contracts in many plants, is a Communist-infiltrated organization.

Union president Albert J. Fitzgerald said in New York: "Brownell's accusations against UE are lies."

He added in a statement that the attorney-general's "hypocritical Red baiting" comes "at the very time our union is engaged in a bitter struggle against the Westinghouse Electric Corporation." Fitzgerald called Brownell a "strike-breaker."

UE is one of two unions now on strike against Westinghouse. The other is the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers. The walkout took effect October 11 to enforce demands for a wage increase.

Brownell said that if the SACB finds UE to be Communist-infiltrated it will bring patriotic UE members make a house-cleaning. The union was expelled from the CIO in 1949.

War Minister Makes Changes To Streamline Army

LONDON (Reuters)—War Minister Anthony Head Tuesday announced "far-reaching changes" wiping out the Reserve Army's armored divisions and leaving it only two full-scale divisions.

He told the House of Commons the two divisions are required to meet Britain's commitments in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"The remainder of the reserve army will be reorganized for the role which can be foreseen," he said.

He said the wartime tasks the reserves would have to take on would be initially to deal with raids, sabotage and similar enemy activity, in addition, they would have to "provide the reserve fighting power necessary for home defence in all its aspects" and constitute Britain's "strategic reserve."

Head explained that the changes were being made to streamline Britain's fighting strength for modern war.

Deny Boycott Is Withdrawn

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor leaders directing last Friday's boycott of the Montreal Transportation Commission denied Tuesday night that the one-day-a-week boycott has been officially withdrawn.

Huguette Pilmandon, president of the Montreal Labor Council (CTC-CCL), said "nobody had been authorized to make any such statement."

Earlier Tuesday, a spokesman who said he wished that his name not be used, had said that the boycott efforts had been called off. Heads of the two other big labor bodies behind the boycott joined in denying the earlier report.

DIED OF CANCER

LONDON (Reuters)—Ministry of health statistics published Tuesday show that 261 children between one and five years old died of cancer in Britain in 1954—triple the 1920 figure.

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Enshrined in the Henry Ford Museum at nearby Greenfield Village is a small motorized buggy with two-cylinder engine, chain transmission, bicycle wheels and tiller steering.

It is the first automobile the elder Henry Ford designed and built in 1893-96. From it stemmed some 53,000,000 subsequent Ford cars and the golden stream of profits that have made the Ford Motor Co. perhaps the most fabulous of American industrial enterprises.

How many millionaires were made by the meteoric development of the company is anybody's guess. Counting original stockholders, descendants of Ford family and those who inherited the wealth amassed by their parents and grandparents, the total probably would exceed three-score.

And others are in the making. They are the high executives of the Ford Motor Co. who were given the privilege of buying some stock in the company when they joined it in the reorganization that Younger Henry Ford started in 1946.

WAS AN INDUCEMENT

The privilege of purchasing some stock at a far-below-value price is understood to have been one of the inducements held out to numerous specialists to bring them into the higher echelons of the reorganized Ford Company.

The story of the Ford Motor Co. has many of the ingredients of a fairy tale. It starts with a $28,000 fund raised by a dozen persons in 1903. Included in this was a $100 investment by Rosetta V. Couzens, sister of the late United States Senator James Couzens, which later totalled over $355,000.

It is said that she required considerable persuasion from her brother to risk half her savings in the venture. Couzens himself sold his holdings in 1919 for something in excess of $29,000,000. His initial investment was $1,000 in cash and a note for $1,500 to cover purchase of 25 shares. The other shareholders got about $40,000 each for their holdings.

The company paid a $10,000 dividend in its first year; in 1908 it declared six dividends of $40,000 each and an additional stock payment of $1,800,000. Twelve dividends were declared in 1909, totalling $1,800,000.

HUGE DIVIDENDS

From then on the story is one of continuing huge dividends — $10,000,000 in one year, $12,000,000 in another, and so on.

Because the elder Ford tried unsuccessfully to borrow in Wall street immediately following the First World War, 1919 and 1920 have been sometimes called the years when Ford "nearly went broke." However, besides the nearly $70,000,000 net profit in 1919, the company showed earnings of approximately $53,500,000 in 1920.

Other parts of the Ford story include the lone and successful fight the elder Ford made against patent suits; his $5-a-day minimum wage in 1914 at a time when skilled labor got about $2.50; his introduction of the five-day week in 1926; increase in the minimum daily wage to $7 in 1932 in an unsuccessful effort to "break the depression," and how Ford put production of bomber planes on a mass basis (one each working hour) during the Second World war.

His grandson, Henry Ford II, started his vast reorganization program. Indications of its success were shown in the recent announcement that by the end of 1957 the company will have spent or committed more than $2,750,000,000 since 1946 on new tools, expanded and modernized manufacturing facilities—"all coming from earnings, depreciation accruals and more efficient turnover of working capital."

SURPLUS PURCHASES

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Colombia Tuesday purchased $10,000,000 worth of surplus agricultural products from the United States. The government said the deal includes 600,000 lb cotton and $4,000,000 in wheat. Another $1,600,000 will go for transportation of the commodities.

Northeast U.S. Shivers in Grip Of Cold Spell

CHICAGO (AP) — The coldest weather of the season held a tight grip over wide areas of the northeast section of the United States today.

Temperatures were below zero over most of the inland areas and near zero along the coast. Coldest spot was Mount Washington, N. H., with an overnight low of 26 below.

It was zero or below in many cities all day Tuesday, and little relief was expected today.

Readings in New York Watertown reported 22 below, Il was -19 at Rome, N. Y.; -18 in Massena, N. Y.; -14 at Burlington, Vt., and -13 at Rumford in Maine.

GENERALLY CLEAR

The weather in the cold belt was generally clear and marked the second straight night of sub-zero temperatures in the New England region and sections of New York State. New York City shivered in the above and in Boston the mercury edged around the zero mark.

There was some relief from the biting cold in the midwest states. The moderating trend which began over the Rockies spread over most of the plains and into the Great Lakes region. Temperatures early today were 10 to 15 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier.

There were much sharper rises in the northern Rockies as warm winds sent temperatures soaring as much as 48 degrees after hitting sub-zero levels Tuesday morning. It was 46 above at Great Falls, Mont., after a low of -2, and at Cut Bank, Mont., the rise was from -7 to 38 above.

Steel Market Boom Continues

NEW YORK (AP)—Cutbacks in automobile production will have no effect on the booming American steel market, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly.

The auto producers may be pulling back from high-cost conversion deals, but they are pressing the mills more and more to meet at regular prices, it adds, reporting as follows:

The auto industry will buy steel heavily in 1956, if sales of the 1956 models don't go well. The companies will shut down early on these models, both the 1957 models.

Meanwhile, the interest expressed for steel has reached such a point that for the first time since the Korean conflict a warning has been sent out by one large steel manufacturer against channelling any of its stocks into "grey market" outlets. Any steel buyer caught selling to "unorthodox" buyers faces cancellation of his orders remaining on the steel company's books.

Automobile Association Wants Broader Highway Program

OTTAWA (CP)—A strong suggestion for federal leadership and financing of a Canadian highway program, with emphasis on the trans-Canada highway and roads into the northland, has been laid before federal authorities.

The 40,000-member Canadian Automobile Association said in a brief Tuesday the federal government should instigate an entirely new highway-financing policy to complete the trans-Canada highway and contribute 50 per cent to all arterial highways. In addition it should assume 50 per cent of the cost of access roads to urban centres.

The brief was presented to Works Minister Winters. He told the delegation highways are primarily the responsibility of the provinces but that the federal highways bill for the forthcoming fiscal year will be about $60,000,000. That, said the minister, compares favorably with the federal program in the U.S.

The association brief said there is a need today for the same kind of leadership in highway building as was shown in pushing a railway across Canada. Highways were vital to the life of the nation for defence and to build the tourist industry.

"The association believes the federal government is not fulfilling its obligations to the car owners of Canada," the brief said. "The federal government collects through taxation from car owners millions of dollars every year. The returns to motorists in roads and improved highways is only a small fraction of the amount collected."

It said Canada's future will depend more and more on her motor country. Yet there was no highway planning which considered this from a military or other point of view.

Should atomic warfare come, the brief said roads would provide the main means for evacuation of the civilian population. Roads ought to be adequate to meet the need.

"We feel, if for no other reason than a as safety defence measure, a start should be made now in building roads for dispersal purposes," the brief said.

Claim Soldier Defaced Site

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Angry residents Tuesday claimed a United States soldier stationed nearby has defaced an historic site.

They said the man's name was found carved in a rock some distance up the Churchill river. The same rock bears the name of British explorer Samuel Hearn, who is said to have carved it there during an Arctic journey in 1771.

Officials said they plan to blot out the new name with a special cement, colored to match the rock.

Newsprint Price Rescinded, Down Dollar a Ton

TORONTO (CP)—Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., has advised customers that a $5 increase in newsprint price announced for Nov. 1 has been rescinded and that, instead, a $4 increase will go into effect Jan. 1.

No increase is in effect for the period Nov. 1-Jan. 1. Customers who may have paid the higher price will receive a rebate.

Since Oct. 18 most Canadian and some American producers have announced increases ranging from $3 to $5 a ton at various effective dates.

Spokesmen for St. Lawrence Paper Corporation, the only other producer to announce the top increase of $5, have already indicated that its increase would also level off at $4.

NO COMMENT

Officials of Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills, queried Tuesday night on a report that it would boost its already-announced $3 increase to $4, said they had no comment.

A $4 increase makes the newsprint price $130 delivered in New York. The Canadian basic price, applicable in Quebec, Ontario and west to Winnipeg, is traditionally $4 below the New York price. Some further concessions of up to $5 a ton are given in Quebec and Ontario according to location in regard to newsprint mills.

U.S. Plans to Spend Billion In 1956 on Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States defence department, proposing a big boost in its budget next year, contemplates spending $1,000,000,000 for guided-missile development.

Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson told a press conference Tuesday that the military will ask Congress to approve a billion-dollar increase in defence spending over the $34,500,000,000 currently estimated for the present year. The department proposes also that Congress increase by almost $2,000,000,000 the amount of money appropriated for defence for the current year. About $1,000,000,000 of this would go into the pipeline to pay for weapons to be bought in later years.

Among other new items to appear in Wilson's budget recommendations will be money to begin building the first surface ship to be driven by atomic power. This navy warship, Wilson indicated, probably will be of cruiser size and incorporate the newest of armaments, such as guided missiles.

Wilson remarked that he was "not quite ready" to discuss the over-all organization of the armed forces in guided-missile development and production. But he did provide a more definite index of what he previously had described as a substantial expansion in the missile field.

The plan is for the department to spend about one-third more next year on guided missiles than in the present year. The estimate for such spending this year is about $750,000,000. Wilson said the shift in emphasis is from conventional weapons to "things we would like to have."

Rosalind Russell Left Thriving Film Career to Star in Musical

By BOB MYERS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I've always tried to do different things and I've got the flops to prove it."

This was Rosalind Russell's analysis of her long and distinguished acting career. And it explains why she takes plays that other top stars wouldn't venture.

For instance, she left a thriving film career to venture into a Broadway musical, "Wonderful Town." It was a big hit. Lately she has raised eyebrows by playing an unglamorous, spinsterish school teacher in "Picnic." The amazement is caused not only by the fact that she appears fortyish in the film; her role is not a leading one.

DIFFERENT OPINION

"Ah, but it is," she corrected. "I consider it the leading role. It people go out of the theatre and remember it, then it was the leading role.

"It was the same way in 'The Women.' People told me, 'Roz, you're foolish to take a minor role like that.' But it was the leading part. Every scene counted, and all my scenes pertained to the plot. They couldn't cut me out; believe me, I had analyzed the script carefully.

"Besides, I have always made a speciality of playing characters. They're the only fun roles. The only trouble is that they're not easy to find. Usually all the characterization is a series of throwns at the leading man and woman."

As for the loss of glamor, Roz said that worries her not. She makes her entrance in "Picnic" applying cold cream, and during the picture makes use of none of the gimmicks for glamor girls — special lighting, makeup tricks, soft lenses.

GOT THE WORDS

"When we sent the first rushes back to the studio from the Kansas location," she reported, "the word came back: 'Russell looks too good.' So they gave me the works —harsh lighting, clear lenses and everything."

She laughed as she told of attending the preview in New York. Someone in the seat behind her exclaimed, "How she has aged!"

Undaunted, Roz said she will continue doing different things.

"I've had a long career," she observed, "and I figure it doesn't owe me a thing. At this point, there's no sense in doing things I don't enjoy. I would never get stuck again in something like that string of professional women I did. There's no kick in doing the same thing over again."

Her next project is to do "Wonderful Town" in a two-hour TV show early next year. Then she plans to spend most of the year in New York, where her son is attending school.

In August she starts rehearsals for a play based on the best selling book, "Auntie Mame." She might be away from films for another two years, if the show clicks.

ATE TREE ORNAMENT

CHICAGO (AP) — A three-year-old girl, enchanted by the glistening ornaments on the newly decorated Christmas tree in her home Tuesday night, plucked one off a branch and tried to eat it. Dorothy Kadravetz selected a large green ornament and was munching it when her mother, Elizabeth, 22, entered the room. After the broken glass was removed in hospital she was treated for scratches in her throat and taken home.

Ship Is on Way To Take Woman Off Pacific Raft

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP)— An amateur radio operator reported Tuesday night that a ship was heading toward the raft La Canuta to pick up the sole woman member of the crew of five, described as acutely ill. The Polynesia-bound raft was reported still afloat and right side up.

Earlier reports had aroused fears that waves might have capsized the 30-by-12-foot craft, whose crew hopes to duplicate the feat of Thor Heyerdahl's Kon-Tiki. The female crew member, Miss Natalia Marsolez, was reported stricken 13 days ago. The nature of her illness was not disclosed.

The rescue vessel was expected to reach the raft some time today. The raft was reported about 80 miles east of the Galapagos Islands.

It left Talara, Peru, Dec. 4.

Science Lost Greatest Brain In Death of Albert Einstein

By AL COLLETTI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Science lost its greatest brain of the 20th century in 1955 when Dr. Albert Einstein died at the age of 76.

The gentle, wispy-haired physicist and mathematician who provided the fundamental knowledge from which the atomic bomb was developed was working on the secret of the universe itself at his death.

"I cannot believe that God plays dice with the cosmos," he had said.

His unified field theory, a monumental mathematical treatise, sought to bring all nature into one hypothesis and prove, in effect, that all things conformed to a single cosmic system with nothing left to chance.

But Einstein said that if he had to do it all over again he would rather be a plumber or a peddlar.

Two other prominent scientists who died during the year were Sir Alexander Fleming, 73, winner of the Nobel prize in 1945 for discovering penicillin, and Sir Edward Mellanby, 70, whose research on rickets led to the discovery of vitamin D.

One of the greatest of U.S. statesmen, Cordell Hull, died at the age of 83. Born in a log cabin in Tennessee, Hull was regarded as one of the outstanding secretaries of state, serving in that post longer than any other man (1933-44).

The late President Roosevelt credited him with being the father of the United Nations. He received the Nobel peace prize in 1945 for his part in setting up the world organization. A staunch supporter of free world trade, Hull promoted the reciprocal trade program and the good neighbor policy in the Western hemisphere.

Another spokesman of his time who died in 1955 was Thomas Mann, 80, Germany's greatest modern novelist. Like Einstein, he had fled Hitler's tyranny in the early 1930s.

Other prominent world figures who died during the year were L.S. Amery, 81, British Conservative party elder statesman; Hector McNeil, 48, minister of state in Britain's first post-war Labor government; Manuel Avila Camacho, 58, president of Mexico 1940-46; and Marshal Alexander Papagos, war hero and premier of Greece.

COL. McCORMICK DIES

Leading deaths in the newspaper field included Col. Robert McCormick, 74, isolationist, anti-British publisher of the Chicago Tribune; Joseph Pulitzer, 70, publisher of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Frederick T. Birchall, 84, of the New York Times, who won the Pulitzer prize in 1933 for his articles on the rise of Hitler; physical culturist Bernarr Macfadden, 87, once head of a magazine empire; and Mai.-Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, 62, general manager of the New York Times.

The American stage lost one of its leading playwrights, Robert Sherwin.

In world of arts and letters, two other prominent Americans died—historian Bernard De Voto, 58, and biographer Marquis James, 64.

England lost novelist Horace Vachell, 94, a the cartoon world, J. Brandon Walsh, 72, creator of "Little Annie Rooney," died.

Versed singers, Ely and Maurice Utrillo, 71, two of the leading French modern painters, died during the year.

Two pro-Nazi French leaders, under death sentences for collaboration with the Germans; died in exile. They were Marcel Deat, 60, labor minister in the Vichy government, and Gen. Eugene Bridoux, 67, war secretary.

Another who died was Constant Mornet, 85, who prosecuted famed spy Mata Hari in the First World War and came out of retirement after the Second World War to win the conviction of Mashal Petain and Pierre Laval.

Among the military deaths were Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, 72, last commander - in - chief of Fascist Italy's forces; the Earl of Gowrie, 62, VC-winner in the Sudan campaign in 1898; Admiral John H. Towers, 70, father of U.S. naval aviation; and Admiral Sir Percy Noble, 75, who headed the British anti-sub campaign early in the last war.

In the world of finance and industry, Turkish - born Calouste Gulbenkian, one of the world's richest men who made his fortune in Middle East oil, died at the age of 86. Among other deaths were Isaak Walton Killam, 70, Canada's richest man; Sir Stephen Pigott, 73, British shipping executive credited with developing the engine of the "Queens"; Leonard Rosenthal, 83, who once cornered the world pearl market; and Edward T. Davis, 75, President of Aluminum Ltd. (Canada) for almost 30 years.

Many familiar faces of the stage and screen died in 1955. Carmen Miranda, the Brazilian bombshell, died at 41. Her colorful influence put women in tropical hats and zanier-than-ever hats, taught them to walk on wedges and made them jangle with costume jewelry from 1939 on.

Constance Collier, whose stage career covered seven decades, died at 73. Other well-known theatre names who died included Lillian Lorraine, 63, called by Florenz Ziegfeld the "most beautiful actress in the world;" Walter Hampden, 78, noted for his Shakespeare roles; Isabell Bonher, 47, who died on the stage in "The Solid Gold Shrine;" Suzan Ball, a victim of cancer at 21.

James Dean, 24, killed while driving his German sports car; John Hodiak, 41, star in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial;" and Theda Bara, 65, of the silent screen who set the style for exotic "vamps."

One of the theatre's leading producers to die was John Golden, 80, who produced about 150 plays including such Broadway hits as "Seventh Heaven."

The world of sports lost several of its most prominent personalities. In boxing, Tommy Burns (Noah Brusso), 73, world heavyweight champion, 1905-08, died in Vancouver. Among baseball deaths were Honus Wagner, 81, all-time great shortstop; Denton True (Cy) Young, 88, who won more games than any other pitcher; Clark Griffith, 85, owner of the Washington Senators since 1921, and brother Benjamin, 79, credited with discovering Babe Ruth.

Hockey lost Alfred (Pit) Lepine, 54, NHL great with the Canadiens for 13 seasons.

Other deaths included Dale Carnegie, 65, author of "How To Win Friends and Influence People" which sold 5,000,000 copies; aviation pioneer Glenn L. Martin, 69, who left nearly $4,000,000 to charity; Louis Renault, 75, Frenchman who flew his first plane in 1907 and founded Air France; Arthur Deakin, 64, general secretary of the British Trades Union Congress; Dan Tobin, 80, president of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters for 45 years; songwriter Andrew B. Sterlin, 80, ("Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," "Meet Me in St. Louis").

Transport Dept. Shares Blame In One Plane Crash

OTTAWA (CP) — Investigations into six northwest crashes of planes supplying the DEW (distant early warning) radar line have placed blame mainly on airline operations but have brought federal transport department officials under an assessation of subsidiary negligence in one case.

The department today made public a series of reports on the crashes of planes of Associated Airways Ltd. of Edmonton this year in which 13 persons were killed.

The company withdrew from the DEW airlift after the sixth crash. After this voluntary withdrawal, it was learned here, its operating authority for large aircraft was taken away by the transport department.

Meanwhile, informants said, Associated has given a purchase option to Pacific Western Airlines, of Vancouver, which recently picked up Queen Charlotte Airlines and now is seeking a transcontinental air coach franchise.

PWA has taken over Associated's role as prime contractor for DEW haulage into the far north with the United States military authorities. Its option on Associated Airways' assets, it was understood here, expires Jan. 30. Any purchase would have to be approved by the air transport board.

The crashups of Associated Airways planes on which the reports were made public today occurred between April 11 and Sept. 29 of this year. One was on a takeoff from the Edmonton airport by a two-engine Avro York aircraft May 26, in which the pilot and co-pilot were killed.

It was in connection with this crash that a public board of inquiry under Judge N. Y. Buchanan of Edmonton distributed blame to the transport department along with those responsible for loading the aircraft, which the board said was overloaded.

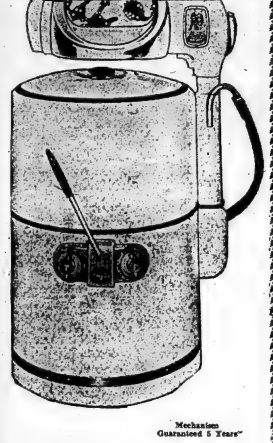
The board's report said today the York type of aircraft, with the load it was carrying and the weather prevailing, needed a run of 7,100 feet. The runway used was 5,700 feet long. In view of the runway length, the board said, the aircraft was overloaded.

The board added what it called these "additional items of negligence:"

1. The transport department issued a licence to the captain of the aircraft without examination either on his flying ability or his knowledge of the York's performance under northwestern conditions.

2. The department did not assure itself, before issuing a certificate of airworthiness for the York aircraft, that its owners possessed performance schedule. This is a document showing what a plane will do under various loads and under miscellaneous conditions of altitude, temperature and the like.

3. Associated Airways did not provide the pilot with a performance schedule.



Department officials, who did not wish to be quoted had this to say in reply to the board's criticism on the numbered points:

1. The captain was a Briton who had flown more than 3,000 hours in Yorks. The department followed the standard procedure of honoring his British licence, as is used by member countries of the International Civil Aviation Organization. It put him through a special examination on Canadian air regulations, which he passed.

2. The company's possession of the performance schedule was not checked specifically because (a) at the start of the rush job on the DEW line, there was choice of giving companies responsibility in getting under way or having no Canadian firm in that part of the airlift not wish to be muzzled, had this to (b) it has been standard practice for every aircraft owner to have one of these basic documents.

It also was stated that the performance schedule is not required by regulation for an airworthiness certificate—as the Buchanan board suggested—but is normally checked for an operating certificate qualifying the machine for a particular job rather than for its general airworthiness.

Three-year-old Henry is now happy—and recovering—at the Hospital for Sick Children. When he came to the hospital, the victim of an automobile accident, with a serious skull fracture and broken leg, he was on the critical list for weeks. This year, as in the past, the Hospital for Sick Children has operated at a substantial—although reduced—annual deficit. Friends and supporters of the hospital are now sending in their cheques in answer to the hospital's Christmas campaign for $213,776 to meet this operating loss.

RAWDON. — The Christmas meeting of Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Weaver with 16 members and six visitors in attendance.

The home was nicely decorated with a lighted tree. The hostess presided at the piano.

The president, Mrs. Fred Jeffs, read a poem "Millions Will Pause at Christmas Day to Celebrate the Birth of Christ."

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report and the treasurer reported for November.

The Baby Band, under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Merrick, has realized $45.41 and the Mission Band, with Mrs. Burton Sharpe as leader, has $125.

The calls were recorded and a "Poem of business done" with Mrs. John Holmes read a "Temperance" story about "Jimmy and His Dad."

INDIAN POPULATION

Mrs. Herbert Smith read a worship letter from Mrs. R. Coulter, presbyterial secretary, and synopsized the first chapter of "The Canadian Indian of To-day." This was written by the late George Dorey, and was based on the Indian population in Canada, the seven tribal classifications, the Reserve system, the government and the church.

The provision of educational services is entirely a federal responsibility. One of the local boys is Rev. Elgin Joblin, is engaged in that work. The Indians were the first Canadians to receive free medical and hospital service. The result is that tuberculosis among Indians is decreasing. The United Church has established outposts on missionary work in many places, some of which are Credit River, Grand River, Rice Lake, Muncey and others. The Rev. Peter Jones was one of the first converts and his name is revered. Alderville and a monument to him in his memory.

Dr. Dorey, in writing the chapter said: "In visiting the United Church Indian mission fields, he had come to see the realization of the prophet's words 'The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light'."

The program which was presented by Miss Ruth Linn and played over by Mrs. Roy Thrasher, opened with "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." Mrs. Rose Jeffs read "A Christmas Story" by Miranda Brown as published in the December Monthly. This was a narrative about Edith at an Indian school zone.

Mrs. Will Jeffs sang, with guitar accompaniment, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas".

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher read a selection entitled "How Far to Bethlehem Town?"

The president conducted the carol service based on "What Child is This?" in the November Monthly. A large selection of carols were sung beginning with "O Come All Ye Faithful". The president was assisted by Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Burton Sharpe. The meeting closed with a meditation from "The Upper Room".

Mrs. Thrasher read the Christmas Bible story and gave a Christmas meditation.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen sang "Silent Night". The service closed with "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night".

After the pastor pronounced the benediction, the hostess served tea and fruit cake and a short fellowship period was enjoyed.

Suspend Curfew, Bell-Ringer, 12, Can Greet 1956

VIENNA, Ont. (CP) — Twelve-year-old Paul Petzie has been probationary bell-ringer for six months in this community, 30 miles east of St. Thomas. Village officials Monday decided the job is his permanently—and the $100-a-year salary that goes with it.

He applied for the post last June when the former bell-ringer moved away, and started tolling the tower-mounted bell in his neighborhood three times a day.

Paul has asked permission to sound the passing of 1955 for the 342 citizens of Vienna and the usual 9 o'clock curfew has been waived for the occasion. Said one official:

CHRISTMAS

Now in hall and cottage, holly wreaths are hanging,
Homes are bright and cheery with the Christmas glow;
Back to home and fireside weary feet are trending,
Once again they're children as in the long ago.

Every care and worry to the wind they're flinging,
Careless of the sorrows that the years have brought of woe.
Oh! the happy spirit of good-will they're bringing Counting all the passions of the years as nought.

Gladsome is the greeting, gay the joyous giving,
In it does the semblance of our Lord appear;
Oh! the Christmas spirit makes a joy of living
Would its tender tokens might last throughout the year!

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON— The spirit of Christmas is in the air. We see it in the happy faces of the children and in the gay and friendly greeting of those we meet. Also Christmas lights and decorations already indicate the Christmas spirit. And Christmas cards are tickens of the holiday spirit in friends far and near. And in many a busy kitchen the fragrant aroma prevails, as is evidenced by the beautiful piece of Christmas cake brought to me by a kind neighbor. And Christmas gifts portray the spirit of the day.

GREETINGS FROM A DISTANCE

From Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Bowerman of Detroit, who are touring Europe, comes a kindly greeting, prized for the memories it recalls of a bright boy who was a pupil of mine in Melville school. From J. Wickson of California, who for some years was a neighbor at Conneon Lake, I received a card of remembrance. Also from Mr. and Mrs. Clem Bell of Connecticut, formerly of Conseon, comes friendly greetings bringing pleasant memories of summers in my country home. And Helen Arthur writes from Florida. From Midland, Ontario, Mrs. Gillies, a pen pal, writes of a summer trip to Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, returning by the north shore of the St. Lawrence of which she writes as follows:

"It was September and we had beautiful weather, enjoying every inch of the way. At Iroquois we followed a home being moved to its foundation on the new town site. What an upheaval for many! To some adventure, but to many of the older folk heartbreak in leaving their loved lands and pioneer homes."

Many of the school children are ill with measles a very unwelcome condition at the beginning of winter.

Mr. Alex. Tait, student at the Ontario College of Art, Toronto, and Miss Beverley Tait, teacher in training at Normal College, Toronto, will spend holidays at their home in Wellington. Other Christmas guests at the Tait home will include Mr. and Mrs. L. Armstrong, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dorland and Ann, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater are expecting to entertain a family party on Christmas guests including Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vandewater and daughters of Bath and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Orr, of London, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright will spend Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. Noble and Mr. Noble at West Lake. Mrs. Alberta Smith will also be a guest.

A pair of offering plates, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McFaul, in memory of Mrs. McFaul's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jacobs, was dedicated at the Sunday morning service of the United church by the Rev. A. Poulter.

Mrs. Ida McFaul is a patient in Belleville hospital.

Mrs. Jemima Peters is very ill at her home in Wellington. Their many friends are sincerely wishing for their recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clapp expect to spend Christmas in Toronto, guests of their son, Mr. Vernon Clapp, Mrs. Clapp and Christopher.

Mr. Gerald Stoneburg motored to Toronto on Tuesday, his first business trip since his motor accident.

UNITED CHURCH WMS

The Christmas meeting of the WMS of the United church was held in the church school room on Tuesday afternoon with a fine attendance. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg with Mrs. E. Mayhew, pianist and Mrs. B. Cronk, secretary. The guest speaker, Mrs. Denton Trenton, gave a fine address on Stewardship and an interesting reading was given by Mrs. Dean. At the close a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments. At the January meeting the new officers for 1956 will be installed.

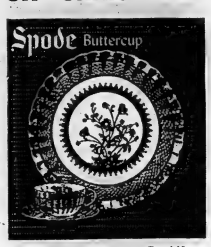
HAMILTON (CP) — A blaze virtually wiped out the Novelty Rubber Company on Canada street, when a gas heater burst into flames in the firm's production department early Tuesday.



A company spokesman, Howard Smith, declined to estimate the loss but reported "tremendous damage."

Production equipment was destroyed and the company's main shop, a one storey block building, gutted.

Several hydrants were found frozen and unserviceable, fire chief R. Swanbrough reported.

Schoolgirl Who Wanted Nashua To Get Horse

NEW YORK (AP)—A schoolgirl, whose $94.00 bid for Nashua was overshadowed by the $1,251,300 the champion racehorse was sold for, is going to get a horse after all.

Officials of the Hanover Bank, which handled the Nashua sale, are chipping in to buy another horse as a Christmas gift for Karen Ann McGuire, 12, of Valhalla, N.Y.

Don Hassell, assistant secretary of the bank, said the officials were so impressed by the girl's desire to have a horse that the idea of buying one "just snowballed."

Karen doesn't have her pet yet but she has chosen its name—"Hanover's Winding Star."

She did not limit her bid to Nashua but offered to buy one of Nashua's "friends"—other horses sold in the same auction. If one were left without a purchaser.

HAS OTHER PETS

The animal-loving girl already has a Great Dane dog, two large white rabbits and a pet frog.

In a letter accompanying her bid, some weeks ago, she said she probably would save more money by the time of the sale and would be able to "pay a little more" than the $24.01. She continued:

"The horse will have a good home, 1½ acres of woods and fields and loving care. I would like a horse that would grow old with me."

Enclosed was a crayon drawing of Nashua.

Hassell called at the McGuire home Saturday and made sure it would be all right with the family if she had a horse.

Several Bidding for Detroit Tigers Sale Will Be Made After Holidays

DETROIT (AP)—Any ideas you might have had about buying a Tiger for Christmas suffered a setback today. Tigers, at least the Detroit baseball variety, won't be for sale until after the holidays.

That was the official word as a New York syndicate joined the list of prospective bidders for the Detroit franchise in the American League.

Although New York reports said the syndicate, headed by Cy Block, one-time Chicago Cubs infielder, had offered more than $2,000,000 for the club, the bid was viewed here as a "just looking, thank you" inquiry.

Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr., Tigers President, received a letter from Block Tuesday. He said money wasn't mentioned but that Block asked for information about the club with a view to buying.

TRUST COMPLICATIONS

The club, which has been in the Briggs family for years, probably will be sold to somebody before the 1956 season opens. Some legal experts say that complications arising from a trust established by Walter Briggs Sr., will force the sale.

At the moment Tigers are ow by a trust which includes Sp. Briggs and his four sisters.

Spike would like the club his self. But he failed in one bid earl. In the fall. A syndicate which hi headed offered between $2,500,00 and $3,000,000. It was turned down. Then two are reported to be as sociated with Block. They include Lester Feigberg, a Boston realtor who said Tuesday night:

"I feel this deal is going through very soon."

Briggs said any firm offer from Block's group will be considered, but not until after Jan. 1. Briggs said any others would have to wait until then, too.

FELT WOULD FAVOR

Sources close to the club have said they felt the Briggs family would favor a Detroit or Michigan bid if possible. Several Detroit groups are known to have been interested.

Other prospective buyers have been reported to include James D. Norris, whose family owns the Detroit Red Wings hockey team; Edwin J. Anderson, president of the Detroit Lions football team; Bill Veeck, former Cleveland and St. Louis owner, and the National Brewing Co.

Henry Ford II president of the Ford Motor Co., originally was reported to be a member of Briggs' syndicate. Then the word was that Ford wanted the club on his own. But Ford spokesmen later said the auto magnate is not in the market for a ball team.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Connie Mack, baseball's grand old man, received a Christmas present Tuesday—discharge from Presbyterian Hospital where he was a patient for six days while 2-rays were taken of the hip he fractured in a fall on Oct. 1.

Connie celebrates his 93rd birthday Friday. The x-rays showed the hip was healing well.

FROM THE ROCKET

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan (The Man) Musial Tuesday night collected another award.

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal, hockey's top scorer, presented one of his No. 9 jerseys to the man he calls "baseball's greatest hitter."

The presentation was made to the St. Louis Cardinal star prior to the Montreal - Chicago game here. Musial has the most hits of any active baseball player.

Richard said he has long been a Musial fan.

FIGHT IN GERMANY

BRANTFORD (CP) — Gordon Wallace, 26 - year - old Brantford middleweight who recently scored a fourth round knockout over Randy Turpin in London, Eng., will make his next ring appearance in Germany, it was reported here Tuesday.

His manager, Frank Bricker, said Wallace has agreed to fight Hans Stretz in Berlin Jan. 13. Stretz is ranked third among European middleweights.

Wallace, who has campaigned extensively for five years as a middleweight and light-heavy in Canada and the United States, gained international prominence Oct. 18 when he knocked out Turpin. Since then he has scored a 10-round decision over Britain's Terrence Murphy in London.

BASILIO WINS AWARD

NEW YORK (AP) — For his stirring, come-from-behind victory over Tony DeMarco, welterweight champion, Carmen Basilio Tuesday was named winner of the November award in the pro athlete of the year poll.

Thus the able, 147-pound titlist from Chittenango, N.Y., became the 11th monthly prize winner to qualify for the grand annual trophy, the $10,000 diamond-studded gold-buckled belt that goes to the pro athlete of 1955.

Basilio received 54 first-place votes and 226 points (on a 3-2-1 basis) to beat out jockey Willie Hartack (27 first-placers and 177 points).

NEWCOMBE SIGNS

BROOKLYN (AP) — Don Newcombe, the big Brooklyn Dodger righthander, signed his 1956 contract Tuesday for a reported $25,000.

This is $7,500 more than he received in 1954 but a compromise of the $30,000 figure he said a couple of months ago he would demand or stage a holdout.

The 240-pound 29-year-old pitcher whose 20 pitching victories and .359 batting average helped Brooklyn to the National League championship, reached agreement with vice-president E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi in the Dodgers' Flatbush offices.

HELD BOXING TITLE

HAMILTON (CP)—Rev. Gregory Gregerson, former Canadian flyweight boxing champion, has accepted a call to Central United Church. Mr. Gregerson won the flyweight title with a technical knockout over Aurelian Lamothe at Quebec City in 1935. He retired undefeated to study for the ministry.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Doc Gagnon may be the best playing coach in this senior "B" setup, and he may have a lot of professional experience behind him. He can boast a fine scoring record—and one of the best, if not the best, senior "B" squads to come out of Eastern Ontario since the classification was born.

But, Mr. Gagnon, if last night's action can be judged a criterion, has a lot to learn about a thing called sportsmanship. He was the principal of one of the most acts of unsportsmanlike conduct these hockey-weary eyes have seen in a long while.

Gagnon was seated on the Whitby players bench when the brawl started near the Belleville nets between the TPT goalie, Tony Parisi, and Neil Attersley. From the press box it seemed a flurry of players milled around the Belleville goal following a Dunlop power play. Fists started to fly from nowhere and from it emerged Parisi and Attersley swinging at each other like a farmer's gate. They went to the ice and players of both teams milled around. There was a general mix-up and from our seat it appeared Bill McMaster was trying to keep Ted DeGray out of the brawl.

When matters cooled off, Parisi and Attersley were tabbed with minor and major penalties for fighting. McMaster and DeGray were given majors for "fighting."

After that we had a choice helicopter view of the proceedings. As McMaster neared the Whitby players' bench sticks flew and he was hauled into it. Gagnon pounced on him, brought him down, face down, and started throwing punches on the prostrate TPT defenceman.

And it is no credit to the Dunlop players who were seated on the bench that they made no effort to stop the show, even after Gagnon should have been satisfied with enough. It was a matter of fact that they placed him in a hero's role with words of encouragement.

It was not until Vern Goyer climbed into the players' box and pulled Gagnon off McMaster, that some kind of order was restored.

With Gagnon and McMaster were tabbed with match penalties which automatically call for suspension until the circumstances have been investigated by the OHA. However, talking with Referee Moon Flanagan in his dressing room after the game, he intimated the match penalties may be changed.

The brawl apparently was an outbreak of an old feud that has existed between McMaster and Gagnon since last season when the Belleville defenceman was playing coach of the Peterborough team. It was unveiled that the pair tangled in a Peterborough-Whitby game and McMaster is alleged to have bitten Gagnon's ear. Later in the season, and one which rebuked him of the chance to win the group scoring championship, Gagnon was given a three-game suspension.

Whether McMaster said anything to Gagnon as he neared the penalty box to serve Parisi's sentence could not be ascertained from the press box. But Gagnon's action in hauling the Belleville player into the players' box was plainly apparent.

Up to this point, it was the best display of senior "B" hockey seen here this season. Undaunted by the Dunlops' imposing record and their recent 15-2 drubbing of the second place Kingston Frontenac, the TPT's came up with a brilliant two-way performance as the first and second period scores indicate. It was fast, hard-checking hockey with both goals having narrow escapes and Parisi especially coming up with some sensational saves.

After the smoke of argumentative war had cleared the teams squared away with four players aside, and ten minutes to play. But the fight, it seemed was gone out of the Teeps. The Dunlops supplied with a sudden surge of power and rammed home five goals in a dozen minutes to take an 8-3 lead. But the Teeps, paced by Vern Goyer and Davy Jones, flashed to life in the final minutes. Goyer and Davy forayed neatly on two occasions with the big fella scoring a pair of beautiful goals to cut the margin to 8-5.

We do not profess to know anything about officiating. We never aspired to the role of arbiter except in the back league years ago when a ref carried a hickory stick for personal protection only. But we fail to see, unless there are other circumstances why McMaster was tabbed with a match penalty. From the press box and apparently to the players on the Belleville bench the player was backed into the players' box and subjected to a pummellingwithout even being given a chance to protect himself.

Rocket, Boom-Boom Edouble With 3 Each to Pace Pack; Beliveau, Olmstead in on Kill

By JIM EASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Let's face it chaps, Montreal Canadiens seem to be getting stronger all the time.

The Montrealers, with Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion each breaking out with three goals, clobbered Chicago Black Hawks 7-1 Tuesday night. The lopsided score certainly didn't give any indication the Habs are about to falter in their hot pace at the top of the National Hockey League race.

The victory increased Canadiens' lead to 14 points over the second-place New York Rangers and was, in a way, a reply to general manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings who has said the Habs are not as good under pressure.

Canadiens weren't up against the Wings and they weren't under pressure, but they looked mighty impressive in the engagement, played at St. Louis before 4,256 customers.

GOOD FOR BOOM-BOOM

It was a night to do good night for Geoffrion, who had been in a bit of a slump since the 1955-56 campaign started. The three goals increased his output in 33 games this season to 16. He had 30 goals over the 70-game route last season.

Centre Jean Beliveau maintained his lead in the individual scoring race with one goal and two assists. He has 39 points in 31 games to 37 points, three ahead of Canadien left winger Bert Olmstead, who picked up four assists Tuesday night.

Rookie goaltender Bob Perreault of Montreal, who shut out Chicago Saturday night on 3 shots and was robbed of another whitewash by Johnny Wilson's 18th goal of the season got 31-15 of the second period.

Richard, 34-year-old right winger heading for a 500-goal mark, scored in the first 2:45 seconds of the game and again in the second and third periods. Geoffrion did the same.

BIG LEAGUE RECORD

Richard's three goals gave him a total of 440 regular-season markers in his 16-year career with Canadiens—a big-league record.

The game, the only one of the night and held at St. Louis to help promote hockey in that city, was strictly a Montreal affair. Four Canadien goals were scored while Hawks, in fourth place in the standings, were shut out for the 13th time.

Chicago defenceman Gus Mortson was off when Geoffrion counted his first goal at 8:31 of the opening period. He scored his second goal at 14:46 of the second period, was forced with Referee Red Storey and Linesman Cliff Thompson as Dewsbury was in the penalty box.

Mortson was sitting out a minor again when Beliveau fired one behind netminder Al Rollins at 1:36 of the third period. Nineteen seconds later, Richard made it 6-1 with Morton still serving time.

Sports Announcer Appointed To Lark Executive

MONTREAL (CP) — Michel (Mike) Normandin, popular bilingual sportscaster, widely known throughout Quebec province, Tuesday was appointed executive director of Montreal Alouettes football club.

Normandin, now 40, has been active in sports in connection with radio and television for 20 years. His association with the Big Four club will not require him to relinquish his present commitments.

Normandin's appointment, announced by Alouette president Leo Dandurand and executive vice-president Ted Workman, comes two weeks after a break between general manager Vic Obeck and the other executive members.

NO EXPLANATION

No explanation of the break accompanied Tuesday's announcement, Dandurand said he and Workman will take a more active part in the operations of the club. Normandin will help to carry out their decisions and will be assigned considerable promotional work.

Workman said there will be no appointment, as such, to the general manager's post. He indicated that, following the break, Obeck had told Workman he could see that might be injurious to his future, Obeck himself has long had his differences with how and continue with this.

Normandin was identified by Workman with playing an outstanding part in creating the fast-growing interest in football among French-Canadian sports fans.

He handled the French radio broadcasts of the home games of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens and the playoffs away and at home—for 12 years.

Dutchies Angry After Argo Raid On Players

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Union announced Tuesday they have almost two players from Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Spike Keenan, past president of the Dutchmen, had this to say after Argos signed tackle John Canelo of Kitchener and end Mat Pagnan of Guelph:

"We're fed up. We certainly will exercise our right under the Canadian Rugby Union's jurisdiction to take legal action against any club that we can prove has tampered with our players.

"The club executive has not been any Big Four or western Canada club any permission to tamper with our players. We have given no release or intend to release any of our ball players."

NEED BEST PLAYERS

The players are unable to sign officially with Argos until Kitchener-Waterloo releases their OHU cards.

Argo team manager Harry Sonshine said Kearns' reaction was the first he heard about there was anything wrong in the transaction.

"I don't know what good taking me to court would do," Sonshine said.

"Their coach (Harvey Johnson) gave me permission to sign their play," was quoting to him Tuesday . I he said to me that the boys were unhappy in getting a chance with Argonauts.

"All Kearns could do would be to release them, by refusing. So how could he do that when we have their permission? Let them coach to talk to their players? We did nothing without the approval of Johnson."

TALKS TO COACH

Sonshine said he always talked to a coach if he wanted one of his players.

"I assumed he would have the right to make a deal, although I felt he had the authority," Sonshine said.

At Kitchener, Johnson said he had talked to Sonshine Tuesday but Sonshine hadn't told him of the signings.

"I did give Argos permission to talk to our kids," Johnson said. "We don't want to penalize our players' chances of making a Big Four club. We have developed some players who'd make a Big Four club but we will not release them without some remuneration."

Bratton Gets Forfeit Purse

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania athletic commission chairman James Penrose today announced Tuesday that a $3,000 forfeiture will be returned to former welterweight champion Johnny Bratton, now in retirement at Detroit.

The money was held out of a $4,700 purse due Bratton for a fight he lost to Johnny Saxton of Philadelphia here Feb. 24, 1954.

The forfeiture was ordered because of Bratton's performance in the ring that night. Bratton appealed to the state commissioner, the state superior court ordered a re-hearing before the commission. In the meantime, a Democratic administration replaced the Republican administration and a new commission was named.

Commission chairman Crowley said Tuesday it was decided "on the basis of the testimony of Bratton's manager, his wife and of the fight" that Bratton was badly beaten and that the fighter was "over the hill" as a fighter, not because of any effort to "deceive the public."

Ferguson, Mohns Rejoin Bruins

BOSTON (AP)—Wingers Lorne Ferguson and Doug Mohns, sidelined with injuries for the last three games, Tuesday were pronounced fit and will rejoin Boston Bruins for tonight's National Hockey League clash against the Rangers at New York.

Coach Milt Schmidt said he plans to use Ferguson on a line with Fleming Mackell and Johnny Peirson, while Mohns will team with Cal Gardner and Vic Stasiuk.

'Tough to Beat'

Bobby Bauer Refuses to Panic Over Russian Hockey Power

By MILT MacPHAIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Bauer, coach of Canada's Olympic hockey team, refuses to panic over reports of Russian hockey power. But he readily admits the Russians will be "tough to beat" in the winter Olympic Games at Cortina, Italy, next month.

Bauer will be a big factor in the Jan. 26-Feb. 5 games and both Canada, representing the Kilchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, and Russia, have it.

However, who has his own espionage system to scout the Russians, said in a telephone interview Tuesday from his Kitchener home that the Russians are "pretty good."

"As a matter of fact I hear—and I don't doubt—that they are the No. 1 club in Europe. They are fast, big and well-conditioned and these are the things that will be hard to beat."

"I've heard all about the Russian victories over English teams made up mostly of Canadians. They were only exhibition games but we can't overlook the fact that these English League teams took some bad beatings. The Russians simply outstarted them."

In one game, the Soviets whipped Wembley Lions 11-1. They were unbeaten in their English tour. Later they twice beat Harringay Racers, another English League club, in Moscow.

"From what I've been told the Russians will have a stronger club than last spring when they were beaten 5-0 by Penticton Vs for the world title," said Bauer, who starred for Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League a decade ago.

Bobby concedes that speed will be important.

"For one thing the rink over there is 200 feet by 100 feet and that gives a'fast man plenty of ice surface. Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto is 200 by 85.

"I know the Russians are fast. But we have very fast team ourselves and we're a higher-scoring team than last season when we won the Allan Cup. However, I don't think we are as strong defensively as last season but I've got a couple of defencemen in mind who can help us."

Asked whether the strict European refereeing would hurt Canada's chances, Bauer replied:

"I don't think it will bother us. The players know that a clean bodycheck in your own end is legal and that charging or boarding will be called immediately. I had heard that those European referees make a strict interpretation of the rules but I was told by some officials of the Penticton team that the refereeing was very fair last spring in Germany. Our club intends to play it clean all the way through the tournament."

The Dutchmen, who hold a sizable lead in the senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association, have 20 players on the roster. The list must be chopped to 17 to meet Olympic regulations.

"I'm pretty well set on who will go to Italy but I'm waiting until

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

The nicest season of the year is not just for the small ones who believe that there's a real Santa Claus. There is a real Santa Claus for all of us in the spirit of a season, born in the manger, the stranger that love was so mean at the inn.

Shadow-box with the calendar as long as you can, there comes a day — yesterday, today, tomorrow — when that old Christmas feeling has you and you're in the mood, scrambling around the stores and the flower shops and the like, trying to do some of the things the feelings you should have suggest.

For that strange thing, the Christmas spirit, which materializes out of empty air, has suddenly caught at your heartstrings, just as it caught at the heartstrings of generations of mental impulses of Scrooge, and suddenly wrenched him out of his miserable, miserly and unfriendly life to bring joy and happiness to the Cratchits. That's the power of the Christmas spirit, that unexplainable power that has outlasted the centuries, was, batteried and privations.

It is a power that has you wishing you could in some way say, "Merry Christmas" once more to all everywhere. Because that is the way it is at Christmas.

Before this week, you were perhaps determined to adhere to a belief that Christmas is for the youngsters only, that you weren't going to be bothered with the hurly-burly and madness of Christmas shopping that you were going to spend the week-end just as though it was any other weekend.

Don't fool yourself. The spirit of Christmas is "going to get you" in the end. By Saturday night, you'll probably be wearing white whiskers, and sleigh-bells for a necktie. You may find yourself sending barrels of apples, great bags of nuts and candies to the children's hospitals, the boys' clubs and all the other places that can use Christmas cheer.

We know you're going to do this; or something like this, because the spirit of Christmas is far too strong to be resisted. And too strange to be explained, this once-a-year surge of charity that represents the human heart functioning at its beautiful best.

League-leading Shawinigan Falls Cataracts and fourth-place Quebec Aces won Quebec Hockey League games Tuesday night.

The Cataracts whipped the second-place Montreal Royals 6-1 at Shawinigan Falls in a match featured by a 16-penalty second period. Shawinigan Falls now is 18 points ahead of Montreal.

At Chicoutimi, the Saguenenns dropped a close 3-2 decision to the Aces, who won their fourth consecutive game. Jean Guilbault scored the winner in the third period, pulling Aces within seven points of Chicoutimi, who lost chance to move into a tie with Montreal.

Jan. 10 to name the senior, Shawbody might get injured before then but no one will be able to make the trip" Bauer said. The club expects to leave for Italy about a week after the team is named.

TPTs Toss 2-Period Scare Into Powerful Whitby Dunlops Then Bow 8-5

Brawling Episode Mars Game in Furious 3rd Period; Two Players Get Suspensions

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Whitby Dunlops' steamroller, stopped dead in its tracks for two periods by a desperate, hard-fighting Belleville TPT's squad, picked up sufficient momentum in the third heat here last night to snatch an 8-5 victory and increase their top-slot senior "B" margin.

For two periods the teams battled in one of the best, if not the best hockey displays seen in Memorial Arena this season. The first period ended with the teams deadlocked at two-all, the second closed with a three-all stalemate.

Then it happened. In the middle of the third period one of the most unexalled-for exhibitions of sportsmanship seen in this city marred the game, resulting in a rash of penalties and a near general free-for-all.

It happened after Tony Parisi and Neil Attersley had been heaved out with a major and minor for fighting near the Belleville goal. Bill McMaster, who had also been penalized, had nearsed the penalty box when Gagnon reminded out with his stick and hauled the Belleville defenceman into the Whitby players' box. There he pulled McMaster down, held him there and pummelled him with both fists, with police and players apparently helpless.

Players of both teams milled around the box until Vern Goyer climbed in and stopped the display. Referees Moon Mulligan and Ken Partis of Kingston assessed McMaster and Gagnon with match penalties which automatically suspends them until the case is heard by the OHA.

McMaster was also tabbed with a major as was Ted DeGray for allegedly fighting during the Parisi-Atterley fracas. The Belleville goalie who had far the better of the fisticuffing drew a major and minor as did the Whitby player. By the time the argumentative smoke had cleared both teams were whittled down to four players a side.

GOOD FOR TWO PERIODS

For two periods it was as neat a piece of puck-chasing as one would want to see. While the TPTs did not have the finish or finesse of the fleet Whitby lines, they more than made up for the lack in a fierce display of fore- and aft-checking highlighted by a brilliant display in goal by Tony Parisi.

They matched the Dunlops stride for stride and check for check. Donlevy in the Dunnies nets can vouch for their close-in efforts.

Only five penalties were handed out in the first two periods, four of them coming in the first frame. The handful of spectators who braved the zero weather and had finished their Christmas shopping the TPTs' short McMaster and Chum Fryia who was injured, Redmond, DeGray, Bonello, Air and Bobby Attersley were the markmen in the Dunlops sudden surge of power.

But the TPTs battled gamely and slammed home two quick goals in the dying minutes of the game. Davy Jones and Vern Goyer combined beautifully on a pair of two-men plays that saw the latter beat Donlevy cleanly to cut the margin to 8-5. That's how it ended.

Peter Jones and Goyer scored two goals each for the TPTs with Mulholland getting the odd one. Air paced the Dunlops with two, with Williams, O'Connor, Bonello, Redmond, Attersley and DeGray getting singles.

The TPTs return to Whitby tonight in another senior "B" fray. The Brockville - Belleville game slated for Friday here has been postponed indefinitely.

Mumps Tackles Rams' Centre

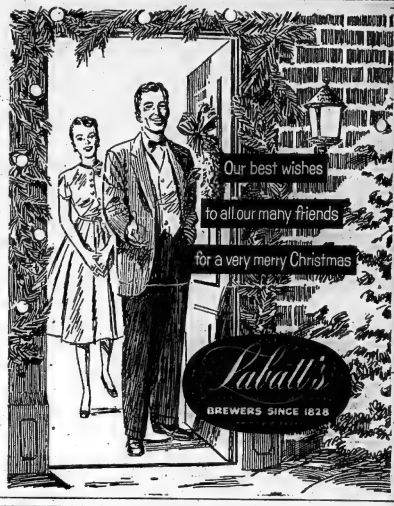
LOS ANGELES (AP)—What next for Los Angeles Rams?

Victims of an uncommon run of injuries all season, Rams today faced the possibility of meeting Cleveland Browns for the National Football League championship without the services of their veteran offensive centre.

Leon McLaughlin, it developed, has the mumps.

The 225-pound product from the University of California at Los Angeles is in bed, the team physician won't know until later this week whether he can play—and coach Sid Gillman had still another major worry:

Did anyone else—including himself—catch the mumps from the lineman of the Ram squad?



It's too early to tell.

Gillman, shaken just the day before when his big fullback, Tank Younger, was sidelined with a broken neck vertebra, set about to improvise.

He said Bobby Cross, 230-pound offensive tackle, will take over McLaughlin's place except on pass plays in the Monday game.

Personal Views on Some TV Shows Over Past Weekend

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One viewer's personal views of some television programs over the late lamented weekend, etc.:

"Ford Star Jubilee (CBS-TV) had its full share of the ups and downs of the season when it slung together a dish called "I Hear America Sing." The ingredients contained a touch of distorted history, a spoonful of slapstick and a big old mess that just didn't rise.

Eddie Fisher, on whom fell the burden for the long 90 minutes, is a pleasant young man with a pleasant voice. As yet his personality doesn't carry the authority for such a program—though it's difficult to name one who might have carried off this one. To judge from the squeals of delight from youngsters in the studio audience when he and Debbie Reynolds did a closing routine, however, this may be the view of an old fogey.

It's virtually impossible for that charming couple Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn to fail to entertain. They invested on "TV Playhouse" (NBC-TV) despite little help from Samuel Kinser, author of "Christmas Til Closing."

NEW INTERPRETATION

There's really nothing new left to say about Christmas, but the script-treated two many old things: the incivilities of Christmas buying, the effect partly, the commercialism, the frantic household, the lonely girl from Kansas. But new production provided a good measure of pleasant entertainment. . . .

The gospels of Matthew and Luke contain references to the betrothal of John the Baptist that have intrigued writers for centuries. No interpretation is more arresting than Oscar Wilde's "Salome." Writing in the pre-Freudian era in a high pre-Raphaelite prose, he told of Salome, who demanded the head of John the Baptist in return for dancing before her lustful stepfather, Herod.

"Omnibus" is to be congratulated for its production of this drama, starring Earths Kitt, the singer, actress and dancer in her biggest TV role to date. Miss Kitt scored a genuine triumph by departing from the usual interpretation of Salome. She chose to speak in the dull small-girl tones and to act at times in the manner of the type of modern girl who is sometimes called "Honeybear."

You'll be Thanked Again and Again for a real holiday spirit—and it's so easy and inexpensive. Keep a supply of Wrigley's Spearmint Gum on hand, to treat your family and friends, especially at this time of year. Here's a pure, wholesome treat that everybody appreciates. Get some today.

Gerry Goyer Fires Home Four Goals In Biltmores 12-4 Win Over Barrie

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two Barrie Flyers goaltenders failed to stop Guelph Biltmores from registering a one-sided victory Tuesday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A.

Biltmores poured nine goals behind Tom Cavers in the two periods then scored three times against Bob Senior in the third as they defeated the Flyers 12-3 at Guelph.

In the other league game, at Kitchener, the league - leading Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks increased their margin to three points with a 5-1 win over Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

The Canucks have won 14 games and tied one in 20 starts for 29 points. The Majors are second with 26 and St. Catharines Teepees third with 26.

Gerry Goyer fired four goals to lead the Biltmores. Defencemen Wally Chevrier and Don McMillan each counted twice and Al Cleary, Bob Forhan, Tom Jensen and Dan Pelisie added single goals. George Ranieri, Bob Beckett and John Chaszewski were the Barrie marksmen.

Goyer gave Guelph a 1-0 lead early in the first period but Ranieri's goal tied the score. Chevrier put Biltmores ahead 2-1 and two more counters by Goyer gave Guelph a 4-1 lead at the end of the period. It was 9-2 after the second.

A flight broke out early in the final frame and referee Jack Shropshire assessed five majors, a 10-minute misconduct and a game misconduct as a result of the fracas. Guelph received three majors and the misconduct. Blake Ball of Barrie received the game-misconduct.

A crowd of 1,000 fans saw Kitchener-Waterloo spot St. Michael's a 1-0 lead then go on to score the winning goal midway through the second period and three times in the final 20 minutes.

Stan Baluik and Ken Gribbons each scored once for the winners and Wilie O'Ree counted the other. Defenceman Noel Price scored the Majors' goal. Referee Hugh McLean handed out six minor penalties, three to each team.

Thinks Wings Can Catch Canadiens

'Not a Pressure Club' Says Mr. Adams

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—General manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings said Tuesday the leading Montreal Canadiens still can be caught in the National Hockey League race.

"They're not a good pressure club," Adams stated. "If we can put the pressure on them they'll lose their heads again.

"I may be the eternal optimist but I think we can catch them."

The Red Wings, champions of the NHL for the last seven seasons, currently are struggling in third place, 18 points behind the high-flying Canadiens.

Detroit has a 9-30-11 record, compared to Montreal's glittering mark of 34-5-3.

JUST STARTING

"Sure they've got a big lead on us but we're a young club and are just starting to move," Adams said. "Our young legs are going to mean a lot in the January-February-March stretch drive.

"Remember, we were nine points behind them last February and everybody said we were finished. But we won the championship. We can do it again."

The Red Wings' comeback last season was the finest in hockey history. They went unbeaten in the final 12 games, winning the last nine in a row, and beat out the Canadiens on the final night of the season.

"Montreal hasn't had a slump yet," Adams pointed out. "They're due for one. On the other hand, our younger players are just starting to roll."

LONGER THAN EXPECTED

Adams said it has taken longer than he had anticipated for the new members of the Red Wings to learn the Detroit system of play.

Last summer Adams gave his club a thorough shakeup, dealing off eight players for nine in two big trades.

"The player I'm really satisfied with is Glenn Hall," Adams said. "The kid has done everything—and more—to prove he belongs in the big leagues."

Hall has replaced goalie Terry Sawchuk, traded to Boston Bruins. He has allowed more than two goals a game this season and has seven shutouts to Sawchuk's credit—most in the league.

Hall has scored shutouts in Detroit's last three games and hasn't allowed a goal in the last 180 minutes and 31 seconds.

"Sawchuk was a good boy for us," Adams said, "but I'm not the least bit sorry about the trade. Hall has been terrific for us."

TO SEPARATE JOBS

HAMILTON (CP)—Directors of the Hamilton Tiger-Cat Football Club Tuesday night decided to separate the appointment of general manager and head coach.

For six years, the dual job was held by Carl Voyles, who quit the Big Four club two weeks ago to take a real estate job in Toronto.

Directors appointed a committee of president Jake Gaudaur, Gordon Lawson and J. E. McMahon to undertake the job of finding and hiring men to fill both positions

Community Files Suit Against Chiefs' Owner

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Central New York Community Baseball Corporation, Tuesday night filed a legal action against Martin D. Haske, owner of the International League Chiefs.

Haske was served with a summons in the action instituted by the baseball corporation directors and authorized at a meeting Tuesday.

The summons requires Haske to show cause why he should not be forced to follow through on a contract he made to sell the Chiefs to the community-formed corporation.

A spokesman for the corporation also said that it would seek a court order compelling Haske to go through with his original contract to sell the Chiefs to the Syracuse group, and that money damages would be sought.

TO MIAMI

Haske telegraphed Miami officials late Monday that the Syracuse corporation had not signed a contract and he offered to sell the baseball club to that city.

The Community Corporation here had raised more than $50,000 to meet the sale price Haske had put on the club. He was reported to have been offered $100,000 by Miami interests.

Haske was reported to have made a verbal agreement to sell the club to the Syracuse corporation but at contract signing time, interested parties said, he balked on a request that he furnish the buyers with a list of shareholders.

HAVANA (AP)—Bobby Maduro, owner of the Havana club in the International Baseball League, said Tuesday that switching the Syracuse franchise to Miami was "the greatest thing that could happen to our league."

"The change should produce a natural rivalry between Havana and Miami. In addition, it eases the travel situation by breaking the long journey from Richmond, Va., to Havana," he said. Until Miami joined the circuit, Richmond was the southernmost U.S. team in the circuit.

"Plus all those advantages, Miami could prove to be a very successful baseball town," Maduro added.

Miami Better Baseball Town Than Syracuse

GLENWOOD, N.M. (AP)—Bill Veeck, former president and general manager of Cleveland Indians, said Tuesday that Miami, Fla., "at its worst will be five times as good a baseball town as Syracuse, N.Y."

Veeck said he feels Miami is "extremely fortunate" in getting the Syracuse franchise in the triple "A" International League.

He said this is especially true with Sidney Salomon, Jr., on the scene. Salomon, former executive vice-president of the old St. Louis Browns, and Elliott Stein, St. Louis investment banker, bought the Syracuse franchise Monday for about $100,000.

Veeck, at his ranch 15 miles north of this western New Mexico community, said he will help in any way he can to get the new Miami club started. At Miami, Salomon announced that Veeck will handle the club.

Asked about a published report that Veeck is a major investor in the club, Veeck replied:

Aussies Design New Tennis Rules

MELBOURNE (AP) — Drastic new tennis rules were announced Tuesday by the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia designed to curb under-the-table payments to amateurs who go on private tours overseas.

Officials framed a rule requiring any player desiring to go abroad to make application to the LTAA accompanied by a complete list of tournaments in which he proposes to participate. Estimates of the total amount of expenses the player expects to receive also must be provided.

Rex Hartwig, former Aussie David Cup player now touring the United States as a professional with the Jack Kramer group, is said to have told friends here that as an amateur he could have taken more along on a tennis tour next year and return with a profit.

The Old West when guns roared and a gang of desperadoes were apt to take over and run a town unless there were men brave enough to stop them is told in the exciting new western, "Top Gun," a United Artists release opening Thursday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Sterling Hayden has the starring role as a gun fighter come back to warn his home town of an impending raid by a gang of marauders, against whose vicious tactics the little village is ill-equipped. Since Hayden's behavior in that town (he was Reputed to have killed several men —which later turned out to be in self-defence) is suspect, his help is not only refused, but he is given just a few hours to get out of the city.

William Bishop, as leader of the town council, heads the opposition to Hayden. Karen Booth is the pretty young girl both Bishop and Hayden are interested in. Regis Toomey plays the role of a bartender who befriends Hayden, and helps him trap the ringleader of the outlaws, a role played by John Dehner.

Richard Schayer and Steve Fisher wrote the screenplay from the latter's story. Ray Nazarro directed the film.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Enthusiasm is a "must" if you would gain the benefits possible today. Be alert to the fact that others are reaching for the same goals as you.

February 19 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Go about regular duties with dispatch, but not anxiety; take on new obligations cheerfully; be your good-humored, capable self. Do not give way to worry or misgivings.

You born today have some unusual traits. You are uniquely intuitive at times; can make others pause to reflect. You may seem to be depressed occasionally, but actually you are creating an atmosphere of sober thought from which better judgment ensues. You are practical, prudent, an excellent organizer; would be an able, fair executive, and could rise to a high position from an humble beginning. Be without fear and seek the blessings of learning. Do not let discouragement or melancholy warp ambition.

Find Lost Child

PARIS, Ont. (CP) — Searchers discovered eight-year-old Sandra Carey shivering under a bush a day night several hours after she should have arrived home from school.
More than 70 police and volunteer searchers had combed the town in sub-zero weather after girl's mother Mrs. Jack Carey reported her missing. Sandra was believed to have become lost after she tried to walk home from a after-school visit at the home of a friend.
She suffered no ill-effects, Mrs. Carey said.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was watching pop smoking to himself in his private chair, and I said, Hay pop, dont tell me what you got me for Christmas, I'd rather be serprized.

I had no intension of spoiling your serprize, but thanks for clarifying my mind on the matter, pop said, and went on. But of course if I did know what it was ahead of time, I could look faliward to it with even more excitement.

That's the trouble with you, pop said is popularly called anticipation, pop said. Anticipation is the enemy of serprize, and that's where we came in, isn't it? he said, and I said, Yes sir.

I hope you have a pleasant serprize, pop said, and I said, I do, so do I. How about you, pop? Do you want me to tell you so you can anticipate it? I said.

Serprize me, by all means, pop said, and I said, Well, in case you want to choose your own serprize, I haven't quite decided whether to serprize you with a necktie or a bottle of Manly's Manly Shave Lotion.

It's a difficult choice, pop said. I'm sure the necktie would amaze all my friends, but the shave lotion would be bound to smell better. I think you better serprize me with the shave lotion, he said, and I said, Okay, pop, and now you can enjoy some anticipation too.

You bet, I can smell it now, pop said, and said, he can I, too.

Which could, on account of having smelt it already in the Cut Rate Novelty Store.

Soviet Chiefs Arrive Home To Big Welcome

By SIDNEY HEILAND

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev reported strengthened support in Asia for the Soviet Union on their return home today from visits to India, Burma and Afghanistan.

Khrushchev, the communist party secretary, told thousands gathered at an open-air welcoming meeting at Moscow airport: "Indians, Burmese and Afghans are now allies of the Soviet Union in our struggle for peace.

"We are approaching the 20th Communist party congress (next February) with our country growing stronger at home and the position of our country abroad strengthened."

Bulganin noted that the speeches of Khrushchev in Asia "did not please some American newspapers "and even some staid statesmen, particularly in Great Britain."

SUITS RUSSIANS

"They do not like our friendship with India, Burma and Afghanistan. But we like it —it suits us."

Apart from the large crowd at the airport, thousands of other Russians lined the central boulevard leading from the airport to the Kremlin to cheer the Soviet leaders as they drove past in an open car.

Traffic over a wide area of the city was diverted for two hours as crowds assembled in a temperature of seven degrees.

But the crowds were far smaller than those which the Soviet leaders attracted in India.

Pioneer Flight Is Called Off

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Today's hoped-for flight of four American planes turned back by headwinds on Tuesday's pioneering flight from New Zealand to Antarctica has been called off.

The men will be taken by ship to join the more successful crews who Tuesday flew two Neptune patrol bombers and two Skymaster transports on the 2,300-mile flight across the lonely southern ocean to an icy airstrip on McMurdo sound.

Decision to cancel today's renewed attempt of two Albatross amphibians and two C-47s to make the flight was made because of the necessity to break up the safety chain of ships along the planes' route.

The ships today are steaming for a Christmas rendezvous at McMurdo sound to unload supplies.

Unions' Income More Than Half Billion Dollars

NEW YORK (AP) — American and Canadian unions have an income of more than $500,000,000 a year, a study by a private research organization showed Tuesday.

The year-long survey by the National Industrial Conference Board said 194 unions, representing 17,000,000 members, collected a minimum of $437,000,000 a year in dues.

Other income from initiation fees assessments and the like bring the total amount "well above the half-billion mark," said James J. Bambrick, director of the study.

Of the $437,000,000, the study said about $226,000,000 is turned over to international or national headquarters of the various unions. The rest is retained by the locals for their own affairs.

The study covered unions representing 86 per cent of organized labor in the United States, and about 75 per cent in Canada. Only three unions refused to co-operate in the survey.

The study said the average dues payment for an individual union member was $26.14 a year, compared with an average current factory wage of $1.68 a week. Some dues were as low as a dollar a month. The highest scale was $25 a month for airline pilots making more than $18,000 a year.

The study said 26 unions, with membership of 6,000,000 specifically bar Communists from membership. Thirty-five unions bar those who have the power to hire and fire employees.

Five unions bar Negroes and other racial minorities. Four of these are the Railroad Brotherhoods and the fifth is a postal transport union.

Thirty-nine unions have specific provisions in their constitutions providing that all qualified for membership be admitted regardless of race, creed, color or national origin.

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen joined in the games and fun Tuesday as Prince Charles and Princess Anne gave a Christmas party for 42 friends at Buckingham Palace.

Their gathering was the second Christmas party at Buckingham Palace in the last 24 hours. The party for royal servants, which the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh attended, was not, over until dawn Tuesday.

On Thursday, the Queen will leave with her family for her country mansion at Sandringham in eastern England to spend the holidays. She has spent nearly every Christmas there since her childhood.

Chief Charges Negligence In Fire Precaution

HAMILTON (CP) — Fire chief Reginald Swanborough today charged negligence in fire precaution aided the spread of a blaze in a three-storey brick building at York and Bay streets Wednesday which caused an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

He said an investigation will be launched into why two fire doors on the top floor did not close.

"We thought we had the fire stopped, but it broke out again. There was certainly negligence on someone's part that the doors were not closed," he said.

The chief said an investigation into the cause of the fire is also underway.

SPREADS QUICKLY

The fire was believed to have started in the part of the building on the third floor occupied by the West End Engineering Company. Seconds after the blaze was spotted the centre section of the third floor of the building was enveloped in flames and smoke.

Garwood Heating and Consolidated Glass Company also occupy the building.

FIREMEN HURT

Three firemen suffered face cuts and burns and chief Reginald Swanborough said ice formed in sub-freezing temperatures made hazardous work on the aerial ladders.

The fire was spotted by Harry Kulk who set to work with a hand extinguisher but was soon driven back by advancing flames. He sounded the alarm. Two employees were trapped for a short time on the upper floor.

Eric Dolman, sales manager of West End Engineering, told reporters:

"I didn't think we could make it down again. I worked forward to a window and smashed it out. The firemen saw us and swung a ladder toward us. We'd been over the window sill, scarcely able to breathe."

He and Mrs. Gilda Curry were helped down by firemen.

The Adler building is one of Hamilton's oldest. The two top storeys were swept by fire in 1937 and rebuilt.

11-Year-Old Boy Shoots Sister

DENVER (AP)—An 11-year-old boy, borrowing his parents' shotgun while his parents shopped, accidentally shot his two-year-old sister and killed her, police said. She played under the Christmas tree.

Donna Marie Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd D. Cook, was killed by a shot from a high-powered pistol.

The grandstricken brother, Grover William Cook, his Davy Crockett shirt—and a junior police badge on it—stained with blood, braced a mile to a doctor's office for aid.

The boy had slipped the gun and holster from a closet shortly after his parents left, police said. "He didn't know it was loaded," Grover sobbed.

BURNS STATES ISRAELI RAID NOT JUSTIFIED

Report to UN Denies Syrians Fired on Boats

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Warned by its Palestine truce chief that more Israeli reprisals could touch off another Holy Land war, the UN Security Council turned today to Syrian demands for further action against the Jewish nation.

The council was to take up the explosive Arab-Israel issue again this afternoon starting at 3:30 p.m. EST. Before it was a report from Maj.-Gen. Vagn E. L. M. Burns of Canada, the truce supervisor, telling Israel's Dec. 11 attack on Syrian gun positions on the Sea of Galilee a "deliberate" armistice violation.

Chief Syrian delegate Ahmed Shukairy was expected to make a new request that the council apply economic sanctions against Israel and even oust her from the UN if necessary to prevent a repetition of the raid. Informed sources think Chance Arab delegates could muster enough support for the ouster.

CLAIMS RETALIATION

Israel explained the attack as she has others in the past—that it was made in retaliation for Syrian attacks and in an effort to prevent their recurrence. Israeli delegate Abba Eban circulated among council members what he considered claims are photostatic copies of Syrian orders to fire on Israeli fishing boats in the Sea of Galilee, along which Christ spent much of His life.

A Syrian Army spokesman in Damascus denied any such instructions had been issued.

Israel claims all the water area of the lake, Syrian territory and begins only a few miles back from the shoreline where she commands the eastern part of the inland sea.

Burns' report said Syrians and six Jews died in the Israeli raid on the Syrian posts.

"Deep action," Burns declared, "may well produce violent reaction by the forces of the injured country and what had been conceived as a limited raid develops into a full-scale battle."

Citing Israel's claim it made the limited attack to silence Syrian guns menacing Israeli shipping on the sea, Burns declared: "On balance, the fishing was at since the beginning of the fishing season."

Burns added that there appeared to be a "striking disproportion" between the scale of the retaliation and the provocation which the Israeli attack was designed to meet.

Ten of the 11 council members already have declared the Israeli attack but the council was not expected to go farther than an expression of censure.

Negro Figures In Christmas Scene Protested

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A pro-segregation group has protested the inclusion of Negro figures in Christmas displays in downtown park.

Jack Kinney of the Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the display, said Wednesday the figures will not be removed.

The Nueces county chapter of the White Citizens Council sent a resolution to the chamber objecting to the inclusion of three Negro children's choir display.

Jack Kinney, Chamber of Commerce manager, said: "Those figures are definitely going to stay there. If anyone wants to wrestle me, I'll wrestle. We're going to ignore the complaint."

GM Negotiations Suspended Until After the New Year

WINDSOR (CP)—With negotiations in the three-month-old strike of 17,000 General Motors workers suspended until the new year, the top spokesman for the strikers said Wednesday delivered a heated attack.

Canadian director George Burt of United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) accused the company of advertising its offers in order to make use of the workers' vulnerability at Christmas time. He said the company advertisement appeared Wednesday in a number of papers addressed to GM plant areas and repeated company suggestions already turned down by the strikers.

Meanwhile all company — union talks in Toronto were suspended until Jan. 3—the 107th day of the strike.

"This is Christmas week and the corporation bargainers think the workers may be more vulnerable than at other times," the union leader said in a 400-word statement on the advertisement.

He said all offers contained in the company statement already have been turned down by the strikers "in final and in bits and parts in corporation love letters."

"Nowhere in his ad did General Motors attempt to deny that it still has not met the problem of wage inequities in a manner which would bring it up to the level of its competitors," he said.

The statement says the corporation is refusing to meet the plans already negotiated by most of Canada and the Chrysler Corporation for paying full cost of medical and hospital insurance.

The union leader accused the corporation of "trying to exploit the holy season" and "negotiating through the press."

General Motors officials declined comment on Mr. Burt's remarks except to say he mainly is misinformed.

Uneasy Peace Settles Down Over Jordan for Christmas

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—An uneasy peace settled over the Jordan-held areas of the Holy Land today after preparations were stepped up for the annual Christmas influx of pilgrims to the shrines of Christendom.

Jordan's caretaker government moved quickly to restore order after six successive days of rioting stirred by the pro-Red Arab nationalism of Egypt's new leader Gamal Abdel Nasser.

A statement by new Premier Ibrahim Hashim was interpreted as assurance that the government will not break the pact linking Iraq, Iran, Turkey, Pakistan and Britain.

Hashim announced his government "will not deal with any political question" but will "apply itself to say treaties or obligations. We appeal to the people collectively and individually to co-operate with us."

King Hussein already had announced that parliamentary elections to be held within the next four months would be considered a plebiscite on the Baghdad pact issue.

A curfew established in Bethlehem was lifted, and troops rallied in to quell violence began to leave the 16-foot cities. Barbed wire not which had been thrown across streets in key sectors of Amman was removed.

The government also announced the release of all persons arrested in the riots. Opposition leaders had demanded they be freed as a condition for ending demonstrations and strikes.

Attacks on foreign consulates in the Jordanian capital of Amman and Jerusalem marched the series of outbreaks. The United States, French and Turkish consulates were targets of demonstrators and the Belgian, Swedish and Italian in one attack.

Ahmed Hilmi, 57-year-old elder statesman and former premier, was named by King Hussein to restore order and prepare for elections. Hilmi try caused an estimated 10 deaths.

The British Foreign Office was learned that the chief of Britain's intelligence service, Sir Dick Gerald Templer, had visited Jordan in an effort to bring the kingdom into the Western-sponsored Baghdad alliance.

In London, Britain's foreign undersecretary Lord John Hope told the House of Commons that opponents of the pact outside Jordan had stirred up the rioting. He did not name any country.

Boyd Planning Daring Escape From Pen Says Freed Convict

KINGSTON (CP)—Bank robber Edwin Alonzo Boyd, serving a life term in Kingston penitentiary—is planning a daring escape, says Boyd an ex-convict and one-time friend of the notorious gang leader claimed today.

Albert Edward Brown, 42-year-old twice convicted forger, pinpointed the date of Boyd's bid for freedom as one of four Sundays in August, 1956. Boyd will have served about five years during which he will be in minimum prison officials that he has "reformed."

He said the 41-year-old gunman, who escaped twice from Toronto's Don Jail, plans to hijack a plane in southwest, will, without a ladder, climb a 30-foot wall to freedom.

He has picked the exact instant when the only guard that could clearly see the escape will be busy with his back turned to the chosen corner.

Brown, a native of Kingston released from jail only last Wednesday, claims Boyd recently sent a letter outside telling him of the escape plans while the two were strolling in the exercise yard on the rear of the prison.

"Did you ever hear that wall?" Brown quoted Boyd as saying, pointing to a section near the southwest corner about 25 feet high. "It's rotting away. You could almost walk over it," Boyd was quoted.

The spot Boyd has chosen fronts on Kingston harbor and the penitentiary dock.

During Sunday ball games, Brown explained, the tower in the southwest corner is unmanned, only the guard in the opposite corner to watch over prisoners on the ball diamond.

"The hacks (guards) on the ground are so interested in the visitors and inmates on the ball diamond no one will see Boyd when he goes," Brown claimed.

"He's been weight lifting for months to get strength in his hands. I've seen him grab a man by the wrist so hard you'd swear he'd crush his ribs. He'll be able to go over that wall like lightning."

He said Boyd has figured out the time "top man" on the list of Canada's most wanted desperadoes will try to escape between 1:45 p. m. and 5:30 p. m., when convicts are allowed out to watch ball games.

Boyd would not be missed until the first nightly count after supper at 6:30 p.m.

Brown claimed Boyd told him he had approached with a plan for escape in the first week at the penitentiary.

KILLED FIGHTING FIRE

WARREN, Pa. (AP) — A firefighter was killed and four or five others injured early today in an explosion during a fire at the United Oil Refining company plant here. The blast came after the fire was discovered, apparently in a low unit at the filter house of the refinery. The men fighting the blaze were showered with flaming oil and other debris.

GUERILLAS PRESS ALGERIA DRIVE 89 ARE KILLED

French Retaliate By Hunting Rebels

ALGIERS (AP)—The death toll in Algeria soared today as nationalist guerrillas pressed their Christmas terror offensive and the French retaliated with a big military drive.

Unofficial and incomplete reports indicated at least 89 persons have been killed in clashes since Tuesday. The figure was expected to mount as casualty lists came in from outlying areas.

A blizzard lighting was in the sweep of French troops to clean out the barren Aures mountain region of Constantine. Warplanes joined ground forces to hunt out the rebels known to be operating among the rugged peaks. First reports from the French said 22 rebels were killed, a number wounded, and 10 captured in the fighting.

The toll elsewhere included: 12 rebels killed in a battle with French troops near Guelma, 45 miles northeast of Constantine; seven killed in a clash near Souk Ahras, 75 miles east of Constantine; 10 rebels killed at Guentis, 30 miles from Constantine, and two rebels killed in two clashes near Souk Ahras.

Other scattered fighting accounted for the remainder. Three French annoquced no casualties for their own forces.

The nationalists circulated with handbills threatening death to any Mohammedan who failed to register their government posts before the French general elections Jan. 2. Leaders said they would not let it hamper the harassed French administration.

The written threats were signed by "The French for National Liberation." They were similar to intimidation directed against the holding of elections in Algeria.

French Edgar Faure has postponed the Algerian voting indefinitely. It otherwise would have been held on the same day next month as the balloting in France.

Wolfe Islanders Caught With Skimpy Supplies

KINGSTON (CP)—The earliest freezup in years has left Wolfe Islanders with skimpy supplies and Christmas shopping is not yet done. The picture would have been gloomy were it not for an ice punt that left Kingston Dec. 15.

The Saucy Sally and her crew Capt. Roy Wolfe Islander Ross Carnegie said Wednesday.

"We couldn't have made it today if it hadn't been for Saucy Sally," Capt. Carnegie said. "She's been doing two ocean liners carrying some 160 Canadian wives and children from Scotland for Christmas family celebrations, the army made special trips Wednesday to Quebec City to get them there by Friday or Saturday at the latest.

With another Atlantic seas delaying two ocean liners carrying some 160 Canadian wives and children from Scotland for Christmas family celebrations, the army made special trips Wednesday to Quebec City to get them there by Friday or Saturday at the latest.

Heaviest Rain Storms in 15 Years Flood Northwest California Rivers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The heaviest rain storms in northern California in 15 years today had communities and highways in the northwest counties, closed a dozen highways, flooded parts of communities and caused the north coastal area to ground travel. Similar floods struck Oregon.

All California coastal rivers were near flood stage or already over their banks.

Northern Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties were isolated when floods and slides blocked U. S. Highway 101 and made off travel inland over Highway 299. Slides blocked the Redwood highway from Oregon into Del Norte county, and falling timber which broke power lines left Crescent City and other parts of the county without power.

Heavy rains today forced the evacuation of some families in five communities. Two homes were washed out in the Bull creek area, in the Mattole river valley. Thousand-gallon wheat storage tanks, hoping for an end to heavy rains, got the worst possible news today: Another ocean storm is moving in on the state.

A storm on Wednesday dumped from two to five inches of rain on the western part of the state, flooding roads, closing some schools and forcing evacuation of families in low-lying areas.

Shivering Ontario To Be Warmed By 8-Inch Snowfall

Cold Wave's Back Broken But Storm Warning Issued

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first major snow storm of the winter stormed into Ontario today, breaking the back of a three-day cold wave which numbed central Canada.

From five to eight inches of snow is forecast for southern Ontario in the next 24 hours with an even heavier fall for the Toronto area.

Fred Turnbull, Dominion weather forecaster in Toronto, issued a special weather warning today predicting personal signature. The last snowfall of this size to hit the Toronto area was on Dec. 6, 1954.

The bulletin gave a "heavy snow warning" for eastern Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Muskoka, and the Kawartha Lakes region.

WARNS OF DRIFTING

"Heavy snowfalls are occurring at the present time over the above regions. The snow is expected to continue throughout Friday and into the night, changing to scattered snowflurries by Friday morning," the bulletin said.

The weather bulletin said 20 mile-an-hour winds will combine with moderate drifting in some sections of the province.

The fisherman said the storm will pass south of Lake Ontario and will not affect the Rochester area.

Snowfall in Toronto is expected to last tonight.

A disturbance over southern Alberta will move into the Great Lakes area and is expected to end southern and central Ontario Friday morning.

The snowfall covered all roads in central southern Ontario and the department of highways reported highway conditions "hazardous."

From Hamilton through North Bay and across to Sault Ste. Marie, highways were heavily covered. Sanding, salting and plowing was under way but visibility was poor and roads slippery.

Officials said, however, they expect all highways will be open for Christmas unless a "terrific storm" occurs between today and Sunday.

Toronto turned out all available snow-removal equipment to cope with the storm.

Thousands were late for work as cars stalled and skidded on snow-packed streets. Police reported one traffic jam in the east end of the city more than two miles long.

TRAFFIC HAZARDOUS

The driver of a school bus was slightly injured when his vehicle skidded on a snowy road. Children were on the bus.

A second driver suffered minor injuries when he collided with a snow plow in suburban Trafalgar township in the storm.

Dr. Smirle Lawson, Toronto's medical officer of health, urged persons over 30 to stay away from snow shovels. Exertion could cause a heart attack.

In Hamilton, four inches of snow blanketed the area by midnight and a heavy fall was expected to continue during the night.

At 10 a. m., the streets department reported that all major bus routes at least centre bare.

TRAFFIC HEAVY

City employee Harry Poole, 57, suffered a broken leg when he was struck by a snow plow as he worked on which he was working.

Police reported heavy traffic tie-up was on the Queen Elizabeth way about 8 a. m., when two large transport trucks tried to stop after slippery pavements kept them skidding sideways for a short time.

Traffic was tied up for two miles for about 45 minutes, according to Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Heavy Fighting In Paraguayan Capital Reported

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Heavy fighting was going on in the streets of Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay, where a revolution broke out during the night, according to a broadcast in Buenos Aires today.

All communications with Paraguay were cut off.

Reports reaching here said the fighting began when President Alfredo Stroessner ordered the arrest of Epigasio Mendez Fleitas, a member of the central bank and a "strong man" of the Colorado party. This party, of which Stroessner is a member, is the only one legally allowed in Paraguay.

Mendez was accused of plotting against Stroessner, the reports said. It was not clear whether Mendez actually was arrested or was leading the revolt.

The uprising began in a cavalry regiment in the capital and at Encarnacion, Canada military garrison nearby.

TROUBLED RULE

The United Press said the Paraguayan capital was calm this morning and there was no confirmation of reports of Stroessner, whose opponents charged him with being a dictator, has had a troubled rule. On Jan. 25 this year the government announced that a plot against him had been suppressed.

Fighting between Argentinian president Juan Peron sought refuge in Paraguay Oct. 2, his presence was followed by increased Stroessner, a personal friend of his, complained of harrassments.

Paraguayan exiles in Buenos Aires formed a committee recently and unrest was said to be apparent among civilian and army officers in Paraguay itself.

Bank Manager Fleeing from Police Crashes Unlighted Car into Another

TORONTO (CP) — Four persons were injured Wednesday night when a car, its headlights off and being driven by police, collided head-on with another car in suburban North York.

Township police sergeant George Dunn identified the driver of the police car as Ernest Bowerman, 51, North York bank manager and president of Brooklin, town 30 miles northwest of Oshawa. He was taken to hospital for an emergency operation. His condition was reported as serious.

Four persons in the second car were also in hospital. Joseph Casciato, 38, and nephew Frank Casciato, 13, are in serious condition. Mrs. Casciato, 46, suffered minor injuries. All are of Toronto.

Police said the chase began when they noticed a car with no lights driving in a fire erasers area. The police cruiser registered speeds exceeding 65 miles an hour, they said.

"QUEENIE" NOW HAS BRAND NEW KENNEL

Here's a happy ending to an unhappy story.

Last night The Ontario Intelligencer ran a story on the plight of a young greyhound, "Queenie," placed by the local officers of the Humane Society in a Foxboro kennel home.

Queenie was in need of a kennel.

Shortly after the paper came on the streets, Kate Carmody, president of the Society, was flooded with calls about Queenie. Out of it all, Society now possesses three kennels, donated by citizens of the community.

Take Care Of That Christmas Tree

All Christmas trees will dry out if kept in the house for a long time and then the needles will fall off. Therefore, the first point in preventing the needles dropping off is not to keep the tree in the house too long. It would also help to keep the room as cool as possible, when it was not being used, and to place the tree away from any register or radiator. It also is a help to place the base of the tree in a pail or can that will hold water. Most of the Christmas tree stands have a cup base that can be filled with water. The base of the tree should be cut off on a slant, which will allow it to take up more moisture.

The three main species of Christmas trees sold in this area are Scotch Pine, which is just becoming popular, Balsam and Spruce. The needles will stay on the Scotch Pine longer than the others and Balsam will stay on longer than Spruce.

A Christmas tree which is dry enough to have the needles dropping off is a definite fire hazard, particularly as many of the ornaments are also inflammable. Be careful to keep the tree away from a fireplace or stove or open flame. The Christmas tree lights should be checked to be sure that wires are in perfect condition and that the insulation on the wires is not frayed or broken. When the bulbs are attached to the branches place them so that they do not touch the needles and see that there are no branches directly above the bulbs. Finally, the most important point is to not keep the tree in the house for too long a period.

Santa's Helpers Do Great Job

Shown above is part of the horde of some 600-700 toys rebuilt or reconditioned by a group of East Hill workers for distribution to city children this Christmas.

The toys, stored in the basement workshop of Mr. E. P. Cooper, 238 Bridge Street East, were donated by local citizens. Volunteer workers from the district have been working busily since November 1st to complete the reconditioning in time for Christmas.

The sample above includes wagons, tricycles, doll carriages, dolls, sleighs, toy trucks, games, tops, teddy bears and doll furniture.

Between 600 and 700 Toys Reconditioned for Christmas

Five dozen dolls, a dozen tricycles, 10 wagons, a dozen sleighs, five dozen stuffed animals, 100 boys' toys, 100 girls' toys, 100 games, 20 pounds of chocolates, a dozen cap pistols, three dozen . . .

The above is not a toy store's Christmas inventory.

It is roughly a check list of items being given away by a group of Santa's helpers on the East Hill. All told, this group has re-conditioned between 600 and 700 toys, which will be distributed to local boys and girls this Christmas.

The big Christmas giveaway is the idea of Mr. E. P. Cooper of 238 Bridge St. E. Neighbors, friends and relatives have cheerfully responded to the idea to do the enormous amount of work necessary to turn all items into exceptional gifts.

This is the second year in which the program has been tried, last year an equal number of unused toys resulted in some 400 items. This year, two small notices in the Ontario Intelligencer in the fall, brought in a flood of toys. Mr. Cooper has kept a growing volunteer organization busy since then.

This week Mr. Cooper's basement workshop was literally packed to the rafters with the results of the work of dozens of volunteers.

Among the busiest workers were Ralph Clegg, Jim Anion and Mrs. J. G. Ritchie.

Mr. Clapp not only worked most evenings at the basement workshop but had bicycle frames welded in his Front Street garage.

Mrs. Ritchie, proprietor of the Doll Hospital on the Trent Road, took charge of the doll section. Mrs. Ritchie, her sister, in Toronto, and ladies at Rossmore and in Belleville spent hours making richly-embroidered doll's clothes for the dozens of dolls that were donated.

All stuffed dolls and rag animals were cleaned, free of charge by City Cleaners. Cooke's Keys spotted all tricycle and wagon wheels at cost. Cook's Wholesale donated 20 pounds of chocolates for Christmas grab bags.

Mrs. Cooper and daughter, Helen, scrubbed all plastic dolls in detergent.

"Everyone has been so kind and so helpful," said Mr. Cooper, "I just don't know how to thank them all. And everyone has volunteered to again next year."

"Last year our appeal for toys brought in hundreds of items," said Mr. Cooper. "However, we filled out our stock by making blocks, toys and games in the workshop. This year the response was so great that it was more than we could handle. We spent all our time repairing, repainting and reconditioning items given us."

Time spent working on toys amounted to more than three hours every week night, week ends including Sundays, and spare time. Since Nov. 1, items not taken to the Cooper home by donors were picked up by Mr. Cooper or one of the working group.

The horde of gifts, all in excellent condition, includes bicycles and bicycles, wagons, sleighs, pedal cars, games, doll carriages, doll beds, carts, toy wheel barrows, strollers, high chairs, cap guns, balls, toy steam shovels and on and on.

Dolls' wardrobes are complete from underthings to bonnets and in many cases the fancy sewing on the dresses is such that one cannot buy similar gifts.

SOCIETIES DISTRIBUTE GIFTS

Distribution of these gifts is not part of the committee's work.

The Salvation Army and church groups, Protestant and Catholic, throughout the city have been contacted to distribute the toys through their regular Christmas list.

"It is better that they be distributed this way," said Mr. Cooper, "to avoid duplication."

"We can't handle any more items this year," he said, "the only thing that comes in this week will be saved for next year."

"One of the best times to get old toys for a project like this is right after Christmas," said Mr. Cooper. "Children will not part with old toys until they have their new ones." After Christmas there are many used toys, still in good condition, which are no longer of use to the children of the house but which could make worthwhile gifts for others when reconditioned.

It is funny how we find ourselves salvaging things for this project during the year," said Mr. Cooper. "When we were away on a trip we saw some things that would be nice for a Christmas-gift. Or you will see a set of wheels on a broken baby carriage that is being discarded that would be useful on a rebuilt bike.

"One of the nicest things about working on this Christmas program is the joy we get through a worthwhile," said Mr. Cooper.

FOUR DIE IN FIRE

NEW YORK (AP) — An early-morning fire swept through a four-storey Brooklyn tenement building today, killing four persons. Among the dead was a young mother and her two daughters. Firemen said the blaze was set off by the contents of an ashtray dumped into a tree with Christmas trappings in a first - floor apartment. The fire spread to the hall and then roared into upper storeys through a shaft.

Police Continue Crackdown on Fast Driving

Provincial police are continuing their crackdown on motorists who persist in burning up the highways and in operating vehicles which fail to come up to mechanical requirements of the Ontario Highway Traffic Act.

A total of 121 cases were listed on the Thursday morning county magistrate's court held before Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Almost without exception the docket consisted of traffic cases, ranging all the way from speeding to operating trucks without the required rear reflectors. There were 30 speeding cases listed.

One motorist was given 14 days in jail on a drunk driving charge. Four careless driving charges were listed for hearing.

Warming Up Says Weatherman

The weatherman forecasts a low of 15 degrees for the area tonight.

It is the first pale glimmer of relief in the long cold wave that's sphere the city and district has been moving through during the past week.

First sign of a let-up came Wednesday night when the drop in the mercury dropped was four below. At nine a.m. today it was two below and at 11 a.m. it was only .5 below zero.

Now the weatherman forecasts a further clipping of the polar-bear weather blanketing the district. There will be scattered snowflurries tomorrow with little change in the temperature already given the above, while the winds will be light.

Police Blotter

The local crime front is still on a holiday, according to city and provincial police who have reported little activity during the past weekend spell.

City police reported two minor motor accidents within the past 24 hours, while provincial police said they had one report of a boy falling from the side of a car. The lad escaped injury.

Roy Pringle, Shannonville, has been charged with theft after a watch valued at $30 was found in his possession.

Bell Telephone addition on Church St. reported money missing from a wallet, which he dropped while at work.

Cost Accountants Hold Meeting

Because it makes employees mindful of waste, profit-sharing results in cost of reduction, Ken Horton, president of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario, said here this week.

Speaking to the local chapter of the society, Mr. Horton included the above theory in an address on cost reduction.

A system that enables a foreman to decide whether equipment should be replaced or repaired also was another means to this end, he told the society.

Mr. Horton was introduced by Nelson Allen, secretary manager of the Ontario society, who also spoke briefly to the assembly.

Chairman for the meeting was local chapter president Les Lennox. A special turkey dinner was served for the occasion.

Timagami Youth Charged With Public Mischief

NORTH BAY (CP)—Albert Lalonde, 21-year-old Timagami youth charged with public mischief in connection with the Oct. 18 death of Grace Beaucage, 21, also of Timagami pleaded guilty today.

Lalonde was placed on suspended sentence for two years.

Police testified today Lalonde told them Oct. 19 he and Miss Beaucage had gone to Rouyn, Que., after a dance in Timagami. He said she entered a washroom and didn't return.

Accompanied by police Oct. 27 he travelled to Rouyn and a short time later told them the girl was dead. One of the biggest searches in the history of the north took place, police said, before Lalonde led them to the body near Englehart, 70 miles north of Timagami. He said Miss Beaucage fell from his light truck in Timagami and struck her head on the pavement.

Order to Admit Eurasian Not Expected Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Any action by cabinet on a special order-in-council permitting the Eurasian wife of a Dutch bricklayer to enter Canada is not expected until early in January.

The cabinet met Wednesday but did not consider the case of Johan Uester, 25, Amsterdam bricklayer, his wife and daughter, Mrs. Hester cannot enter Canada under immigration regulations barring the entry of persons of Asian birth.

The case may be considered at the cabinet's next scheduled meeting Wednesday, Jan. 4.

It was learned earlier that Immigration Minister Pickersgill will recommend to cabinet that a special order be passed to permit Mrs. Hester to come to Canada. The Hester case likely will be included in an annual cabinet decision to permit the entry of a number of Asians as immigrants.

Western Policy Recognizing Fact Reds Control Mainland Of China Is Urged by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — A common Western policy which recognized "the fact" that a Communist government controls mainland China has been urged by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

In a signed article in Look magazine, Mr. Pearson wrote that he would like to see the United States give the free world a strong lead, with a common diplomatic policy based on that and other considerations.

The article is in the magazine's Jan. 10 issue on sale next week.

"We should recognize the fact that the Peiping government, and not Chiang Kai-shek, is in control of continental China and likely to remain so; that there are basic problems to be settled in the Far East which cannot be settled without the participation and agreement of that government," he wrote.

"We can negotiate with Peiping when necessary and desirable without implying approval of that regime or without weakening our opposition to communism."

Mr. Pearson pointed out that and other actions as part of a Western move to "get out of the trenches" in diplomacy.

He said there is not enough evidence that the West is prepared to cope with "the new phase of the cold war called competitive coexistence."

"I believe that the next few years are as perilous — for the West—as any since the onset of the cold war.

"I do not mean that a hot war has become more imminent. Quite the contrary. I do mean, however, that there are things to do, and the sooner we do them the better."

Mr. Pearson's article did not speak of diplomatic recognition of the government of Communist China. In a speech at Vancouver last August he said Canada must soon take another searching look at that question and emphasized it must not be confused with approval of that government.

He wrote, however, that no one seriously expects Nationalist leader Chiang Kai-shek to return to the Chinese mainland.

"Yet if we seem to support his ambitions, especially on Quemoy and Matsu, Nationalist-held offshore islands, a situation is perpetuated that could conceivably develop into a war.

Referring to other matters he said the West should remember there is a political as well as military function of NATO—"which too many people still think is some kind of breakfast food."

"It should serve, as it has begun to serve, as a forum for coordinating the policies of all of its member nations and for in-

Salk Vaccine Saved 1,300 From Polio

NEW YORK (AP)—A polio official says the U. S. Salk vaccine program in 1955 probably saved 1,200 to 1,300 children from the disease.

Dr. Hart Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Wednesday the figures were based on a nation-wide projection of official reports from 11 states.

Foundation statistics showed, Van Riper said, that the polio hospital cases among children who received the vaccine—seven- and eight-year-olds — dropped much more sharply than among other age groups.

He said hospital admissions decreased 52 per cent for eight-year-olds and 40 per cent for seven-year-olds, compared with a 17-per-cent decline for the total population.

ASKS BOYCOTT

QUEBEC (CP)—A branch of the St. Jean Baptiste Society has asked French-Canadians to boycott all CNR services in protest over the naming of the new CNR hotel under construction in Montreal. The St. Esprit branch of the society suggested the boycott to back up a campaign by La Ligue d'Action Nationale, which wants the hotel named the Chateau Maisonneuve instead of the Queen Elizabeth.

Habitual Criminal Can Appeal Ruling

OTTAWA (CP)—Joseph Wilfred Parkes of St. Thomas today was granted leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against a judgment declaring him an habitual criminal.

The judgment carries with it an indefinite penitentiary term. He now is in Kingston penitentiary.

Parkes' counsel asked leave to appeal the judgment on the ground irregularities were committed at Parkes' trial. Hearsay evidence of his alleged persistent criminal life was admitted at the trial, his counsel said.

RED-FLANNEL WEATHER FOR MOST OF CANADA

Last month's long-range weather prediction of colder-than-usual weather has been extended by the weathermen to include the next 30-30 days. There's a near-normal strip, including part of Quebec and the Maritimes, but central and western Canadians will continue to shiver—or remain indoors. (Central Press Canadian).

WHAT KIND OF PEOPLE ARE FATHERS?

What kind of people are fathers?

To Canadian teenagers fathers are "stereotyped." Viewers of domestic trifles on television and avid followers of sudsy radio drama are likely to shrug their shoulders knowingly and dismiss this monumental intelligence.

However, if "The Liberty Study on Young Canada" is to be believed, Canadians from 13 to 20 have cast their fathers in different range than the authors of situation comedy. Fathers in modern myths are rather bumbling creatures, pliable in the hands of their wives, susceptible to teenage coaxing, incapable of doing anything constructive about the house, but lovable nonetheless.

Canadian teenagers, to quote the "Liberty" report, "when talking about their own particular fathers, list the kind of virtues one expects to find in a public figure—there are few mentions of traits that are lovable, charming and intriguing."

"Father is expected to be poorly acquired with his children as compared to mother. He does not know the children equally well and he does not make many efforts to do so. His interests and satisfactions lie elsewhere, and his entry into the home causes a readjustment of the people who live there more nearly 24 hours a day. He is a privileged person in the household, never-theless, and the others make way for him to a fair extent. He is sometimes seen as quite self-centered in addition to being a semi-stranger in the home. More affectionately he may be looked on as the "ma." of the family gatherings, one who amuses and tries to amuse others in family social-ability. Regardless of his mood he expects others to fall in line, to adjust to it—sometimes to the confusion of the teenager."

And that is what Canadian teenagers, presumably, think of their fathers.

What about mother?

"Consistently, the teenagers show a greater sense of intimacy towards the mother, even though they also are quite aware of her special role in the child . . . . emotional and disciplinary affairs and regarded as the mother's province . . . . the mother does not get the formal respect (or humor) that is given to the father, but more from his children. By and large teenagers agree that 'mothers' belong at home and they are inclined to view the 'housewife' as something of an oddity rather than the expected thing . . . . they do not customarily see women as competitive with men in the business world, but instead . . . . women have a good chance and will not harm a role of their own. They tend to classify the working woman as acting in an emergency capacity (in the event of the loss of the father or his incapacity) or as fulfilling an interim function in the pre-married years!"

That is what Canadian teenagers think about mother, working women and career girls.

Teenagers have been under society's microscope with increasing frequency in the past two or three decades and the findings have been mixed. It is refreshing to note that as a group these scientific objects are not merely fixed specimens but living organisms with opinions about their examiners. Some of their views are quite lively and interesting. While "The Liberty Report on Young Canada" might not initiate a good parental introspection it is to be hoped that at least authors of "real life" stories, radio and TV writers will take note and put a little reality into their family fantasies.

TWO HAPPY COLONIES

It is a sad commentary on the state of the world that an announcement that the chief ministers of two British colonies are to confer with the mother country on settling their problems should be worthy of headlines.

This elation, however, comes at time when the alleged abuse heaped on Malta and Singapore is given a Hollywood-type treatment by two astute publicity men from Moscow, Messrs. Khrushchev and Bulganin.

When Lim Yew Hock the Socialist premier of Malta and the national chief minister of Singapore make trips to London and come away delighted with their reception, we get a picture which is in wonderful contrast with the tales from the Siberian steppes to which we have been lately regaled.

One of the reasons why Dom Mintoff from Malta and David Marshall from Singapore found colonial officials in London friendly was, we feel sure, that Messrs. Mintoff and Marshall were themselves moderate in their demands.

Marshall, while desiring Dominion status for Singapore, agrees that authority over external affairs and over defence must be left to Britain, for the foreseeable future.

Mintoff does not ask that Malta be freed from control by Britain, but rather that Maltese should be given a say in the control of Britain's affairs through the election of three representatives to the British House of Commons.

Requests of this nature are in such sharp contrast to the customary demands of nationalists that a refusal to grant them would rank as base ingratitude.

A TRAP FOR SANTA CLAUS

One time I thought I'd lie awake and catch old Santa Claus
And solve the curious mystery about him, just because,
Though I was only seven years old, enough I thought I knew
To say no man as large and stout could climb our chimney flue.

And being very smart back then—much smarter far than now—
If Santa really came that way, I thought I'd find out how.

You see, what really bothered me and what I wished to know
Was how he drove his sleigh the time there weren't any snow
And how he knew just what to bring and always have things right.
And how he got around to all the boys and girls at night.
So, doubting everything they'd said, I planned awake to stay
And catch him, if he really came, before he'd get away.

So, Christmas Eve I waited in my bedroom all alone,
I heard the shutters rattle and I heard the north wind moan;
I didn't hear his sleigh bells ring,
or Santa holler "Whoa!"
I didn't hear his reindeer on the roof, and-oh! I know
There surely is a Santa, because in here he crept
And left me everything I wished the little while I slept.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 22, 1935

Mr. G. A. C. Weir, who has been manager of the Bank of Montreal here for the past ten years is retiring and he and Mrs. Weir were entertained at the Belleville Club by the members of the staff on Friday evening. During the evening D. J. D. Jones, the chief accountant of the local office of the Bank of Montreal, presented a beautiful Shell Mex ray to Mr. Weir and Mr. W. A. Tiers, the assistant accountant, presented a lovely bouquet of roses to Mrs. Weir. Much regret is entertained by the entire staff at the retirement of Mr. Weir and his nicely worded address Mr. D. J. D. Jones, the chief accountant, conveyed to Mr. Weir and his wife in which he is held and the regret at severing business relations.

The Saturday market was small, especially the poultry market, owing to the severe cold. Turkeys dropped in price and were sold at various prices depending upon the quality of the bird. Hoople Creek In Trouble

(Ottawa Journal)

We came upon some disturbing news in a botanical survey of the St. Lawrence lowlands area in Ontario by W. G. Dore and J. M. Gillett of the Department of Agriculture.

It seems, according to these entomologists, that Hoople Creek and Hoosic (or Nash) Creek, small tributaries of the St. Lawrence in the Morrisburg area, "lack several of the plant species . . . to be found in the cooler and faster streams of the South Nation drainage". To be specific the Hoople and the Hoosic have no Polamonium amplifolia nor any Pontederia cordata. And that shortage isn't enough to keep one awake of nights these entomologists say in absence of Saururus cernuus and of all things (and this is the last straw), there is a lack of Polygonum hydropiperoides.

What this will do to our seaway plans we do not know, but unquestionably here are signs of a crisis, an emergency that simply lets do not seek to place the responsibility, and that is not their function, but who can doubt that governments are shaking in their shoes today over the disclosure of this state of affairs. No Polygonum hydropiperoides in the Hoople! No Polamogeton amplifolius in Hoosic! Unlisted have fallen for less than this.

Night Before Fire-Safe Yule

(By Capt. Chude Colin Jr. of the Los Angeles Fire Department who received the National Edwards Award for 1953, an honor given annually to the person performing the most outstanding work in the field of fire prevention in The U.S. Reprinted with permission from California Parent-Teacher, December, 1953)

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
When down through the chimney all covered with soot,
Came the "Spirit of Fire", an ugly galoot.

His eyes glowed like embers, his features were stern,
As he looked all around for something to burn.
What he saw made him grumble, for there wasn't a thing
That would catch fire, and a break could be seen,
And we'd kept the tree neat, kept the tree nice and green.
The tree had been trimmed by a mother and child
That the ornaments used must be fire resistant.
And mother had known the things to avoid:
Like cotton and paper, and plain celluloid;
Rock wool, metal icicles, trinkets of glass,
Gave life to the tree; it really had class.

And would you believe it, right next to the tree
Was a suitable box for hidding debris,
A place to throw wrapping of paper and string,
From all the gifts that Santa may bring.
The ugly galoot was so mad he could bust;
As he climbed up the chimney in utter disgust,
For the tree on this home had paid close attention
To all of the rules of good fire prevention.

Bars to Offer Pure Oxygen

(Detroit Free Press)

An inventor of a machine that dispenses a five-minute spray of pure oxygen when a quarter is deposited in a coin slot is confident it in bars. He claims it will be used by those who took one too many.

We've heard tell about the wondrous effects of a jolt of oxygen. Some of our friends in the piloting, doctoring and professional fields say it's just the thing for relieving that tired feeling, or overcoming inertia, indifference, and, only occasionally of course, for clearing their heads of the effects of too many cocktail party.

We doubt very well. But, most of the drunks we've seen are belligerently determined to prove they are sober, and they usually insist on taking a walk around the block. So, how are we going to get them to stand in front of a coin slot? Tell the drunk that if he doesn't get form in hang onto the machine for five minutes he will run a free oil-can, or a diamond-shaped ice-cube, or a real honest-to-goodness, mansized 2-cylinder shot of Polamonium amplifolius left over from the Civil War which the Army probably has warehoused in ample supply and might be persuaded to sell cheap at surplus?

Anyone for a whiff of oxygen?

Tax Shuffling Bad Business

(Financial Post)

Matching grants made by Federal to Provincial Governments, or by provinces to municipalities, are becoming one of the chief sources of friction between the various levels of government.

"Here's a million dollars. Match it with a million of your own and build yourselves a new road, or a bridge or a dam."

That sounds good, but is it?

What if the junior Government at the end of the line needs a hospital more than it needs a new road or dam? It's hard to turn down a million dollars even if a hundred thousand, but the effect is often to divert the money from the thing needed most to things for which a wait will do no harm.

A typical illustration of what can happen comes from the Toronto area. A subsidy Board of Education has just discovered that it will cost local taxpayers substantially less to build a new school than to repair the present structure which would be used for years.

Renovation will be charged to local ratepayers would cost $220,000. But a brand new school would only set back $187,000. The difference, or balance, some $360,000 would be available for other school requirements. It's a safe bet the old school comes down.

This matching grant scheme is merely an admission that the present division of powers between the provinces as set down in our constitution 89 years ago is in longer realistic.

Only Missiles Are on Paper

(Montreal Gazette)

Officials of the British armed services and of the country's top flight scientists at work developing modern guided missiles feel they are them ready for production in the next year, The British Ministry of Supply has made it clear that, of the development of the world's fastest, most accurate and most destructive missiles, but the defence chiefs have revealed that not one of these weapons is yet ready for production yet, not one has reached the service stage, even in trials.

They want missiles now, even if they aren't quite perfect for the actual combat, for training. At present, Royal Air Force and Royal Artillery officers are learning to operate the missiles, are receiving only theoretical instruction. Before they go high that the old Anti-Aircraft Command has been abolished, but the missiles which replace it are still on paper.

The Royal Ordnance factories have no experience yet in assembling them. They have never worked time producing obsolete shells and equipment.

The Civil Government loan of some Corporal type missiles may help to fill the gap but the Corporals haven't been delivered yet.

The cause of this long delay is partly lack of science in key technicians; there is always the tendency to overdo perfection before the ultimate result is achieved. This takes time.

Britain is also hampered by the immense cost of such research, and the fear of waste on a missile that may be made obsolete by the jet it went into action.

The first of these causes is not the only one for concern. Britain is also, though it is a more British problem, short of money.

If German aircraft production had not been halted at the propeller levels, Britain might have survived, despite superiority of the Hurricane and Spitfire, because they went into production almost on the eve of war and there weren't enough of them for years.

Some of the American missiles are already obsolete. But the Americans have the immense advantage of having produced them in thousands and trained hundreds of technicians to operate them. This is the advantage that the British military seek to gain.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CO - OPERATION

Through co - operation every worthwhile endeavor is brought to its highest level. It is worked out on the baseball diamond, at a football game and in the smooth-running business office. Indeed, we had the same thing in our dealings among nations—all nations—there would be little thought, or talk, about wars!

We go about with other people by co-operating with them in all things pertaining to the good and good. In such a great organization as the Salvation Army it is not liable to fail completely without the fullest co-operation on the part of all subscribing members. As we often been said, "in union there is strength."

If universal peace is to be attained in the world there must be a universal spirit among all nations and peoples. We are our brother's keeper no matter where that brother may be located! We must never forget that we are all people, not savage animals seeking whom we would destroy. Freedom is the most precious heritage of man, therefore it should be forever preserved. But only though co-operation can it become a universal fact.

Next to this great world of co-operation is that other find word—tolerance. We cannot expect we are all akin regardless of race, color or religion. Every human being should be given his right and just due. Through co-operation and tolerance we can accomplish them. This is a great and wonderful world, but it is also a world of strife and bloodshed. Let us do our part to make it a better world in which to live.

How To Walk For Health.

The national hurry-up halt, the availability of transportation, the speed boredom of constantly watching and dodging traffic and the need if you don't, combine to discourage most dwellers in towns from walking for health, even if they have the time and the inclination.

I'm afraid a lot of people who should and could take a constitutional every day take a highball or a barbiturate instead.

There is no other general exercise quite so good for the health as a daily walk, not a stroll, but a brisk walk, of any distance from half a mile a day (ten minutes) to 5 or 6 miles a day, which takes two hours or less, not counting waits at traffic points.

A brisk walk combines pace, pride drill, stiff posturing and goose-stepping. It means just stepping along at moderate pace. Brisk walking tends to tone all the muscles but particularly the muscles in the legs. Slow walking, prolonged standing or slouching in the presence of fatigue is not so good, it seems to tone down certain muscle elements. It's a safe bet the old school comes down.

This matching grant scheme is merely an admission that the present division of powers between the provinces as set down in our constitution 89 years ago is in longer realistic.

with swollen, prominent or distended (varicose) veins and for persons who get cramps and easily swell toward the end of the day the result is even more visibly distended.

It is a sad mistake to use an elastic stocking or bandage in the early (incipient) stage of varicose veins in the leg without first securing the benefit of daily walking and other special exercises described in the pamphlet on varicose veins.

Either bandage or stocking should begin on the instep at base of the toes and extend up to the small of the leg just below the knee.

Such bandage or stocking should fit snugly but not uncomfortably tight.

A familiar woven bandage whose elasticity is like that of stocking, satisfactory for many purposes, is in my opinion unsatisfactory for varicose veins. The bandage or stocking must be rubber elastic.

Incidentally both hemorrhoids (piles) and varicocele are fundamentally varicose veins and they respond to the same general hygiene or treatment as do varicosities in the leg. Varicocele, however, rarely gives any trouble or requires any treatment, even suffering, death on the cross, resurrection from the dead, and ascension into heaven.

Christmas and Easter belong together. They are the seasons when the proper order of everything is reverence and the holy word is love. And the great Biblical message of love is, that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us, the just for the unjust, that he might reconcile us unto God.

Strength For The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CHRISTMAS AND EASTER

A holly wreath at Christmas time! How strange! Everything that the holly suggests does not go to Christmas but to Holy Week and Good Friday and Easter Sunday. The wreath with its jagged leaves represents the crown of thorns pulled down upon the Saviour's brow. The red berries represent the drops of blood. The imperishable leaves express life everlasting.

So why do we have the holly wreath at Christmas time? Chiefly because Christmas and Easter belong together. The shepherds at Bethlehem was not just one more child born, into the world: he was the incarnation of human destiny. In him all things shall be made new, and through him the events of the race will reach their consummation. The angels of God established wherewith this consummation should be attained, not unforfeiting, death on the cross, resurrection from the dead, and ascension into heaven.

Christmas and Easter belong together. They are the seasons when the proper order of everything is reverence and the holy word is love. And the great Biblical message of love is, that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us, the just for the unjust, that he might reconcile us unto God.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

I suppose it would be strictly against the regulations to invite cop in off the beat tomorrow or the day after and offer him a piece of Christmas cake and a glass of port? Or perhaps it is not express to our police the goodwill we are to offer to our numerous other friends and benefactors at this season? A policeman, it is true, is perhaps in a different category to the postman, though he too wears her Majesty's badge, but to the postman we are free to make small gifts of money at this season. And to the milkman and the breadman, the dilivery men from the big stores, to our newspaper carrier boy, to the messenger from the corner store, to the gas man, we make a point of marking our appreciation in that sort of fashion. We think nothing of buying a small box of cigars for the clerk at the grocery store and all of this year most cheerfully attended us; and the reverse of a gift of cash, who whistles our car in, past the others, for a little checkup on that battery can be recorded. Then a jug or a box of candles for his Christmas tree.

But out there in the sleet and the wind is our friend the cop, who sees us safe across the intersection, who scoots to our aid if problem or fire or any danger assails us, who pads past our slumbering home in the night, watchful, quiet-footed, patient, ready-to-help. Is gets more income than the store clerk, not as much as the mechanic, little more than the postman, but he has the most cares and anxiety and the most responsibility. It is frowned upon.

Can you walk up to him and offer him your hand?

Would it likely be interfering with his duty on traffic point; or this season of goodwill, when we, as the polite saying now is, slightly "impaired."

How can we do? There appears to be only the one thing. And that is to treat cop as a friend, wherever he stands, busy; or even to cross to the other side of the street, if he is busy; and as you pass him, catch his eye and sing out to him:

"Merry Christmas! And thanks!"

Mixed Metaphors

(Manchester Guardian)

A reader in Athens, who saw our story about the decay of the mixed metaphor, sends us the following extract from Associated Press correspondent's account of the American army's attack on Cassino, not long after the first Allied landings in Normandy:

"The American noose is tightening on the port (Cherbourg) on three sides. One prong is striking at the centre, another has swept in from the west and a third is ploughing deeper into the defences."

A CHRISTMAS STORY

The Coming of the King

by Norman Vincent Peale

Herod Sends to Bethlehem...

IX-WHAT THE WISE MEN SAW

The three kings from the East, who had followed the star of Bethlehem and were now returning to the East looked puzzled, each in his own way. Caspar, the youngest, couldn't possibly have said that the new king they had seen in the stable was a beardless youth. But he had.

Melchior, the second of the magi, spoke next. He had a full black beard, a broad chest and a well-fed look. "Not at all," he said, "The king was a man in the prime of life, not a hairless youngster."

Then the eldest of the wise men shook his gray head and stroked his wispy white beard in astonishment. "Why, Caspar and Melchior," Balthazar said, "the glory of the night must have dazzled you and veiled your eyes. The king was an elder, matured in his wisdom and appearance both."

Marco Polo tells us no more than this but we know that, in the King the magi saw, each man finds the image of everything good and fine he would like to be. And, where others saw but a child, the wise men saw what was really there.

In the meanwhile, Herod, in Jerusalem, was waiting impatiently for the wise men to come back. Finally, he sent out his spies to find out what had happened to them. When the spies returned, they reported that the magi had gone back to the East without passing through Jerusalem. But they also said that they were sure the infant king must be in Bethlehem.

Herod ranted and raved and cursed. Then he called his captains to him and ordered them to take their soldiers and kill every child under the age of two in the town of Bethlehem!

They lost no time. Soon soldiers were on the road to that little town—and to what is now called the slaughter of the innocents.

Explosion Rocks Apt. Building In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Several apartments in a Mountain Park Ave. building were badly damaged early today in a devastating explosion which rocked the neighborhood.

The blast, which originated in the boiler room, tossed the heavy boiler 40 yards into a next-door yard.

A young doctor, William Bota, his wife and two-month-old son were taken to General Hospital but were released without serious injuries. Their apartment was wrecked. The walls were twisted and the floors bent and heaved. The baby's crib was covered with dirt and debris and the large bed in which the parents were sleeping was broken.

A fireman, captain Gordon King, suffered leg injuries and another tenant of one of the apartments, Alan Foster, received a cut thumb.

NEIGHBORS HELP

In all, 84 apartments will be without heat for some weeks as the entire heating system will have to be re-installed. Three buildings were serviced by the big boiler. Three other "units" of the large apartment square, will not be affected. Residents in these buildings hurried to the help of those who were left shivering in the cold.

Young children were bundled into blankets and warm clothes and carried over to the other buildings where spare beds were pressed into service and cots put up.

The boiler room was flattened by the explosion. Huge cement blocks were found in some of the upstairs apartments and on the roofs of several cars.

"Bricks fell around us like thunder," said Mrs. Fred Nichols who lives in an apartment near the boiler room.

Probe House Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—Fire authorities, probing a house fire Saturday which took the lives of a 56-year-old mother and her five children, said Wednesday there was evidence of defective wiring in the place.

However, E. R. Hall, Ontario Hydro electric inspector, said he believed the fire started in an outer kitchen heated by a fuel-burning heater.

VON Presents Monthly Report

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held on Monday evening, at the YWCA with the president, Mrs. M. E. Bulger, in the chair.

Reports were read and discussed.

The nurse in charge reported a total of 79 patients received care in November. Of these 32 were admitted to the service during the month.

The nurses made 438 home visits. Of these 392 or 90 per cent of the total visits were nursing cares. The remaining 10 per cent of the visits were health supervision visits to mothers with new babies.

A total of 30 and three-quarter hours were spent in special activities which consisted of five visits to Holy Rosary school, 2 visits to Carnilton-Corbyville school and three half days assisting the local department of Health at the Child Health conferences at the Kiwanis Centre.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

Hark! the merry Christmas bells,
On the air their music swells,
Bringing from that far-off time
Song of angels, sweet, sublime;
All the air is pulsing still
With that song o'er Judah's hill;
And with shepherds too we hear
Gladdest music of the year—
"Peace on earth, good will to men
Christ is born in Bethlehem."

The tables were covered with snowy-white cloths and gaily decorated with evergreens and Christmas candles.

Mrs. Ever advised Christmas baskets would be packed for the needy and fruit sent to the hospital.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. H. Gaffney sang several Christmas songs assisted at the piano by Mrs. W. Grant. Mrs. J. Darlington gave a Christmas reading "The Littliest Angel", which proved most pleasing to all.

Father Michael favored by singing "O Holy Night", accompanied by Mrs. Green.

Christmas gifts were distributed by Mrs. S. Haley and Mrs. W. Smith from the gaily decorated tree, and Father Michael presented with a sum of money and a surplice made by Mrs. M. Walsh from the league for which he most graciously thanked everyone.

The remainder of the evening was spent in singing the traditional Christmas carols.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by all and many thanks are extended the artists and Mrs. Eves, the convener, who worked so hard to make it most pleasing to all.

IVANHOE W.I.

The December meeting of Ivanhoe W.I., met at the home of Mrs. William Adams with 20 members and two visitors present. The nicely decorated home and the traditional Christmas tree added much to the spirit of the meeting.

The meeting opened with a Christmas poem read by the president.

Miss Jane Gay read the topic "Let Us Keep Christmas," which had been prepared by Mrs. Goldie McInroy.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SET AN EXAMPLE — MAYBE HE'LL FOLLOW IT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My husband never takes me out for dinner or to a dance. Since he used to do this occasionally, I feel that he is being very unfair.

Also, he never drives any sweep with me that is left over after the bills are paid.

Would you please give me some advice on this situation? — E.L.

Dear E.L.:

You do not tell me what time of life you and your husband have reached, but could it be possible that he is now at an age when he finds more fun staying home than going out in the evening? Of course I would think that, even if this were the case, it would be only fair for him to take you out occasionally, perhaps once a week, to give you a change from cooking dinner at home, and a little fun. So I suggest that you ask him in a nice way if can and he could not plan an evening regularly each week. If he refuses, then tell him, also in a nice way, that you would like him to go out once a week with some of your friends. Certainly if he prefers to stay home himself, he shouldn't stand in the way of your having some recreation. Perhaps, if you were to do this, you might eventually be able to draw him into things, when he saw what good friends you were having.

Another suggestion might be for you to cultivate more outside interests that you could pursue with your friends in the afternoons, if you were happily occupied two or three afternoons a week, you would feel a lot more like staying home at night than you do now. It would also give you things to tell your husband about. Topics of conversation are sometimes not so easy to find when a husband and wife have been married for years, and talking something new into your life might pay off in this way.

As for the money question, do you mean that he gives you nothing whatever for you to spend on yourself? If he doesn't have you over thought of trying to earn some spending money either at home or by taking a part-time job? Perhaps he should be fair enough to give you money for yourself but, if he doesn't, it would seem wiser to me for you to make some of your own than to quarrel about it all the time. Moreover, if you did show him that you were smart enough to be able to make yourself independent of him in this way, he might pay more attention to you.

See what you can do along these lines with both yourself and then let me know how you make out.

IF SHE WAS WRONG, SHE SHOULD APOLOGIZE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have a girl friend I thought you could help.

About a month ago, she got mad at her boy friend and gave him back his class ring. Now she is sorry. What she wants to know is, what can she do to get him back. She should she just forget him? — W.

Dear W.:

What your girl friend should do first about her boy friend is to decide which of the two was in the wrong. If she is really wants most—to get him back or to give him up.

Actually, of course, it can be taken for granted that she does want to get him back, in which case, she had better decide which of them was in the wrong in the quarrel they had. If she was the one, then it would be up to her to write him a note and apologize. If he is sorry, too, that they quarrelled he'll no doubt get in touch with her and make up.

On the other hand, if he was the one at fault, and doesn't apologize, or if he pays no attention to her apology if she writes him one, then she should simply go about her business and go out with other friends. There's always the chance, of course, that if he sees her going out with other boys it might bring him back. If it didn't she'd be making a good start on developing other friendships.

I am sending you my recipe for Scotch Shortbread. This is a very old Scottish recipe — tured in the Royal Household of King Edward VII. I have used it for forty years . . . make about 12 lbs. of butter into it each Christmas as gifts . . . usually get 5 dozen cookies or the same of fingers . . . crisp when first baked, soften slowly in a day or two . . . I am mailing you sample under separate cover, also sample of what crumbs should be like before baking. . . . Merry Christmas . . . may you all know peace profound.—Donna M. T.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

(Courtesy Agnes.)

One pound best butter, 1-2 lb. fruit sugar, 2-4 cups cornstarch, 1-3 to 5 cups all-purpose flour. Method: Put butter into the vessel that the shortbread is to be mixed in, cover and let stand in warm place several hours or overnight, until soft, but not oily. Cream well, add sugar in three lots beating well between each lot. Mix cornstarch with 2 cup flour, beat this in well, add flour 1 cup at a time, until 4 1-2 have well been added, then add other 1-2 cup. (Flour should be sifted but not sifted, and spooned lightly into measuring cup.) This mixture should be nice and crumbly, and should stick well together when squeezed in palm. Put crumbs in an ungreased pan, level off and with the bottom of a tumbler press well down in pan, then with side of tumbler used as a rolling pin make nice and even in pan, fork well and bake in a slow oven until pale golden color. Cut in fingers 1-2 by 2 inches as soon as removed from oven. Leave in pan to cool.—A. M. T.

ANSWER:

I was surprised and delighted to find your letter and the cookies so beautifully packed in the same mail. I ate one on the spot. They are perfect. They were all gone in no time for Pete turned up by surprise, but I had the dough sample still to bake, which was thoughtful of you. I am going to make a batch tonight and roll and cut out the dough and decorate with cherries (as you did) and some silver dragees. Thank you for the generous and interested enough to share this prized recipe with me and our readers.

BEAUTY

SHORTER FASHION LEAD TO BETTER GROOMING

Fact and pretty, the new "shorter" in sleepwear are a spur to better grooming.

Have you caught on to the fact that everything in a woman's wardrobe is getting shorter? Sleepwear, playclothes, leisure pants, gloves, boleros, and cover-up jackets? You'll be smart if you t'e the new trend seriously—for the less we wear, the better we'd look.

And that goes right back to where good grooming really starts in the first place—with the woman herself! The more shoulders, elbows, knees, back, arms, and head that are bared, the more attention any awkward bra to give to her daily beauty bath.

Fortunately, an honest-to-goodness, thrush, conscious daily bath is about the only beauty treatment most women need in order to look their best. For this kind of bath starts with plenty of warm water, enough—or more than—dense soapsuds, a body brush, a nail brush, and a washcloth or bath mitt that's coarse enough to stir up the circulation.

With this everyday equipment, you can work wonders. Your complexion and body skin can be smoothed and stimulated, your knees, elbows, arms, and back can look their best every day instead of just during bathing suit season. It would be a grand thing for every frame of mind if, when you step into the tub, you'd say to yourself, "I want to be beautiful."

And let's face another issue—you can't go in for many of the short fashions unless your figure is reasonably trim. So if you need to lose some weight, get busy at it—and remember that professional beautieians will tell you right off that the two baths a day are better than one when you're trying to reduce! That's a fact. Your body chemistry, in the process of reducing, creates a need for meticulous cleanliness. So put your faith in soap and water—and let the fashions stop short where they please!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

HOLIDAY HOSTS, HOSTESSES . . . A PLEA FOR GOOD MANNERS FOR HIGHWAY SAFETY

"Good manners . . . on the highway . . . can and often do mean the difference between life and death."

Vitally important to every one of us are these thought-compelling words in a letter to me from The Automobile Club of America, enlisting support of a campaign for highway safety. In this se-ries and straightforward letter, a strong plea is directed to all hosts and hostesses when they entertain guests during the coming Christmas-New Year holidays.

Listen:

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

We are writing to enlist your aid in a campaign which at first thought may appear somewhat removed from the field of etiquette: highway safety.

As you are well aware, however, good manners are always important whether it be in the home, at business or at play, or on the highway. In the latter case, indeed, good manners often do mean the difference between life and death.

We are asking your support in the Christmas-New Year "Goe for the Road" highway safety campaign, aimed at reducing the appalling number of deaths (81 last year) which occur every year during this season.

We feel that the hosts and hostesses of America, when they entertain holiday guests, can perform an important duty by taking a few simple steps to see that their friends reach safely. We would appreciate it, therefore, if you would pass on to your readers the following safety admonitions:

1. Urge guests to leave their cars home when going to holiday festivities—a host's car is much safer.

2. For guests who cannot or do not heed this advice, suggest that they take a cup of coffee as their one-for-the-road drink. While coffee will not make an intoxicated person sober, it is generally recognized as having a sobering effect. Further, serving coffee at the party's end helps remind departing guests of the importance of safety on the highway and tends to urge upon them the need for careful driving.

3. Arrange other transportation home for those guests who brought their own cards but who are no longer in a fit condition to drive them.

Than k you for any support you can lend this program.

Sincerely,

W. H. Hinkle

Executive Vice President

The Automobile Club of America

Remember, be sure to remember, the practical advice in this letter . . . Your alert thinking and your cautious planning to your guests' safety-on-the-highway may mean the saving of their lives.

U.S. Builds Atom-Bomb-Proof Base on Island of Okinawa

By JIM BECKER

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — The United States has built its first atom-bomb-proof base on this island only 500 miles from Red China. But it is a fortress with a headache for the present and a possible Achilles heel for the future.

Military leaders say this egg-shaped volcanic and coral rock could survive an atomic attack now and fight on "with its military potential unimpaired."

But only time can tell whether in the long run the American base will be able to survive pressures from:

1. Demands by all Japanese political parties for the island to be returned to Japan, its technical owner.

2. Hundreds of thousands of Okinawan farmers, many of whom say they are near starvation and all of whom are upset by the military's inroads into the island's precious farmland. They want the land back for farming.

PERMANENT BASE

The American government and military, however, have made it clear that the U.S. base here will be maintained "for many, many years."

These spokesmen point out that all American troops eventually will be withdrawn from Japa, and most have already been pulled out of Korea. This makes Okinawa the principal U.S. bastion in the Far East. There are no important groups of U.S. troops anywhere else in Asia.

Certainly the big, ultra-modern base looks permanent. The heart of the fortress is shielded in great, underground bunkers. From the air, well-travelled roads are suddenly disappear — apparently into deep concrete caves — can be spotted all over the 67-mile-long outcropping.

It is taken for granted here that some of the giant caves house an atomic arsenal, possibly, the 280-mm. atomic cannon are here. Planes to carry the big bombs are only hours away. The Nike anti-aircraft rocket is on the way.

NAVY AND AIR FORCES

One regiment of marines is already here and an entire marine division, about 16,000 men, soon will be stationed on Okinawa. The navy has an undisclosed number of land-based planes, and its big carriers are nearby. The air force has two wings of fighter jets, about 150 planes, plus some aircraft of other types.

A $400,000,000 construction program, begun in 1951 after a typhoon flattened earlier temporary installations, is bearing fruit. Modern concrete barracks, headquarters buildings, warehouses and thousands of family homes have blossomed on the southern end of the island.

Bulldozers are busy everywhere, scraping and levelling land and ever extending the air conditioned underground caverns that house the island's vitals.

Grain Elevators Half-Empty Due Scarcity of Cars

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Massive terminals at Lakehead and Pacific coast ports today are half-empty caverns while farm granaries stand bloated with grain.

The situation, grain officials say here, is due to a shortage of railway box cars. The movement of grain has slowed to a point where, as of Dec. 14, an estimated storage space of 97,000,000 bushels was available at Canadian terminals.

Transport Controller R. W. Milner said in an interview that the available storage at the head of the lakes was created by a sudden flurry of shipping near the close of the navigation season earlier this month when some 25,000,000 bushels were moved within a few days.

"We couldn't possibly get enough box cars together to fill the Lakehead terminals immediately," he said.

BELOW CAPACITY

On Dec. 14 Lakehead terminals held 36,500,000 bushels of all grains. Their working capacity is 90,000,000.

Mr. Milner said he was not too concerned over the storage space at the Lakehead.

"We will move enough grain during the winter months to fill the terminals of the navigation season next spring," he said.

Mr. Milner said his department now is concentrating on a "big shipping program" on the Pacific coast. There, terminals which have a working capacity of 18,200,000 bushels, currently hold only 8,200,000.

Three weeks ago it was reported that some 7,500,000 bushels of low-grade wheat would move from Pacific coast ports to the east beginning in January. As of Dec. 11 coast terminals held only 858,623 of No. 5 wheat.

Wheat board officials said that to date this year 85,743 box cars of grain have rolled to terminals, compared with 114,081 last year.

DEMANDS OF INDUSTRY

They attributed the decrease to the demands placed upon the railroads by industry in general for box-car space. As a result the railroads have had to distribute the cars on a fairly even basis.

St. Lawrence Seaway-Hydro Project in Full Swing in '55

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — After generations of delays and frustrations, the St. Lawrence seaway-hydro project was in full swing during 1955.

Along a stretch of more than 100 miles between Montreal and Iroquois, Ont., more than 6,000 workers were engaged on the huge undertaking to open the continent's heart to big ocean ships and create 2,200,000 horsepower of electricity.

As the year neared an end, construction was generally on schedule. First power was due to be cut off an international dam near Cornwall, Ont., in 1958, with 27-foot-draught navigation facilities scheduled for opening the following spring.

BIG DIVERSION

On the $600,000,000 power end, major construction in 1955 involved diverting the course of the St. Lawrence in the international rapids section to provide a dry area for construction of powerhouses stretching 3,200 feet between Canada and the United States. A series of coffer dams turned the river aside and let men and machines start digging out some 3,600,000 yards of material from its bed.

The Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission, handling the Canadian aspect of the power development, also was engaged in relocating about 6,000 persons in eight "seaway valley" communities that are to be flooded out by 40-mile-long power pool between Cornwall and Iroquois.

Wholesale removal of Iroquois' 1,180 persons to a brand new township got under way in the fall. Negotiations with the other valley residents, and arrangements for their eventual transfer, were in progress.

Meanwhile, Hydro was doing preliminary work on the relocation of 40 miles of rail line and 35 miles of highway that will be drowned out.

ACTIVITY IN U.S.

On the U.S. side, the New York State Power Authority was engaged in the lesser task of removing 225 farm families and 500 cottage owners in its sparsely-settled section of seaway valley.

Between the two power partners, contracts for more than $200,000,000 had been let out by the year-end, providing an economic shot in the arm for the area.

On the navigation phase, Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. of the U.S.-federal bodies—have been pushing ahead with early work on a series of canals, locks, jarnalis channels and dredging between Montreal and Iroquois.

The U.S. entity is building two locks on its side of the river opposite Cornwall. The Canadian body is constructing three downstream and one upstream of the U.S. locks, all in Canadian territory.

Canadian work this year centred heavily in the area around Montreal, where the Lachine rapids have to be bypassed by locks and a diked channel. Sections of the river in this area have been walled off with coffer dams and drained to allow excavation.

Raising of Montreal's Jacques Cartier bridge to give ship clearance, and construction of a new bridge across the river from Montreal to the south shore are other projects for this area still on the drawing boards.

Of the $5,000,000 in Seaway Authority contracts let to date, $5,500,000 is for construction of a canal at Iroquois at the upper end of the international Power Pool. It will enable Canada to share control over shipping going through the system.

A major question still to be settled by the year-end was the way navigation tolls will be applied. They are to be designed to wipe out the investment over a period of years, but the U.S. and Canada have differing ideas on what the period should be.

The method of dividing up the tolls also calls for further negotiation and is to be discussed again by the two groups at Washington early in the new year.

Hastings County Farm Forum

On December 12, three forums report meeting. The topic for discussion was "Planning Against Disaster."

1.The three forums say there is a definite need for a civil defence organization whose officers can be advised what to do, to be ready for disaster in case of a military attack.

Foxboro mentions the fact that by this locality, there is one of the largest airports (Trenton) an attack on which would endanger the surrounding country.

Hazzards suggest that, as civil defence is not properly understood in most rural areas, some kind of educational program is needed to show how best to organize.

2. (a) Brookdale says some preparations should be: training in fire-fighting practices and home nursing training. Be organized and everybody help.

Hazzards says organized fire protection should be available as fire is an ever present hazzard. Foxboro adds also there should be more farm ponds dug to hold water.

(b) Brookdale thinks that if you have an organization to look after results of emergencies, such as floods, hurricanes or fire; that if and when a military attack comes, this organization could then take over. This organization should be sponsored by the local municipal council.

Canadian Civilian Flying Boat Sinks In Scottish Loch

KYLEAKIN, Scotland (CP)—A Canadian civilian flying boat sank in a Scottish loch with one man aboard today after being taken in tow following a crash-landing at sea.

The navigator, who stayed on the plane for shipping safety reasons when the other five crew members were taken aboard a passenger steamer, was believed rescued.

However the pilot, Sam Taylor of Ottawa, said there was at least a slim hope that navigator A. H. Buchanan, a Scot who had been living in Ottawa, was still alive.

The aircraft was registered with Spartan Airways of Ottawa. It was flying from Ottawa to India by way of Greenland and Prestwick, Scotland, when its fuel supply ran low and it came down between the Isle of Skye and the Scottish mainland.

The coast guard said that all search for the navigator had been abandoned. The plane was lying in several fathoms of water and owing to the gale no attempts could be made by divers to get to it.

Charge Workers Operated Presses In Unsafe Manner

KITCHENER (CP)—The trial of four employees charged with operating punch presses in an unsafe manner at the Hahn Brass Ltd. factory in nearby New Hamburg has been adjourned to Jan. 3.

Only one of the four accused, Nick Elzar of New Hamburg, was arraigned before deputy magistrate Alan Barron, Tuesday.

He is charged under the Ontario Factory, Shop and Office Building Act with operating a plant machine Sept. 23 in such a manner as to endanger his own safety. The charge was laid several weeks ago by the firm's production manager, Woodrow Doerr.

Mr. Doerr, who was convicted Dec. 7 of operating an unsafe factory for employees, is permitted under the act to lay a counter-charge if he feels the employees were responsible for the unsafe conditions.

Also charged by him were Dan Lichti, Hendrick Bertel and Dennis Zwarg, all of New Hamburg.

Mouse Population Being Depleted By Gas Fumes

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—'Twas the week before Christmas and all through the town, creatures were stirring. Mice. Millions of them.

The rodents, multiplying unnoticed on an abandoned ranch, overran homes, stores and schools. Cats were too outnumbered to be effective. But now people are counter-attacking, and a sad Yule is in store for the mice.

The city health department tells the story this way:

When a chicken ranch was abandoned in this San Fernando valley suburb, its operators left behind large stores of grain. It was a wind-fall for the mouse population. They moved in and lived like kings until the supply ran out.

Then they started fanning out through the heavily-populated area around the ranch. After complaints from scores of householders—some said they were killing more than 100 mice a day on their premises—the health department organized a task force.

They gassed the abandoned ranch with cyanide fumes Tuesday and are advancing on other nesting areas. They hope that by Christmas few mice will be stirring.

His pants caught fire and he suffered severe leg burns. His mother was away from the cabin at the time. (CP Photo).

Woman Arrested For Embezzlement Of $175,856

TIPTON, Ind. (AP)—A woman bank cashier suffering from cancer who said doctors had given her but six weeks to live, was arrested Wednesday on charges of embezzling $175,856 from the Union State Bank at Windfall over a 20-year period.

Mrs. Genevieve Campbell was released on $2,000 bond provided by her father, Dan P. Wright of Windfall.

She had been a trusted employee of the bank more than 20 years.

Assistant U.S. attorney Don A. Tebbert said the long-time embezzlement was uncovered during a weekly audit last June while Mrs. Campbell was in hospital.

Soon after the shortage was found, full restitution was made by Wright, a farmer, who had inherited nearly $250,000 from his sister, Tebbert said.

WEALTH FROM GROUND

Canadians set a record in the mining industry in 1955 by digging $1,700,000,000 in new wealth from the ground. One of the spectacular developments was in iron ore, as loads of iron ore slip down the slope of the primary crusher into a gyratory crusher at the Marmora iron-ore mines. The Marmora mine, in eastern Ontario, is the country's newest iron-ore project and the first shipments were sent to United States mills this year. (CP Photo).

Mining Industry Brought $1,700,000,000 of Wealth Out of Ground This Year

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada's mining industry brought at least $1,700,000,000 of new wealth out of the ground in 1955—a record production, more than $200,000,000 above last year.

It employed almost 130,000 people with a payroll of $475,000,000 and indirectly contributed to the pay envelopes of everyone.

It was a vital drive in making 1955 Canada's most prosperous year and, with world and home demand showing every sign of increasing, promises increasing fortune to Canadians in future.

In 15 years production has increased in value by nearly $1,000,000,000, while 35 years ago it was worth only $70,000,000.

NEW CONTRIBUTORS

Most spectacular 1955 developments were in iron ore, uranium and oil — all relatively recent comers as substantial contributions to the national treasure chest—and copper.

Iron Ore Company of Canada, whose $250,000,000 Quebec-Labrador operation went into production last year, produced 8,500,000 tons of iron ore and shipped 7,721,654 tons. Steep Rock iron Mines in northwestern Ontario shipped 2,365,555 tons, up about 1,000,000 tons from last year, and has a 1956 objective of 3,250,000 tons. First shipments came from Marmora in eastern Ontario.

Total production, including Bell Island in Newfoundland and Ogilvie's Algoma ore, will be about 15,000,000 tons. Exports may exceed 10,000,000 compared with 825,000,00 last year.

International Nickel Company's new $19,000,000 plant for extraction of the iron content from nickel-copper ores will go into production in 1956 at Copper Cliff, Ont.

Steel Company of Canada, Hamilton and Pickhands, Mather and Company, Cleveland, will spend $16,000,000 to reopen an old iron mine at Bristol in Pontiac county, Quebec.

Texada Mines in British Columbia will ship 260,000 tons to Japan in the next eight months.

PLAN BIG PROJECTS

Meantime a number of companies have large projects on the boards for further development of the vast iron-ore reserves of northern Quebec and Labrador.

In uranium, Gunnar Mines in the Beaverlodge area of Saskatchewan and Pronto Uranium Mines in Ontario's Blind River district, went into production. These companies, along with Algom Uranium Mines and Consolidated Denison Mines, both at Blind River, and Bicroft Uranium Mines in Ontario's Bancroft area, have contracts with the federal government for delivery of $336,915,000 worth of uranium concentrates by 1962.

Uranium production in 1955 is estimated at $48,000,000 compared with $6,000,000 at the end of the war. It is expected to reach $180,000,00 yearly by 1958.

Oil and natural gas, though becoming almost old stories, were probably most spectacular of all.

Western oil production was up nearly one-third at more than 12,000,000 barrels, about half of Canada's current needs, and the industry spent $400,000,000 in search and development.

EXPORTS WAY UP

Expanding markets developed in the United States Pacific Northwest, St. Paul and Great Lakes areas and exports were about $35,000,000 compared with $6,000,000 in 1954.

The West's growing natural gas reserves now are estimated at 16,500,000,000,000 cubic feet.

Peace River gas has a market on the west coast and the United States Pacific Northwest and a $142,000,000, 650-mile pipeline is being built to deliver it. The proposed $230,000,000 natural-gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada cleared some hurdles but others remain.

Copper was boomed by steeply rising prices, a world scarcity and the prospect of high demand.

Old workings are being revived in Newfoundland; a $40,000,000 development complex with the new town of Murdochville, started production in Quebec's Gaspe peninsula; the Manitouwadge area of Ontario headed toward production; and the coffers of such major producers as International Nickel, Noranda Mines and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting were enriched by high world prices.

HUGE NICKEL OUTPUT

International Nickel, which doubles-as Canada's largest copper producer and the world's largest nickel producer, probably will exceed last year's nickel production of 282,000,000 pounds. Sherritt Gordon Mines' new nickel-copper property at Lynn Lake, Man., got up to a nickel-production rate of around 20,000,000 pounds.

New Brunswick went into leadzinc production amid predictions that the province may be on the threshold of its greatest expansion as a result of mineral developments in its north. A complete metallurgical and chemical industry and a $125,000,000 plant are envisaged.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, Canada's largest lead-zinc producer at Trail and at Kimberley in British Columbia, is completing a huge modernization and expansion program.

The Quebec asbestos industry increased production amid a $70,000,000 expansion.

Frobisher-Veriennes interests propose an initial expenditure of $50,000,000 on the Yukon side of a power and metallurgical project in northwest British Columbia. If international complications are cleared away, it may run to an ultimate $100,000,000.

ALUMINUM INDUSTRY

The aluminum industry, considered an associate of mining but not part of it because its mineral, bauxite, comes from abroad continued to expand. Aluminum Company of Canada recently announced immediate expansion of its Quebec production by 22,000 tons to 569,000 tons yearly; and is expanding its production at Kitimat, B.C., from the initial 91,500 tons to 151,500.

Gold, discouraged in recent years but cheered a bit this year by return of the Canadian dollar toward par with the American, will show increased production.

A long list of other minerals reported increased output and a variety of newer minerals of the nuclear age grew in prominence.

Coal, lead and silver were among the few reporting decreases.

As new ventures developed, new towns were established and mining roads, highways and railways pushed back the frontier to bring out the new wealth and give easier access for the explorer, prospector and developer.

Canadian National Railways is building a $75,000,000 288-mile line into Quebec's Chibougamau from two directions, and both it and Canadian Pacific Railway opened lines into Manitouwadge in northwestern Ontario.

ADDRESS READ

The address was read by Mrs. Gerald Clancy (nee Verna Brown), and she and her mother made the presentation of a humorous bride's book, and a small tub filled with household gadgets packed in shavings.

After Marlene had sorted out these articles and opened the various gifts, she voiced her appreciative thanks.

The hostesses served Christmas refreshments and ice cream.

Survey Shows Christmas Trade Up 10pc Over Years Since War

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian shoppers have been storming the stores with bulging wallets, and indications are that it will be a gold-plated Christmas for both buyers and sellers.

A Canadian Press survey shows retailers throughout the country anticipate their total business this pre-season will be 10 per cent above any year since the Second World War and most shoppers, they say, are operating on the luxury level.

Television set sales are brisk from St. John's, Nfld., where station CJON-TV recently took to the air, to Victoria where it is reported one dealer ordered "all the $2,000 color TV sets we can get."

EXPENSIVE PURCHASES

An exclusive Toronto shop sold four mink coats before 10 a.m. one day recently and a Vancouver store owner says he can't keep up with the demand for electric organs—priced about $1,200.

You can buy an old-fashioned street car that plays 12 tunes for $395 in Toronto, or a $129 doll in Montreal.

Perhaps the most startling sales are being rung up in Santa-thronged toy departments. West coast merchants are offering $46 "kiddilacs" and $32 toy diesel engines while an Ottawa store displays $14 doll carriages.

REALISTIC TOYS

Retailers report the trend in toys is toward working miniatures of the real thing, and away from Mary Crockett or outer space equipment.

Said a Montreal merchant:

"Each Christmas, toys get more and more realistic. If they won't do something, the kids don't want them.

"Dump trucks have got to dump. Saxophones have got to play real tunes. Dolls have to be as much like baby sister as possible. Kitchen sets must be able to cook real food.

"You can't palm off a static replica of an adult object on a child, and get any reaction."

EMPTYING PIGGY BANKS

But the children are not only on the receiving end when it comes to gifts. One large Montreal department store opened a "piggy bank shop," catering exclusively to the small fry.

Said sales girl Ann Cadman:

"Children are very practical. They know just what their parents have and what they need. Our cashier is getting used to handling mountains of pennies from piggy banks."

A department store in Toronto has a gimmick for the men too. This section allows no women, and men can get special attention in buying such items as lingerie. It helps the shy male and sales are booming.

"Do-it-yourself" kits are popular among adults and children. For the kids they range from antique cars to jet aircraft space ships. The adults are a little more conservative with such items as furniture kits in demand.

Gift certificates are on the upswing as women subscribe to the idea, "let him select his own."

But adults still buy the old standard gifts, ties, shirts, perfume and stockings, for their mates.

Muncey Reserve Indian Sent For Trial on Murder Count After Pig-Pen Death of Man

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Edward Waucaush, 38, a treaty Indian from the Muncey reserve will be tried by a Supreme Court justice and jury on a charge of murder in the pig-pen death of Daniel Mullins, 59, a bachelor Melbourne farmer who was slain Dec. 6.

The next sitting of Assize Court here is slated to begin Jan. 10.

County court magistrate F. G. McAlister committed Waucaush for trial in the higher court after listening to 12 witnesses called by crown attorney Claudé C. Savage during a three-hour preliminary hearing here Wednesday.

Type-written copies of a statement Ontario Provincial Police Inspector Thomas Wright said Waucaush made to him after arrest on Dec. 7 were handed to the magistrate and defence counsel W. S. Poole, but they were not read in court.

Chief crown witness Gordon M. Snake, also a resident of the Muncey reserve, told of accompanying Waucaush to the Mullins farm to steal gasoline on the night the farmer was killed.

Dr. John Fisher, provincial pathologist, said Mullins died of a bullet wound in the head. He said the body had been badly mutilated but did not believe the disfiguration had been caused by human intervention — but only by pigs in the pen where the body was found.

Besides the skull fracture caused by the bullet Dr. Fisher said two other skull fractures were discovered and additional fractures in the nose and jaw. He said the fractures "quite possibly" could have been caused by a series of falls.

Mrs. Bell said she got a telephone call from Mrs. Daniels about 5 a.m. Nov. 21. She quoted Mrs. Daniels as saying:

"Come up right away, Darrell is dead."

Mrs. Daniels, she testified, said she had given Darrell a drink of water about 1 a.m. Then, she said, she quoted Mrs. Daniels as saying, she found the boy dead on his cot.

Dr. R. M. Jewell said the child's death was reported to him about 8 a.m. Edgar Morris had set it when he arrived.

Dr. Jewell said full rigor mortis would take about 12 hours to set in. The case is continuing.

Wrist Broken For Ten Days Says Pathologist

TORONTO (CP)—A three-year-old boy had an unattended broken wrist for at least 10 days before he choked to death on food particles in his suburban Scarborough boarding-house home, a Toronto pathologist testified Wednesday.

Dr. S. F. Penny was a crown witness at the trial of Mrs. Marjorie Jean Daniels, 33, charged with assault and neglect to provide the necessities of life for Darrell Bell, who was in her care.

Dr. Penny said the child was suffering a fractured wrist without medical attention for "10 or 12 days" before he died in his bed of asphyxiation.

Mrs. Ernest Bell, Darrell's mother, testified she had boarded the boy and his twin sister Darlene with Mrs. Daniels because she could not find accommodation for her five children.

The pathologist who examined the body said he found dried blood on the back of the face, back and arms. He said it was "possible" the bruise could have been caused by a series of falls.

Mrs. Bell said she got a telephone call from Mrs. Daniels about 5 a.m. Nov. 21. She quoted Mrs. Daniels as saying:

"Come up right away, Darrell is dead."

Mrs. Daniels, she testified, said she had given Darrell a drink of water about 1 a.m. Then, she said, she quoted Mrs. Daniels as saying, she found the boy dead on his cot.

Dr. R. M. Jewell said the child's death was reported to him about 8 a.m. Edgar Morris had set it when he arrived.

Dr. Jewell said full rigor mortis would take about 12 hours to set in. The case is continuing.

Company Rejects Union Proposal

TORONTO (CP)—Canada Wire and Cable Wednesday rejected a back-to-work proposal by the United Electrical Workers (Ind.).

After a Monday meeting of 1,200 strikers, a spokesman said calling for an immediate return to work on a no-discrimination basis. Terms would include putting into effect the recommendations of conditions of a conciliation board. Company and union would meet labor minister Daley to resolve outstanding differences.

On strike since Sept. 30, the union said a recent injunction obtained by the company restricting the number of pickets "weighted the balance against the strikers." The union was striking for a 10-cent-an-hour increase.

Report U.S. Ford Co. Assets Almost 2½ Billion Dollars

NEW YORK (AP)—The complex statistics also showed that Ford's financial machinery for bringing the public into ownership of the Motor Co. stock rolls into high gear today.

While the Securities and Exchange Commission studied the comprehensive registration statement filed by the company Wednesday, brokers reported orders piling up from regular customers and people who have never owned a share of stock. Wall street agreed that there wouldn't be enough shares to meet demand—though the Ford Foundation, which is selling the shares, has boosted the number to be offered from 7,000,000 to 10,200,000.

Filing of the registration statement represented the final step before the shares go on sale. To comply with SEC regulations, the Ford Company had to disclose financial data that it had been keeping strictly to itself, something a privately-owned firm can do.

HUGE ASSETS

Assets of the No. 2 automaker were placed at $2,483,000,000. The net profit of $312,262,000 for the first nine months of 1955 compared with $912,888,000 for General Motors and $70,627,000 for Chrysler, Ford's major competitors.

Comparative earnings in 1954 were: for Ford, $227,800,000, for General motors, $805,974,000, for Chrysler, $18,517,000.

Jan. 18 has been picked as the tentative date for offering the shares to the public. The co-managers of the underwriting syndicate have told the more than 700 participating underwriters that they must assure widespread distribution of the shares. They are not supposed to sell more than 100 shares to any customer initially. Under some circumstances they may sell more than that, but 200 shares is a top limit.

When all 10,200,000 shares have been sold, the stock will start trading in the over-the-counter market. It's expected that around March 1, the shares will be admitted to trading on the New York stock exchange.

Former FBI Agent Doing All Right With Ford Stock

WASHINGTON (AP)—Old FBI associates of John S. Bugas read with interest Wednesday that he's done quite well financially.

Bugas, a big, quick-moving man with a soft voice, quit as agent-in-charge of the FBI office in Detroit in May 1944, to go to the Ford Motor Company.

Bugas was getting $6,500 a year when he quit the FBI. By now, had he stayed on, he would be doing better, possibly making as much as $12,000. But Ford declined Wednesday, in making public its financial affairs for the first time, that Bugas has no cause for complaint.

"DIRECT REMUNERATION"

Ford listed 1953 "aggregate direct remuneration" for Bugas at $187,785. Bugas is Ford's vice-president for industrial relations. But even this failed to tell how well Bugas has done financially, since he listed him as among key officials who received options to buy Class A stock in 1953. Those officials have options to buy the stock at $64 a share.

The option gives him the right to buy 60,000 shares over a period of years. He exercised his option to buy 18,000 shares this year and has sold 12,000 of the shares in coming years at $21 a share.

If he exercises all of his options, he may buy 31,250,000 for 60,000 shares. The stock now is believed to be marketable at about $75 a share. On this assumed value Bugas stands to make a profit of nearly $2,250,000.

Spring Session Of Legislature To Open Jan. 31

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature spring session, expected to open Jan. 31, will face one of the busiest legislative fits in years, it was reported Wednesday.

Much of the work will be designed to bring existing acts into line with modern conditions.

For example, the highway department is reported studying the Municipal Improvement Act for changes which would extend its scope to northern Ontario and some unorganized districts. The legislation was originally designed for southern Ontario. Other changes were said scheduled for the Highway Traffic Act, health and hospitals legislation.

Queen's Park sources said the government has a full program planned to help clear away business before the dissolution set March for the Easter recess.

Although previous openings have been held on Thursdays, Premier Frost is said to favor the Tuesday opening because it would give the government a chance to establish various legislative committees before the end of the session's first week.

Cold War Moves To Khyber Pass

KABUL, Afghanistan (Reuters) The Soviet leaders' visit to Afghanistan has brought the cold war to Khyber, cross-roading India and the plains of Pakistan, according to Western diplomats here.

They consider bat Marshal Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev succeeded in an effort to ensure that Afghanistan remains a buffer for the Soviet Union and becomes a potential base in the heart of the Baghdad pact area between Iran and Pakistan.

Afghanistan, which is an underpeloped country, needs the massive aid the Soviets have offered, while the Afghan government under Premier Mohamgned Daud Khan is keen to strengthen the country militarily and economically against Pakistan.

Afghanistan has a running dispute with Pakistan over the Pushto-speaking tribesmen, contending that they should have a right to self-determination, while Pakistan says they are quite content as Pakistanis.

Bulganin, soviet premier, supported Afghanistan's view.

Prime Minister Will Spend Christmas at Quebec Home

By GUY DRAPEAU
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent is due here Saturday to spend Christmas with his family, a holiday traditionally marked by church, children and quiet cheer.

The prime minister, expected to leave Ottawa Friday night, will be just an ordinary parishioner with his wife when he attends midnight mass at the magnificent parish church of St-Coeur-de-Marie near his home on Christmas Eve.

Christmas Day is given over to visiting his five children and 17 grand-children, most of whom are expected to be here.

For the big turkey dinner at noon, the 73-year-old prime minister and Mrs. St. Laurent will be at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Mathieu Samson. There, the remainder of the family will converge to dine on succulent delights.

In the evening, Jean-Paul St. Laurent, the prime minister's son elected last fall as Liberal member of Parliament for Temiscouata, will be host to another family gathering.

Mr. St. Laurent will be out calling early New Year's Day if he follows past practice.

First on the list may be the archbishop's palace, where he customarily extends his best wishes to Msgr. Maurice Roy. Then he may drop in at the Reform club to accept the greetings of Quebec City citizens.

That afternoon, in the past, he has visited all the parish priests in his Quebec East riding.

His New Year's message is usually recorded before he leaves Ottawa. It will be broadcast in English and French on a country-wide network.

He will miss one of his usual functions in the capital. He won't arrive from Ottawa in time to preside at the stripping of the Reform club Christmas tree Friday, when toys are distributed to orphans and newspaper boys.

It is expected Mr. St. Laurent will return to Ottawa two or three days after New Year's.

Dionne Sisters To Be at Home For Christmas

MONTREAL (CP) —The four Dionne quintuplet sisters will probably be home in Callander, Ont. for Christmas.

A spokesman at Notre Dame de l'Esperance Hospital here said Wednesday night that patients Marie and Annette are "very, very well now" and will be out in time to go home for the holiday.

Cecile and Yvonne, who are student nurses at the hospital, can choose either Christmas or New Year's to get away, he said. It is expected they will go home for Christmas.

Marie and Annette entered the hospital last month for checkups, which revealed nothing seriously wrong except a need for rest. Visiting with their nursing sisters has proved a "tonic," the spokesman said.

Marie had been in a Quebec City convent intending to enter the novitiate. Annette was studying art at Nicolet, Que.

It will be the second Christmas since the fifth sister, Emilie died in the summer of 1954.

2 Children Rescued

TORONTO (CP)—Two children, one with his clothing on fire, were rescued from the basement of their home here Wednesday. Raymond Wojtowych, 4, was saved by his father and taken to hospital. His condition was described as fair.

Firemen said gasoline stored in the basement, had been ignited by the furnace. The second child was treated at home.

Bogus Surgeon Identified As Impostor Canadian Doctor Who Did Surgery in Korea

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—O. B. Ellis, general manager of the Texas prison system, today identified an employee of the system as an impostor Canadian physician who performed major surgery on the Korean battlefront.

Ellis said the employee packed his belongings and left his quarters at the prison after being confronted with magazine articles concerning Ferdinand Waldo Demara, Jr., who as Dr. Joseph C. Cyr served as a surgeon in the Royal Canadian Navy.

"He became very indignant and denied that he was the same man," Ellis said.

"I am not going to stay around here and be insulted," Ellis quoted him as saying.

Ellis said the man, who gave his age as 36, had been employed in May by the system after he presented credentials that he held a doctor of education degree from Peabody University in Nashville, Tenn. He also claimed degrees from the University of Texas and Georgia Teachers College.

TOLD IN DETAIL

The prison manager said another employee found a Canadian-published magazine article which described in detail the activities and showed pictures of the Canadian, who had a long record as an impostor in vocation and avocation before he received a Royal Canadian Navy commission as a surgeon.

Ellis said the pictures of the Canadian were exact likenesses of the employee.

While employed by the prison, he "seemed very alert and did a good job" Ellis said. First assigned as lieutenant of the guards at the Wynn prison farm, he was later transferred to the main unit here.

He was doing good work but also along I felt he was just too good to be true," the manager said.

Demara, a native of Lawrence, Mass., caused considerable furor in 1951 after serving as a surgeon in the Korean War. The Canadian Navy said he enlisted as Dr. Joseph Cyr of Newcastle, N.B.

AROUSED COMMENT

He won considerable fame for a series of successful major operations he performed on wounded South Koreans, but newspaper accounts of his surgical exploits aroused comment in New Brunswick. The real Dr. Joseph Cyr reported his medical documents had disappeared the previous winter.

Demara, then 29, was discharged from Canada's sea services for fraudulent enlistment and was deported from Canada. His father said at that time that as far as he knew his son's only previous medical experience was as an orderly in a Boston eye and ear infirmary.

The elder Demara described his son as "bright to the point of genius" and said he once studied in a Trappist monastery.

Aboard the Canadian destroyer Cayuga he held the rank of surgeon lieutenant and was credited in detail the activities and showed with performing brilliant operations under trying conditions. He was reported to have collapsed a lung, removed a bullet from near the heart and amputated a limb. The operations were performed on wounded South Koreans brought aboard the ship.

WON'T ACCEPT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Fred Hume Wednesday said he will not accept the Liberal nomination for the Vancouver Centre provincial by-election Jan. 9. He was offered the nomination Tuesday by a special delegation at city hall.

A new-type operation developed at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto has given life to Dianne Clarke, left, 19 months, shown with her mother, Mrs. Gordon Clarke, she is now almost indistinguishable from her twin sister, Louise, but at birth her chances of survival or normalcy were slim. Once more thoughts turn to Christmas and preparations for its observance are begun. Christmas music has been on the air; stores have put up elaborate decorations and goods have been displayed in seasonable wrappings. Neighbors are greeted with the usual question: "Have you finished your Christmas shopping?"

Some give gifts because everyone does it; and some give them to keep in with the clique, and some give gifts because they have a high regard for the person of whom giving is the outward expression of inward thoughts and desires.

When this is done, one of the attributes of Christ is imitated, who gives everything, even eternal life.

Children should be taught it is gifts of love that are given "demand" certain things, and that they have no right to

HIS ANNIVERSARY BIRTHDAY

Christmas is the anniversary of the birth of Jesus, and should be a happy time of the year when one considers this supreme gift of God.

Considering all the uses and abuses that have been made of this great anniversary, how do all stand in the face of things?

There is no place for self-centredness in the Christmas heart.

The spirit of Christmas is the spirit of love. In this season each one is trying to help and please others, each giving, each serving. What a heaven on earth there will be when for 365 days a year the spirit of good will prevails in all relationships — personal, national and international.

Mrs. F. Lindenfield conducted a contest, followed by the "Travelling Christmas Box," of which Mrs. Charlie Ross was the winner.

Refreshments were served.

British Columbia Holly Keeps Old Custom Alive

The prickly-leaved, red-berried holly now putting in its annual appearance is as much a harbinger of Christmas as Santa Claus, greeting cards, and the living-room Yule tree. Dating from an early Teutonic custom of providing forest spirits with an evergreen refuge from the chill winter weather, the practice of hanging holly wreaths during the festive season still finds favour in the modern Canadian household. To meet the 20th century demand for this colourful traditional decoration, a thriving British Columbia holly industry annually airships thousands of holly boughs to florists across Canada to satisfy a growing domestic market.

Workers on a small B.C. farm prune four-year-old holly trees. Ground is covered with 4 inches of sawdust to act as a mulch. Because of the seasonal nature of the demand for B.C.'s holly crop, most farms are small, run as a side-line by families, with everyone pitching in during harvesting.

Budding holly tree is checked by W. Miller, Sr. Holly leaves are dipped in a hormone solution to prevent leaves and berries from dropping off after harvesting. Members of the holly growers association co-operatively pack and ship holly boughs assembled from farms in their region.

Harvesting this year's slim crop, which was hard hit by frost damage, Nancy Idiens and W. Miller are shown cutting boughs from a 30-year old tree, which will produce from 150 to 200 pounds of holly. Trees, sometimes reaching 50 feet in height, begin producing when they are ten years old.

Everyone, from tots to oldsters, pitch in during harvesting. Here Dale Miller, 6, and 4-year old sister, Lynne, wheel a crate of holly boughs to packing shed for shipment. Packed in one, ten and 25-pound boxes, holly is air-shipped to florists across Canada to meet domestic needs.

British Cabinet Changes Involve 42 Persons

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's Conservative government, turned inside out in the most extensive shuffle since the war, settled down today into what is expected to be its permanent form for the next four years.

The long-awaited changes, announced by Prime Minister Eden, involve 42 persons, create a new "big five" hierarchy at the top, lower the average age of cabinet ministers from nearly 56 to 54 and virtually complete Britain's transition from the Churchill to the Eden era.

In the most important mover on Sir Anthony's complicated chessboard, Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler moves from the treasury after four gruelling years to become Lord Privy Seal and leader of the House of Commons, with special supervision over home affairs; Harold Macmillan leaves the foreign office to take Butler's old job; Selwyn Lloyd, a rising star, goes from the defence ministry to succeed Macmillan as foreign secretary; and Sir Walter Monckton sheds his labor minister's portfolio to take over from Lloyd.

In another key appointment, Ian Macleod, former health minister, takes up where Sir Walter left off as labor minister, a tough and crucial post in a Conservative administration. At 42, Macleod—a former international bridge player who says he now has time only for games like "Snap"—is the baby of the cabinet.

GETS NEW LOOK

Apart from Sir Anthony himself, Monckton now is the only distinctively Churchillian minister still on the scene.

Monckton is 64 and has been reported wishing to quit for health reasons. His decision to remain, in the important role of defence minister, follows a favorable medical report. With reconstruction of Britain's armed forces under way, defence is slated for a top priority.

The extensive changes, which include a "second-list" involving appointments in junior offices, are expected to give ministers a sense of permanency. Barring one or two possible transfers, the constituted administration may well hope to remain in office until the next general election—now perhaps about four years away.

The "big five" ministers now are Sir Anthony, Butler, Macmillan, Lloyd and Monckton, perhaps in that order in the hierarchy.

A surprise was the appointment of Aubrey Jones as fuel minister, replacing Geoffrey Lloyd who was dismissed without receiving a peerage or any other compensation. Jones, a little-known back-bencher, is a miner's son from Merthyr Tydfil, Wales, a bright boy who studied under the late Socialist professor Harold Laski at the London School of Economics and later took a senior job with the British iron and steel federation. He is 44.

Mother And Son, Age Four, Die In Fire At Ottawa

Apartment Block in East End of Capital Is Gutted

OTTAWA (CP) — Two persons perished today in a fire which gutted an apartment house in the east-end Sandy Hill district of the capital.

The bodies of Mrs. Herbert Steele, 36, and her four-year-old son, Barry, were found huddled near a front window in their third-floor apartment.

Firemen were told by fleeing occupants that they believed a third person, a child, was trapped on the top floor of the three-storey building at Laurier avenue and Friel street, but their search in the still-blazing ruins confirmed there was no third victim.

The blaze broke out in below-zero weather. Eyewitnesses said they saw a puff of smoke and then heard an explosion in the basement.

First report said five persons believed to have perished in the blaze which broke out in 10-degree-below-zero weather.

A separate school teache', Helen O'Brien, 24, was reported taken to hospital with injuries suffered in jumping from a second-storey window.

SOME BODIES SEEN

Firemen working on the third floor said they saw what appeared to be two bodies huddled near a window. A four-year-old boy also was unaccounted for.

Occupants of the 18 apartments and two doctors' offices evacuated the building.

Witnesses said they heard an explosion after the first smoke was seen. The three-storey building threatened to collapse an hour after the fire began.

Lloyd Laidlaw, 19, a CPR telegraph messenger, said:

"I saw a bit of smoke from the top floor. While I was looking at it suddenly everything went poof and there was nothing out of the window and glass flew all over.

FELL BY DOOR

"I ran to the front door and tried to open it but the doorknob got hot under my hand and couldn't hold it. I ran to the back door, opened it and yelled 'Fire, Fire, Fire, Fire'."

Lalonde said occupants of the building rushed out with "only a couple of them knocked me down."

He said that when a woman ran from the two sides as well as a report from the UN Palestine truce chief, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, warning that further Israeli reprisals could touch off a full-scale war.

BLAMED ISRAEL

Burns' report blamed Israel for violation of the Israeli-Syrian armistice. It said 56 Syrians and an Israelis perished in Israel's Dec. 11 raid on Syrian posts along the northeast shores of the Sea of Galilee.

Shukairy, asserting that past experience showed expressions of condemnation had done nothing to stop Israeli "aggression," called on the council to:

1. Condemn Israel for the Dec. 11 attack; 2. Rule that it violated the armistice; 3. Label it aggressor; 4. Call for necessary measures to impose economic penalties; 5. Expel Israel from the UN for violating charter principles. 6. Decide Israel should pay compensation for loss of life and property resulting from the attack, and 7. Request UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to keep the council informed on how these measures were being carried out.

Today's Chuckle

The comrade interrupted the speaker at a Communist meeting. "There's just one thing I want to know," he said, "Who pays me my unemployment cheques when we overthrow the government?"

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Winter is well entrenched in Ontario. Snow cover ranges from 4 to 8 inches around the lower lakes to 2 to 3 feet in northern Ontario. More snow is forecast for northern Ontario tonight and Saturday. Snowflurries near the north shores of the lower lakes today will become more frequent on Saturday.

EIGHT INJURED IN MAJOR FIRE AT MONTREAL

Two Women Rescued By Traffic Policeman

MONTREAL (CP) — A three-alarm blaze, the city's fifth major fire in six days, Thursday night destroyed an ancient, four-storey building containing three stores and a 24-room rooming house and resulted in injury to eight persons.

The fire broke out while thousands of workers and Christmas shoppers were homeward bound and created a traffic jam that extended for blocks in four directions off one of Montreal's busiest intersections—St. Catherine and Bleury streets.

Damage estimates varied. One fire official estimated a $20,000 loss while others went as high as $200,000. Thousands of dollars worth of clothing and furniture was caught in the building, housing a movie theatre, a night club, a tavern and another rooming house.

More than 100 firemen and 20 pieces of equipment battled the blaze for four hours in sub-zero temperatures before getting the upper hand. Their efforts were hampered by frozen hoses and by several minor explosions resulting from an accumulation of gas fumes.

EIGHT INJURED

None of the blaze could not immediately be determined — it started either in the cellar or the rear of one of the stores.

Six firemen and two women residents of the rooming house were injured.

Most seriously hurt was fire Lieut. Hector Fortin, 40, who slipped on his icy ladder and plunged three floors. He was in hospital with a possible fractured back.

Marie-Jeanne Gagnon, 39, and Mrs. Levis Poirier, 34, the rooming house residents were treated in hospital for smoke poisoning and shock.

RESCUES TWO

Both women can thank police Lieut. David Miller of the traffic department for saving their lives. Miller, driving down the blaze in his patrolling when informed by a bystander that someone was trapped inside. He carried Mme. Gagnon to safety after finding her groping through smoke to the third-floor room and returned to lead Mrs. Poirier from the same floor. Some 60 persons in the hotel and adjacent movie theatre when the fire broke out. They and occupants of other buildings threatened by the blaze were quickly evacuated. There was no panic.

Paratrooper Stumbles to Safety Four Tortuous Days After Jump

EASTON, Wash. (AP)—Sgt. John M. Horan, 25-year-old Massachusetts paratrooper, stumbled out and told her husband was missing.

It was Sunday afternoon about 1:30 p.m. when he jumped from an air force C-46 on the pilot's orders. The plane had gone into a flat spin at 12,000 feet. Horan bailed out at 10,000 and the plane plunged itself before others aboard had time to jump.

"I saw a small clearing," he recounted from a cot in a rooming house. "It IS rather small, I admit. "It was covered with deep snow, I found very quickly."

All night he floundered through the drifts until he spotted a cabin in the woods, about four miles south of where he had landed.

Govt. in Late 30's Ignored Warnings of War, Cut Budget Official Army History Shows

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The government in the late 1930s ignored the warnings of the chiefs of staff for bigger defence appropriations and failed warnings of approaching war, says a new official history of the Canadian Army in the Second World War.

The first volume of "Six Years of War," published today by the pre-war L B ie al administration avoided any commitments whatever of preparing for action overseas, it quotes Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie as telling the Imperial Conference in London in May, 1937: "Canadian public opinion is definitely opposed to extraneous commitments for anything beyond support a national defence policy for the protection of our coasts and the local areas of our trade routes."

The history says the military chiefs in 1936 asked for a $30,000,000, 5-year defence building, with $70,000,000 to be spread over the 1937-38. They got $36,000,000 that year and the same amount the next. The appropriation in 1939-40 was $60,000,000 which produced a "very meagre" project for the army.

On Sept. 5, 1936, the chiefs of staff told the cabinet: "The possibility of a major world war is becoming more and more imminent. The realization is growing in many countries that the present political rivalries in 1918 was but an armistice." The chiefs said they favored Empire and Far East situations concerning Canada, "no matter how reluctant that consideration may be."

The history says: "On Jan. 12, 1938, the prime minister (Mackenzie King) wrote to all his colleagues in the cabinet reminding them of the recent deficits and emphasizing the importance of achieving a surplus and if possible some reduction in taxation before the next appeal to the electorate." (The Liberal government was returned in 1940).

King "begged" for a $70,000,000 cut in spending in 1938-39 and as a result of army appropriations were reduced.

Col. C. P. Stacey, director of the army's historical section and author of the projected four-volume history, says:

"Many considerations hedged the government in. The country's economic life had not recovered from the depression; unemployment was still widespread and the public accounts still showed a regular annual deficit.

"In these circumstances, large expenditures for defence, traditionally unpopular in Canada, were likely to meet considerable criticism. . . . Pacifist feeling was strong, the public naturally shrank from the idea of another destructive war and there was no general realization of the fact—now so clear in retrospect—that the best hope of avoiding such a war lay in the democracies being strong."

At another point, Col. Stacey comments: "However loudly the military situation might call for action—and the cry could be heard—the politician was evidently feared that any program of rearmament might be exposed to misinterpretation and misrepresentation, at home as well as abroad."

Requests by the chiefs of staff for establishment of an armaments industry in Canada were also ignored by the government, Col. Stacey observes:

West Germany Arrests John On 'Suspicion of Treason'

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—Dr. Otto John was formally arrested by West German authorities today on a charge of suspected treason. The turncoat former intelligence chief had been under "voluntary" detention since his surprise return last week from Communist East Germany.

Federal prosecutor Carl Wiechmann, who announced the arrest, confirmed previous reports that John called a news conference there when taken to East Berlin in July, 1954. Wiechmann said this claim was "unbelievable."

The prosecutor said federal investigators want to learn whether John could be charged with other offences, particularly whether he divulged state secrets to the Communists. John is reported to have refused to help disclose any such secrets during prolonged questioning in East Germany and Russia.

Wiechmann said the Bonn authorities decided to charge that John defected with the intent to commit treason. In July, 1954, he explained that the charge of suspicion of treason was based on a belief that John must have known the Communists would attempt to pry secrets from him.

Wiechmann denied reports that John had been told before his return to the West that he could come back without any risk. The federal prosecutor also denied that the anterior ministry had advance knowledge of John's plan to defect.

The announcement that the Bonn Republic's highest security intelligence chief had been arrested came as no surprise. The South German radio broadcast the news after he had been charged with suspicion of treason and a warrant had been served on him for fear he might flee to try to cover up his activities.

John joined the Communists in East Berlin in July, 1954, after heading West Germany's counter-intelligence "office for the protection-of the constitution," charged with ferretting out Communist and Nazi subversives.

He returned to West Germany 16 months later on Dec. 12, and is reported held incommunicado by government security officials here. The Bonn government's decision to arrest charged him with "suspicion of relations incompatible" with the Bonn government.

The Carl Wiechmann, federal prosecutor, made the announcement of John's arrest at a press conference here.

He said the arrest was ordered

Loses Christmas Cheque on Street Wife Finds It

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Peter Kuchner, city street sweeper, came to the police station in tears; he thought his Christmas pay cheque for $112.

Meanwhile, his wife, who was downtown shopping, spotted the cheque in the snow and brought it to the nearby police station. The cheque was made out to Peter Kuchner.

British Public Demands Railway Safety Measures

LONDON (Reuters)—Public anxiety at a spate of rail crashes which in little more than a month have brought death to 23 and injury to more than 175 burst out today in demands for new safety measures on Britain's vast rail network.

Two crashes within 15 hours Thursday, a rear-end collision two trains under virtually identical circumstances, raised the issue of rail danger to the front-page headlines of most newspapers.

Thursday night an express train plunged into the rear of another train standing in London station. One man died and 12 were taken to hospital. Other firemen backed their way into the wreckage.

Because of a danger John might flee the country.

The arrest warrant was issued by the Supreme Court judge who has investigated John's defection to East Berlin 17 months ago.

Wiechmann said the warrant was applied for Dec. 12—the day John's startling return to the West. John was informed at federal criminal police headquarters in Wiesbaden this morning that he was under arrest. Until now, John has been voluntarily undergoing questioning.

DRIFTING SNOW AND AVALANCHES SLOW TRAFFIC

Railroad and Highway Travel Is Affected

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Drifting snow, icy winds and snow slides slowed rail and vehicle traffic through much of Canada today as the Christmas travel crush neared its peak.

In British Columbia, the trans-Canada highway winding through the Fraser canyon was ordered closed as snow slides continued to roll down.

On the Prairies, snowstorms and drifting snow were general. Temperatures dropped. In Edmonton yesterday snow fell in feeling was strong, the public naturally shrank from the idea of another destructive war and there was no general realization of the fact—now so clear in retrospect—that the best hope of avoiding such a war lay in the democracies being strong."

Northern Section Of State Lashed By Heavy Rains

Six Persons Are Drowned; Damage Runs into Millions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Galedriven rains today lashed northern California, feeding gorged rivers which already have torn five small communities into rubble.

The five villages are Pepperwood, Elmer, Weott, Klamath and Klamath Glen, all on the raging Eel and Klamath rivers which empty into the Pacific high on California's north coast.

Their residents fled as waters curled higher and higher from a record week of storms. Many were evacuated by boat.

Heavy rain and winds were expected to continue through tonight, barring relief from the weather that has already brought millions of dollars worth of damage.

All major coastal rivers and streams were over their banks. Large sections of the northwestern corner of the state were cut off from travel and the only communication to the area was by radio.

VILLAGES DESTROYED

Six persons were reported dead. Two women and a girl drowned Thursday in Prosser county in eastern California. In the northwestern counties, three persons were reported dead.

The greatest damage was in the north coast counties, where the big Klamath and Eel rivers drain mountainous watersheds to the sea.

Elmer Hopkins, managing editor of the Humboldt Times at Eureka, said in a report transmitted by naval reserve radio that the five villages were "virtually wiped out by raging flood waters."

He said other villages, including Carlotta, Ferndale and Alton, were isolated. None of the ruined and endangered villages has more than 500 population.

OVERFLOWS DAM

The flood spread across its entire valley after the Redwood valley dam upstream overflowed. The torrent struck west at Pepperwood, Elmer and Weott, which lay like towns at the bottom of funnels with the streets its residents have been left piled high with silt.

Further evacuation in the flooded valleys was scheduled for today, but communications were cut.

While the coastal counties took the hardest beating, inland areas also were in trouble. Two big valleys in northern Siskiyou county were flooded, one by the big rivers of the northern Sierra—the Feather, Yuba, Sacramento and Pit—and the other flood stage.

A report Thursday that 30 had drowned in the Humboldt floods apparently resulted from a transmission error somewhere along the line in the complicated, roundabout radio telephone circuit being required to get news out of Humboldt county.

Pre-Christmas travel in northern California and southern Oregon was completely disrupted. Highways up the coast were blocked by slides and washouts. Two Greyhound buses caught between slides north of Laytonville still had not been extricated Thursday night. The two score passengers were forced Thursday to homes and makeshift quarters in Laytonville.

Liberace 'Gave Me Mental Burps' Is Among Kinder British Critiques

LONDON (Reuters)—A withering baptism of critical fire today greeted American television pianist Liberace's debut on a London stage.

Liberace's portrayal in "Sincerely Yours" of a pianist gone deaf in Beethoven's role as a liberal refuge from London's movie critics as "tear-dropping" and "corny."

"He gave me the mental burps," grumbled Peter Fleming Herald critic. "He has a voice like a dormouse with adenoids."

The Daily Sketch critic was unimpressed by Liberace's "two left hands" technique—and ineffable nobility, the other of tear-dripping

The News Chronicle's screen pundit described: "I cannot find it in my soppy Yuletide heart to blame that bizarre television pianist, who calls himself Liberace, for calling himself a pianist."

The Times continues, "what I do faintly resent is the official publicity-blurb describing the effect of Liberace's favorite colors that the melody for the theme-song was composed by Frederick Chopin."

Liberace had been "beaten to the post by Chopin," the Times says.

"It's all as soggy as a dish of sago," concludes the critic of The Times.

Fear of Slides Closes Highway In Fraser Canyon

BOSTON BAR, B. C. (CP)—Danger posed by tons of snow hanging over the lip of the wild Fraser canyon has closed one of British Columbia's main gateways to the trans-Canada highway traffic.

RCMP Thursday night began turning back cars from the section of the trans-Canada highway winding through the canyon after the road was ordered closed by the provincial works department.

Not yet blocked off but termed dangerous was the Cariboo-Princeton highway into the interior Okanagan valley.

The rugged canyon area begins at Hope, 95 miles east of Vancouver. Both transcontinental railways run through the narrow cut, as does above the white water of the Fraser.

CPR O.K.

Canadian Pacific Railway lines, across the river at the slide points, have not disrupted.

The Fraser canyon drives dour north 65 miles from the end of here Wednesday to Lytton, junction of the Cariboo cattle country.

Belle Haven Club Holds Christmas Dinner and Show

With turkey, trimmings and top entertainment the Belle Haven club last night hailed Christmas.

Packed tables at the Kiwanis centre on Dundas Street, were evidence, if any were needed, of the festive spirit generally abroad and, more specifically, within the club itself.

To start the ball rolling the traditional Christmas dinner was served and heartily set upon by the assembly.

However, despite everything from apple juice to after-dinner addresses, the highlight of the evening probably was the topnotch entertainment provided the second half of the evening.

Under the direction of Chuck Rollins, Bill Salter, Earl Vandervoort and Hans Annyot, a troupe of local artists entertained the members and guests far into the evening.

Among the entertainers taking part were Russ Dickson, Ray Dickinson, Ken Hood, Smith, Valerie Smith, Sharon Archer, Francis Edgar, Geraldine Gill, Judy Reid, Brian Stone and Don Grass.

Among the highlights of the entertainment period were a dance routine by Freddine Smith and her pupils; vocal solos by Sylvia Lancaster and a sing-song led by Bill Salter.

Contributing to the grand finale of the evening was an old-fashioned hoe-down.

Mrs. Robert McMurray, president of the club, expressed her thanks to all who contributed toward the success of the gathering.

Several door prizes also were donated.

J. and J. Cash Holds Annual Yuletide Parties

The employees of J. & J. Cash (Canada) Ltd. held their annual Christmas Party on Wednesday evening at the Army, Navy and Air Force veterans hall. Highlighting the evening was the announcement from the General Manager, Mr. K. H. Hall, that the employees would receive a cash bonus.

Mr. Hall congratulated the employees for their sincere co-operation in the past year and presented the cheques. Telegrams of best wishes were received from J. & J. Cash plants in Coventry, England and South Norwalk, Conn.

President Don Lee acted as master of ceremonies and Mrs. H. Kemper spoke briefly on behalf of the Social Club members thanking Mr. Lee and his committee for their efforts in making the functions so successful in the past year. Chuck Collins and Hans Amyott provided the entertainment with their guitars and accordions.

The tables were appropriately arranged with Christmas decorations and delicious turkey with all the extras was served by the ladies of the A.W.A.

Santa Claus as usual, brought the Christmas spirit and presented gifts to all. Carols and dancing continued for the evening. Music was by Hugo Diggins' dance orchestra. Door prizes were won by Shirley Cleaver and Mary Burgess. Spot dance prizes went to Bob Browning, Dorene Holloway, Muriel Frain, Orval Whittle, W. Hamblin and Marie Bedford. Children's Party

The children's party was held Monday at the plant and approximately 400 were treated to candies, oranges, balloons, soft drinks while awaiting Santa. Upon his arrival he was greeted with cheers from the eager youngsters. He distributed gifts and then waving to all and ringing his sleigh bells, disappeared. It is very promising he would again visit them all on Christmas Day.

A supervisor with Northern Electric, he had been with the company for 34 years and lived in Belleville with the company from Montreal eight years ago.

He was a member of Christ Church and also belonged to the church's Men's Club.

Mr. Hollomby came to Canada from England, where he was born at Tanbridge, son of the late Mr and Mrs. William Hollomby.

He leaves his wife, the former Dora Pearce; one son and one daughter, both of Montreal, and Doreen at home.

Also surviving is one granddaughter, Susan Hollomby, and two sisters, Miss Linda Hollomby of Bournemouth, Eng., and Mrs. F. W. Spark, of Guelph.

Sub-Zero Temps Are Getting To Be Routine

Jack Frost beat Ole Sol to the punch this morning and threw back its usual mercury-rising efforts with a sudden drop into sub-zero bog.

Midnight travellers hunched their shoulders and walked or drove home in a brisk temperature of six below zero.

The frosty dip-and-dive order went out and by 7 a.m. the thermometers read 7 below. Down and down went the mercury until that zero magic and the early-bird risers at 6 a.m. shivered in an atmosphere of nine below.

The sun's puny efforts at tempering the atmosphere were rudely brushed aside. At 7.30 a.m. the mercury stood at 7.5 below—still going down. The coldest part of the morning was at eight o'clock when the dip declined 10 below.

From then on Ole Sol took over, and at 10 a.m. it was 3 below—comparatively mild.

But don't turn off the oil yet. There are colder things in store.

There may be nine below zero tonight or tomorrow, but in any event the city will shiver in sub-zero temperatures. The weatherman says it will be ten degrees below tonight and before morning there may be some cloudiness with accompanying snow.

Humane Society Desperately Needs Warmer Space for Pound Until One Is Built by City

What's the real meaning of "leading a dog's life?"

Members of the humane and the local Humane Society it is nothing as regards about — especially if the dog at present is leading its life in the city dog pound.

In fact so unpleasant is it at present that the Society now is casting itself upon the goodwill of Belleville and district residents in an attempt to make the lot of impounded dogs a happier one.

In brief, what the society says it wants is the help of some community-minded people to provide a temporary pound in the shape of a disused shed or barn to place the animals out of the present polar-bear weather until the city builds its own new dog society.

At present stray animals are housed in a barn on Coleman Flats, which is no match as a guard against the bitterly sharp weather of the fall and winter district at the present time.

Mrs. Ethel Taylor, the society can be classed as desperate, appeals to the backing of those who should know. These include the city dog catcher himself, city police, the city council, who place the conditions and regulations under which dogs are kept in the "deplorable" class.

Biggest bone of contention put forward by the interested parties is the failure of the pound to provide any sort of adequate shelter against the weather.

In its present site on the Flats the pound is vulnerable to any kind of breeze that either scorches or freezes the dog in the vicinity of the outside atmosphere itself.

And at present it is a freezing wind that's blowing, as any citizen will heartily agree.

POUND IS HEATED

The pound itself, of course is heated, but the heat that is kept running inside the premises all the time "leaves" it in an old barn and any heating system used inside must bow down before its barn-like dimensions.

Splendid Programs Arranged For Many City Institutions

Christmas will be both a quiet and a bustling time at various institutions in the city and district, as it always has been.

On the quiet side take for instance the contrasting education-al institutions of the Y.M.C.A. and the Ontario School for the Deaf, the one for the able and the outskirts of the city.

Albert has a registration of 180 pupils. Many of them have already flown home to celebrate the holidays in such places as Bermuda—a happy departure in the present weather—and others have scattered throughout the length and breadth of the U.S. and Canada.

Of the total number of attending pupils only four remain, and for two of them it will be their first Christmas in Canada.

They are Albert Jones, who hails from Bermuda, and John Hitchen from Twillingate, Nfld. If there was nothing else they should recall this Yuletide as one night off holiday and the usual Christmas card.

However, there is something else—in the shape of various invitations proffered to spend the holiday and the traditional dinner-time with different families. A special Christmas programme has been arranged for those remaining at the college. A skeleton staff is being retained in the kitchens to handle the welfare of resident staff members and the remaining pupils.

At the O.S.D., which now is housing 385 pupils, only five students are remaining over for the holiday—the smallest ever, school officials say.

Together with members of the permanent staff this slight body will sit down to Christmas dinner in the school's main dining hall, beneath the shadow and the lights of a few Christmas trees. They will be given presents from off the tree, something of an exciting climax to their holiday at school.

MERRY TIME PROMISED

Scene of much of the bustle probably will be the hospitals in the district, where there will be a hearty atmosphere of collective merriment.

At Trenton Memorial Hospital as many patients as possible will be released to spend their Christmas at home, the hospital announced earlier.

For those remaining there will be special Christmas meals to enjoy in a festival atmosphere.

Two trees now flank the approach to the front entrance of the hospital.

At Belleville General Hospital Christmas will be ushered in with a special morning worship service for nurses. Following service the nurses' choir will serenade patients in all parts of the hospital with Christmas carols.

Christmas afternoon certain organizations in the city will distribute gifts to patients. A holiday menu will be served patients whose diet requirements do not forbid it.

However, the most consistent—and probably most important—bustling right now is being experienced at the Salvation Army Citadel.

Working continuously, followers of the organization right now are toiling time to distribute groceries—and a glut of good things to the needy of the city.

At the Pinnacle St. Citadel, Salvation Army workers are busily sorting and arranging in manner of gifts for distribution to the less privileged citizens of the community and county.

On Saturday volunteer workers will drive across and around the city to deliver the goods. This year the Salvation Army besides donations, is buying many of its toys for the 400 odd families it already has on its list.

Neither are inmates at the county jail being overlooked by their governor, Robert Scott.

On Christmas Day they, too, will receive special seasonal fare.

At the county home, Christmas Day will be a climax to a full week of special entertainment provided its 202 residents.

All this week church groups, women's organizations and fraternal bodies have been putting on special programs for the residents.

Biggest bustle will, of course, be in the greatest of institutions—the home.

Already, nearly every household has its turkey in the refrigerator, its Christmas tree standing in the living room, decorated and showered with gifts.

Stores in the city are doing a booming business as the whole city and district gathers itself to spring a regular merry Christmas.

Woman Seriously Hurt in Crash On Trent Road

Mrs. Robert Edward, 62, of 76 Sherman Ave., Hamilton, is in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital with head injuries, facial lacerations and internal injuries, suffered when a skidding dry cleaner truck slammed into the car in which she and her husband were riding.

Mr. Edward, 58, suffered facial lacerations, a broken nose and cuts to his knees and was trapped in his wrecked car until a door could be removed to get him out. Dr. Ian Graham, 19, Trenton, driver of the Belle Cleaner truck, escaped injuries.

The accident occurred near Jones Creek, three miles west of the city about four o'clock Thursday afternoon. The westbound cleaner truck skidded out of control, its right front slamming headon into the approaching Edward vehicle. The Edward car was a total wreck.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward were without medical attention until an ambulance doctor, Group Captain Mahoney of Rockcliffe Air Station, arrived as he was driving past the accident scene. Dr. Don Scott attended the injured at the hospital.

Delay was also encountered in securing an ambulance and the injured were eventually rushed to hospital in a Trenton police cruiser which happened by.

The Hamilton couple were apparently on their way to spend Christmas with friends or relatives. The rear seat of the car was piled high with gaily wrapped Christmas presents which were strewn about by the force of the impact.

Provincial Constable G. M. Robertson investigated.

Christmas Party Held by So-Ed

A Christmas party was held by So-Ed in the YMCA, on Wednesday evening with approximately 50 members and friends in attendance. The hall was festively decorated in the Christmas theme of red and green streamers from which hung large and small paper trees and ornaments. A Christmas tree beautifully decorated filled one corner of the auditorium.

The program took the form of merry dancing and singing by the group. Christmas bell get-acquainted mixer and a Christmas tree wrapping relay, followed by intermission during which refreshments were served by Miss Lewis, at the piano, conducted a period of carol singing in which all participated. The remainder of the evening was spent dancing. Mr. Bert Hiles, acted as M.C. for the evening.

Winners of the prizes for the Christmas bell mixer were Miss Reta Christie, Mr. Al Miller, and Mr. Fred Bowman; spot dance winners were Miss Maribeth Bristol and Mr. John Mowle and the elimination dance was won by Miss Marion Rawson and Mr. Ronan Carriere.

Plans are being made to hold another party before the commencement of another '55 session which is scheduled for March and April.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle were 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight higher this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were unchanged. Hogs were 50 cents a hundredweight higher and sheep and lambs were steady.

Cattle receipts were some 2,200 head less than last week and 800 head more than the same week in 1954. Western cattle receipts were sharply lower at 310 head. This was some 1,100 head less than last week. There were no stock cattle receipts.

The western receipts were mostly replacement cattle. Shipments to eastern Canada slaughterers were light — there were no export to the United States. An estimated 300 head were unsold at the close, all stockers.

Prices

Choice steers $20-20.50, sales to $21; good steers $19-20; medium $15-19; commons $12-15; good heifers $17-18; no odd choice to 810; medium $14-17; commons $12-14; boner steers and heifers $8-12; choice dry-fed yearlings $21-22, sales to $22; good fed yearlings $20-21; mediums $15-19; good cows $11-11.50, sales to $12; canners and cutters down to $6; good heavy bologna bulls to $13; commons and medium light bulls down to $9.

Replacement cattle continued in narrow demand with steady sales on medium grades of stockers. A few good shorthorn steers sold at $19, mediums were $16-17.50 with commons at $14-16.

Veal calves continued in good demand with scarcity of the choice grades. Good vealers were $28-29, with the few choice offered selling up to $30; mediums were $26-27 with commons $12-19; grass calves sold for slaughter were $9-12.

Grade A hogs sold at $23.30; sows were $16- dressed; stags were $13 dressed; a few loads closed out at $24.

Lambs were steady at $20 for good handyweight 90-100 pound ewes and wethers; a few odd lots of seconds were sold up to $22. Bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight. Heavy lambs were discounted as much as $3; common and medium lambs were $12-16; a few feeder lambs ranged from $14-16.50; good light sheep sold up to $13 with yearling sheep selling up to $12. Common and heavy sheep sold down to $3.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Mines moved ahead in selective dealings on the Toronto stock exchange today, but little interest was shown in industrials as the market moved toward the Christmas break. Western oils were a little better with most of the higher-prices issues advancing fractions.

The market closed at noon with 1,731,00 shares traded.

Papers improved but the industrial list was otherwise mixed. Supertest Ordinary gained 52 at 23. Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper moved up a point.

Among mines, Gaspe Copper jumped 84 to 35. Chibougamau area issues were in demand, but Campbell Chibougamau eased off ½. Temagami climbed 26 cents to a high of $2.75.

Consolidated Denison gained 30 cents in a mixed uranium section. Hollinger was the same unswung golds. Bralorne was off 25 cents.

Fractional western oil advances were carried up in Calgary and Edmonton, Canadian Collieries and Home Oil A and Security Export and Rio Palmer eased about 15 cents.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a good demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, in three cases, graded: A large 48-49; A medium 44-45; A small 40; Grade B 40; Grade C 36. Wholesale to retail: A large 53-54; A medium 49-50; A small 45; Grade B 45; Grade C 41.

Motorists Must Drive Carefully On Bad Roads

A crackdown on Belleville motorists will be the Christmas gift to local drivers unless they drive more in keeping with road conditions.

This was the warning issued today by Chief of Police Walter Probert, who said that close to a dozen accidents in the city yesterday were purely the result of driving without consideration of slippery road conditions.

"Most of the accidents were minor but the fact that they happened indicates that drivers were not operating their vehicles safely in accordance with road conditions," he said.

The chief urged that drivers exercise the utmost care in driving at all times. "If yesterday's accident rate continues, a crackdown will result," he promised.

PARATROOPER

Inside the cabin he found matches and started a fire. He found cocoa, the only food in the place, and melted snow to make himself a drink.

He started out on rude snowshoes made of shingles and got only 500 feet before his feet and snowshoes gave out. Tuesday his luck was no better.

Tuesday night he wrapped his feet in parts of a parachute, cutting his boots. From a refrigerator in the cabin he took two small shelves and fastened them to his feet.

All afternoon and night he floundered along. The shelve-snowshoes slipped back and he sank only 18 inches instead of two or three feet with each step. An ice cold rain soaked him to the skin.

Toward midday Thursday the truck noises began getting closer and louder.

"Then," he said, "I knew I was going to make it. . . ."

Around a bend and there were the men and the inn, and by chance a doctor who had stopped for gas, some broken tire chains. The inn was 3½ miles south of the cabin in the woods. After emergency treatment for frostbite, a rest and some food, the searchers were led by phone with his happy wife.

Christmas Office Parties Still Rule Rather Than Exception

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Christmas office party is still an institution in most Canadian cities.

Despite efforts by police and church authorities in some areas to discourage it, the serving of alcoholic beverages in offices during the Yuletide season is still the rule rather than the exception in most cities.

Although drinking parties in offices without permits are illegal in all provinces but Quebec, a Canadian Press survey shows that police throughout the country seem inclined to look the other way where such parties are concerned, unless there is a serious breach of the peace.

Some offices are inviting children and wives and turning the Christmas festivities into a family affair. Others, to avoid the drinking connotation attached to "office parties" in some communities, now call them "get-togethers."

Toronto and Ottawa are the only two cities taking serious steps against office drinking. No permits have been issued in Toronto and only a few in Ottawa.

A special 100-man squad in downtown Toronto, which for inebriates leaving office parties who intend to drive home. In Toronto and Ottawa, the campaign is directed primarily against these drinking drivers.

Hamilton police said there is no official ban on parties, but this year although they appear to be declining in number.

In Sherbrooke, the office party has the same status as a party in a private dwelling. In Quebec City, the idea of an annual Christmas party is becoming more popular each year.

The number of parties in Montreal and in Hull, across the Ottawa river from the capital, don't change much from year to year, police said.

In New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, parties in the office are illegal without permits. But police usually wink at breaches of the law unless complaints are received.

Police chief Llewellyn Strange in St. John's, Nfld., said he would have to look in the rule book if he received a complaint about a Christmas office party.

The Newfoundland Board of Trade said the Christmas parties have taken to the island province by mainland companies setting up offices there. Chief Strange hasn't had a complaint in 30 years.

Winnipeg police say Christmas office parties may decline slightly this year.

"But we'll always have them around," one morality officer said. The Manitoba Liquor Control Act permits but police said there they have not caused any major trouble in past year.

In Saskatchewan parties are illegal unless a permit is obtained and food served. Police said discretion is used in investigation of complaints.

Neither Calgary nor Edmonton has any ban on parties. They are legal in both cities if a permit is taken out and food served.

Vancouver police reported a decrease in office parties last year although there is no ban on them.

Calcium Alloy Slug Will Allow 20,000 Miles Without Oil Change

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Research Council said today a Toronto company has been licensed to produce a self-lubricating device which will make it possible for automobiles to travel at least 20,000 miles without an oil change.

The device, attached to the drain tap on the oil pan was developed in May, 1953, by Dr. I. E. Puddington, director of the physics division of applied chemistry, and Dr. A. E. Sirianni, a chemist in the division.

The drain tap is on the bottom of the oil pan and is removed to change the oil and remove sediment from the pan.

The two scientists claim that the slug enables engine oil to retain its lubricating properties provided no foreign matter gets into the engine oil.

Since that time it has been tested on two fleet cars which have travelled 22,000 miles without a change of oil. The only fresh oil added was a small amount required to offset normal burning.

The council said the licence to produce the slug and market it commercially has been granted to Festive Metals Company Ltd. of Toronto. It said the company plans to call the slug for about $5.

The original plan was to test the oil for 40,000 miles in the two NRC cars. However, recent tests have satisfied Canadian Patents and Development Ltd., the National Agency for NRC-owned patents, that the invention has proved itself and could be sold to the general public.

The council said the oil in the cars is considered to be about as good as when it was poured in. The council claims that the oil has retained all its lubricating qualities.

Dr. Puddington and Dr. Sirianni developed their invention after early tests showed that the addition of calcium and several other metals to engine oil slowed oxidization and acted as a detergent.

They were convinced from these tests that engine oil deteriorated when attacked by hydroperoxides formed through exposure of the oil to heat and air. They made the peroxides harmless by adding common metal salts.

The council said that calcium, sodium, potassium or magnesium can be used. In fact, Dr. Puddington and Dr. Sirianni claim that their invention is a non-detergent oil into one with cleaning qualities.

However, the calcium slug is of no assistance in prolonging the life of oil if it is polluted by road dust or other matter resulting from abnormal operating conditions. It also will be of little value to motorists who change their oil in the spring and fall regardless of its condition.

The council now is experimenting with the slug for use in airplane engines, stationary engines and sealed units where oil change is difficult or costly. It believes it will be of particular benefit in unattended engine installations on lighthouses or radar sites.

Censors Graft Daddy Longlegs Seven Year Itch

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A movie audience howled for its money back here Thursday night. The missing legs appeared in "Daddy Longlegs," and the audience got switched into "The Seven Year Itch."

The management blamed the Indian censor, claiming a scissors slipped.

The audience was astounded as the long legs of Leslie Caron, in a sequence from the film "Daddy Longlegs," were suddenly replaced by a pair of legs undulating in the unmistakable manner of Marilyn Monroe.

Indian censors, who handle Ceylon's films under an agreement dating back to British rule of both countries, had been censoring both films at the same time. After snipping out several "offensive" scenes from both, the censors mixed the movies.

Slippery Roads Responsible For Rash of Mishaps

Slippery road conditions and below zero temperatures contributed to a rash of motor vehicle accidents in the city on Thursday.

No personal injury was reported but damage ranged all the way from dented fenders to the slowing wall of a brick house, which resulted when a car went out of control at the intersection of North Front and Moira Streets.

Alexander Marjerin, 246 Ann Street, was southbound on North Front Street, when his auto went out of control at the intersection. The vehicle continued across Moira Street and slammed into the house on the southwest corner, doing $500 damage to the residence. Damage to the auto amounted to about $400. Marjerin was charged with reckless driving.

Opposite the fireball on Dundas Street went the cold weather contributed of a motor mishap.

Harnold Hartley, 11 Bay Drive, was giving a fellow motorist a push to get his car going when his car skidded suddenly to the left, hitting a parked car, southbound on Albert, collided with the eastbound Johnson auto, spinning it against a hydro pole.

Chief Frowns on Yuletide Gesture To Deliverymen

Belleville householders were urged today to refrain from offering Christmas "spirits" to deliverymen as a Yuletide gesture.

"Most everyone wants to remember the delivery man at Christmas time but the offer of a drink could result in a motor accident, or possibly in the loss of a job," the chief noted.

The chief pointed out that one drink on top of another as the deliveryman makes his rounds on Christmas eve could result in him losing normal judgment and make him prone to accidents.

"If you want to recognize the deliveryman at Christmas time, do it in some other manner than by offering him a drink," Chief Probert urged.

Jail Inmates To Fare Well Over Christmas

Prisoners at Hastings County jail will fare well over the Christmas holiday, according to Governor Robert Scott.

Governor Scott stated that prisoners will have their Christmas dinner on Sunday, consisting of roast pork, mince pie and vegetables.

The regular Christmas service will be conducted by the Salvation Army, followed by special Christmas music and the showing of motion picture films.

Films to be shown include "It Happened on Fifth Avenue," and several film shorts.

Each of the prisoners will receive a bag of nuts, oranges and candy from the Salvation Army.

Paul Martin Wins Praise

(Edmonton Journal)

A photograph of the Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare and Canada's delegate to the United Nations, appeared on the front page of Wednesday's Journal. He was shown discussing with the Nationalist Chinese ambassador, Tingfu F. Tsiang, the Canadian - sponsored package deal for admitting eighteen countries which are seeking membership in the United Nations.

The picture offers a reminder that there is a Canadian cabinet minister who is doing a remarkably fine piece of work in a very difficult field. It is impossible to say how much of Paul Martin's sound work in the UN General Assembly should be credited to the Canadian cabinet as a whole and to the external affairs department. No doubt they are entitled to share in the credit. Nevertheless, it appears quite beyond question that Mr. Martin has put Canada's representation on a very high plane by the exercise of initiative, diplomacy and wisdom second to none. This outstanding work deserves to be recognized by fellow-Canadians, as it undoubtedly is by leading diplomats of other nations. As a result of it, Canada's name probably stands higher than ever before in the councils of the UN.

How Do Birds Find Their Way?

(From "The House on Nature's Road," by W. Richardson)

How do birds, animals and even fishes, find their way about? This intriguing problem has interested many naturalists. I have never heard of any adequate explanation, and herewith offer my own, which is pure theory.

I believe these creatures have a definite "direction centre" in their brains. I suspect that this centre is very sensitive to some one of the, known, or perhaps unknown, forces which are continually bombarding the earth. It does not seem to me impossible to believe that these centres can pick up the electro-magnetic forces which cause a magnetized needle to point north and south.

In other words, I believe birds, animals and perhaps fishes, have, in fact, a protoplasmic biological compass. Man has evolved beyond the necessity for such apparatus, and so has lost it, as he has lost to a great extent his sense of smell and touch.

Such a theory might in part explain the alleged confusion of the homing pigeon when approaching high-powered radio stations.

Mongolia Once Great Power

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

Outer Mongolia is one of the least known countries in the world. For years it has had no relations with any other country except the Soviet Union, and recently China. So far as is known, these relations have been slight.

The National Geographic Society reports that the people generally live as herdsmen on the vast, partially barren steppe. Heavy tents are their winter homes, lightcloth ones serving for their summer shelter. The country has the distinction of having more camels per inhabitant than any other, an estimated 23.1 domestic animals per person at last count.

A recent British party brought back photos of modern buildings in the capital city, called Ulan Bator. There is a railway across the land, joining Russia and China, and modern motor roads connect all its provincial capitals. There is an air service with Russian cities to the north.

Although so many people are nomads, the literacy level of the million or so inhabitants is rising fast. There are hundreds of schools where there was only one. In the whole country as recently as 1924, the valuable products of the mines and hides in central Asia has great potential importance, with the gradual improvement of transport facilities.

That is the strangely mixed country which has just been refused admission to the United Nations. It is Outer Mongolia, not Inner Mongolia was the most important country of the world, head of the greatest empire ever seen; that of Genghis Khan. Once upon a time men ruled from the China Sea to the Volga, but the empire soon fell to the Chinese.

At the time of the confusion following the overthrow of the mid-year, Outer Mongolia threw off Chinese rule, and apparently looked northward for its future. It succeeded to maintain the country. Since 1924 the nation has been a Soviet satellite, a sad fate for descendants of the countrymen of Genghis and Kublai Khan.

Bulk Higher, Value Less

(Niagara Falls Review)

Canada is short of box cars as she has twice as many on U.S. lines as the U.S. railways have in Canada. This in the face of it suggest that Canada ships more goods to the States than she imports. So far as bulk goes this is true. But that isn't the whole story.

We send south bulky goods — paper, pulp, lumber, grain, etc., that is, goods that are in the mass of raw material. We import machinery and a thousand and one other goods that run into high cost with little bulk.

Must Request To Be Juror

(Sydney Post-Record)

New Zealand women protested when told that Auckland a city of nearly 400,000 people was to have on its jury roll, although any women between 25 and 60 was eligible to serve. They soon realized they had to apply for enrollment, and now will get on the roll automatically. Two weeks later only one more woman had applied to get on the roll, although they now know they can be on the jury roll if they wish. The reason was because some New Zealand males that sat for women served enough to take the trouble to volunteer to get on the roll, but one many wonder how many more will apply if they did not get on the roll automatically.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The dafftest of all my friends, a man I envy more than any man living, bought himself a conductor's baton a couple of years ago and amuses himself enormously every now and then by standing in front of his beautiful hi-fi record player and conduct symphonies. He is passionately fond of music, though he knows nothing whatever about it professionally. To hear him conduct Medelsohn's Hebrides or Mr. Coutley by Bees is a sight to behold. I admit it is probably a little by trying on it in front of grown up children, who have never got used to the mental bud, and are all ready to drift away out of the room when he takes the podium to his living room. Some of his friends can't take it either. But I can, for he is a man inspired, standing there pretending to be Toscanini or von Karajan, though he can't even pronounce the latter name correctly.

A lovely uninhibited man, he these inhibited days. Last night, an itinerant musician, slightly inhibited, and wrapped in a tartan cape and a repertory consisting of the holy Night and Mark the Herald Angels Sing, came up the street by which my friend lives. Raucously, his cornet blasted the tunes with which we are all so familiar. Instead of surfeited, into the wintry night air.

He would play the two airs from one location, and then call at all the front doors within earshot, hearing of his artistry. Then he would move a few doors farther for another rendition.

When he called at my daft friend's door, it was an interruption of Tchaikowsky's Fifth, which he finds very specially to the well-yourself or home style of conducting. Due to the rumpus of the Fifth on hi-fi, my friend had not heard the street comedian. So he went to the front door and greeted the minstrel to come in and perform in the warmth of the living room. I regret that the attempt on the part of the minstrel to mute the cornet's blast to the confined space of the home resulted in quite a number of sour notes.

But at the conclusion of the repertory, my friend put on his coat and muffler and accompanied the musician for the balance of the night, collecting as collectors do, at the front doors and holding out the hat.

He collected $7.35 for him.

A little gaftness becomes this tender season.

Ear Washing Is Dangerous

(Toronto Star)

After a lifetime of study and experiment a U.S. doctor has come up with an opinion any 6-year-old boy could have provided; Too much washing especially behind the ears, is dangerous to health. Youngsters who wash too often in cold weather develop "winter itch," says the doctor. That's because they clean all the natural oil off their skin. The skin dries, cracks, gets infected and the child is in for trouble.

Small boys (and girls may find this theory useful) in bolstering their arguments against scrubbing up. But we must caution them not to lean too heavily on it. It's been our experience that parents are guided less by science than by primitive instinct. Like the mother cat, they believe a clean child is a healthy child, even a happy one, though you wouldn't notice it. So get washed, pupils. Parents have the last word — at this time of year.

Middle East Danger Spot

(Hamilton Spectator)

Before the fascinated gaze of the world, the Middle East is lurching towards war. Now a whiff of gunshot in the wrong place could release pent-up forces of hate, red the end of which no one can predict. War in the Middle East could be far more dangerous than the conflict in Korea, for the dense Moslem populations of the Arab states, sunk in feudalism and illiteracy, have nothing to lose and much to gain from war.

Premier Gamal Nasser has warned the United Nations that the next act of violence committed by Israel will bring Egyptian land, sea and air forces into action to "maintain peace in the Security Council has shown itself incapable of doing so. The confidence in this statement, spectators, not from a faith in Arab morale which is at its customary low level, but from the Czechoslowak and U.S.S.R. arms recently delivered to Egypt.

The arms are not all new — except for a sprinkling of MIG jets — but they were serviceable and there were sufficient of them to give belligerency to Premier Nasser's assertions.

What are the United States and Britain doing to ward off the impending blow?

There are both deeply committed to the Arab states from which they draw the richest oil yield in the world. The Arab nations have grown so rich in recent years that they can think of no more luxuries to squander money on. Some of them have engaged planning experts and economic advisers, but the plans gather dust on drawing boards and the advice, unheeded, is passed to filing cabinets. The rapid gain in these states watch this wanton waste and they see, too, the non-interference of the of the British and Americans. The Western governments have agreed to refrain from interference in the internal affairs of the Arab states, but the contrast between the Arab and automobiles, white bungalows and refrigerators of the Western Zone, the opulence of the hotels and the stark poverty of the ordinary Arab puts a severe strain on the tradition that Western democracy finds hard to explain.

Moreover, there is nothing else, the Arabs hate the Jews. War in the Middle East could easily become a "jehad", a holy war of extinction, and its violence could awaken the Arab masses to a passionate sense of their own wrongs.

On the sidelines, uncommitted, the U.S.S.R. watches the cauldron bubble. The Egyptian arms were sold for a purpose. It is hard to believe that that purpose will not be fulfilled.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Calcium Deposit Myth

Years ago I had subacromial bursitis and I cried so piteously with the pain of it that a doctor came in and gave me morphine, I suppose, two or three nights. After some weeks I got over it, but it took a few months of passive movements and active exercise to restore full function of the shoulder.

Eighteen months later in an automobile accident I sustained a fracture of the greater tuberosity of the opposite humerous — the top of the shoulder. To compare the injured with the normal shoulder the doctor made X-ray films, and the one of the normal shoulder showed calcification (calcium deposit to dumb customers) of the bursa, the consequence of the old inflammation. Yet the bursitis had long since passed and there had been no trouble whatever with the shoulder.

My experience, at least in my opinion, outweighs any funny inferences that have been drawn or draw from X-ray pictures of "calcium deposits."

The business men of medicine are shamelessly exploiting the public with X-ray boloxum, in some instances because the customers are so naive, in other instances because the latter-day specialists are so naive.

Unfortunately a good many laymen or fair or high I.Q. are untutored in nutrition, physiology, hygiene and health. So they readily submit to as many X-ray pictures as the bunk artist deems cares to make in a blind search for some explanation for the complaint. The poor geeks pay for all this expensive monkey business in the childish belief that at least nothing serious "showed up."

Under perchance, a film indicates a calcium "deposit" and the bunk merchant realizes the customer is a knucklehead.

If any physician of standing honestly believes calcium "deposits" occur in or around bursae that have been inflamed, in artery walls, in or around joints, or in other body tissues or glands as the consequence of "too much" calcium in the diet and/or too much vitamin D, is it not his or her duty to tell me publicly or privately or to tell the public why he or she thinks so?

Calcification of the tissues mentioned is almost invariably a natural effect of degeneration, nature's attempt to patch up the damaged or worn out part when regeneration or production of new functioning cells is no longer possible.

I mean to imply, I really do, that everybody but Brady is out of work or stop kidding.

The one fact to remember is that calcification or "calcium deposit" is generally an effect and not a cause of inflamation, infection, strain, injury or degeneration.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CHRIST AND CAESAR

As Mary and Joseph wended their way to Bethlehem that they might heed the demand of Caesar that all his subjects be enrolled, they no doubt passed companies of soldiers on the way. When the time of Jesus' birth drew near the soldiers were coming, the pedestrians, mostly peasants, probably hurried to the roadside and stood respectfully until the soldiers had passed by.

We can imagine someone stopping these soldiers and addressing them as follows: "Soldiers, you are standing in the presence of human destiny. Do you see that man over there holding the reins of a donkey, and a woman sitting thereon? The man's name is Joseph and the woman is Mary. They will be known and revered by millions when the name of Caesar is forgotten. That woman carries in her body the child whose birth history will be dated. He shall be called the Son of the Most High, and in every generation since the centuries millions more people will come into the world. Your empire will not only honor this Child but worship Him. The Lord God Creator of the heavens is looking down upon you, soldiers, not sure whether He will step off the face of the earth with His little finger now or later. The heavenly host is standing in readiness for this unborn Child. You and that pitiful creature Mary Joseph who calls himself Caesar are beneath the notice of God and outside the orbit of His pity."

THE ORDERLY LIFE

I wonder how much of our confusion and unhappy moments are due to a failure to live in order in our lives? A great deal, I am sure, is due to confusion in our lives. We work at a cluttered desk. We forget an appointment or we are confused and stress about our dress, or we have no special plan for the day.

Order is a universal law that exacts a penalty—and a serious one—if violated. All through nature we see order. Our little earth is held in its path by order in the universe. The smallest star has its part in the way, and if you identify it, it will greet you year in and year out!

The mind is free and alert when there is no disorder in our lives. With a place for things, and with a love for order, so much more can be accomplished by us all. Poise, repose and essayist, once said that "order is Heaven's first law," and in Amiel's diary I find this statement: "It is a lack of order which causes the greatest waste of time and of today discounts the freedom of tomorrow."

This wonderful mind of ours gets a big break when there is no disorder about it to annoy and disturb. What a thrill it is to know where things are when you want them! How good we feel in keeping an appointment right on the dot of time! The calmness and "I'll call him," so that there must be perfect order in its handling.

Yes, when things go wrong or meet neglect or carelessness that has been inspired, we blame him or her emergencies to meet. But if we live an orderly life they are bound to be solved intelligently without fear or worry. Things look out for their order, and life is full of satisfaction and peace, ordered life in full measure.

If there weren't practiced order in our great industrial plants and in the army and navy, learning we would not be so blessed with the things we have in our homes. There is perfect order to the workings of the human body—until it is abused and neglected.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

LETTER:

. . . I have a steam pudding recipe given me by a Scottish lady of which my family is very fond . . . light feathery type containing raisins. . .

MRS. RITCHIE'S STEAM PUDDING

(Courtesy H.E.S.)

One-half cup each dry breadcrumbs, sugar, flour, grated suet, raisins, currants, 1-3 teaspoon each baking soda and salt, 1-4 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, allspice, ginger, nutmeg, 1 egg in measuring cup filled to 1-2 cup with milk. Sift flour, soda, salt and spices into bowl. Add sugar, breadcrumbs and suet, then fruit and stir. Lastly add beaten egg and milk and mix well. Steam three hours. Serve with sweetened white sauce flavored with two teaspoons vanilla. At Christmas I add a few dates, cherries, and mixed peel.—H. E. S.

ANSWER:

Thank you H. E. S. Although I am very short of space this week so good I decided to include it. I think I remember meeting you.

QUESTION:

I am having guests for breakfast on Christmas morning—five. Could you give me some suggestions for an easy substantial menu with homemade fruit bread (my own) that will tide us over till we have turkey dinner at night?—Joyce J.

ANSWER:

I'll tell you what we are going to have because we have only two meals on Christmas day too— and have to squeeze in a neighbourhood tea call just before dinner. Christmas Breakfast — Ten-oz. glasses of orange juice, Scrambled eggs (or maybe 4-minute eggs since we have an antique, but now to us, silver French boiled egg server), braised chicken livers and mushrooms, back bacon, sliced tomatoes, rye toast, lemon marmalade, coffeee. Or you could go English and serve pickerel or bass fillets and bacon and scrambled eggs and tomatoes. Would you like to try sweet unsalted butter on your homemade fruit bread —as the French do?

QUESTION:

. . . have been reading that it is possible to use lemon or orange extract instead of brandy for a Christmas pudding . . . soak sugar lumps in extract, then light them. . . . I have no success . . . have tried Old Kentucky Nut Cake and have had no success . . . nuts seem to come to top of cake and cake is heavy . . . did I not chop nuts fine enough.—Norah M.

ANSWER:

I tried that trick too Norah—the flame flickered and died in about ten seconds. You have to have very high alcohol content in the restaurants in New Orleans where they serve so much "flaming" food they light brandy on a spoon, then tip the lighted brandy onto brandy-impregnated food to set all alight. It is quite a trick. Try my Nut Cake—Cream 1-3 cup butter with 1 cup sugar 10 minutes; add 3 egg yolks and beat 5 minutes. Fold in 1 cup very fine-ly chopped hickory or walnuts or pecans. Sift cake flour and measure 2 cups and sift with 2 teaspoons baking powder, and 1-2 teaspoon salt twice. Add flour mixture alternately with 1-2 cup milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla, folding. Fold in 3 stiffly beaten whites. Butter and flour tube or loaf pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr for 45 to 60 minutes.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

BEAUTY "HOMEWORK" AFTER 40

A soapy lather massaged gently about the eyes counteracts lines and incipient wrinkles.

The hardest thing in this world to recognize is a blessing in disguise. And it's even harder to be grateful for it at the time! We're thinking of a friend of ours who sailed through her early-forty birthdays still thinking of herself as the young girl she used to be. It came as a rude shock to her, when a handbag saleswoman who was waiting on her asked innocently, "Are you buying his bag for yourself Madam, or for a young person?"

The remark accomplished two things—one of them good. It made our friend mad enough to want to bang the bag around the saleswoman's neck. But fortunately, it also made her realize that she hadn't taken quite as good a look at herself as she might have. It dawned on her that the rosy glow of the teens and tenties couldn't be depended on to show a woman for the rest of her life. The time had come to balance the birthdays with a more meticulous and conscientious beauty program—more faithful care of skin, hair, and figure.

A young thing of twenty can neglect her beauty routine with a certain amount of impunity. But beauty after forty depends on how conscientiously a woman holds to her routine. Perfect grooming, backed up real cleanliness, is the mature woman's greatest beauty asset.

Two sudsy facials a day are better than one. And a stimulating massage combined with the facial is extremely helpful in retaining the appearance of youth. Use an upward and inward motion to give warm soapsuds on your skin. Start just below the chin line and work up. Thorough massage with the hands not only cleans the pores but helps counteract the sagging tendency of muscles. Use fingertips with gentle pressure to work along the corners of the mouth and eyes to counteract lines and incipient wrinkles.

Frequent and thorough shampoos keep the hair shining and attractive even though it may not be as golden as it was twenty years ago.

A warm tub bath once or twice a day is especially beneficial in relaxing the nerves and muscles, and promoting a serene expression on the face. That is itself, you know, is a beauty asset. So the first time some chance remark shocks you into admitting—to yourself, at least! that you've passed the junior miss stage, accept it as a blessing in disguise. It's your cue to get busy with your beauty homework.

Sunday School Lesson

Christianity—A Singing Religion

By ROY L. SMITH

A shrewd old Chinese once said of Christianity, "It is a very risky religion." And he could have said, with even more truth, that it is also a very musical religion.

It is extremely interesting to note as we read Luke's Gospel that the entrance of Jesus into this stricken world of ours was to the accompaniment of music. Matthew reports that at the conclusion of the Last Supper they "sang a hymn" and then went out to the Garden of Gethsemane. What an experience it would have been for any person to have heard Jesus sing!

First Christian Hymns

There seems to be the best of reasons for believing that the hymns to be found in Luke's Gospel are the first Christian hymns sung by the first century Christian church. They were the spirit of men and women from among the humble classes whose hearts and minds had been warmed toward God and the light.

In at least one hymn, the Magnificat, there is a reflection of the longings and aspirations of the poor — "He has filled the hungry with good things, and the rich he has sent empty away." It is a wonderful little imagination to picture the scene of Jesus and his disciples, working folk, unemployed, and poor, gathered in some little humble abiding of the good things to come.

Church and Church Music

It is not without significance that the organ, the noblest of all musical instruments, was built originally for the use of the Christian in the church.

If we were to subtract from musical literature all those great works which have the Scripture as their inspiration the world of music would suffer an irreparable loss.

If we were to subtract from the present multitude of American musicians all those who received their first inspiration to sing from hearing church choirs, the ranks of the musicians would be decimated.

It is quite safe to say that no other institution in our common life has given more people opportunity for musical expression and training, than has the church.

Choirs, orchoirs, and concert stage are all hopelessly in debt to the church for the discovery of great talent.

Cannot Argue to Music

There is something so simple and so satisfying about music as a religious mode of expression. Let two people begin discussing religion and they will find it easy, ere long, to become involved in an argument that may become actually acrimonious. But let two people begin singing hymns together and within the space of minutes they will find themselves standing on common ground.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for December 25: "Songs of the Saviour's Birth," Luke 1: 5-80, 2: 29-32.

It is impossible to argue to music. There is something about the blending of tones and the rhythm of the hymn which makes the sharp staccato and the blunt words of an argument an impossible theme.

Christian Hymns Imitated

One of the most interesting compliments the pagan faiths have paid to Christianity has been their imitation of the Christian hymns. Some of the old Gospel songs have been taken over bodily by Christians, for the simple, with no more change than a word here and a word there, with the name Buddha substituted for the name Jesus, of course. The reason is very simple. The non-Christian religions, except in some few instances, have not produced songs and hymns. The Christian congregation singing religious songs together is a distinct novelty in the religious life of the world.

And it all began with the songs of Mary.

GOVERNMENT

"Had Canadian governments accepted the recommendations of their military advisers . . . the Canadian land forces in the Second World War could have been armed with modern weapons from the outset. As it was, they made do for many months with the equipment of 1918."

OTHER BOOKS LATER

The first volume of the history deals only with the army in Canada, Britain and the Pacific. Later volumes—the second, on the Italian campaign, is to be published next year—are expected to discuss the Conservative crisis and the departure of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton as commander of the First Army in December, 1943.

In 1948, Col. Stacey published "The Canadian Army 1939-45, An Official Historical Summary." The 150-page first volume of the new history, being published by the Queen's Printer for $2.50 is about twice as long and contains photographs, colored maps, appendices and indices.

The history refers only briefly to the manpower crisis which brought on the conscription crisis. At one point, it says:

"A serious decline in voluntary recruiting appeared six months before heavy battle casualties began. The clear fact is that the manpower accessible through voluntary recruiting had been largely exhausted during the long static period. The combination of this with continued heavy casualties and a miscalculation of probable losses as between different arms of the service was to produce a serious crisis late in 1944."

What the history does say about Gen. McNaughton's retirement as overseas commander makes it fairly plain that the general objected strongly to the First Army being split. The 1st Corps was sent to Italy and did not participate in the Normandy assault.

When the 1st Division was sent to the Mediterranean for the Sicily invasion in July, 1943, it was considered likely it would return in time to join in the D-day attack. Instead, it was decided to build up a Canadian corps in Italy.

"Shortly afterwards," the history says, "and partly as a result of disagreement with the Canadian government on this issue, Gen. McNaughton relinquished the command of the First Canadian Army."

Col. Stacey says that after 1st Corps went to Italy, survival of the army as such hung in the balance. Finally, British divisions were placed under command of the Canadian First Army to replace the 1st and 5th Divisions which had been sent to Italy.

In a memorandum Oct. 18, 1942, McNaughton wrote in part:

"We were not particularly concerned with fighting for its own sake or glamor, nor did I think that a prolonged wait for a proper opportunity to strike would have an adverse effect on morale. Our officers and men were far too sensible."

What part the British war office played in the decision to split the First Army is not discussed in the first volume.

The history discloses that McNaughton committed two Canadian battalions to the Norwegian campaign in 1940 without first consulting Ottawa. The government was upset and McNaughton was bitter about its implied censure because he felt he possessed the authority for such a commitment. The plan was never carried out.

McNaughton later sought and obtained from the government instructions which would permit him to commit Canadian forces to raids on the coast of Fortress Europe without prior approval from Ottawa.

The history discusses at length the question of jurisdiction among defence headquarters here, Canadian military headquarters in London, the First Army and British authorities.

It says there was "underlying rivalry" between the Ottawa and London headquarters. For one thing, there were differences between the two staffs on manpower requirements.

When Lt.-Gen. J. C. Murchie became chief of staff in Ottawa, he made it clear to Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of staff in London and his former boss at home, that he held the senior position.

At the time of the Dieppe raid Aug. 19, 1942, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, then commander of Corps, had to insist that he be permitted to follow progress of the operation at Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters in the bridge.

Col. Stacey had several criticisms of the Dieppe plan: "There were too many cooks and this probably had much to do with spoiling the broth."

He maintains that combined operations headquarters underrated the German defences and the influence of topography. And no element of surprise could be hoped for in the initial attack when the flank attacks went in half-an-hour earlier.

Col. Stacey agrees with Gen. Crerar's analysis of the raid which cost 3,764 casualties out of a total Canadian force of 4,963. In 1944, the Normandy landing, Gen. Crerar said Dieppe was a Canadian contribution of the greatest significance to final victory.

It changed allied thinking on a major invasion. Before, the emphasis was on tactical surprise. Dieppe resulted in the emphasis being placed on heavy and close support by bomber and capital ship for the troops.

Besides a detailed account of planning, execution and aftermath of the Dieppe raid, the history discusses fully the 1941 expedition to Hong Kong in which the Royal Rifles of Canada and Winnipeg Grenadiers were lost.

Britain completely misjudged the Far East situation in late 1941, the history says. It felt that Japan was unlikely to launch a war in the near future but that if she did, Russia would be the victim, Col. Stacey writes:

"We can see today that the decision to reinforce Hong Kong was a mistake. The idea that the arrival of two Canadian battalions in the Far East could exercise an important deterrent effect upon Japan was shown up, in the event, as an egregious absurdity . . . ."

The history discloses that plans were formulated for use of Canadian troops in several operations which were never carried out.

These included Canadian assistance at Dunkerque in the 1940 evacuation, reinforcement of the Canary islands, a landing in Sardinia and an operation in far-north Norway.

HUGE GRAIN CARRYOVER

Elevators across Canada are bulging with unsold wheat. At October 1 it was estimated that more than 700,000,000 bushels of wheat were in storage in Canada. Above shows a Great Lakes grain freighter alongside the elevator at Prescott, Ont. (CP Photo).

Western Canada's Farmers' Biggest Concern Is How To Convert Wheat into Cash

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Biggest boost in 1955 for western Canada's farmer was a high-protein wheat crop.

Biggest concern—is how to convert his wheat—this year's and who remains from other years—into cash.

Biggest cloud is what the United States may do to cut further into his export markets through subsidie and give-away programs.

Biggest question mark is the size an quality of next year's crop.

FAVORED BY MILLERS

a regard to high protein:

It makes Canadian wheat a favorite with world millers and is a assurance that it will remain in demand.

Protein strength in recent years an below long-term average. This year it was back—higher than it was since 1951.

Last year's crop, due to rust, ran down in quality and quantity. If this year's crop had suffered similarly Canada would have been running short of premium-quality wheat and her competitive position would have been hurt.

Lower grades their place too. They round out a wide range of milling and feed grains at varying prices. Not all countries want high grade. This year's sale of 9,250,000 bushels to Poland, for instance, was No. 5.

HUGE SURPLUS

In regard to wheat into cash:

Prairie wheat production this year was 472,000,000 bushels compared with 287,000,000 last year, 701,800,000 in 1952—a record—and a 10-year average of 421,800,000. Total Canadian production this year was 494,100,000 bushels.

On hand from previous years was 493,700,000 bushels. This gave a total supply of 987,800,000 bushels, second only to 997,600,000 in 1953-54.

Domestic requirements in the crop year ending next July are estimated at 160,000,000 bushels.

The rest is available for export. The huge supply bulges elevators and other storage facilities from Victoria to Halifax. At last July 31—the end of the last crop year—100,900,000 bushels remained on farms, government figures said.

When a farmer delivers wheat to his country elevator he receives $1.40 — less about 15 cents for freight—for No. 1 northern, basis Fort William-Port Arthur or Vancouver, and descending amounts for lower grades. He gets the difference between $1.40 and the actual selling price later.

LIMITED BY QUOTA

The farmer's deliveries to crowded storage are limited by quota. At Nov. 30 farmers had delivered to country elevators 68,-238,000 bushels compared with 67,-773,000 last year and the long-term average of 194,898,000.

All this means a farmer may be rich in wheat but short in cash.

In the 1954-55 crop year farmers' wheat deliveries totalled 319,-000,000 bushels compared with 397,-000,000 bushels in the preceding year and the 10-year average of 347,290,000.

Of this crop year a report by federal authorities says:

"It is expected that although farmers will be unable to deliver all their marketable wheat this year it will still be possible for them to dispose of the equivalent of an average crop . . . It is unlikely that farmers' deliveries of grain in 1956 will vary greatly from those of 1955."

In the meantime many farmers are adjusting crop situations to get cash—feeding more grain to cattle and hogs, growing more oilseed, buckwheat, oats and barley.

In November the government authorized banks to lend up to $1.-230 on wheat on the farm, up to a total of $50,000,000. First indications are that the number of loan applications will be bigger than it was expected to be.

HIT BY U.S. PROGRAM

In regard to United States giveaways, Transport Minister Howe said recently:

"At the start of the last crop year (ending July 31) the Canadian Wheat Board (the government body which markets Canadian wheat) felt that it should be possible to reach an export total of about 300,000,000 bushels.

"Actually, however, the American disposal program weighed heavily against us in the latter half of the year and we ended up with wheat exports of 252,000,000 bushels."

This indicates that American programs may have cut Canadian exports by 48,000,000 bushels.

United States price-support programs have resulted in American farmers increasing wheat acreage and using forced production methods with minimum regard for cost. In some instances these have given yields as high as 40 bushels to an acre. Normal long-term average yield is about 16 bushels.

The methods, it is reported, have affected grades and one Canadian farm economist describes much of the American wheat stockpile as "a good grade of feed."

In any event the United States, despite consumption by her own large population, held 1,244,300,000 bushels of wheat at Oct. 1.

She is trying to dispose of it in various ways, including subsidies, give-aways and barter. Canada cautions her against upsetting the world market, stating, in the words of Mr. Howe, that "collapse in International wheat prices would have far-reaching effects not only upon exporting countries but upon the economies of importing countries as well."

DISTURBED BY SUBSIDIES

The world situation is further aggravated by subsidization of wheat production in many other countries.

At Oct. 1 stocks available for export and carryover in the four major exporting countries — Canada, United States, Australia and Argentina — totalled 2,300,000,000 bushels, up about five per cent in a year.

In regard to next year's crop: Assuming export sales in the crop year ending July 31 of 252,000,000 bushels—the same as last crop year—Canada might have on hand about 375,000,000 bushels at July 31, with a new crop coming in.

A poor crop would reduce the surplus. A bumper crop would increase supplies still further—unless export prospects have improved by then.

The record carryover was 901,-700,000 bushels at July 31, 1954, but the crop coming up was a poor one.

The farmer hopes he gets a good crop. He would rather have potential wealth lying on his farm than not have it at all.

WEATHER AND TECHNOLOGY

Western Canada now has had an unprecedented four bumper crops out of five, the product of good moisture conditions.

Farm experts debate how much the higher crops are due to improved technology and fertilizers and how much to favorable weather.

One economist estimated that technology accounts for about 12 per cent of the increase and that the rest is due to the weather, which may change any year. Another said: "I am morally certain that we will get drought again."

The virulent rust which knocked out Thatcher wheat in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan in 1954 —after Thatcher had proved rust-resistant from the late 1920s— seems to have been overcome for the present in Selkirk wheat.

In regard to markets:

The United Kingdom took 102,-000,000 bushels in the crop year ending July 31 compared with 82,-000,000 in the preceding year.

Japan, second largest customer, took 28,500,000 bushels, down somewhat.

TAKES TO WHEAT

Japan is raising a generation of wheat eaters by putting bread into the free lunches supplied to school children. She says she will be the world's largest wheat importer in 30 years and her millers say they would prefer to mill all Canadian wheat for bread if they had their choice.

Inquiries are being received from satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain, some of whom were prewar exporters but who now apparently wish to import.

Sales increased last year to Belgium, Germany, The Netherlands and Norway. Altogether, Canadian wheat was sold to 86 countries, territories and colonies.

This year, from Aug. 1 to Nov. 30 exports to all countries totalled 64,-179,000 bushels compared with 81,-826,000 a year ago.

Offering price at Dec. 2 under the International Wheat Agreement to domestic consumers was $1.73 for No. 1 northern.

Ceiling and floor prices under the agreement are $2.05 and $1.55 respectively.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — Foxboro United Church was the setting for the Christmas Vesper Service on Sunday evening. Leaders in charge were Miss Carol Stewart, Miss Marilyn Hollinger, Mrs. Cecil Arthurs.

The altar of the church was enhanced by Christmas trees adorned in silver and blue lights while candlelight was throughout the church.

The congregation was greeted at the church door by Miss Toni Wall, explorer, Miss Lois Rombough, CGIT.

The service opened with an organ prelude by the church organist Mrs. F. Spencer after which the girls, in full uniform, entered the church singing "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and took their places in the choir loft.

Miss Carol Stewart gave the call to worship followed by singing "O Come, all ye Faithful."

Scripture lesson St. Luke 2:8-12, 13-16, was read by Miss Marie Hollinger and Miss Lenore LaRue.

The young choir had two selections "Infant Holy" and "Rocking" which were beautifully rendered.

Responsive reading and prayer was taken by Mrs. Cecil Arthurs.

Offering was taken by Miss Donna Cooper, Lois Rombough, Joyce Hollinger, Shiron Levis. Dedication was given by Miss Marilyn Hollinger.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem" was sung and on the last verse the choir left the loft and sat at the front of the church.

Rev. R. F. Darke gave an inspiring message on "The Reign of Christ."

The C.G.I.T. under the leadership of Miss Stewart had their candlelighting service. Those taking part were Misses Donna Cooper, Maxine Edwards, Helen Hendricks, Jean Mann. This was very impressive.

All the girls then formed in a half circle at the front of the church and sang "Taps" followed by the recessional hymn "As with Gladness Man of Old," each girl carrying her own candle.

After the service Mrs. Darke and ladies of the church entertained the girls and their leaders with hot cocoa, cookies and cake.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GOOD SUGGESTION!

Bill Garbutt, manager of the Smith's Falls arena, writing in a trade magazine, puts his finger on some of the reasons why so many hockey clubs and leagues across Canada are dropping out of hockey.

Garbutt does not think the game has lost its appeal nor lacks the excitement and thrill of other years. It is not because the game has become too rough and the body contact too strenuous, he says.

He says the trouble lies to a large degree in the following: (1) to compete with other clubs, maybe doing the same thing, the importation of players is felt necessary. (2) this means the paying of high salaries to the imports and also to the home-brews who immediately get an increased valuation of his own services; (3) this in turn means increased prices at the gate (from here on it is a battle between cost and receipts and lovrairable costs are winner, with the result sponsors refuse to operate; (5) when fans pay high prices for admission and realising that players in most cases are receiving more in wages per week than they do themselves, they become critical and expect perfection and when they do not get it, feel it is their right to express their feelings in harsh words and boohgs. There is no other disease so contagious which has such a killing effect on players and fans.

Garbutt believes that part of the answer is in getting back to local clubs developing their own boys and operating the club on a co-operative basis. If a man proves himself a good manager and the players prove they can provide the fans with entertaining hockey then here are in a business as partners and should share in the profits.

We will go along with Garbutt in this respect. But he should have added that it should apply to all clubs in the league, not just one left alone to buck other clubs packed with salaried leagues.

Garbutt goes on to deplore the fact that some clubs are deliberately taking players from other clubs, and feels the CAHA and governing bodies should take some action to curb the practice.

"Let us face it," he writes. "Our national game which we have given to the world is a mighty sick child, and we should not let it die due to neglect and lack of proper attention. If it is sick because of some of the rules or connections with the professionals, let us have an operation and cut them out and get some new rules that will revive our good old game and keep it strong and healthy.

"Let us get away from the idea of operating our clubs on a professional basis with its high salaries and its "win at all costs." Let us play the game where players, fans and promoters will have fun as they go."

Mr. Garbutts suggestion is a good one. But it will travel a long and painful road before it bears fruit. It has got to be a collective effort. In other words one club in a group cannot operate along these lines with others gunning for honor and glory at terrific operational cost.

We have a concrete example in the Eastern Ontario senior "B group in which the Belleville TPT's is the only club working on a co-operative basis—or at least similar to that way. Others have adopted it since the beginning of the season, plainly because "they bit off more than they could chew" financially and have had to change their financial arrangements with players and bring them to the co-operative basis line.

The Whitby Dunlops, currently making a shambles out of the group, stands in a class by itself. The financial wizardry of its mentor, Wren Blair, is a deep dark secret known only to a few—and a source of wonder to the rest of the clubs. Blair has proclaimed through the metropolitan press and The Canadian Press that his club is drawing an average of 1,100 pewsters to their home games. It is passing strange that when "strangers" take in a Whitby home game some 600 or 700 people are in the pews.

COULD BE!

That stick-swinging, punch-throwing (one-sided) frolic between Mairo Rus Gagnon and Bill McMaster the other night may end in something more drastic than similar fracases in the past.

Bill Hanley, OMHA business manager, whom we talked with via phone about the matter, sounded an ominous note when he remarked: "Remember, these fellows have been at it before.' Gagnon was tabbed with a three-game suspension near schedule-end last season, one which cost him the group scoring title.

OHA president Frank Buckland, speaking at the OMHA annual banquet sounded a stiff warning note. "We bags handed out eight suspensions already," he said, "and we fully intend to stand behind our officials. We intend stopping this rowdyism right at the start."

If more than the usual sentence is handed out the TPT's stand to be the prime loser. They can ill afford to lose the services of the Peterborough defenceman for any lengthy period, while the Dunlops, we imagine, could stagger along minus the playing ability of Gagnon.

Since, it is reported, the feud began with the alleged chewing of one of the Gagnon ears by McMaster last season why not apply the law of Moses—and let's get the thing over with. Let Gagnon nibble a while at one of Bill's hearing appendages—shake hands—and start all over again.

Roar from Rear Nips Bruins For Fourth Straight Victory; Face Big Test Against Habs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jack Adams may not have been so wrong after all.

The general manager of Detroit Red Wings said a few days ago that Wings were just starting to move in the National Hockey League and, with a break, could overhaul the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

It's possible the Wings will not catch the Habs, but at least they're starting to roll. Thursday night they came from behind to defeat Boston Bruins 3-2 for their fourth straight victory.

The win left Wings in third place with 31 points, 18 behind Canadiens and only five off the total of the second-place New York Rangers. The customers will get an idea of how well the Wings are improving Saturday when they take on Canadiens at Montreal Forum.

HIS CONTENTION

Adams, who has seen the Wings grab the league championship for the last seven years, said earlier this week that Detroit had a good chance of overtaking Canadiens if the league-leaders go into a slump.

"They haven't had a slump this season and they're due for one," Adams commented.

At Detroit, before 7,052 fans, Alex Delvecchio scored at 19:21 of the second period to give the Wings their 20th win of the season. He beat Boston netminder Terry Sawchuk with a blazing shot from far out on the left side.

Gordie Hows and Real Chevrefils tallied the other Detroit goals. Marcel Bonin, a Detroit castoff this year, accounted for both Bruin markers.

Bonin's first goal, at 17:39 of the first period, ended 136 minutes and 10 seconds of shutout hockey for Red Wing goaltender Glenn Hall. That made it 1-1.

HOWE CONTRIBUTION

Howe started the Wings off again when he skated nearly the length of the ice, strong-armed his way past forward Ed Panagabko and fired a short blast behind Sawchuk. The goal came at 12:19 and 62 seconds later Delvecchio took a short shot that bounced off Boston defenseman Bob Armstrong into the cage.

Although he was on the losing end of the score, Sawchuk played brilliantly. He stopped 38 Detroit shots to Hall's 27. Sawchuk traded to Boston from Detroit this year, still hasn't recorded a victory over the Detroiters in five games of the 1955-56 campaign. Two of the games were scoreless deadlocks.

Northern Electric Hockey League

The Northern Electric Interdepartment hockey league playoffs will begin on January 9th it was announced yesterday by league president Jerry Mahoney.

The Hornets clash with the Barons in one series while the Flyers and Indians meet in the other half of the semi-finals. All four teams wound up the regular schedule with three wins and three losses for six points each but the Hornets took first place by virtue of their goals for and against record.

Both series are two of three affairs and in case of a tie at the end of the third game, total goals scored will decide the issue. The second games will be played on January 15th and the third games, if necessary, on January 22nd. The two winners will meet in the finals.

In the individual scoring race, Johnny Semark of the Indians and R. Smith of the Flyers ended in a tie with eight points each. Semark had seven goals and one assist while Smith compiled six goals and two assists. D. Semark of the Hornets had seven points on four goals and three assists while H. Martin tallied three and four to lead the Baron scorers. Milt Pulcanick of the Flyers was the league bad man with 16 minutes charged against him.

Quebec Aces Win Five in Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The fourth-place Quebec Aces came through with their fifth straight Quebec Hockey League victory Thursday night, upsetting the league - leading Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 4-3 in overtime.

Another QHL game saw the second-place Montreal Royals down the tail-end Trois-Rivieres Lions 4-2 as centres Phil Goyette and Ray Laplante scored two goals each.

The Aces advanced to within seven points of Chicoutimi Saguenens, who were idle. Montreal's win broke a second-place tie with the Saguenens and out Shawinigan Falls' lead to 16 points.

Boxing Officials Bristle Over Fight Question

TORONTO (CP) — British and Canadian boxing officials bristled at each other today over the legality of a scheduled Jan. 9 bout here for the British Empire heavyweight championship.

The Canadian Boxing Federation has said it will recognize the bout, between James J. Parker of Barrie and South African Johnny Arthur, as a title match.

In London, the British Boxing board of control said it won't recognize the bout. General secretary Teddy Waltham said as far as the board is concerned Don Cockell of London still is the titleholder.

"As far as we know he has no intention of retiring," Waltham said. He added he is "mystified" by the Canadian Federation's sanctioning of the bout as a title match.

WILL ENDORSE

Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner, said the OAC will endorse the fight since the Canadian Federation has offered its sanction.

"The federation said it intends to recognize the bout as a title match as soon as the promoters pay the usual title fee. It's just a matter of form," McKenzie said.

He said if the British board refuses to recognize the bout it will be up to the Canadian Federation to decide what to do.

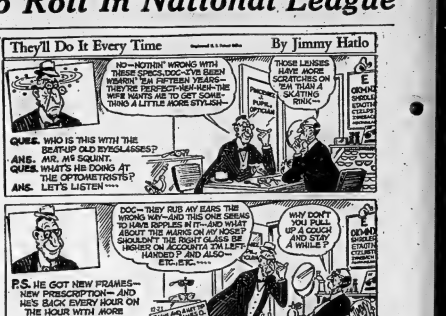
Well, Well, Well! Referee Could Have Been Wrong

MONTREAL (CP) —Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Thursday independent evidence indicates referee Jack Mehlenbacher should not have waved over the goals scored by Boston Wednesday night in a game against Rangers in New York.

The game ended in a 3-3 tie and Mr. Campbell said he has not yet received any request for action as a result of Mehlenbacher's apparent miscue.

The incident occurred in the third period. Witnesses said Mehlenbacher blew his whistle during a scramble in front of the New York net. Seconds after the whistle sounded Boston pumped in its second goal.

So far, said Mr. Campbell, referee Mehlenbacher has not acknowledged that he blew his whistle before the goal. However, Carl Voss—reported the whistle had sounded before the goal.



Ski Conditions

TORONTO (CP)—Some Ontario residents will benefit from the heavy snow fall of the last 24 hours—the ski enthusiasts.

Conditions at 24 centres were reported fair to excellent. A province-wide survey showed excellent conditions around Barrie, Bracebridge Collingwood, Markdale, Gravenhurst, Midland, Owen Sound, Sudbury and Sundridge.

Good or very good conditions prevailed near Haileybury, Huntsville, Kitchener, North Bay, Peterborough and Newmarket.

Skiers from the Cobourg, Oshawa and Sinclair township districts will probably have to travel further afield, for conditions there were reported only fair.

Eskimos' Star Normie Kwong Is Outstanding Male Athlete

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Normie Kwong, one of the finest backfield-ers in progressional football, is Canada's outstanding male athlete of 1955.

The country's sports editors and sportcasters put the tag on the 26-year-old Edmonton Eskimo half in the 31st annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll announced Thursday. Rich Ferguson, Toronto miler who headed the 1954 poll, was stunned to the bottom of the list of 45 athletes mentioned. Ferguson received only one vote.

Asked to name the three outstanding Canadian athletes in order, more than one-third of the selectors put Kwong at the head of their list. Based on three points for first choice, two for second and one for third, Kwong's point-total of 144, far ahead of second-choice Clint Lumsden, Toronto long-distance swimmer who polled 71 points.

Jackie Parker, the gangling, shuttle-footed boy from Mississippi who led Eskimos to their 34-15 Grey Cup victory over Montreal Alouettes last month, was third with 27 points. Fourth was Montreal Canadiens' Jean Beliveau with 72 points.

MANY NAMED

From there in it wasn't even a race. Selectors practically ran the full gamut of sports, covering the top men in football, hockey, swimming, golf, boxing, weight-lifting, track and field, tennis, curling, fencing, skiing, baseball, racing and rifle shooting.

The voters from Newfoundland to British Columbia looked over the record of the Calgary-born Kwong in Western Interprovincial Football Union and Grey Cup play this year and made him their solid No. 1 choice. They had plenty to go on.

He set four WIFU rushing records during the season, was chosen as offensive back on the CP all-star team and barged over for two touchdowns in the cup final, his fifth appearance in the autumn classic. At the end of the season writers in the east and west football cities named him the outstanding Canadian player of the year.

Lumsden hit two sports pages last Sept. 9 when he jumped into icy Lake Ontario with 29 others, including the world's leading distance swimmers, and was the only one to finish the 32-mile lakefront grind for a $15,000 first prize.

JAMES FIFTH

Gerry James, Winnipeg Blue Bomber half who gave up football at the end of the season to join Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, placed fifth in the CP poll with 35 points, two more than Canadiens' Maurice Richard. Stan Lezeard of Vancouver, who forced a sudden-death playoff in the $28,800 open golf championship at Montreal in August and lost out to Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., was next with 13 points.

Others receiving votes included Moe Norman, Kitchener, Ont., Canadian amateur golf champion.

Fabulous Memories

Baseball's Landmark Connie Mack Celebrates Ninety-Third Birthday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Connie Mack, born during the roar of the Civil War when baseball was but a twinkle on the American horizon, is 93 today.

And for the grand old man himself it was a lingering day indeed. Several thousand telegrams and letters have poured in from friends and well-wishers, young and old, who love the sport in which Mack—born Cornelius J. McGillicuddy—was a pioneer.

Some of the greetings came Thursday when Mack celebrated the big day at the suburban Bryn Mawr home of one of his sons, Roy. The festivities took place then to permit Mack to mark the occasion with newsmen and photographers.

Just three days ago Mack left Presbyterian Hospital after a check up. He had fractured his hip in a fall. That injury and a fracture from another fall are mending well.

FABULOUS MEMORIES

As the grand old man of baseball sat there, in an easy chair, smiling and occasionally talking, he must have had many memories of a fabulous career. For it was Mack who managed the Philadelphia Athletics for 5 years and won nine league pennants and five world series before the As departed for Kansas City.

A greeting came from Bobby Shantz, now with Kansas City and the last of Connie's incredible list of great southpaw pitchers.

When it came to blowing out the candles on the big birthday cake topped by a white elephant, the symbol of the As, Connie signaled to his son, Roy, for assistance.

As his son helped, Connie looked up at the press photographers and newsmen, the quiver of a smile playing across his lips.

"God bless you all," he said, "and merry Christmas, merry Christmas everybody."

Nearly Half Olympic Budget Is Assured

MONTREAL (CP)—Ken Farmer, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said Thursday that about $110,000 of the budgeted $210,000 for the winter and summer 1956 Olympic Games has been received or is definitely assured at this stage.

The $110,000 includes cash contributions and assured pledges from federal and provincial governments.

"This doesn't mean we are short the difference," said Farmer. "We are confident we will reach our total budgeted amount. Certain campaigns don't go on until next year."

In Quebec province more than $17,000 has been received of a general-subscription objective of $27,500. In Ontario about $12,000 of the $30,000 objective for general subscriptions has been received but there are some special money-raising functions still to be held.

The COA budgeted $35,000 for the Melbourne, Australia, Games but $165,000 for the summer Games at Stockholm, Sweden. Also $50,000 was budgeted for administrative and related expenditures to extend over the four-year period before the next Games.

FORUM XMAS PARTY

MONTREAL (CP)—Santa Claus came to the Montreal Forum Thursday and nearly 10,000 youngsters along with their mothers and hockey-playing fathers, had a big time at the annual Christmas party of the Montreal Canadiens hockey club.

Nearly everybody was on skates, even some bordering on the toddler age. Mamas and papas skated about with infants in arms. When the skating session was over the youngsters and all went to one of the big dressing rooms for a movie show and to meet Santa Claus in person and receive gifts.

Mighty Nashua, Fleet Swaps May Be New Stable Buddies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Leslie Combs II, head of a syndicate that paid $1,251,200 for Belair Stud's Nashua, now wants to buy the California horse that beat him in the Kentucky Derby, the Miami Herald said today.

Jim Dance, Herald Sports writer, reported from Paris, Ky., that Combs already had asked Rex Ellsworth, owner of Swaps, about buying the swift three-year-old.

"He said he'd let me know when he's ready to sell and I think he will," Combs was quoted as saying. "When he does, I may be ready, too.

"I haven't got a syndicate to buy him yet but I'll get one real quick when I get to where I can buy him."

Combs did not dwell on the subject, Dance wrote. It was Nashua's day and the winner of 18 out of 20 races was ready to leave for Miami and a quiet shot at Citation's money-winning record of $1,085,760.

COULD TOP RECORD

With earnings of $945,415, Nashua could top the Calumet Comet's record by taking the $100,000 Widener Handicap at Hialeah, which has netted the winner well over $100,000 the past couple of years.

Only Saturday was it disclosed that Combs and six others formed the syndicate that purchased Nashua on Dec. 15 for the highest price ever paid for a thoroughbred. The sale was announced following a sealed bid auction in New York.

"That's the reason we didn't want to say who was in on the purchase," The Herald quoted Combs as saying. "You don't want to go around talking about something until you've really got him."

There are 32 shares in Nashua, Combs said, with no one person owning more than four shares except John W. Hanes, president of the Greater New York Racing Assn.; Chris J. Devine, New York broker and racing enthusiast, and Combs.

Each share is worth $29,100, "and some of us will dispose of a part of our stock in the near future," Combs said.

The Herald story added that Nashua is insured in Combs' insurance company for the full purchase price, at premiums of $50,000 annually.

Combs was quoted as saying he wanted Nashua's line for breeding and added: "I might add I think he's the greatest since Man O'War."

Charles Wins Over Albright

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ezzard Charles used his superior boxing ability Thursday night to pile up an early lead and outpoint Bob Albright by a split decision in a 10-round bout.

Charles, 34, and former world champion from Cincinnati, cut the 23-year-old Los Angeles fighter over the left eye in the third round but had to stand off a late rally for his fifth straight victory in San Francisco.

There were no knockdowns although Charles had Albright on the ropes in the eighth round.

Charles weighed 196½ and Albright 218½.

ARGENTINE WITHDRAWS

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Argentina has withdrawn from the winter Olympic Games next month because of financial difficulties.

Soo Indians Nip Greyhounds

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—Sorely in need of a win, the Soo Indians came through with one Thursday night. They edged their arch-rivals, the Soo Greyhounds 3-1 in a body-contested NOJHA game.

The win was only the third marked up by the Indians in the last month. The situation is so bad the Tribe may fold unless attendance picks up.

Freddy Hildebrand was the big gun for Indians, scoring both goals.

Defenceman Joe Bumbacco ruined Indian goalie Al Millar's shutout bid late in the third period. The goal was questioned by the Tribe as referee Bud Macdonald had called a delayed penalty. Indians' scoped goal also was scored on a delayed penalty.

The rough game saw eight penalties called in the first period. Two of these were majors for fighting while another was a match misconduct to Hound rearguard Lyal Wiseman.

GONZALES WINS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Pancho Gonzales drubbed Tony Trabert 6-4, 8-6 Thursday night and extended his lead to 5-2 in their cross-country professional tennis tour. Gonzales broke Trabert's service in the 12th game in the second set and then used his powerful serve to win the 14th game and the match.

Will Coach Nanaimo Club

VICTORIA (CP)—Harry Wipper, starry ex-defenceman with the Peterborough Trafferties, has been signed to a one-year contract as playing-coach of the Nanaimo Timbermen of the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

Wipper was one of the stars of the Mann Cup final here last September, won by Victoria Shamrocks over Peterborough in five games.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Most sound activities are favorably aspected now. Financial and business transactions can improve, and personal matters are under good vibrations.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Encouraging influences for those of you who think logically. Keep your good nature in order to counteract reverses, relieve tensions. Be sensible about pleasures, personal relationships.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Possibly you will have success in business efforts. Be fair and return in kind. Your ability to make the best of a so-so situation will come in handy.

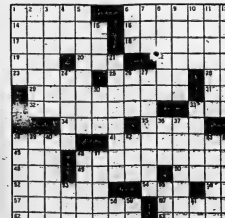
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Work harder to improve your prospects. Your business acumen and intuition will guide you. Give a determined but not foolish-optimistic attitude.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — There is no better time than now to make birthday in "little things", to give time to children or the elderly, and to improve your own affairs where you can.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You may feel that time is crowding you; that you are not accomplishing all you wished. Stop to relax mind and nerves; make a fresh start, and don't become agitated.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Looking ahead in your chart for this period we note that there are some matters which you will not be able to rush, and we also see some necessary inconveniences (experienced by all at times). But smile and have faith.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Your planetary configurations, on the onrush, should renew the urge to follow through to more favorable results. Educational and scientific matters, banking, children's interests favored.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Spirit, the will to go forward, readiness to work for what you expect is the essence of achievement — and necessary on this middling sore of day. Avoid ill temper, over-anxiousness and carelessness.

You born today have many assets and abilities to help you become a leader or a strong, able follower. But you must determine carefully where you will lend, or upon you will follow. Your many talents, reasoning powers and ambitions must be constant in their pursuit of worthy goals, better personal attainment. You have an independent spirit but are sometimes discontented and inclined toward jealousy, yet you have the ability to think and act logically. Your thrift and philosophy are outstanding. You should be proficient at games, promotion, exploration. Birthdate: Mathes-Arnold, poet, critic.

CLOSE SHAVE

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—L. E. Wylie, 54, sat down in the barber's chair for a quick trim Thursday and wound up with a close shave. He almost got clipped by a truck. The state patrol said the truck smashed into Lester's barber shop in the Spokane valley after colliding with a car. Wylie's ankle was hurt by falling debris. The truck bowled over Wylie, flailing along the wall. Luckily, no one was wailing.

Yugoslavia May Be Called On As Near East Mediator

Country Newly-Elected To UN Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Speculation mounted today that Yugoslavia, newly elected to the UN Security Council, might be named as behind-scenes mediator in the Middle East dispute now before the council.

Observers believe this was one of the reasons for the council's decision to hold up action on the charges of aggression against Israel until after Jan. 1, when Yugoslavia takes her seat along with Cuba and Australia. The council heard Israel's charge Thursday and then adjourned indefinitely.

Faced with a warning from Canada's Mat-Gen. L. B. Burns, UN Palestine truce chief, that further Israeli reprisals could touch off full-scale war, the council finds itself in a ticklish position. It must take action but with not-inflame an already dangerous situation.

DEMANDED EXPULSION

Syria has demanded that Israel be expelled from the UN and subjected to economic penalties as punishment for a Dec. 11 attack on Syrian troops in El Gallee.

The big Western powers are reported to be against both ideas as an expression of censure and call for talks. The Russians, on the other hand, probably would go on seeking stronger measures, but it is considered doubtful they would support Syria's demands.

UN circles feel that in such a situation Yugoslavia, a Communist state on cordial terms with the West and friendly with both the Arabs and Israelis, could serve as an important link.

Diplomats here noted with interest Friday's government statement from Belgrade that Yugoslavia had accepted the compromise council arrangement in order "to render service in the cause of unity of the United Nations."

Blame Bad Roads As 11 Canadians Die in Accidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bad road conditions across the country accounted for most of the 11 holiday traffic deaths reported in the first 12 hours of the Christmas weekend. Two other violent deaths were reported.

A Canadian Press survey shown Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia were the only provinces to report fatalities during this period. Ontario had six deaths, Quebec six and British Columbia one.

Two men were drowned when their car plunged into a canal near Thorold as they were going home from work.

Another man died when his truck skidded on a slippery road and pinned him under the cab. A 14-year-old boy was struck and killed by a car while walking along the highway 45 miles north of Kingston.

DIES IN FIRE

A girl riding in a car with three other teenagers was killed when the auto crashed on a foggy road near St. Thomas.

A 75-year-old man was found dead in his burned-out shack near St. Catharines.

Four men were killed when their car was struck by a Quebec-bound train in north Montreal. An oil truck driver was killed when his truck went into a ditch near Montreal. A woman in Montreal was killed by a shotgun blast.

In South Burnaby, B.C., a woman was killed when struck by a car.

Fear 11 Drowned As Trawler Sinks Off Norway

OSLO (Reuters) — Eleven men are feared to have lost their lives when the 514 - ton trawler Prince Charles sank Friday night after running aground on rocks off northern Norway.

Survivors, including six men who were taken to hospital suffering from frostbite, were landed in Hammerfest by the 433-ton Norwegian ship Ingoey. Two bodies were also brought ashore.

Reports from Hammerfest state there were 19 survivors including the skipper. It was understood there were 30 crew members and two Norwegian pilots aboard the trawler.

The trawler was reported to have run onto rocks off the north coast of the island of Soroeya at high speed and sank almost immediately.

The survivors climbed onto a tiny rocky islet and were rescued after about two hours by the Ingoey.

Today's Chuckle

The husband was feeling sentimental as Christmas approached. "Well, my dear," he said to his wife, "I've carried you safely over the rough places of life, haven't I?"

"Yes," she said slowly. "I don't think you missed a one."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Winter is relaxing its grip over Ontario today. After weeks of continuous bitterly cold weather, temperatures will rise above freezing over most of the province.

The secondary flow of warm air is causing extensive areas of fog and drizzle in southwestern Ontario and freezing drizzle in the central and eastern regions. Light snow is falling over the lake country. With the exception of the freezing drizzle, changing to drizzle and fog over central and eastern Ontario today, little change in the weather is expected until Christmas Day.

Colder air, pushing slowly eastward from the Prairies is forecast to reach the lower Great Lakes area Christmas Day with slight drop in temperatures and bringing an end to the precipitation.

QUEEN WILL TALK TO 150 MILLIONS CHRISTMAS DAY

Royal Family Members Gather at Sandringham

SANDRINGHAM, England (AP) The Queen will spend Christmas Day at Sandringham among those closest to her.

Christmas afternoon, as has been the royal custom for three generations, she will broadcast shortly after 1 a.m. EST Sunday) her annual message to the Commonwealth.

It is estimated that 150,000,000 people may hear the Queen as she speaks from the desk in the study of Sandringham, her 7,000-acre country estate in Norfolk. Her father, King George VI, and grandfather, King George V, talked to them the same desk. The Royal Family has gathered for Christmas at Sandringham since the time of the Queen's great-grandfather, Edward VII, in the days before radio.

Sunday's broadcast will be the fourth of the 29-year-old Queen's reign.

The Royal Family will gather around a tall, gaily - decorated Christmas tree tonight. Some presents are presents will be received and given tonight, others that the exchange will be on Christmas morning.

The presents will include those brought recently on shopping expeditions by Prince Charles, 7, and Princess Anne, 5.

In addition to the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and their children, the group includes Queen Mother Elizabeth; Princess Margaret; the Duchess of Kent and her children, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and their children, princes Richard and William.

Christmas morning the royal party will attend services in the parish church. In the evening the Queen will attend a traditional carol service at West Newton.

Friday night the Royal Family joined in singing carols with a group of carolers that stood outside Sandringham for a few moments before being invited inside. At Prince Philip's request, the selections included "Silent Night."

Pope Issues Appeal

Urges International Control Of All Atomic Activities

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius, in his annual Christmas message, called today for an international agreement to control atomic activities including experimental explosions. He also warned that colonial peoples must have political freedom.

The 79-year-old spiritual leader of more than 450,000,000 Roman Catholics spoke from his golden throne. He wore white and gold vestments. His message was translated into 28 languages for broadcast by the Vatican radio.

The pontiff's delivery was in marked contrast to that of a year ago, when he was convalescing from a grave illness and was able to give only a brief greeting to the world. Person close to him said today he appeared somewhat tired from the pressure of his Christmas duties but otherwise seemed fitter than for some years.

Speaking in the presence of 16 scarlet-robed cardinals and other high dignitaries, the pontiff issued his greetings, the Pope said:

1. The Roman Catholic Church rejects communism as a social system by virtue of Christ's doctrine.

2. An international agreement is necessary against atomic experimental explosions, control the use of nuclear energy, and supervise atomic activities.

3. Multiplied experimental explosions create "very dangerous conditions for many living beings."

"How we wish," the Pope said, "that all men scattered over the continents, on cities, in villages, in valleys, in deserts, on steppes, on stretches of ice and seas, on the whole globe would again hear as though it were said to each one of them in particular—the voice of an angel announcing the mystery of divine grandeur and of infinite love."

But he warned that "one must ask oneself with fearful anxiety whether modern man is disposed to let himself be approached by so much supernatural grandeur."

"In reality," the Pope continued, "modern man, exactly because he expresses all that human spirit and labor have produced in the course of time, should recognize the even more infinite distance between his immediate work and that of the immense God."

The Pope said reality is very different because of the false and restricted view of the world and of life accepted by men.

The Pope recalled that in his last Christmas message he referred to the distance between Europeans and non-Europeans who aspire to full political independence.

Returning to that topic after a year of mounting tension in many areas, he said:

"Let not those people be denied a fair and progressive political freedom and kindred life that is suit. To Europe, however, they must not unroll the thrilling advancement to that Europe without whose influence, extended to all fields, they might be drawn by a blind nationalism to plunge into error or slavery."

"On the other hand," the Pope continued, "Western peoples, especially those of Europe, should not, in the face of such problems, remain indifferent. They regret over the past or in mutual recrimination over colonialism."

The pontiff warned against the possible danger of too many experimental atomic explosions, saying:

Canadians Having Whitest, Most Prosperous Christmas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's the height of the holiday season and Canadians are having one of the whitest and most prosperous Christmases on record.

Weatherwise the story is the same all across the country except for a "green belt" around Vancouver. Near-record snowfalls have left the country blanketed with flaky white, turning, in places, to muddy brown.

For those who could shovel their way out, stores did a land-office business. Many fancy, awaited the big spenders and cash registers played a ringing accompaniment to all other seasonal music.

Merchants, offering an unparalleled variety of goods, suffered little from the bitter weather. In every part of the eight-province Dominion the trend is to booming metropolitan areas, vast populations of which have changed hands.

This is really the month for celebrations. Starting Dec. 10 Jewish people celebrated their eight-day Hanukah, a festival rooted in antiquity.

Scandinavian communities also have had their feast of the lights, a year-end celebration marking the return of the sun and the lengthening of days.

After the Christmas festivities, most Canadians will observe wearily for the New Year's parties but one group of Canadians, those of Ukrainian origin, have yet another celebration to anticipate.

They celebrate Christmas Jan. 7, because the Ukrainian Orthodox and Ukrainian Catholic Churches follow the Julian calendar rather than the Gregorian.

Not only the dining rooms, parlors and banquet halls will be crowded this weekend. The country's transportation facilities will be taxed beyond capacity.

As early as Friday afternoon, trains, planes, buses and even ships were filled with people returning home. In many centres there was a shortage of much in demand. Where three hours behind schedule and terminals were crowded with impatient travellers.

Liquor stores were doing landoffice business. Probably the busiest liquor store in the country was that in Perth, N.B., but the demand was for water, not liquor.

When the brook feeding the town reservoir froze solid, townspeople remembered the liquor store had a private well, dug to avoid water

FEDERAL BUDGET SHOWS SURPLUS OF $105,600,000

Eight-Month Figure Higher Than Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) —The government, which started the current fiscal year last April 1 expecting a budget deficit, has come through the first eight months in better shape than it did a year ago.

With federal revenues to the end of November totalling $2,713,900,000 and expenditures $2,608,300,000, Finance Minister Harris was able Friday to announce a surplus for the eight-month period of $105,600,000.

That compares with a surplus for the corresponding period last year of $91,700,000 after expenditures of $2,518,000,000 were taken from revenues of $2,609,700,000.

THROWS OUT FORECAST

Addressing commons, has thrown out Mr. Harris' April forecast of a $160,000,000 deficit for the year by $265,600,000—no the credit side. But heavy expenditures that tend to pile up toward the end of the year might trim the sails before March 31. Despite the $100,000,000 surplus at the end of November, 1954, the government wound up with a deficit of $152,000,000 for the year.

Defence spending continued to surpass last year. For eight November revenues of $354,500,000 and defence expenditures for a $14,100,000 surplus, defence took $152,535,000 compared to $148,902,000 a year earlier. Total budgetary revenues in 1954 were $330,000,000 and expenditures $330,200,000 for a deficit of $20,000.

Revenues from personal and corporation income taxes were down this year from last. Personal income tax collections in November amounted to $90,326,000, almost the same as a year earlier, but were down to $4,807,000 from $784,421,000 in 1954. Corporation taxes were $91,538,000 in November compared to $83,497,000 a year earlier and $645,450,000 for the eight months compared to $661,729,000.

Highway Blocked By Dust Storm In Denver Area

DENVER (AP) —Dust-laden winds clocked in gusts up to 104 miles an hour over the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains Friday night and early today causing thousands of dollars damage. The storm around Colorado Springs was hardest hit.

Trees were uprooted, power lines were downed, homes broken into porches and roofs ripped off homes and business establishments throughout the state's midsection and northeast quarter.

The heaviest dust moved U. S. 287 from Lafayette northward to the Wyoming line for several hours at a time.

Patrolmen reported the dust and huge masses of tumbleweed were continuing to form barriers across the highway during the early morning.

Order Evacuation Of Two California Towns Due Floods

Rain Falls for Ninth Day; Death Toll Climbs to 22

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Authorities ordered the evacuation of another central California city early today as flood waters surged over three cities in one of the mightiest floods in west coast history.

Yuba City, a town of nearly 6,000 about 90 miles northeast of San Francisco, was ordered evacuated shortly after midnight when pounding waters of the Feather river smashed a 40-yard hole in levees south of town.

The evacuation order came only hours after more than 12,500 persons in the sister city of Marysville, just across the river, fled their homes as flood waters threatened to rupture Marysville's defense works.

An estimated 3,000 persons were ordered evacuated in Stockton, about 70 miles east of San Francisco, where a covered slough flooded and sent a 3-mile over an area of several blocks. Emergency crews began ripping up parts of six streets covering the slough to free the water to flow into the Delta ship channels.

Rain fell over the drenched and beleaguered state for the ninth straight day, adding more water to the already choked rivers and streams that have left a vast area in relation to what army engineers estimate as 10,000 to 15,000 square miles of land in California alone.

MAJOR DISASTER

Gov. Goodwin J. Knowlower Friday declared northern California a "major disaster area."

Southern Cre e n, California's neighbor to the north, and Nevada, across the Sierra Nevada range to the east, also battled flooding rivers.

Miraculously, the loss of life remained low. Latest counts placed California's death toll at 17 and Oregon's at five. Nevada reported no deaths.

Truck Wrecked, Train Delayed, But Nobody Hurt

ORILLIA (CP) — A level crossing crash about two miles north of Atherley Friday night demolished a truck but left the driver unharmed, and delayed for three hours all traffic on passenger trains from Fort Churchill to Toronto and Camp Borden on Christmas leave.

Uninjured in the crash, which did not even knock the cigar from the mouth of George McMullen of Mactier, driver of the panel truck which was thrown down a 10-foot embankment by the engine. In the crash a steam line on the locomotive broke and it was found necessary to bring another engine from Barrie before the train could be again started.

Mr. McMullen said he did not see the train approaching from behind him because of poor background visibility in his panel truck.

He had almost reached a bad angle crossing when he saw the train alongside him and realized that they were going to crash.

"I jumped on the brakes," Mr. McMullen said, "but the truck slid on the snow-covered road."

The train crashed into the front of the truck, leaving the cab unscathed. The truck was hurled down the embankment and between the gray steam and a pole carrying high-tension wires, but did not touch them.

Mr. McMullen, his lighted cigar still in his mouth, stepped out of the cab and crawled back up the embankment.

Gigantic Task Of Rebuilding In Flood Area

By ERNIE BENNET

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A flash flood in the Feather river gorge showed that the job of rebuilding will be gigantic.

Entire communities were wiped out. Railroads and highways were demolished. Logs and buildings were swept out into the Pacific ocean.

Almost everybody I talked to Friday remarked:

"We should have seen it Thursday."

They explained that by midmorning Thursday the river was rising three inches every 10 minutes and that houses were floating downstream, one after the other.

By Friday the river had dropped 12 to 15 feet and most of the house wrecking was over.

The effects still could be seen at places like the little community of Elkhorn. Only a few angles of houses remained in river eddies. The torrent took out a hundred homes and a school.

Hardly a house remained on its foundations here at Pepperwood. Some had washed onto the highways. Some Ferndale bohema, a rich dairy area near the mouth of the river, had almost completely wonder water. Only lonesome farm houses could be seen on top of the sea of brown.

TORONTO (CP) —The Ontario department of highways early today issued a bulletin warning motorists that driving conditions throughout the province are extremely dangerous.

The department said visibility on most highways in southern Ontario is nil. In eastern and northern Ontario roads are extremely slippery because of a freezing rain.

Most highways are free of snow, the department said, but dangerously slippery.

The department warned motorists t use extreme caution and to avoid unnecessary travel.

MOOSE JAW (CP)—The transfer of aircraft en route Saskatoon by commercial airlines, has been diverted to by-pass Moose Jaw, scene of Canada's worst air disaster, department of transport officials said Friday.

Christmas Eve Market Trading Proves Light

Trading was lighter than usual on the Christmas Eve market this morning.

There was a fair offering of produce and poultry at steady prices.

Turkeys sold from 55 cents for the heavier oven-dressed pullets to 70 cents for the best hens. Birds between 13 and 15 pounds were priced at 65 cents. Ducks were 65 cents and spring chickens 50 cents.

Eggs were in good quantity, bringing 60 cents for extra large grades, 55 cents for large, 50 cents for mediums and 45c for pullets.

Six-quart baskets of apples brought 50 cents for Snows, Spies and Sweets with Delicious going for 60 cents. By the bushel the fruit was tagged at $1.50 for Snows, with the others priced at $2.

Christmas trees were in good supply and brought from $1 to $2.

Christmas Prices Compared During Last Six Decades

By HARRY MULHALL

Most people talk shop most of the time.

And the time when shop-talk reaches unscaled heights comes when Christmas approaches.

It may be an argumentative setting of one store's prices against those of another, or that of a single product against a competing one; but of a certainty each talker must inevitably end in a nostalgic back-back to the prices of bygone years.

And just what kind of shop-talk have we been indulging in during those years? To glean an idea the following six years have been lifted from the hoary hoard of the Intelligencer's files, as representative of six years of Belleville shopping, dusted off and presented with a few delightful here for the interest of readers:

1905: A year that was the best of times and the worst of times" for our world, but when Belleville still celebrated Christmas in the old Dickensian fashion. Anarchy, although terrible, were plaguing Russia as much in the news as today while the Russo-Japanese war was causing grave concern the world leaders. A headline sensation was caused by the seizing of the Russian battleship Potemkine by mutineers. But the nearest Canada got to such affairs was when men of the cruiser "Canada" refused to obey orders and "struck."

Such things were drowned out in the sleigh bells and the carollings as Belleville celebrated its Christmas. Turkeys admittedly were fetching a high price at $3.50, but then geese were only $1 each while beefsteak was fetching 25 cents a pound. Yuletide gift suggestions included neck ribbons at 25 cents, fancy collars at 25 cents, tweed suits down to $15. For the discerning taste there were Egyptian cigarets at 15 cents a box, while pans could delight the smallfire household at a cost of $1.65 by purchasing an electric magic lantern.

Christmas was celebrated that year as it always had been and for a few more years after that. The church with its old customs of Christmas a blither one.

1915: Shopped that year were being presented with a new idea in their mail-order catalogues— a list of package gifts for servicemen. The package, including a mending outfit, a balaclava helmet, gloves and canned foods could be purchased at this time. The catalogue briefly advertised "Postage to England, 20 cents; to France or Dardanelles, 25 cents."

Tersely the catalogues spelled out their first Belleville Christmas for Canadians. The vacant places at the family reunion were filled forever somewhere in the mudfields of France and Flanders; in the desperate abortive fight for the Dardanelles. It was a gloomy Christmas the world, despite patriotic optimism.

Italy now was in the war; the Lusitania had been sunk by a U-boat with a loss of 1149 lives.

At home and nearer the proper seasonal spirit, turkeys were fetching up to $2.50, and geese $2; fresh beefsteak was selling at 30 cents and eggs 40 cents. Beef had gone up to 15 cents but in a year when you could buy a two-storey brick house for $1,500 on Bleecker, no one could quibble about that. You could buy a cravat for dad-at 25 cents, a lady's hand-bag for most at 50 cents, and for the best girl, perfumes "giving all the new odors," from 25 cents $1.

However, the spirit of Christmas is come not always manifesting at the door. Canada was rapidly going dry and in Ontario the "Citizens' Committee" of One Hundred" had dedicated itself to "clean politics" in the affairs of the province. So successful was it that by 1925: So many respectable people were buying illicit liquor to make so many Christmases respectable, "moonshine" and the word took on a respectable word.

Closer to the Belleville-Corbyville suburban road had been opened during the year, the only link as yet of an Ontario city towards a distillery location. Prosperity was everywhere except in crisis when the Liberal government was returned with a 62 majority in the Oppositions 116, with the balance in power being held by the Progressives with 11. The seeds of change laid a decade before had been sown. The fever of the sleigh-bell was rapidly being replaced by the motor horn and a new breed had been coined and was making a fortune for band leaders . . . Jazz. Radio-wise the central heating was banishing the yule-log from the fireplace.

But with this, the Belleville Christmas of the middle twenties continued unchanged. There were new and exciting things to buy— radios were selling from $75 to $200; there were phonographs relaying the latest hits of Paul Whiteman and his ilk. Among the unchangeable things, turkeys were fetching the highest price in this year they fetched a high price of 50 cents—butter 40 cents per pound—butter 40 cents and eggs 65 cents a dozen.

Christmas that year was a tie at 75 cents and gloves from Peterborough's Fowlers for the world from 35 cents. Dolls for daughter were $4.50 for the best there was.

It was an optimistic time. The League of Nations was being dealt by the League of Nations to secure peace for all time. The Locarno Pact, something opportune to its spirit was in the news. Britain finished the world's biggest battleship in the "Rodney"; Mussolini was the world's dictator and someone called Hitler, dubbed the Bavarian Fascist Party, was causing havoc in a German beer halls.

There was also a big change in Russia, too, but maybe the most significant for the drys on Ontario must have been the front page story that Trotsky was canning Russian Bolshevism brewers for bad products.

But ten years later those little flecks had grown into waves on an already troubled sea. It was the year of the Great Depression. Came Christmas Eve and the local newspaper ran two stories on the front page that were side by side with Christmas greetings. Russian brewers and newspapers were cynically referring to Winston Churchill as the "old warmonger" who was trying to frighten Englishmen into the belief that Germany would attack them.

The League of Nations was on its last legs.

But the Belleville breadwinner that year was probably the most ever interested in the price of Christmas, trying to make his family through another lean year into a merry spirit.

Turkeys were down to 28 cents a pound; a special Christmas dinner at a first class hotel was $1.25 cents. If he could afford it, the latest big cruge cost $845; a seven-tube, all-wave radio was $137. Cigarets were 55 cents for 50.

The most wonderful Christmas of that bleary decade but, the breadwinner realized, the years would bered how many problems had to be solved before things were quite right.

Ten years later in 1945 his wondering was over. The Depression Hitler, Mussolini, all were gone in another Great War. There were other problems but at least Canada seemed to be on the up - grade again.

So were its prices. Butter now up to 39 cents a pound, porterhouse steak was 43 cents a pound. Costs of gifts ranged higher in prices, too.

The picture has little changed in the home since.

1955. See the end of a great decade of prosperity and the beginning of new promises. There's still good beer and bad, but Christmas thirty-year is as gay a time as it always was. For the world it will always be the best of times and the worst of times — in fact just like any other time.

But whatever the times and the time people will always talk shop and of things. Buying for the table, friends, relations or ourselves is always a way does eventually lead to a Merry Christmas".

Exercise Care Driving, Walking Say Police Chief

"Winter weather multiplies the hazards of walking and driving and holiday season activities of shopping and visiting tend to distract much needed attention from safe behavior on our streets," Chief of Police Walter Probert pointed out today.

"The best way the citizens of Belleville can avoid accidents, sorrow and trouble, and keep Christmas and New Year's the happy times they are intended to be, is for each of us to make a conscious effort to remember to be safe always. The final ten days of the year appear on the accident records as usually one of the most dangerous periods of the year. Last year was an exception. And this year can be too, if all of us will help.

"From 45 motor vehicle accident fatalities throughout the province in that part of 1933, "the number of fatally injured was brought down to 22 in 1954. You may recall at the time, newspapers and radio said the best people to be more than ever careful. Radio stations worked hard for the sake of their listeners' safety while walking or driving. Safety workers increased their activities and police officers everywhere did their best to keep foot and motor traffic flowing on its many ways as safely as possible, and to apprehend the irresponsible.

"A few simple precautions remembered and applied will keep our Christmas and New Year's accidents. Remember to maintain both your vehicle and yourself in good operating condition. Remember, too, that darkness falls early these days, and the hours of darkness are full of danger for the unwary or heedless. The sentiment of darkness is light . . . be sure the lights of your vehicle are all working properly and that a 'circle check' regularly . . . when on your way after nightfall, walk around the vehicle and satisfy yourself that all is in order. When you visit your service station, the attendant will be glad to check stop and turn lights if you mention it. One more thing about lights . . . they are not even directional other than your windshield. Be sure they are wiped clean when they need it.

"To pedestrians, look carefully before stepping into the roadway. If you are dressed in dark clothing, you are difficult to see . . . and what can't be seen cannot be avoided.

"With so many pleasant distractions at this season of the year," Chief Probert concluded, "it is not easy to be aware always of the penalties of inattention when walking or driving. But it can be done, and the effort will be repaid in keeping our Christmas season bright and happy."

Corbyville Man Seriously Hurt In Car Collision

Lorne Wellman, 45, of R.R. 1, Corbyville, was seriously injured Friday evening when his northbound car collided with one now eastbound vehicle on No. 37 Highway a mile north of the city. Police said Wellman suffered skull lacerations and an injured ankle bone.

According to reports Wellman's car apparently veered left and collided almost head-on with the southbound auto driven by Walter Morgan, R.R. 8, Belleville. Mrs. Morgan suffered a minor cut on the forehead.

Both cars were extensively damaged in the accident. Provincial Constable Kenneth Williamson investigated.

Two other accidents, both minor, were investigated by Provincial Constable Williamson. One was a two-car mishap on the county road near Foxboro, while the other occurred near Corbyville on No. 37 Highway. No injuries were reported.

Birth of Christ To Be Celebrated At City Churches

The glorious music of the great Christmas festival will echo and re-echo in city churches and chapels on Sunday, the anniversary of the birth of Christ.

The melodic thunder of mighty organs; the blending voices of mixed choirs, augmented for the occasion, the melodies of individual artists, both vocal and instrumental, will paean the music, one of the greatest harmonic phases of the religious calendar.

With milder weather predicted, churches will likely be filled to overflowing at the morning services. Some churches have withheld evening services. Some will see family worship instead of the customary adult services and Sunday schools.

The splendid Christmas messages of the Birth of Christ will be the predominant theme in the pulpits of Belleville. Special speakers will hold forth in some.

Above all the great anthem, "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and other beloved Christmas music will echo the fervor of religious Belleville.

Traffic Mishaps Keep Police Busy

Motor accidents resulting primarily from slippery street conditions continued to take up the time of police officers yesterday and last night. Since Friday morning half a dozen accidents were reported, four of them minor.

Damage amounting to $600 was reported following a mishap on Station Street when a car driven by Helmut Siegmanns, R.R. 6 Belleville, skidded on the icy surface and knocking it 61 feet across a nearby intersection. Damage of about $250 resulted to the Siegmanns' car and about $250 to the parked vehicle owned by Bertha Glen, Carman Ave.

On Moira Street a car driven by Percy Gryce, Second Concession of Sidney township, skidded into a hydro pole as the driver applied his brakes to avoid a car backing out of a driveway. Damage to the car and to the Gryce auto and $80 to the hydro pole.

Damage to the police front officers are puzzled over what happened to Jack Canniff, 21, of 74 Bridge Street, who shortly before midnight was found by a passer-by lying unconscious on the rear of a service station lot near the Bridge Street bridge. The unconscious man was removed to hospital where this morning members of his family reported he had recovered consciousness.

Police said Canniff was last seen at the bowling alley a short time before he was found on the parking lot.

"And finally a much inebriated Moira Street resident was taken into custody early this morning after he was found taking vengeance out on postal parcel and letter boxes.

A police officer found the man kicking a parcel post box and second later reported a broken toe from a hydro pole. He was booked on a drunk charge.

A Lift For Living

Christmas

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

What is it we prize most among the Christmas presents we receive? It is love, is it not? What would we think of a person who on opening his Christmas packages looked for the price mark before looking at the name of the giver? We would put him down as insufferably mercenary and selfish. The healthy soul appreciates his gifts not primarily for their money value but as tokens of love. It is love and friendship we crave at Christmas.

One day some years ago during the week before Christmas, while on the train I met an elderly woman. She is retired from her profession and lives alone in one of the most beautiful residential sections near New York. She was going to spend the holidays in a little industrial city, which to me seemed one of the dreabrest places I have ever seen. But her face was aglow because she was going to be with her cousins, and she preferrred that dingy region with her relatives to her own lovely landscape alone.

At this season, hearts turn toward homes and loved ones. For the past several days trains and planes have echoed with the laughter of students homeward bound. Parents planned joyfully for family reunions. Christmas is the festival of fellowship.

BRIEF INTERLUDE

But now is all this holiday spirit of good will just a brief interlude in a dark, competitive world? Is this turning from self-interest to shared joy another of man's inconsistencies? If we view life only from the sidewalk level, we might cynically conclude that Christmas is merely time out from life's game of greed and graft for a little relaxation in kindness. If such be our philosophy, then the lovely sentiments expressed at Christmas have no more rootage than the Christmas trees set to be our firewood floors.

But the story of Bethlehem is not a mere beautiful dream in a night of darkness. It is the glimpse of man's making. The innocence of childhood, the unfathomable love of motherhood, the tenderness of shepherds, the humble adoration of Wise Men—these are the basic and real facts of life. Our earth was created by a God who "so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son" to save it. This is the confidence Christmas gives.

LOVE AND PEACE

If, as we have said, love is the thing we crave most at Christmas, a desire that comes to a close second is the longing for peace. The two are linked together in the Christmas message, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men"

The very words of Bethlehem breathe peace, do they not? Let your minds dwell for a moment on shepherds drowsily watching their flocks on the Judean hillside. Follow them through the silent night to the stable where a mother nestles her child in a manger while Joseph looks on with emotions too full for words.

He and Mary had come up to Bethlehem to be taxed according to the decree of Caesar Augustus and the power of that mighty monarch was felt in this place. Also not far away a feverish jealousy of a god was sending messengers to find out about the rumored birth of a Jewish king. Yet despite the dangers that might come from Caesar and Herod, there do not feel a sense of peace stealing over us as we ponder the Nativity scene?

PRINCE OF PEACE

The centuries of peace has reached a new high in our time. Peace of mind, peace of soul, peace between nations — these are the themes on which best - selling books are written. And the Christ Child in Bethlehem was proved Himself the Prince of Peace by His power to impart peace of mind to individuals even in our turbulent world. Do we not all know persons who preserve a calm spirit amid the confusion around them because they possess an inner assurance unshaken by circumstances?

If Christ can bring inner peace to the heart, can He also bring peace to the world? Last July at Geneva when the U.S. president met with other heads of state, we saw a new rainbow of hope. The clouds have not thickened again. But remember, a rainbow reflects the sun. And even the Soviet rulers show they have seen enough light to know they cannot escape the world by suicide as war. They are now trying to win peoples by extravagant promises. Now is our chance to show the world there is more promise of peace in Christ than in the Kremlin.

Stories of Famous Hymns

A Christmas Favorite

By HORACE B. POWELL

O LITTLE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by.
Yet in thy dark streets shineth,
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary;
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love;
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth;
And praises sing to God the King
And peace to men on earth.

How silently, how silently
The wondrous gift is given;
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive Him, still
The dear Christ enters in.

O holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel.

In this beautiful Christmas hymn the great preacher, Phillips Brooks describes the birthplace of Jesus as he saw it Christmas Eve, 1865.

The young rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Philadelphia—he was only 30 years old at the time—went abroad for a year of travel and visited the Holy Land. Christmas Eve came. He was in good fortune to be in Jerusalem on the day before Christmas, and on Christmas eve with a party of friends he went over to Bethlehem. Writing to friends at home of this remarkable experience, Mr. Brooks told how he and his companions rode out of town (Bethlehem) to the field where, according to the Bible story, shepherds heard the angels singing of Christ's birth on that first Christmas, 20 centuries ago.

"As we passed", he told his American friends, "the shepherds were still 'keeping watch over their flocks' or 'bringing them home to the fold' just as they did on that night so long ago."

Riding back into Bethlehem the young preacher attended a midnight Christmas eve service in the Church of the Nativity, built on the very place where it is believed, Jesus was born. Phillips Brooks never forgot that wonderful Christmas in Bethlehem. Three years later, when he wanted a Christmas hymn for boys and girls of his Sunday school in Philadelphia, he sat down and put his impressions into verse, and the famous song was made.

ILLUSTRIOUS PREACHER

Phillips Brooks, who was to become one of America's most illustrious pulpit figures, was born in Boston just a dozen days before Christmas, in 1835. His ancestors, on both sides, were descendants of Puritan families.

He finished his preparatory studies at the Boston Latin School and was graduated from Harvard University, in 1855. After a year of teaching Latin, he turned to theology and, when he won his ordination at an Episcopal school in Alexandria, Virginia, he was called to serve his first rectorship at Holy Trinity Church, in Philadelphia. It was during this ministry that he wrote his famous hymn.

Lewis H. Redner, who composed the Christmas hymn tune, was organist and choirmaster at Holy Trinity Church at the time. He was also superintendent of the Sunday school for which the hymn was written and was teacher of one of the school's classes. Mr. Redner, it is recorded, toiled through many hours of that eventful Saturday night before Christmas, in 1868 writing the hymn melody so precious to Christians everywhere today. He filled in the harmony the next morning so that the new song would be sung for the first time in the church's Christmas service.

Dr. Brooks' Philadelphia rectorship lasted until 1869. Then he began another famous ministry at Trinity Church, Boston. He was consecrated Bishop of Massachusetts in 1891 but died less than two years after receiving this honor.

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

What was the name of the prophet, who at a time of famine, came to Gilgal and performed two miracles in feeding a group of people?

He ordered that a large pot be brought out and that the kindled fire low it. Then he directed a servant to gather herbs. The servant found a wild vine and wild gourds. These he cut up and threw into the pot. When this was stewed, some of the sons of the prophets had started to partake of the food, one man, evidently recognizing a poisonous wild herb cried, "O man of God, there is death in the pot."

No one would eat. The prophet said "Bring me meal to me." Then he threw the meal into the pot and ordered, "Pour out for the men, that they may eat." So this was done and no harm came from the food.

A man came from Baalshalisah and gave the prophet the first fruit yield of his harvest, fresh ears of grain in a sack and twenty loaves of barley. The man of God directed, "Give to the men that they may eat." The servant objected saying, "How am I to set this before one hundred men?" Then the prophet repeated his command and added, "For thus says the Lord, 'They shall eat and have some left.'" This happened as he prophesied. We find this story recorded read this story in 2 Kings Chapter 4, verses 38-44.

Bulletins From Birdland

By WINIFRED E. WILSON
CAPPED FOR CHRISTMAS

Wherever you may live in Canada from Alberta to our farthest east provinces, the little redpoll makes its appearance and appearing on your Christmas bird census list. With the cold the caps were tipped over its forehead, this small member of the sparrow family lit on suitable subject this season.

Plump at all times, it now looks like a ball. Fat has been stored up in its body for winter use; its plumage is heavy and it can withstand the cold; and the bird fluffs out its feathers, leaving space between them for the purpose of insulation.

The redpoll's main colouring is grey-brown bird with a black chin, and the male has a lovely pink breast. Although it cannot be said to, sing in winter, the combined twittering of a hundred or so is very much like soft, sweet music. While twittering is kept up all the time a flock is feeding.

Redpolls are the farmer's little friends, preferring open fields to any other type of country, and needing for any other type of food. When a whole flock comes down and settles in the weedy edges of his property, much good work is accomplished in a very short time.

Just like ourselves, to combat the cold they require more nourishment than in summer. They are as good acrobats as chickadees, and climb from branches in all sorts of positions as they feed, and if a seed is dropped, down they go after it. Perching low in nearby trees and bushes, and balancing on the tops of weeds that show above the snow, the redpolls simply take possession until hardly a seed remains. Then off they go, with their rattling flight call, "chut, chut, chut"

Redpolls breed right across our sub-Arctic, and migrate for the winter, often far south of our border. But their wanderings are quite irregular, and although they are found in the Ontario district in early spring and late autumn, some may be seen from October to the end of April.

In their northern homes, they live chiefly on the ground, among clumps of small spruce, they build their neat little grass nests, lining them with feathers. The babies are helpless for a long while, but they get good care. Sometimes the father brings the insect larvae to the mother sitting; lets her pop it into a baby's mouth; sometimes he himself feeds the children regurgitated insects. They make a very loving and happy family.

Christmas Paradox

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Love came down at Christmas,
Love all lovely, Love Divine;
Love was born at Christmas,
Stars and Angels gave the sign."

Of all the poems about the Nativity, "Incarnate Love" which begins with these lines by Christine Rosetti, is one of our favorites. When as a homemaker, we feel the sad need to neglect all the duties which are still undone which should be attended to, we pause and say these words over to ourselves. They have a quieting effect. We catch again a glimpse of the real meaning of Christmas.

This mid-night Christmas mean to us this year if with our wholeselves we would try to walk the Road of the Loving Heart with Jesus? There are very few adults who do not have some individuals whom they find it difficult to like, much less love, in the sense of wishing the best for these persons. There are few persons, especially mothers, (because women are apt to be more personal than men), who have no bitter memories of being treated in a mean or shabby fashion.

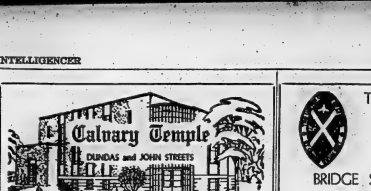
But at Christmas we are challenged to make a new beginning in our relationships. We have become tangled. We can try, by the grace of God, to clear our enmities, to return good for evil, to pray for those who have wronged us.

Christmas has been called the Children's Day, and it must be hard to catch the Christmas Spirit in a home where there are no little folk! Husbands and wives who have seen their love for each other flowering in the birth of a son or daughter, know the deep joy of this season. But what of the little boys and girls who are by——, accold, or destitute in less fortunate areas or countries than ours? Will we not remember them in our giving through our churches, or the Red Cross or the United Nations or any other group which serves those in need?

But need can be spiritual as well as physical. What of our fellow New Canadians who must sometimes be longing for their homeland, their own people and place where they grew up? Christmas can be a very homesick time! Surely of all months of the year this is the one when we should throw open the doors of our homes and share our hospitality with these newcomers. If we don't know any New Canadians, likely our children at school do and we might entertain a family one evening during the holidays.

We would remember, too, those who are ill or hanicapped or growing old and those who have known sorrow during the past twelve months. Walt Whitman once said, "Behold, I do not give lectures or a little rivrity, when I give, I give myself." No one wants free advice or cold "charity"—but what heart is not touched by knowing at Christmas that some one else cares?

The greatest gift we can give to our children is to make the Christ Child's Birthday vivid by reading aloud the stories of the prophecies and the Wise Men and the Holy Family in Luke II, Matthew, by singing the lovely Christmas carols, by worshipping as a family in the church of our choice. Then we may catch some of His spirit of love.



"It is in loving——— being loved. The heart is blest;
It is in giving——not in seeking gifts.—
We find our quest."

May we not only at Christmas but throughout the year, show our sons and daughters by our daily lives that we believe in the "Christian Paradox" which might also have been called "Christmas Paradox!"

CHRISTMAS

Tomorrow, Christians everywhere will celebrate the anniversary of the Christ Child's birth in a manger in Bethlehem 1955 years ago.

The Christian era dates from the birth of Christ.

Why is the story of Christmas the most compelling ever told? On its surface it is a tale of poverty, hardship and rejection. Mary and Joseph were in Bethlehem because a dictator had ordered the whole world to be enrolled. Tension added to the hardship of the journey. Fatigue was met by a closed inn door. The Babe was born in a stable, wrapped in swaddling clothes and laid in a manger. The Child's birth set a jealous ruler to butchering innocent babes and sent the Holy Family into exile for fear of the Child's life.

How can such a story arouse sentiments of cheer and good will in peoples around the world?

Men rejoice on Christmas because the Christ Child is God made man for the redemption and salvation of all mankind. The story of Christmas is always new because man's need of redemption and salvation and the hope which they inspire, are ever new.

Without Christ there can be no Christmas.

The story of Christmas is the story of the love of God for man and of the promise of peace for all men of good will. Christmas is a story for each and every man because Christ was born to all men. The spirit of giving dominates Christmas because the Babe in the manger gave up heaven to give Himself to the saving of men that they might gain heaven. Human nature assumes its dignity because Christ chose to clothe His divinity in flesh.

The spirit of friendship at Christmas is universal because the Christ Child loves all men and because all men can love Him. Shepherds were invited to Bethlehem by a heavenly chorus to meet their infant Saviour. The three Wise Kings chose to follow a star to the crib of Christ. Their gifts of gold for His kingship, frankincense for His divinity and myrrh for His humanity and the death that would overtake the God-man show that the Wise Kings recognized the Saviour in swaddling clothes and accepted Him as their king.

The angels sang the message of Christmas in their song, "Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth." Glory to God is first. The promise of peace follows for men of good will when they have given glory to God.

May the message of the first Christmas continue to ring in the hearts of all men. May we, too, come to know the peace of Christmas — "that peace which the world cannot give."

THE STORY OF THE MAGI

One of the most unusual stories in the New Testament is that of the Magi, or Wise Men, who came to Bethlehem to adore the new-born Christ.

It is not too surprising that the King of Kings, born in a manger and wrapped in swaddling clothes, went unrecognized by His chosen people. What is strange is that three Wise Men from distant countries should arrive in Judea to pay homage to the Christ Child saying that they had seen His star in the East and had come to adore Him.

Magi is an Accadian term, part of the language of ancient Babylon and Media. It means "august" or "reverend" and was a title of the learned and priestly caste.

In the Persian Empire the Magi were "keepers of the sacred things, the learned of the people, the philosophers and priests of God." They were held in the highest reverence and no transaction of importance took place without, or against, their advice. They enjoyed unbounded influence in private and public life; were entrusted with education of young princes and were the constant companions of the ruling monarchs.

The Three Wise Men mentioned in the New Testament were subjects of great speculation among the peoples of Judea in the years following the birth of Christ. Legend says their names were Kaspar, Melchior and Balthasar.

Kaspar was Herod Antipas' name for the birthplace of Christ the Wise Men left Jerusalem and the New Testament says that the star which preceded them from their distant homes reappeared and led them to the manger in Bethlehem.

The Magi, among the most powerful and influential people in their own countries, brought costly gifts to the Christ Child. Apparently they travelled with impunity and yet their journey was a long and difficult one.

Their whole story is one of purpose guided by faith. They came a great distance with costly gifts to pay homage to a Babe because they had seen His star. When they arrived at the stable they presented their gifts. They recognized the Christ Child as the object of their hunting and were satisfied when they had found Him.

The Magi provide an example of faith that shines as brightly in the story of Christmas as the star which they followed to the crib.

In London, England, an Oriental belly dancer is in trouble for her performance before a group of civil servants of the postal services. She appeared clad in a coat of silver paint—and a feather. The authorities were not tickled. The feather, apparently, was the wrong add dress.

JUST FOLKS

FIRST CHRISTMAS EVE

Not to men of pomp and power,
Nor unto them of worldly fame,
Upon that holy midnight hour
The heavenly herald angels came

But to the shepherds far away,
Who watched their little flocks afield
As dawned the first glad Christmas Day,
The star of Bethlehem was revealed.

Was it by chance or by design
That men of simple faith should be Selected by the will divine,
The first to hear, the first to see?

Within that inn where Christ was born
Were leaders slept the whole night through,
Nor did they know upon the morn
What Mary and the shepherds knew.

Night and the stars and silent hills
And the broad spaces where they plod,
And the long hours reflection fills,
Draw shepherds very near to God.

So unto them the angel came Upon that wondrous Christmas Eve;
Because, unspoiled by wealth or fame,
In miracles they could believe.

Christmas Baskets of Food Delivered Today: Through the efforts of Fire Chief Lynch and the members of the Belleville Fire Department, baskets nicely packed with good things to eat were delivered to about 75 families today. Early this morning the members of the fire department loaded the emergency fire truck and commenced deliveries to all sections of the city. In each basket were canned goods, such as beans, tomatoes, corn, peas, potatoes, meat, a large pail of honey, flour, bread, butter, candy in great assortment, and a Christmas picture books for the kiddies and books of fiction for the adults.

The Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club and Kinsmen Club also delivered baskets to needy families; arrangements had been made that there would be no overlapping in the delivery of baskets. Some of the church organizations also looked after their needy families.

Teach Hens To Smoke

(Chicago Daily News)

Physiologists in Scotland and meat breeders in Denmark have been making experiments that will infuriate animal lovers but do seem to prove something or other somepple. The Scots have taught chickens to smoke and Danes are getting huge mildly drunk. Both hens and porkers seem to like it.

The chickens are linked to cigarettes in cancer research and the hogs guzzling a fermented mash of sugar beets and grain, to grow cheaper pork. Their acceptance of such bad habits casts considerable doubt on the old saying that a natural instinct saves a dumb creature from making the mistakes of intelligent but imaginative and wayward humans.

Either chickens and pigs are more human than we thought, or people are less so.

Stews and Stars

(By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor)

Some devoted and scheming friend sailed me a poem which I can fill out and send — absolutely free — for the favorite recipe of the writer. "I understand there is no charge," I am permitted to understand, but there the place I am not going to sign. I am not going to force myself to take advantage of this exceptional offer.

First of all, favorite recipes always seem farfetched to me, as if unlikely, upon trial, to be worth the bother. In an anthology is overcome by the honor an permits herself to indulge in a few frauds.

As I direct my discerning eye to right (as in discerning the left is for circumspection) upon this phenomenon, I expect certain duties to gasp and disclaim, but I shall only point to my philosopher's license and plead immunity.

Perhaps some folks don't know how fine things work. Usually a promoter comes around, a salesman for a printing house, and he convinces the committee that a compilation of favorite recipes would prove a money-making boon, proceeds to go to current cause. The aim of literary achievements smells good to the committee, and members ask the community housewives to write out their favorite recipes for the food section of the book. The committee also sells advertising in the book, and the whole community is in print as, "Compliments of a Friend."

Each lady now wrestles with herself and art. She can bake a fine bean, strain a magnificent bevonbread, bring off a proud dumpling, and make cakes and pies and stews, and roast lamb so you wouldn't believe it. But all this is intuitive, instinctive, unconscionary and as the latinity has it vulgar. Put it on paper, vulgarity will care. To appear in print, publicly, as an exponent of the finer arts is frightening. I mean and unworthy. To announce that your favorite dish is a stew or a hash would appall the niceties. One simply doesn't.

So the lady whose best stew is famous for its secret suddenly breaks out in print with a favorite recipe for Lamb Stew. And it is grain in tricolor. Whatever it is, it is a cake, or dainty, as distinguishable as a stone, and it will have anything against dainties, but man cannot live by dainties alone. The book, when it appears, suggests that not one woman in the whole land has ever heard of a pot roast, fried ham, beef liver, boiled dinner, and such. Bate-and-sauce appears in the lead, with brownies next, and then instant returns from the assorted cultural delights with the little finger held high.

• •

And if such is the true-to-the-mill housewife, daily tilling her kitchen range to edify a hungry family, how much more shall it be true in the professional extrovert — the stars of stage, screen and radio, who thrive on a higher degree of public policy?

I shudder at the thought.

Herbert Hoover's memory seems to be at odds with the exigencies of drama. In real life a certain economy can be made and we get along fine. But in play science the roast beef takes longer than the dialogue, with the budget limited to $5,000 a minute; roast beef becomes the least of the worries. I suspect somewhere a craftsman makes a happy supplying rubber roasts to movie companies where films in May and do the restakes in September.

I remember specifically a drama in which Ann Harding, a favorite of mine, was laboring over a hot cookstove when a gentleman entered left and indicated he intended to pursue a lengthy conversation which would resolve the entire plot. Ann Harding is a fabulous cook. When the film finished, Ann Harding was still cooking. Harding cooked the man a fine meal of fried ham and eggs, and a delicious omelette with jam, and much emotion being dispensed pro and con.

She flipped the ham into the pan, turned it once, and took off the fat. That is the secret of cooking. Then she broke two eggs in the pan, and flipped them over, and I thought, I am sorry I don't remember the name of the dramatic opus. But it was a good one, and while he sat this raw ham and these crisp eggs to nourish him for a lengthy delight that I presume he merited, I got probably got, as a matter of fact.

But I'm sure if Miss Harding has put in this anthology of stars, dom's favorites, it will not tell us how to cook ham and eggs. She will have to do with ethereal, light, lovely and frilly matters. We can expect her cookery to be found in her sandwiches to have the crusts cut off. That is all she seems to be good at.

• •

I'm wondering if perhaps the new electronic stoves, which turn out finished products somewhat resembling, may not prove a boon to domestic dramatists. The preparation of any meal can be drawn out or shortened to fit almost any predicament. And accidents can be arranged for a great chance by have the meal ready when the actors are. Thus Alfred Hitchcock might have solved a case by the length of time it takes to roast a turkey, but Alfred Hitchcock doesn't even need to know such a smallish point.

Anyway, all in all, I think I shall not be surprised if, in future, I shall get along on unpopular fare as best I can.

Want to Stay In Canada

(Ottawa Citizen)

Recently the Queen's Journal asked 25 engineering students in their first year if they had any curiosity whether they intended to look for employment in the United States after graduation. Twenty answered "no." Some of the others asserted unofficially only expressed a definite preference for conditions existing on this side of the border.

The survey was prompted by current reports of a serious lack of engineers in Canada. It is also assumed that a Canadian university graduate should experience little difficulty in finding a job with good pay.

Yet a great majority of these Queen's men said they preferred to stay at home because of their confidence in the opportunities to be found in this country. They appear to be prospects of continuing industrial expansion and as Canadians with a stake in what is based in it.

There was one rather pointed question in the questionnaire. If the student was not intending to make Canada primarily to escape compulsory military training in the United States" Not primarily, was the general reply, but a few of the engineers did admit that it was a secondary reason. They weren't too enthusiastic about being caught in Uncle Sam's draft.

Yet all events it is encouraging to find.. at one of Canada's great schools, such evidence of a positive faith in the future of the country. If this is a general attitude, it should do much to relieve the anxieties of those who in the past have been dismayed by the migration of so many trained young men and women.

Find Diesels Cause Illness

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Many men and women consult their family doctor about the mental distresses they may be suffering from, and most of them probably become relieved that the distress is brought on by overwork.

But Dr. Jackson A. Smith, professor of psychiatry in the University of Minnesota, told a conference of the American Medical Association that after examining 91 people whose emotional illness they believed due to overwork, he came to the conclusion that there were only seven true cases. In the others nagging supervision, tensions and even physical injuries were the prevailing factors.

The seven patients whose emotional troubles apparently were directly related to the stress of their work were all employees of a railroad, which switched from steam to Diesel engines. All were found it hard to acquire confidence in their ability to operate a Diesel and became fearful, apprehensive, and fearful, though their associates thought them competent.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT THE DAY MEANS

Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.

Have faith in God.

Repent and believe the gospel.

In him was life, and the life was the light of men.

Some trust in chariots, and some in horses, but we will remember the name of the Lord o ur God.

Take my yoke upon you and learn of Me.

My yoke is easy and my burden is light.

As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them.

Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb. Amen.

Prevention of Worm Infestation

The eggs of several parasites, which may inhabit the human intestine, notably round worm (Ascaris lumbricoides), pin worm (Oxyuris vermicularis), tapeworm (Taenia saginata) and hookworm (Necator americanus) are visible only with the aid of the microscope.

The eggs of round worms (these worms resemble ordinary earth worms and vary from a few inches to a foot or more in length) are discharged from the host in the feces and develop into larvae in two weeks, more or less, in the soil or water, but the eggs do not hatch until they enter the intestine of man or animal. There they reach the adult stage in a few weeks and begin discharging eggs.

The cycle is about the same with pin worms. These worms resemble bits of white thread a quarter of an inch long.

The most common tapeworm, beef tapeworm, may be from three to thirty feet long, yellowish flattened segments, from the minute head fastened to intestinal lining by hooks to segments, half inch wide and inch long or more, and much emotion being dispensed pro and con.

She flipped the ham into the pan, turned it once, and took off the fat. That is the secret of cooking. Then she broke two eggs in the pan, and flipped them over, and I thought, I am sorry I don't remember the name of the dramatic opus. The intestine of the human host are swallowed in water or on the feet of grazing cattle. The larvae, set free in the intestine, penetrate the intestinal wall, enter the blood stream and are lodged in the muscles and other tissues, where they become encysted. Man eats such meat (underdone), the cyst wall is digested and the larvae are set free, to become attached to the intestinal wall, where they grow to maturity in a few months, completing the cycle.

Besides making sure that meat is thoroughly cooked, to prevent infestation with tapeworm, these precautions are advisable to prevent catching round worms or pinworms:

Always wash the hands just before eating.

If you are in doubt about the purity of the drinking water boil it for at least one minute.

Do not let young children lie or play on the ground if it is reasonable to suppose the ground has been polluted by other children.

Discipline children, or see who has worms by boiling.

If in doubt about the purity of the water, boil it for washing fruits or vegetables.

Treat the biting habit, common in persons with pinworms, in accordance with conscientiousness. Remember, even the cleanest looking fingers or fingernails may harbor the eggs of worms (visible only with microscope).

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now whatever you do, don't interfere with the little woman in choosing the Christmas tree. Leave it entirely to her. She knows what's wood. Don't express an opinion. Just wander around and look at the tree lot, waiting to carry the tree to the car.

For you might better try to choose a hat for her as choose a tree. Women's hats are a mystery. Why, for instance, is there is a close affinity between ladies' hats and Christmas trees? Both exist in realms from which men are debarred. It is not art. It is not fashion. It is something mystical.

You or I could walk onto a Christmas tree lot, take a quick look around, and point to that one. "How much?"

It would be a nice, conical, bushy tree, just the right height to fit into the corner to the left of the chesterfield.

But, you fool, if you took it home, it wouldn't be a matter of a few minutes. Not the first thing, forgotten in an hour. No sir! It would last for days and days. All through Christmas Day, and all through the week to come, and the pale post old misfit hits the ash can.

You buy a Christmas tree, let me inform you, for one day and a half. And the way that is, nobody knows. Woe to this one, the trial run. Some are round, some are flat on one side. A dumb male can't tell. Woe to this one, the one-sider, because it would stand up snug to the wall, and the branches are long and wispy and lovely, offering themselves eagerly to the hanging of glass balls and ornaments and tinsel. Some are dense and thickly symmetrical, some are beautifully symmetrical, geometric in their perfection. Only the angels or Christmas lights would peer out from the fragrant bosky depths.

And that, I submit, is a Christmas tree lot containing 1,718 trees of assorted sizes and shapes and species, there is only one tree that is exactly suited to your home. Only one, you couldn't find it if you searched all day!

OTHERS

The more we are challenged by others as to what we have done during each day, the happier we should be, for there is no action quite so uplifting as that of self-satisfaction. If we have not been of great use, please ourselves, sooner or later we are sure to become unhappy and regretful.

The path to personal happiness is by way of the path of service to others. That which we give out keeps returning to us. It is the law of the great Creator. The time comes when you may have the immense satisfaction of thinking that you have contributed in some way to the progress and to the good of humanity.

We are all the time giving out influences. It is an unconscious process. But if this personal happiness keeps returning to us from others then it must be that we have not lived in vain. The more we influence others the more we are influenced by them. To be rich in friendship is far more glorious than to be rich in material things.

Think of the personal peace that comes from laboratories and libraries, as Pasteur once wrote. We owe more to such researchers than vances.

We ever return to them, for their gift is cumulative. There is that thought of others in every one of their triumphs. How happy we can be whenever anyone else tells us of their success. There is some unselfish deed accomplished. Others are forever blessed. Such deeds are forever stored away in thought or deed.

We should constantly ask ourselves what we have done to make our lives, a positive force in the betterment in our own sphere of activity? Out of ourselves into the lives of others is a purpose big enough, and inspiring enough. We shall have little room in which to worry about ourselves!

A CHRISTMAS STORY

The Coming of the King

By Norman Vincent Peale

The Light of the World

HOME TO GALILEE

Joseph and Mary made a home for their baby as best they could. They were refugees in a strange land, homesick for the land of Israel and their own village. But the baby was healthy and happy and they agreed they could ask no more.

And, back in Jerusalem, Herod's terrible crime went on. He grew more bloodthirsty and killed his own son. At last, he became totally insane and died soon afterwards.

Just as Herod died, Joseph, over in Egypt, had another dream. An angel again appeared to him and said: "Arise and take the young child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead which sought the young child's life."

So, once again, Joseph and Mary prepared for a journey. They loaded their faithful donkey; Mary mounted and took Jesus in her arms; and Joseph walked ahead leading the donkey.

Back along the path of Moses they went into the land of Israel on their way to Bethelehem. But, on the way, they met someone who told them that Herod's son was now the king in Jerusalem. And, warned again in a dream, Joseph took another road into Galilee and back to their own village of Nazareth.

Their house was still there and there was need of a good carpenter. It was easy to fall into their old ways again. But now Jesus was one of the happy children who watched the carpenter at work. He learned to trust in God, honor Joseph and Mary, love His playmates and neighbors and follow the Commandments. He probably wanted to be a carpenter.

But the shepherds and the wise men from the East and even wicked Herod had known that He was born to be a King. And we know it today. That is why the story of His birth and childhood is the story of the coming of the King.

The Face On The Stamp

The Saver of Mothers

By NICHOLAS MIKA
(Article 11)

At Christmas time the world is full of music. Music from heaven that brings the spirit of Christmas and deepest joy to every heart. There are many beautiful songs, and every country has its own. But there is one Christmas carol that is sung in every corner of this earth. Its words are simple and its music is tender and touching, but its magic power carries the message of Christmas in many languages to millions of people.

Church bells play it, choirs and countless records are produced every year. You know this song by heart:

Silent Night, Holy Night,

All is calm, all is bright . . .

It was sung for the first time some hundred and thirty years ago. It was on a cold December night. The children of the village of Arnsdorf in Austria stopped playing on the street and listened to a strange but beautiful melody coming from the tiny village church. Curious, they opened the door. The church was empty. Only the priest and the organist stood in the dim light and were singing a song that they had never heard before. The organist played the guitar because the organ was out of order. A few days before the priest had written a poem, and when his friend, the organist, heard the words, he decided to compose the music. That was the song that came from heaven to touch the hearts of mankind.

He never composed anything important before or after, and the priest was not a poet post either. They both were simple village people, but they gave one of the greatest songs in the world, more precious to many hearts than all the symphonies and operas ever written.

About this song and the two friends many legends are told and there are many versions as to how the song was sent around the world. Be that as it may, had not been for the broken organ, we might never have heard it at all. The story is, that a mechanic came to fix the organ and was so charmed with the melody which the organist played while trying out the instrument, that on the same day back home he played it for his children and friends. And from then on the song began to spread quietly around the world.

The little church still stands and graphs.

Children's Aid Endeavors To Make Christmas Spirit Live Throughout the Year

(By HARRY MULHALL)

Christmas comes but once a year and people everywhere strive to live up to its subtitle — "The Ideal Time."

But what could be more ideal or more of an ideal, than to strive to make it fall every single day of the year?

There are many people and organizations abroad around us — and they are here in this community—endeavoring to realize this ideal and make other people and organizations realize the necessity of it too.

One of the better examples of such work is the Children's Aid Society. Since Christmas is especially a time for children, the Society probably is the most appropriate example to take at this time.

For the difference between the Society and other organizations engaged in good works is that it has put philantrophy on a scientific, active basis to make it work the more readily. And a paying basis, too, particularly in the past year, as its superintendent, Bruce Kerr, is quick to point out.

MANY ACHIEVEMENTS

A glance at the records of the local Society's achievements during the past year qualifies this.

In 1954 some 63 children were admitted to the care of the Society and 76 were discharged, either to foster homes or returned to their parents.

This year, however, while 64 were taken under the society's wing some 111 were discharged,—21 of whom went back to their own homes, and the remainder placed in permanent foster homes.

These records attest an achievement of which the social workers of the Society under superintendent Kerr, are proud. Not only do they share the success of easing burdens on individual lives but they also record the success of a new program begun by the Society this year and dubbed a "preventive" program.

Object of the program was to stem the flow of children coming into the society's care. It attempts to reach its ends in two ways: (1) By having its officials work with families to prevent situations that might result in the neglecting of children and, (2) Re-establish families whose children had come under the aegis of the Society.

Says superintendent Kerr: "That this program has paid big dividens is indicated by the fact that in January, when we began our scheme, we recorded some 7,791 days of care put in on the total number of wards at a cost of $10,056.

"Last month (November) we registered some 6,687 days of care for $8,836.

"However, there are no comparative figures for the dividends paid off in human values," he adds.

There also is another happy note, he says. There has been no increase throughout the county of situations necessitating the Society's attention.

MORE WORKERS

"Because the Society now has a greater number of workers in the field than ever before, it was believed that for the first years of their operations an even greater number of children's cases would be brought to our attention.

"Peculiarly — and happily — this is not so.

"Despite an increase in the population, the actual number of children coming into our care has declined from 328 in 1953 to slightly below 270."

So much for facts and figures —and yet, they are facts that figure high in this most important of good works.

For evidence of this superintendent Kerr could, if he would, disclose many a factual account of good work, hidden between terse lines of accounting sheets and graphs.

They are accounts of human problems which he flies side by side with folders of figures and have facts in his office on Moira Street West.

They are the stories of unfortunate incidents remedied by the good work of his department. Most of them recount the little single-handed triumphs of his staff over the singleness of life. But some of them, too, record achievement on a broader scale, united into a collective effort in lending a hand with a spirit epitomized by the Society.

OUTSTANDING EXAMPLE

For instance there's this story: In the summer of 1954 a Belleville family was evicted from its home. There were four little girls in the family, one of whom had double club hands and feet and were shed from the knee legs.

Eventually they were taken by the Society and were divided into two separate foster homes. In the summer of this year their father died, while their mother was pregnant.

Since, the Society decided, the mother also had provided for the children, they re-established the family, setting it up in a home outside the city.

Then came a string of events which set this family on the path to happiness which they will be enjoying this Christmas.

The city's welfare department agreed to grant the mother full-scale assistance as an alternative to maintaining the children as wards of the Society. Next municipal red tape was glossed over when officials of the family's home township agreed to render the assistance and charge it back to the city.

When the mother was confined a member of the Red Cross Home Maker Service was placed in her new home to look after her family.

The Society for Crippled Children assisted in easing the lot of the handicapped youngster by arranging for remedial treatments to her hands and feet. Now she has discarded her steel braces.

Further, the family's shelter here settled on the child as an annual project and now provide her with special boots every month.

"The Society," says superintendent Kerr, summing up, "isn't like a vacuum. It is dependent on the community and in the course of our work every effort is made to utilize the resources of the community to help out in certain situations."

And does the Society meet much success to these ends?

"Well, I think that story is a good illustration, don't you?" asked the superintendent.

"You see, there may be lots of people who forget what Christmas means—even on the twenty-fifth. But, you know, there are lots more who don't and through the year, link one Christmas with another."

ORDER URGES

Philip D. Batson, regional civil defence administrator, estimated early today that upwards of 20,000 persons had been evacuated from homes in California, some 1,500 in Oregon and more than 600 in Nevada.

Damages estimates ran up to $10,000,000 and likely will go higher.

State and national agencies marshalled their forces for the immense relief and reconstruction job. They got a "blank cheque" go-ahead in President Eisenhower's order.

DANGER EASING

Except for the dramatic battle to save Yuba City and Marysville, flood dangers appeared to be easing for the battered northern part of California. The weather bureau said only light rain is expected over northern sectors today.

Following the levee break at Yuba City, authorities said the rampaging Feather had dropped approximately four inches and authorities cautiously predicted the crest had passed. More than 1,500 men toiled through the night at Marysville in a desperate effort to bolster the sagging levees with sandbags.

San Francisco Chronicle reporter Tim Adams telephoned from the scene:

"There is panic here. Everyone is piling into cars and taking off . . . .

"These evacuees included many persons who fled their homes in the early Friday and sought refuge in Yuba City.

CITY OF RENO HIT

Across the Sierra mountains from Marysville, the city of Reno battled to save itself from the ragging Truckee river.

Governor Charles H. Russell of Nevada has wired President Eisenhower asking that Reno and Washoe county be designated as disaster areas.

The Truckee, running through the centre of Reno, had flooded most of the downtown district, including major shops and hotels. All five of Reno's bridges were closed Friday night. Russell estimated the damage at $1,000,000.

An Army engineering battalion went to Marysville, along with the national guardsmen. 37 trucks and two amphibious ducks.

Built on a low piece of land between the confluence of the Feather and Yuba rivers, Marysville faced certain disaster should the levees—on which millions have been spent—be breached.

Water resources engineer Irvin Ingram said reports led him to believe that the levees are holding but may be weakening. The city itself was deserted except for patrols of police who had orders to shoot to kill if looters were found.

A String Of Lights

By DON WHEELER

We were in a dust covered box that sat in the corner of Mr. Barker's attic. All through the year no one ever bothered about us, but now at Christmas time, we knew that once again we would be the centre of attraction. Grumbling and grunting, Mr. Barker lifted our box into his arms and started down the attic stairs.

Being a rather plump fellow with a stomach that protruded so far he couldn't see his feet, he was, I regret to say, somewhat clumsy. About half way down the stairs he stumbled and our box went tumbling down the stairs. I was upinjured, but I'm afraid some of my friends suffered in the fall. A few minutes later we were all unpacked and laid on the huge dining room table.

"Well, now, let's see, John," said Mrs. Barker. "We can use this string of lights and this string and, oh! We don't want to use this old string again, John! They've been around here for years. Throw them out in the trash with these other things that were broken when you fell."

I was shocked. For years I had been used to decorate the Barker's Christmas tree, and now, simply because I was getting a little old, they were throwing me out! It is true that my popularity with the Barkers had declined through the years. When I was new I was used at the top, but each year I seemed to find myself placed lower and lower on the tree.

UNWANTED HOME

My friends, most of them broken in tiny pieces, and myself were cast upon the trash pile in the alley. I felt sorry for them. They had many years of use ahead of them had Mr. Barker been more careful, but now they could never be used again. But what of me? I wasn't broken, only a little old.

For two days I lay on the trash pile with my broken friends, and then, on the third day, a small child, who seemed to be searching the trash cans in the alley to see if he could find something of value came upon me. With a cry of delight he gathered me into his tiny hands and scampered out of the alley and to the edge of the small town, where he lived in a broken down little old house.

How glad were his brothers and sisters when they saw me! That evening they trimmed their tiny tree. It was scarcely three feet tall, and I was the principle item of decoration. One of my lights was placed at the top of the tree and the rest were wound in and about from top to bottom. Then the tree was placed in the front window and for the first time in my life I was given the task of lighting an entire tree.

That evening it snowed and snowed and the wind whistled harshly about the corners of the house. I was glad that I was in a warm house instead of being on the trash pile in the alley.

A VISITOR COMES

Suddenly there was a loud rap on the door. When Mr. Cullen opened it, I heard a man's voice ask, "Have you seen the Granger boy? He was out playing this afternoon and hasn't come home yet. We think he's become lost in the storm. The whole town is out looking for him. Would you like to help, Mr. Cullen."

Mr. Cullen quickly put on his coat and scarf and followed the man into the dark cold night.

CHRISTMAS IS FOR YOUNG

Christmas is for the young!

How many times do we hear grown-ups make this statement! Much too often.

Christmas belongs to all of us, to share, to take part in the celebration of the birth of the Saviour, the greatest event in the history of the world.

If you are planning a Christmas party for the kiddies why not brighten up the affair the Mexican way? Make plans for a "pinata" and we promise it will be the high spot of the gathering.

Widely used in Mexico throughout the year, the pinata is busiest at Christmas time, during the Mexican Christmas Festival which lasts 21 days. It is constructed of thin, fragile clay, filled with sweetmeats and trinkets, then suspended from the ceiling as a form of decoration.

It seems to some that Christmas belongs to the young because these few fail to realize that children are not engrossed with the troubles of everyday living in the fashion of their elders, They are young at heart.

For a true Christmas we need only renew our faith in the Saviour, born at Christmas time. We, too, will then be young at heart.

Mexican Custom Will Brighten Christmas Party

New Year Gatherings Are Ancient Tradition

Gathering with family and friends to celebrate the New Year is a custom older than when the date January 1 became accepted as the first day of the year.

Watching the old year out and the new year in is one of the oldest and most universal of all celebrations. The ancient Norsemen got together, although they celebrated the New Year in the spring, to wish each other health, wealth and happiness in the days ahead.

And long before this time, the Vikings built huge fires at the turn of the year to propitiate their fierce Norse gods.
